Special call-in show answers questions about tobacco settlement application

From September 17 through October 8, the Kentucky Tobacco Settlement Trust Corporation will be accepting applications from those Kentuckians eligible to receive compensation for their 1998 crops. In order to address this issue and provide expert assistance, KET presents the Tobacco Growers' Settlement Fund Call-In, airing live at 6/5 p.m. CT Sunday, Sept. 19.

Guests on the program include Dr. William Snell, tobacco economist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, and John-Mark Hack, president of the Kentucky Tobacco Settlement Trust Corporation. Dr. Carla Craycraft, director of agriculture communication services at the College of Agriculture, will serve as moderator.

The National Tobacco Growers Settlement Trust was established by Phillip Morris, Inc., Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation, Lorillard Tobacco Corporation and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company to compensate tobacco quota owners and growers for expected reductions in their tobacco production and sales. As part of the Trust, the Kentucky Tobacco Settlement Trust Corporation wants to ensure that the approximately 180,000 Kentuckians who participated in tobacco production in 1998 are located and included on the applications being sent to farm operators.

Those eligible for compensation must have shared in the risks of tobacco production. This includes individuals or entities that owned the tobacco quota, controlled the land and/or employed the labor used to produce burley tobacco in 1998.

Tobacco Growers' Settlement Fund Call-In, produced by Duncan Hart, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing. Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at h*tp://www.ket.org, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Power Points

Putting Solar Energy To Work For You

(NAPS)—It may seem strange but your house can earn money as a solar generator. Over the last two years, 27 state legislators and governors have signed into law provisions that allow homeowners and small business owners to utilize solar energy easily and be paid for the excess energy they produce. The laws are called net metering, and they provide a uniform technical standard to connect your solar electric system to the electric grid, with a simple user-friendly contract. Consumers receive a credit on their electric bill for the excess electric power they produce beyond what they use in their home or business. A small business owner is eligible to receive a ten percent federal investment tax credit on the purchase and installation of a solar water heating or solar electric (photovoltaics) system.
