D.C. Tour Information:

As America entered a heightened state of alert following the terrorist attacks, so did many of the Washington institutions. Until all of the new security procedures are in place, there will be no public tours of the White House, Pentagon, FBI, Supreme Court, State Department or Bureau of Engraving and Printing through the early part of 2002. The United States Capitol, Library of Congress, museums, monuments, National Cemetery, National Cathedral and the National Zoo are open for touring but subject to unexpected closings when security threats are identified. If you plan to visit Washington, please contact us for updated information. You are always welcome to stop by Rep. Fletcher's office during your visit.
