Local Angus breeder recognized for owning bulls in 1999 Fall Sire Evaluation Report

Eaglestone Farm, Carlisle, owns three bulls listed in the 1999 Fall Sire Evaluation Report published by the American Angus Association headquartered in St. Joseph, Mo. Issued in both the spring and fall, the new report features the latest performance information available on more than 5,784 sires.

"The American Angus Association has the most complete and comprehensive beef cattle database in the world," says John Crouch, American ANgus Association director of performance programs. "Of the sires listed in the main report, 58 percent have expected progeny differences (EPDs) for carcass traits, which should assist cattlemen in choosing genetics that will produce a more consistent, higher quality of beef product." EPD's are generated from performance data submitted by breeders through the Angus Herd Improvement Records (AHIR) program.

Traits in which EPD's are available include birth weight, weaning weight, milk, yearling weight and height, mature daughter weight and height, and scrotal circumference, as well as carcass traits including carcass weight, marbling, rib eye area, external fat thickness and percent retail product. The analysis for the sire evaluation report is conducted at Iowa State University, by Dr. Doyle E. Wilson and Dr. Abebe Hassen.

Nicholas Countian receives awards at a Taxidermy Competition

Eddie Covey of Nicholas County received four ribbons during the 52nd Annual Kentucky Hunting and Fishing Day Taxidermy Competition. The event took place on September 25, 1999 at the Salato Wildlife Education Center in Frankfort.

Ribbons were given for best of show, first place in category and people's choice. Winners of these divisions will be featured on Kentucky Afield, the television show and in Kentucky Afield, the magazine. Mr. Covey took home a 3rd place ribbon in the category of "Life Sizes" for a full body mount of a fox; a 3rd place ribbon in the "Birds" category for a fully mounted grouse; a 2nd place ribbon in "Gameheads" category for a boar head; and a 2nd place ribbon in the "Fish" category for a walleye. David Noem, president of the International Guild of Taxidermy, judged the competition with National Taxidermy Association (NTA) scoresheets. There were approximately 35 competitors there.

Mr. Covey has been doing taxidermy for four years now at his home in Nicholas County. His business is called Pioneer Taxidermy.

Home businesses give people more time and money

More people drop dead at 9 a.m. on Monday morning than at any other time of day or week. When asked to name one thing that would make people's quality of life better, money is usually the first mentioned. According to New York TImes Special Report, The Downsizing of America, 48 million jobs have been erased since 1979, 1500 jobs are eliminated everyday, and 19 million people reported that a job loss caused a major crisis in their lives.

Fortune Magazine reports that today, at age 55, 95% of the population in the U.S., the richest nation in the world, has less than $2,500 in savings. Also the average Baby Boomer needs $1.5 million in a retirement fund if they expect to have any money in their 80's.....and that is if they cut all spending by 80% when they retire.

At the same time, 82% of all workers would work more hours to maintain job security. However, as reported, working longer hours simply does not assure job security. If you are going to work longer hours, futurist suggest you build a side business, enabling more financial independence.

USA Today reports that 96% of adults 25-64 want to start their own business, and 7 million of them are already in network marketing. The American Dream is owning your own business. Over 40 million Americans are currently involved in a home based business because it enables people to make good money while giving individuals more control of their time. According to Money Magazine 30% earn over $60,000, 20% earn between $100,000 and $500,000. The average income of home based businesses is $50,250 annually; more than double the average annual wage of $21,000.

Home Business News reports 8,000 people per day start their own home based business (that's one every 11 seconds) and generate $382.5 billion in annual sales. Home based businesses have an 85% success rate over 3 years, as compared to out-of-home start-ups which are 80% failure rate over the same period. At the same time, government will subsidize home business owners by allowing tax deductions for a portion of your rent/mortgage; deductions for your utility bills; auto and travel; dining out; and other things related to running a home business.

What is presently the most popular home based business?

Network Marketing. We all recommend products and services that we like...a good movie, your favorite restaurant, a good car. Word of mouth Network Marketing is the most powerful distribution force.

The movie, Independence Day, was criticized by the media, but was the fastest movie to hit $200 million because of word of mouth. Worldwide, 21,000 people per day join a Network Marketing company. Donald Trump stated on the Tonight Show if he had it to do over again, he'd go into Network Marketing. "Network Marketing is the most powerful way to reach consumers in the 90's" said Richard Poe, author of the New York Times best seller, The Wave Three Way.

