Kudos to Menifee for buying

Broke Leg Falls roadside park on U.S. 460 had sadly been abandoned for 35

old park

But now thanks to some But now, thanks to some alert Menifee County leadership, it's on its way into the ownership of a group who can open it again, make it a nature showplace and a tourist attraction.

Menifee County Fiscal Court is to buy the 13-acr site, located near the Menifee-Morgan County stairways and railings are amazingly still in tact. The county will buy the old park with a grant from the Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund board, Menifee Judge executive Hershell Sextor said the price for the park is about $80,000.

From the 1930s to the From the 1930s to the 1960s, people stopped by the park to look at the gorge, its waterfall and virgin timber. Before the 1960s, the state made it an official roadside park and built walkways, water fountains, grills, restrooms and railings.

and railings. Sexton said having the park will go along nicely with the fact that the state wants to straighten some stretches of U.S. 460. which will compel people to stop and see it.

In Saturday's Lexington Herald-Leader, the state's conservation board chair, William Martin, was quoted as saying the park is a gorgeous place and, amazingly enough, it hasn been trashed. He said "Kentuckians but this is a clean, beautiful place."

That's a sad commentar on people in our state with egard to litter, yet a good ommentary on the locale of the park itself of the park itself.

Hats off to Menifee County Fiscal Court for purchasing land to serve a natural tourist attraction. It shows the leadership is hip to the future and to the importance of nature preservation.

Getting back into golf practice

I now spend about an hour a day stretching my left shoulder with medical tubing slingshot-looking devices, trying to build movement and strength, but with old stringy muscles and joints progress does not come easily. loes not come easily.

Or quickly.

But I did go uncover the ew left-handed golf clubs and new left-handed golf clubs and take a few tentative low-speed swings with the driver and 9-iron, and after I lost one new Titleist golf ball went back to the store for some plastic practice balls.

processes balls. Plus a right hand golf glove. The golf shoes will work from either side of the ball. I think it's going to work, when and if the shoulder gets ready for a full swing. It's and swing from the southwas ide, to keep the right arm straight, and it'll be a while before it feels natural. If it ever does.

A Proven Homegrown Leader

Now running for re-election to the Kentucky Senate, R.J. Palmer has proven himself a dedicated and effective advocate for our region:

- ★ He is one of only three Senate Democrats to be appointed to the influential joint House & Senate Budget Conference committee. This puts him in a key position to get funding for our district needs.
- ★ He has brought over $15 million home for roads, schools and improvements in our district.
- * He has kept his pledge of "partnership over partisanship" and is quickly becoming recognized as one of the brightest young leaders in the Senate
- ★ He has fought to get tobacco settlement money out of Frankfort and into the hands of local farm families.
- ★ He effectively wrote and sponsored "Bryan's Law," named after a local boy who died from heat when left in a locked vehicle. This law makes it a felony when a child dies from being left unattended in a vehicle.
- ★ He stood up to corporate lobbyists and helped pass new legislation that
- ★ He has been elected twice to the House of State Representatives and once to the Kentucky Senate.
- ★ His family has lived right here in central Kentucky for five generations He is Kentucky educated with degrees from both Transylvania

University and Eastern Kentucky University * He is a frequent community volunteer. a little league coach and a prominent community banker.
