FIRE from front

The "forty-nine" people participating were broke up into teams and sent into the house under intense heat, smoke and fire conditions to prepare and train them for actual real-life situations.

At noon, the class had lunch at The Grill sponsored by The Grill at Carvico and Whitaker Bank. Soft drinks were provided throughout the day by Norman Gray, owner of Farm Supply.

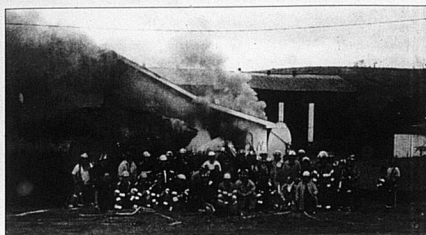

Along with the Nicholas County Fire Department, the seven other departments who participated in the training included Winchester, Burgin, Danville, City of Carlisle, Little Rock, Whitehall, and Millersburg.

The Nicholas County Ambulance Service also participated and was on stand-by in event of an emergency.

"I was very impressed with the county fire department and the local departments who worked together to make this day possible. The training was excellent and was a valuable experience which was held in

After an exhausting day in training, members from all of the participating fire departments and instructors gathered at the front of the house before it was completely burned.
