Happy birthday America!

Our country will soon celebrate its birthday — becoming 220 years old frill nation began with just 13 colonies, under the rule of colonies in the rule of colonies in the rule of colonies it of paying taxes to a king they felt they no longer served, and without decided to change its. It was a hard struggle that eventually these 13 colonies overthrew their ruler; England, the Deciaration of and signed, and America was born.

born.
Just think of what this country has seen in its lifetime! From the first Independence Day celebration in 1777, to the celebration in 1777, to the present day, America has gone from horse and buggy to Model T cars, to gasoline/electric hybrid vehicles; space shuttles and even a space station. Knowledge of our world has expanded from Lewis and Clark to satellites and global positioning equipment.

Clark to satellites and global positioning equipment.
Clothing has modified from bonnets and hoop skirts, to Donna Reed-style dresses, bell bottoms, mini-skirts and low-rise jeans so "ladies" can show their rear cleavage. (A style that hopefully will soon pass!)

scale.
We've survived several wars, Pearl Harbor, ThreeMile Island, major earthquakes and hurricanes, school shootings and even September 11.
Those in power were once
just white males. Now

(NAPS)—STORING CARBOT—A new process called carbon sequestration shows great promise for absorbing a significant fraction of the carbon dioxide emissions hat result from the construction of the carbon dioxide emissions hat result from the construction of lossil besides and for slowing the rate of clients warming. So it is implemented ragidly. For example forests have the potential to sequester a significant fraction of the global carbon dioxide emissions emitted into the atmosphere. Moreover, soil is by far the largest storehouse of carbon here on earth, which is why soil management is so important. More information about carbon sequestration is available.
