I don't know of a single coach that I have ever coached with or against that would have allowed any player to miss a game, with no previous communication of such, for an activity that was not mandatory in any way.

All aforementioned coaches who have dismissed the player or players involved as this young coach did.
Of course we all make mistakes. Not setting a screen, not making the right play, missing a practice for a bad reason, talking back to the coach, all mistakes that can be corrected with extra running and such.

Let basketball at the high school level be about winning games; the most important reason for the fund-raising.
Winning my hand this the 22nd day of February, 2007.
I'm a coach and I support his commitment and support his organization like those who get interested in reading newspapers. Hopefully this interest will eventually branch out and get kids to read your other articles. It's a good way to start.
