Mint Creek Farm to hold open house

On Sunday, May 7, 2000, Mint Creek Farm is holding an open house to give people interested in riding and horses an opportunity to learn about the equestrian world. As part of Saddle Up America's nationwide celebration of the horse, the Mint Creek Farm Open House will be one of hundreds of such events taking place across the country this year.

Research shows that one in three American households has someone in it who would like to be involved with horses, whether through lessons, trail riding, watching shows or going on a riding vacation, states Diana Detering, National Program Director of Saddle Up America. "A great way to help them get started is to put them together with people like Mint Creek Farm who are eager to share their knowledge and love of horses with their community."

The Mint Creek Farm Open House will feature several educational demonstrations as well as some hands-on experience. Guests will be able to visit with over 20 horses, including mares with new foals and stallions. "We want our Open House to be a comfortable place for people to meet horses and learn more about them," says Mae Thompson, "and we see this as a real opportunity to share some of the fun associated with horse ownership."

Each visitor will receive a Saddle Up Starter Kit sponsored by Wrangler, which includes safety tips, what to look for when buying a horse, how to pick a riding instructor, and even what to wear when riding.

Sponsors of the National Open House include Wrangler, Pfizer Animal Health, Purina Mills, MRF, Fort Worth Star Telegram, American Quarter Horse Association, American Point Horse Association, Arabian Horse Registry and the Paso Fino Horse Association.

Saddle Up America and the National Open House Program are initiatives of the Horse Industry Alliance (HIA), a not-for-profit alliance of 200 equine industry businesses and associations whose collective mission is to stimulate growth of the industry through education, awareness, and outreach programs aimed at encouraging participation in horse activities.

Mint Creek Farm encourages its neighbors no matter what their experience with horses to join them at this special celebration, and experts urge to close the magic of the horse. For more information about the Open House, contact the Horse Industry Alliance at 817-246-RIDE (7433).

NCHS students named Governor Scholars

Three Nicholas County High School students have been named as Governor Scholars.

The students will have the opportunity this summer to attend a five week educational program at Northern Kentucky University or Centre College.

The application process is very long and time consuming but it allows the over 700 students a year that are accepted the opportunity to get a jump start on college by introducing students with what college life has to offer the students.

Students must show outstanding performance in both academics and extra-curricular activities, as well as community service to be selected as a candidate.

8th Annual Summer Scholarship Golf Scramble at Laurel Oaks

Mayville Community College's Summer Scholarship Golf Scramble is just around the corner. This year's scramble is Saturday, July 8, at the Laurel Oaks Golf Club with tee off time at 8:00 a.m.

Because of such strong community support, Mayville State's golf tournament has raised about $43,000 in the past seven years, providing scholarships for students who would not have been able to attend the College otherwise.

The community support of the scramble has enabled the College to give away numerous door prizes and several prizes for the first, second and third place teams. Hole prizes include cash, basketball and baseball tickets and miscellaneous prizes.

The teams will be made up of six players each these teams
