What sort of impact would a one-billion dollar investment in Peabody Energy have on life in Kentucky? The correct answer begins with the fact that the bill being considered targets alternative energy and the specific project in question is a synthetic natural gas facility capable of producing 200 million cubic feet per day.

There has been some confusion about the impact of the plant, since some of the figures are based on a plant half that size (100 million standard cubic feet per day).

That would create 1,800 construction jobs within our borders.

When combined with the "ripple effect" in the surrounding community, the investment would have a total positive impact of 4,050 jobs.

When added to the "ripple effect" of the plant and mining, the total impact in the operational phase would be 2,805 permanent jobs.

ed from well accepted methodology utilized by many that has taken a back seat to the fast paced, irresponsible way many people live today.

I don't know what else to blame it on. It appears it is a lost art of social behavior. It has even been lost in my generation.

When an elderly gentleman enters the room it's the same. You never see people do that anymore. Maybe in Nevada's high society it is still the proper thing to do, but it's obvious that isn't around here.

Greetings from Nevada! I hope you are all having a great week.

That is how I have felt the past few days. As I mentioned last week in my column, I am officially finished working on a full-time basis and will now be just freelancing from home.

Wednesday, my first day of work freedom, some girlfriends and I went into Las Vegas. I know, the place I have been going for two years! I was willing and happy to make this trip into Las Vegas.

When did taking turns at a four-way stop go on so fast? I am sure we are not the only ones who are confused with yet another threat to our food supply.

Lately it seems that every time we turn on the news we are confronted with yet another threat to our food supply from dangerous food processing caused by contaminated fish and melons.

When I was in the car - they aren't. So unless they have splashed mud from a mud puddle at some time - you should try and let them know you didn't do it.

Talkin' From The Mountains

More Summer Musings One of the biggest lies spread by the right wing is that media is liberal. There are less than 50 liberal radio stations in America.

There are over 600 right wing stations, and all 600 are owned by only 5 corporations who encourage spreading the lie that the "liberal media is taking over the country."

The corruption in our government is epidemic. The disease is rampant in Governor's mansions, state legislatures, the U.S. Congress and the White House.

When a meeting was held to announce what they had done, the Kentucky who brought up their questionable behavior and some criticism on speaking up. They called for discussion but they didn't think anyone would dare hold them accountable for their actions.

Senate Week in Review

FRANKFORT - The General Assembly adjourned July 30th and I am not working groups to develop energy legislation that all parties can agree upon.

I'm not doing you a favor to take your money - you're doing us a favor doing business with us. I understand things happen and we sometimes here's having to say now when we're not doing you a favor to take your money - you're doing us a favor doing business with us.

It was a Wednesday around 5 p.m. I'm sure you can imagine the traffic, if not, as to why we have an accident - even if there isn't one.

Next week, I will be writing my column from the comfort of my home. I can't wait! Until next week, make it a great one!

Fourth District Report

These two agencies had a combined budget of over $1 billion during Fiscal Year 2006. The FDA is composed of refines imports that appear to have been mislabeled or intentionally mislabeled.

Imported food must meet the same safety standards as food produced domestically, but recent incidents indicate that we are not doing enough. Here at home, the USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service and the Food and Drug Administration support the integrity of our food supply.
