Any potential health effects to any segment(s) of the population could not be determined due to failure to comply with the monitoring requirements.

ANNUAL DRINKING WATER QUALITY REPORT
CARLISLE WATER DEPARTMENT

We are very pleased to provide you with this years, 2000, Annual Quality Water Report. We want to keep you informed about the excellent water and service we have delivered to you over the past year. Our goal is always has been to provide you a safe and dependable supply of drinking water.

Our water source is the city lake, located on a fork of Brushy Fork Creek, We pump water from the Licking River, located a milepoint 107.8 to the city lake.

The final source waster assessment with a summary of the system's susceptibility to potential sources of contamination is yet to be completed until May 2003. However, a preliminary source water assessment is available in the current Nicholas County Water Supply Plan. That plan is available for inspection at the City Office.

This report shows our water quality and what it means.

If you have any question s about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Tom Vice 289-3715. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water quality. If you want to learn more please attend any of the regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the second Monday of every month at 7:00 p.m., at City Hall.

The Carlisle Water Department routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State Laws. This table show the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31, 1999. Some contaminants are not tested every year, therefore, for some of the contaminants we are reporting the mt recent data.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

1.Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years, or a single penny in $10,000.

2. Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

3. Picocuries per liter (pCi/l) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.

4. Million fibers per liter (MFL) - million fibers per liter is a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

5. Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

6. Below Detection Levels (BDL) - Laboratory analysis indicates that the constituent is not present.

7. Millirems per year (MREM/YR) - Measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

8. Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

9. Maximum Contamination Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

10. Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

11. Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

UNREGULATED CONTAMINANTS TEST RESULTS

The table contains test results on unregulated contaminants during the previous five years.	Unit	Average	Range
Unregulated Contaminants
1.Bromodichloromethane (2265)	PPB	0.009	.0-.002
2. Chloroform (2941)	PPB	0.035	.0-.16
3. Dibromochloromethane (2454)	PPB	0.0038	.0-.0004

Unregulated contaminants are those which the EPA has not established drinking water standards. The purpose of unregulated contaminants monitoring is to assist EPA in determining the occurrence of unregulated contaminants in drinking water and whether future regulation is warranted.

Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can interfere with disinfection and provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is a measure of treatment performance and is regulated as a treatment technique. Turbidity is measure din nephelometric turbidity units (NTU), and is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safety Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

MCL's are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having a described health effect.

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include microbial contaminants, inorganic contaminants, pesticides and herbicides, organic chemical contaminants, and radioactive contaminants. In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk.

We constantly monitor for various constituents in the water supply to meet all regulatory requirements. Between 1995-1998 we failed to test for lead and copper. We received a violation for this. We tested for lead and copper in 1999 and all results were good.

In our continuing efforts to maintain a safe and dependable water supply it may be necessary to make improvements in your water system. The cost of these improvements may be reflected in the rate structure. Rate adjustments may be necessary in order to address the improvements.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800) 426-4791).
