PBS to show program about blood

On Saday nights, June 23 and 30, at 9 p.m., PBS Television will cover the period to the body's most precious fluid.

Take a moment to contemplate the preciousness of blood. Blood is critical to the life and health of every living being. It is also critical

Medical Center. They prepare (crossmatch) approximately 2,900 units of blood each year for our patients and transfuse 55 percent of those units. Primarily, those who receive blood at St. Claire are surgery and chemotherapy patients, those with gastrointestinal bleeding, and patients involved in some type of trauma.

Through component preparation—a method of separating blood into its individual parts—a single donation may be used by as many as three different people, for red blood cells, platelets, and plasma.

Actual blood collection are the state of the second plate of the second platelets and plasma.

It takes about two days to have all the testing completed before the units can be distributed to the hospital for use. Lewis explains, "When you have a crisis like we experienced on September 11, blood can be in very short supply because all we have available is what's in our current inventory until more blood can be drawn and Actual blood collection takes about 10 minutes — the entire blood donation process takes less than an hour.

The blood undergoes testing in CKBC's laboratory to make sure it is safe to transfuse. Blood samples, sealed in separate tubes at the time of donation are tested as donation are tested as required by the FDA. All units of blood with positive tests for disease markers are
