LEAVES FROM FRONT
Fire hazard in many counties across the state. Add to this the devastation to our forests caused by the southern pine beetle and this fall fire season could be one of our most onerous. Leah MacDowd, director of the Division of Forestry, said the official fall forest fire hazard season begins Oct. 1 and runs through Dec. 15. During this time, the Kentucky Division of Forestry asks everyone to obey all outdoor burning laws. Kentucky state law prohibits burning in or within 150 feet of any woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., or when the ground is covered with moisture. While burning is allowed between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., one should conduct outdoor burning under the air in calm and there is adequate moisture in the air and ground to prevent the spread of fire. It is illegal to start a fire at any time of the year without taking all reasonable precautions to prevent it from spreading. Reasonable precautions include clearing the ground around a fire and having tools and water readily available. The law also requires that all outdoor fire be attended until fully extinguished. These restrictions remain in effect until the fire hazard season ends on Dec. 15. There may be other outdoor burning restrictions, and citizens are encouraged to contact their local fire department for more information. And our chances are pretty good. "But our goal is to get back into the playoffs. And our chances are pretty good. And our goal is to get back into the playoffs. And our chances are pretty good."

so if we don't come to play they could beat us," senior defensive back/running back Eric Earlywine told The Carlisle Mercury. "After those two losses, we kept our heads up in practice and just worked on the basics of passing, running the play right."

The Jackets (5-2) opened the season taking three wins in three outings. In consecutive losses to Fleming County and Louisville Holy Cross sent the boys in blue back to the drawing board. The back to basics approach paid off. In their past two showings, the Jackets have scored "read" victories at Lexington Christian and Fairview.

"Maybe we just got overconfident," Earlywine said of the two-game slide. "We were all over the place but instead of having to put out and prove it — we were

"On defense, up front, we've just got to keep our heads low and go to it 'em hard," Hunt said of the remaining contests. "And on offense we've got to play smart and take it one game at a time."

Response to Gov. Patton's lawsuit planned by Nov. 15

After a hearing in Franklin Circuit Court, attorneys for the Legislative Research Commission said they will file a brief by Nov. 15 in response to Gov. Paul Patton's lawsuit against the Kentucky General Assembly.

Patton's suit contends the General Assembly's system of public hearings and review of executive branch regulations is unconstitutional. Legislative officials counter the administrative regulatory review process is a necessary part of the General Assembly's oversight responsibilities.

"Legislative oversight of the executive branch helps government stay effective and responsive to the public," said Bob Sherman, Director of the Legislative Research Commission.

"These regulations have the force of law, and legislators elected by the public should review them before the executive branch begins enforcing these laws."

Sherman noted legislators can not veto the governor's regulations, but their non-binding recommendations are often adopted by state agencies so regulations can be amended before new laws are enforced.

Devise May Increase Gas Mileage by 22%

BOSTON - National Fuelveer Corp. of Boston has developed a cost automotive accessory called the Platinum Gas Saver which is guaranteed to increase gas mileage by 22% with fuel in the tail-pipe, where the heat and energy produced from burning vacuum line the Gas Saver adds microscopic quantities of platinum to the air-fuel mixture entering the engine.

Platinum has the unique ability to make non-burning fuel burn. Instead of the engine burning fewer gallons are required to drive the same distance.

After studying this process for five years, the government concluded, "Independent testing shows greater fuel savings with the Platinum Gas Saver than the 22% claimed by the developer."

In addition to this government study, the Gas Saver has received patents for cleaning out carbon and raising octane, making premium fuel unnecessary for most vehicles.

Jed Robinson, the developer, commented: "We have sold almost a half million Gas Savers. To our surprise, as many people buy the Gas Saver because it extends engine life (by cleaning out the abrasive carbon deposits) as buy it to increase gas mileage or to raise octane."
