Valid Tax ID Numbers a Must

The Internal Revenue Service says it can't process tax returns and refund claims without valid identification numbers. This means Social Security numbers (SSNs) for individuals, employer identification numbers (EINs) for employers and sole proprietors, and individual taxpayer identification numbers (ITINs) for those who aren't eligible to get SSNs.

New for 1997, people in the process of a domestic adoption may need an adoption taxpayer identification number (ATIN) for the child. The ATIN will be used by parents who may be eligible for certain credits. It identifies the child on their federal tax return while final adoption is pending. Get Form W-7A, "Application for Taxpayer Identification Number for Pending Adoptions," from the IRS. It takes four to eight weeks to get an ATIN.

All returns, statements and other tax-related documents must have valid ID numbers. ITINs are for tax purposes only and don't entitle the holder to Social Security benefits or change the holder's employment or immigration status under U.S. law. Foreign persons who need ITINs include those:

- filing a U.S. tax return to report U.S.-source income;
- filing a U.S. tax return only to claim a refund of tax withheld;
- who are the spouse of a U.S. citizen or resident who elects to file a joint tax return;
- being claimed by a spouse for an exemption on a U.S. tax return; or
- being claimed as a dependent on another person's U.S. tax return.

People can apply for ITINs by sending Form W-7, "Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number," to the IRS. It takes about 30 days to get one.

ITINs are not available for U.S. citizens or persons legally permitted to reside permanently or to work in the United States. These people qualify for SSNs and should apply by sending Form SS-5, "Application for a Social Security Card," to the Social Security Administration. It takes about two weeks.

To get IRS Form W-7 or W-7A, call 1-800-829-3676. To get SSA Form SS-5, call 1-800-772-1213.
