SWIMMING FROM FRONT

Numerous illegal straight pipe discharges of sewage contribute to a water problems along this stretch of the river. However, water quality has continued to improve and is approaching an acceptable level for swimming in some stretches of the river.

Urban areas

The agencies also recommend against swimming or other full-body contact with rivers in and directly below urban areas, particularly after a significant rainfall. This recommendation is for urban areas along waterways throughout Kentucky because of the increased potential for illegal straight pipe discharges, bypasses from sewage collection systems and combined sewer overflows.

Licking River

The Licking River from Hankick Creek to the confluence with the Ohio River remains under a swimming advisory. The advisory includes all of Hankick Creek and Three Mile Creek. High fecal coliform pollution in this area is causing not only sewer overflow and sanitary sewer problems.
