In the early 1970's when my wife and I-were living in Henry County, Kentucky, just outside a little town called Bethlehem. I was doing some work with an 8N Ford tractor work with an 8N Ford tractor being my usual self, I was in a hurry and lost th draw bar pin and linkage on the rear of the tractor. Instead of trying to get another one, I hooked the chain to the top upper portion of the tractor and continued to pull logs. Until I came to one I could not pull, I was headed up hill, backed the tractor down to backed the tractor down to give the chain some slack and took off full steam ahead in second gear. The tractor threw me off backwards and then fell on top of me, crushed my chest and my face, the radiator top came off and the radiator fluid coming out, choked me and I couldn't get my breath, scared to death that my life was over.
