WHAT FROM 4

slapped a $10 million lawsuit on the network.

Smile, you're on Candid Litigation!

I mean, really, what did they expect?

I'd like to meet the brainiac who greenlighted this fiasco.

It scares me that someone actually thought this would be funny.

And the funny thing is, this isn't the first time this network has been sued over one of their "reality shows."

Without going into much detail, this prank involved two girls being sprayed with human excrement.

And that is funny how?

Maybe I'm just getting old, but really don't think I want meet the person who could explain how that might be even remotely entertaining.

You don't think "Sewer Boy" had anything to do with it, do you?

But enough about my content... what's on your page? That's just my opinion. Actual user opinion may vary.

A big voice in a small package

Anastacia - 'Freak of Nature' Epic Records, hits stores June 18)

If you caught VH1's 'Divas Las Vegas' a few weeks ago, you caught just a glimpse of the vocal powerhouse that is Anastacia.

With her fitness model good looks, Anastacia boasts talents as a dancer, songwriter, producer and an unbelievable vocal range that defies being stuck in any category.

'Freak' avoids the "sophomore slump" by using a mixture of pop sensibility, club beats, funky horn riffs, head-bobbing bass lines, hard rock 'n' roll guitars, an acoustic number featuring an African drumbeat and violins, and oh yes... "this voice."

Not one note is wasted by

Ear Candy

Ron Middleton
Staff Writer

Her first album, "Not That Kind," was a good album but barely registered on U.S. charts, yet somehow she found her audience overseas and the album went platinum... five times.

Two songs from that first album are included on 'Freak.' The girl-power anthem "Why'd You Lie to Me" and the slow-grooving "Don'tcha Wanna," yet another showcase for her fabulous vocal range.

It's rare that a talent this good comes along and now's your chance to be a part of it.

This is the kind of album that you roll your windows down and play at full blast, but don't try to sing along or you'll miss something truly special.
