On a nice Thursday afternoon in Nicholas County three home-schooled children showed their science project to local residents in the Carlisle area. Christopher age 9 and his younger brother Matthew, age 8, along with their four-year-old cousin Paul Richie embarked upon an arduous quest to find a new insect that was resting on the side of a walnut tree. The boys plan on returning the moth back to its natural environment in Free View where they found it. These children are the offspring of Eddie and Sally Covey and Patrick and Susan Richie.
