Outbreaks of resistant forms of staph infections have been making the news around the Bluegrass Area recently.

This highly contagious infection comes from the staphylococcus. aureus bacteria that are normally found on the skin. The resistant strain recently appeared in schools, day care centers and other areas where people congregate. The resistant form is known as Methicillin Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus, meaning it is resistant to certain antibiotics. Previously it was found primarily in medical facilities, such as nursing homes and hospitals.

The best way to prevent the spread of this infection is with good hand washing and hygiene practices. Remind students to keep cuts covered with bandages and not to touch another person's cut or scrape. Below are several tips to aid in protecting you and your family from this infection.

When to wash hands:

- Before preparing or eating food
- After going to the bathroom
- After changing diapers or cleaning up a child who has gone to the bathroom
- Before and after tending to someone who is sick
- After blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing
- After handling an animal or animal waste
- After handling garbage
- Before and after treating a cut or wound

How to wash your hands:

- Wet your hands with clean running water and apply soap. Use warm water if it is available.
- Rub hands together to make a lather and scrub all surfaces.
- Continue rubbing hands for 20 seconds. Need a timer? Imagine singing "Happy Birthday" twice.
- Rinse hands well under running water.
- Dry your hands using a paper towel or air dryer. If possible, use your paper towel to turn off the facet.

If soap and water is not available use a hand sanitizer using the following technique:

- Apply product to the palm of one hand
- Rub hands together
- Rub the product over all surfaces of hands and fingers until hands are dry.

A Pinch of This and a Dash of That

Turkey, Turkey, and more Turkey

Now that Halloween is behind us, the holiday season, ready or not, is here.

During the holiday season people will eat more turkey than any other meat. Turkey is an excellent meat source for our diets.

However, there are some guidelines to remember in order to keep our families safe from food borne illness during the holiday season.

There are three ways to safely thaw your turkey: in the refrigerator, in cold water or in the microwave oven.

The preferred method is to thaw in your refrigerator on the bottom shelf. In the refrigerator a turkey takes approximately 24 hours to thaw for every 4 to 5 pounds of turkey.

The best rule to follow is for 4 to 12 pound turkeys allow 1 to 3 days to thaw. As we all know life happens and we may forget to thaw the turkey so there is another way to thaw your turkey out SAFELY.

A turkey can be safely thawed in cold water. The general rule to follow is to allow 30 minutes in cold water per pound of turkey.

For example, 4 to 12 pounds of turkey can safely thaw in cold water in 2 to 6 hours. THE IMPORTANT THING TO REMEMBER WITH THAWING A TURKEY IN COLD WATER IS TO CHANGE THE WATER EVERY 30 MINUTES!

One final approved method is in the microwave. However, before seeking this alternative check your owner's manual for the size turkey that will fit in your microwave oven, the minutes per pound, and power level to use for thawing.

Also remember to remove all outside wrapping, place on a microwave-safe dish to catch any juices that may leak, and cook your turkey IMMEDIATELY after thawing. Do not refreeze or refrigerate your turkey after thawing in the microwave.

Now the turkey is cooked. Thanksgiving dinner has been eaten and the decision needs to be made with what to do with the leftovers. Remember that turkey kept in refrigeration is only good for three days.

Place all turkey leftovers in the refrigerator within two hours of dinner. Discard any turkey or stuffing that has been sitting out for more than two hours.

If you are like some the next day you are already tired of turkey (because too much was eaten on Thanksgiving), but here are some recipes to help you use the leftover turkey.

These recipes are to help you plan ahead for the Thanksgiving holiday appearing in a couple of weeks. Enjoy!

Turkey Tetrazzini

1 (16 ounce) package uncooked spaghetti
⅓ cup butter
⅓ cup all-purpose flour
3 cups chicken broth
2 cups milk
1 2/3 cups grated Parmesan cheese
4 cups cooked turkey

1.) Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly grease a medium baking dish.

2.) Bring a large pot of lightly and salted water to a boil. Add spaghetti, and cook for 8 to 10 minutes. Drain and place in the prepared baking dish.

3.) Melt butter in a medium saucepan over medium heat. Stir in flour. Mix in chicken broth and milk. Cook and stir until the mixture comes to a boil. Stir in about 1 1/3 cups Parmesan cheese, and remove from heat.

4.) Mix chicken broth mixture and turkey with spaghetti. Top with remaining cheese. Bake 1 hour in the preheated oven, until surface is lightly browned.
