YOUR GARDEN

Consider The Daylilies

(NAPS)—Consider the lilies of the field and how they grow and add grace and sophistication to gardens. Daylilies are easy to grow, multiply each year, and require only weekly watering and yearly fertilization for years of enjoyment!

A hybrid daylily has deeply overlapping petals with ruffled edges, and a long blooming period. Plant them anytime the ground is not frozen and in June and July of each year. You'll be rewarded with beautiful, brightly colored lily blooms that all your neighbors will envy, and you will enjoy!

What flower lovers and gardeners appreciate most is that daylilies keep coming back, year after year after year. Gilbert H. Wild and Son is the only major nursery to hand dig each order to assure you the freshest, best quality plant. They are the largest growers of daylilies in the country, growing 2,800 varieties on their farm in southwest Missouri.