"The Vision of Wealth and Independence Leads to Professionals to Try Network Marketing," Wall Street Journal Headline, Friday, June 28, 1995. New York TImes stated that professionals are turning in their brief cases and finding a better way to invest their time. Five of the top 20 household and personal care product corporations are Network Marketing companies. Fortune 500 companies such as Sprint, MCI, Gillette, Coca-Cola, Colgate, Palmolive and Sony have turned to Network Marketing to sell products.

Andrew Carnegie once said, "I would rather have one percent of 100 people's effort than 100 percent of my own." That's just what Network Marketing enables people to do, leverage their time and money. This explains why so many individuals find success in network Marketing. For further information on how to pick a home business that matches your skills and how to avoid schemes, call the Institute for Free Enterprise at 1-800-525-7710.

Fire hazards outdoors

Extremely dry conditions caused by severe drought has prompted officials with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) to caution all outdoors users to take special care while afield to eliminate inadvertently starting a fire.

"Extra precaution should be taken with any type of heat source," cautions Fire Management Chief Bernie Andersen with the Kentucky Division of Forestry. "The drought has produced extremely dry conditions, making the state's fields and woods very susceptible to fires."

Everyone involved in outdoor activities needs to be especially careful with potential fire ignition sources, including cigarettes and vehicles in the field. A fire can be started by a vehicle's hot catalytic converter or tail pipe when the vehicle has been parked on dry grass.

Between July 1 and September 22, 1999, the Division of Forestry suppressed 60 fires that burned 11,155 acres. There is a ban on open burning in all Kentucky counties. According to Andersen, fires are still sprouting up despite the ban. These fires are burning very hot and have been difficult to extinguish.

KDFWR law enforcement officers are enforcing all bans on open burning and other emergency measures designed to minimize the threat of brush and forest fires.

Governor Patton receives first report from Family Farms Commission

Governor Paul Patton was presented with the first annual report of the Governor's Commission on Family Farms today by Commission Chairman Al Naive at a news conference at the Capitol.

Governor Patton said, "I know that times are as tough as they have ever been for Kentucky's farm families, with cuts in tobacco quotas, low commodity prices, and one of the driest years on record. The inevitable change facing Kentucky's farm families requires strong leadership not only from government, but from farm families themselves. I am proud of the leadership that is being provided by the family farmers on the Commission."

The report suggests the development a Center for Agricultural Entrepreneurship. The center would offer technical expertise on business planning, market access, and product development for farm-based business entrepreneurs seeking to reduce their tobacco dependence by developing value-added products and markets for those products. Through the center, farmers, groups of farmers, and farm organizations would have access to business and financial assistance in their efforts to expand their own prosperity while adding to Kentucky's agricultural production.

Governor Patton said, "It is with great anticipation that I receive this first report from this historic Commission, and I can assure you that the recommendations contained in this report will receive my full and thorough considerations as we prepare for the 2000 session of the General Assembly."

Governor Patton created the Commission on Family Farms in 1998, making Kentucky the first state to start its own commission under the recommendations of the National Commission on small farms. The Governor's Commission on Family Farms is made up of the Governor's Designee, the Commissioner of Agriculture, the Secretary of the Workforce Development Cabinet, and 25 members appointed by the governor. Governor Patton's appointees to the Commission boast a diverse membership-including 10 women, two African-Americans, and 21 farmers, as well as 5 representatives of government agriculture support organizations and 13 representatives of non-governmental farm associations. The Commission on Family Farms is the only group in Kentucky's history composed of a majority of farmers to be appointed for the purpose of advising the governor on issues of importance and concern to farm families across the state. The group will shift its attention to the education needs of farm families during its second year.

Senator Mitch McConnell to chair hearing into DOE operations at the Paducah Gaseous Diffusion Plant

U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell (R-KY) announced that the hearing to discuss Department of Energy operations at the Paducah Gaseous Diffusion Plant originally scheduled for october 19, will now be held on Tuesday, October 26, 1999.

The hearing of the Energy and Water Appropriations Subcommittee, which will be held on Capitol Hill, will investigate the extent of the contamination in and around the Paducah facility. McConnell's hearing will also focus on the DOE's cleanup priorities and determine whether sufficient funding is available for site cleanup and worker health testing. The witness list will be announced at a later date.
