HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

St. Claire receives grant

St. Claire Medical Center's Cardiology Program received a $25,000 grant from the E.O. Robinson Mountain Fund.

The money will be used toward developing and distributing educational materials and establishing informational systems.

When patients and their families are not thoroughly educated about their health conditions, it is usually their physical and psychological health will improve.

Providing an individualized educational plan to each patient is essential to the success of the cardipulmonary program, which may lead to a more stable recovery.

The rehab staff hopes that the program will help each patient and their families gain knowledge about their disease and establish long term goals to obtain maximal health benefits.

Three injured in accident

Three persons were injured in a two-vehicle auto accident in Fleming County, according to police.

Kentucky State Police said a 1997 Pontiac Grand Prix, driven by A.J. Harding, 60, of Ewing, was stopped at the intersection of KY 160 and KY 32, then proceeded through the intersection, when he traveled into the path of a 1996 Buick Century driven by Richard Stockton, 40, of Morehead.

Harding, Stockton and three passengers in Stockton's vehicle, Becky Price, 29, Kathy Stockton, 7, and Brittan Stockton, 11, were injured and treated at Fleming County Hospital.

The accident occurred on Wednesday, Dec. 12, around 6:29 p.m.

Harding and a passenger who was uninjured, Brandon Harding, 6, were wearing safety belts. Richard Stockton, Price and Brittan Stockton were not wearing safety belts and Kathy Stockton was wearing a safety belt.

Child abuse - matter of fact

By Peter O. Samples, Staff Writer

Guidelines to follow - should be a child self.

How you handle a disclosure of abuse neglected by a child is critical in how the case can be processed and how the child is protected.

First, listen to what the child is telling you. Do not project or assume anything. Do not push the child to share more than he is willing. Do not put words in the child's mouth or ask the child leading questions. The child needs to be first and foremost, a child.

Second, reassure the child that he/she has done the right thing by telling you. Acknowledge the difficulty of his/her decision and the personal strength he/she has shown in making the choice to tell. Make it clear that the abuse is not his/her fault and that he/she is not bad or to blame.

Third, keep your own feelings under control. Be calm and nonjudgmental. Do not express such emotions as shock, embarrassment, anger or disgust. Do not criticize or belittle the child's family or the person the child may name as the abuser.

Fourth, use the child's own vocabulary. The child may relate the abuse or injury to you by using family terminology. Do not try to substitute more polite or correct words.

Fifth, do not promise not to tell. Know your limits. This is not a situation you or should try to handle by yourself. You are going to have to tell someone else.

The next article will continue our discussion on the guidelines to follow in reporting a child disclosure to you that he/she is being abused or neglected. For additional information about abuse or neglect and assistance in reporting, please call our helpline number at 1-800-498-8920.

Lower your loan payments

Borrowers may want to check into consolidating all their loans into one Federal Consolidation Loan if they borrowed from different lenders or under different federal programs, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). KHEAA is the state agency that administers grant, scholarship, work-study, savings and Federal Family Education Loan Programs (FFELP) to help students pay for college or technical training.

"A consolidation loan can substantially reduce your monthly payment. It also means you only have to make one payment each month instead of several," said Dr. J. McCormick, KHEAA's Executive Director. "The disadvantage is that you will usually end up paying more interest because of the longer payoff period."

A married couple also consolidate their individual loans. However, if couples do that, they are both responsible for paying the consolidation loan in full, regardless of any changes in marital status or how much each borrowed.

Several repayment schedules are available with consolidation loans, and borrowers can pick the schedule that best suits their needs.

Considering a consolidation loan, or for more information, contact a lender; visit KHEAA's web site www.kheaa.com and click on "Federal Family Education Loan Program" under the "Federal Programs" heading; write to KHEAA, 1000 US Hwy. 127 S, Frankfort, KY 40601-4323; or call (800) 928-9226, ext. 8711.
