

Agricultural board approves grant

The Kentucky Agricultural Development board, chaired by Governor Paul Patton, voted today to approve a $15 million dollar grant request from the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association and to the Kentucky Forage and Grasslands Council to establish a comprehensive network to add value to the state's cattle herd and increase net returns to farmers through group marketing initiatives.

The Kentucky Beef Network will serve to better position Kentucky beef producers to meet consumer demand for healthy beef products by coordinating the many existing marketing initiatives underway across the state and involving a much larger number of producers in value-added marketing. The network will operate in a series of steps that seek to improve the health of the state's beef herd, collect and store a much larger amount of information about the state's herd to improve management and marketing of the state's cattle, identify markets for cattle, and group the necessary animals to fill those markets and increase the net farm income of those producers who choose to participate in the network.

The Kentucky Agricultural Development board has committed funding to this initiative for two initial years of operation. Matching funds for the project come from producers themselves and other interconnected Producers Cooperative that would sustain this effort beyond the current biennium. "The Kentucky Beef Network will provide needed unity to the state's cattle industry," said Charles Miller of the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association. "The KBN will put people in the field to work hand-in-hand with Extension and producers across the state to achieve better marketing and enhance net profits."
