Grain prices down, livestock prices up

Kentucky farmers received lower prices for their grain but higher prices for livestock at mid-December.

Steers and heifers 500 lbs. and over for mid-December were $3 above last month at $77 per cwt. This was $16 above last December and equals the highest price since March 1996. Beef cow prices at $35 per cwt. were up $1 from last month while $5 above December a year ago. This equals the price received by farmers last August. Calves under 500 lbs. averaged $86 per cwt., $5 above last month and $18 above the December 1998 price.

Barrow and gilt prices averaged $33 per cwt., at mid-December. This was $1 above last month wile $15 above last December. Sow prices were unchanged from last month at $24 per cwt., but averaged $11 more than December a year ago.

The all milk price at mid-December averaged $13.60 per cwt., down $4.20 from last month and $4.60 from last December.

Prices received for corn at mid-December was down 1 cent from November at $1.95 per bushel. This compares to $2.22 per bushel last year and continues the under $2 trend begun in July 1998. Soybean prices at mid-December averaged $4.50 per bushel, down 5 cents from last month, down $1.02 from last December and the lowest price in five months. Prices received for winter wheat dropped to $2.15 per bushel at mid-December 6 cents below November while averaging 5 cents above last year.

The preliminary US All Farm Products Index of Prices Received in December was 91 based on 1990-92=100 down 2 points (2.2 percent) from the November index. Lower prices for milk, soybeans, wheat, and oranges more than offset price increases for lettuce, hogs, calves and corn. The seasonal change in the mix of commodities farmers sell also affects the overall index. Lower seasonal marketings of cattle, grapes, soybeans, and corn more than offset the relatively higher marketings of tobacco, wheat, milk, and broilers. These marketing changes account for about one-half point of the December index decrease.

Compared with December 1998, the All Farm Products Index was 7 points (7.1 percent) lower. Price decreases from December 1998 for milk, cotton, soybeans, and corn more than offset price increases for hogs, cattle, lettuce and apples.

Ways To Save On Term Insurance Online

(NAPS)—Americans can address their term life insurance needs easier and cheaper than ever before—by going online.

There are now a number of resources available on the Internet to help consumers learn about term insurance, determine their specific needs, compare prices and begin the purchase process—right at their computers, 24 hours a day, whenever they want.

To help consumers tap the online information, John Hancock has created A Guide to Buying Term Insurance Online, which is available free at www.jhancock.com/termlifeguide/guide.html.

Highlights of the guide include:

- A discussion of term life insurance. Benefits of term certainly include the low premiums. This type of insurance is particularly useful for saving or protecting specific financial goals such as some mortgages or college tuition.
- Advice on finding tools to help determine personal needs. A general rule of thumb is to buy life insurance equal to five to seven times your annual gross income. But online calculators and planning tools can make your assessment more customized.
- Information on using insurance company sites and third party quoting sites. You can now obtain instant, customized rate quotes to help determine what purchasing term would cost. Many third party sites will provide quotes for several companies to help compare prices.

Remember that, as you consider and compare term insurance policies from differing companies, price is just one factor. You'll also want to pay attention to the insurance companies's ratings, which allow you to evaluate the financial stability of the insurance companies and their ability to pay claims. These ratings are provided by several third-party rating services such as A.M. Best, Duff & Phelps, Moody's and Standard & Poor's.

New Internet resources can help save time and money on insurance purchases.

"Encourage your children to read a newspaper every day. They're never too little to start."

When I was growing up I realized that if I wanted to fit into this world, I would have to know what was going on. I found the best way to do that was to read newspapers. Encourage your children to read – books, magazines and especially newspapers. They're never too little to start.
