Shooting at Harrison Memorial Hospital kills one

Police say a domestic shooting Tuesday morning at Harrison Memorial Hospital has claimed the lives of two Nicholas Countians.

"We are still gathering information and we want anyone who was arriving or leaving the hospital and who may have information to contact myself or fellow officers with the Cynthiana Police Department at 234-7100," Sgt. Wilbur Gross said during a press conference held at the hospital early Tuesday afternoon.

According to Gross, who arrived less than one minute after shots were fired at approximately 11:10 a.m. in the maintenance area in the rear of the hospital, a married couple were wounded by multiple gunshots from a large caliber handgun.

The woman died at the scene, according to Gross.

The man was flown to the University off Kentucky Medical Center, where he died at approximately 12:48 p.m., according to Gross.

Police sources confirm that the names of the deceased as Kim and Ricky Neiman of Headquarters Road, in Nicholas County.

Gross said the weapon believed to be have been used in the shooting, a .45 caliber handgun, has been recovered.

Gross said when he arrived at the scene he found the man and woman laying in the rear parking lot.

Both were still alive.

Neither spoke.

Gross said four other officers from the Cynthiana Police Department and two deputies from the Harrison County Sheriff's Office; Dean Hutchinson and Paul Owen, joined him at the scene. He also said Kentucky State Police will join the investigation.

Officials at the hospital were "totally cooperative" with officers, according to Gross.

Gross did not release information regarding how the shooting occurred.

Cynthiana Police Sgt. Wilbur Gross was the first officer to arrive at the scene of the shooting at Harrison Memorial Hospital late Tuesday morning.

Clarification

A quote attributed to Nicholas County Judge-Executive Larry Tincher, and which appeared in a story on page 15 of the June 25 edition of the Carlisle Mercury, was taken out of context.

The article stated that there was "no charge" for citizens to bring trash to the Conservancy Center on Concrete Road. There is actually a $1 per bag charge for trash taken to the center.

Judge Tincher was referring to a certain classification of trash, specifically major appliances such as old washers, dryers, refrigerators and similar appliances, which may be taken to the center at no cost to citizens.

News Editor Charles Mattox apologizes for this error of which Judge Tincher should share no blame.

STAMPER

"You took that as an offering, something for a break?" Kelley asked.

"Yes," Graves replied.

State law prohibits KSP detectives from transporting prisoners in an unmarked vehicle for safety purposes and thus Graves called for backup.

He initially called for Nicholas County Deputy Sheriff Benny Buckler, but Buckler was at the hospital with one of his children. KSP Troopers Murrell and Hawkins had departed nearly 45 minutes earlier and were well out of the county. Graves then contacted the Carlisle Police Department and spoke to officer Tim Layne.

"I told him 'you're not going to believe this, but I've got Jamie Stamper at Shell for DUI," Graves said. "I smelled alcohol on him. It was very obvious to me that he was under the influence."

Layne testified that he too smelled alcohol on Stamper when he arrived, and he along with Graves observed Stamper being unsteady on his feet.

Layne's son, Sgt. Darrell Layne, a supervisor with the police department, arrived and per standard Carlisle police policy, searched Stamper's vehicle.

Layne found a prescription for alprazalom, generic xanax, in Stamper's vehicle. Inside the prescription bottle were two different colored pills, yellow and blue.

Layne testified that he was able to tell by the markings on the blue pills, after researching the markings, that they were generic xanax. He sent the yellow pills to the Kentucky State Police Northern lab for analysis.

KSP lab analyst Doug Wimshett testified about the procedures and analysis used to verify what the pill was. He testified that the pill was alprazalom, generic xanax.

When Kelley rested his case for the Commonwealth, Guarnieri entered a motion to have the prescription not in proper container charge dismissed and Special Judge Todd Walton ruled in favor of the motion, and gave a direct verdict dismissing the case, as the prescription was for alprazalom and the pill submitted was alprazalom.

After the defense rested Guarnieri called only one witness, Bourbon County Deputy Jailer John Kenney. Kenney testified that he had processed Stamper at the jail and testified that in his experience as a deputy jailer most individuals who were processed with alcohol related charges were hard to fingerprint.

"It's like the alcohol draws the moisture out of the tips of the fingers," he said.

He said he fingerprinted Stamper with no problem and indicated he saw no behavior from Stamper to make him believe he was under the influence.

Stamper did not take the stand in his own defense, but Guarnieri attempted to poke holes in the Commonwealth's case at every opportunity.

He showed jurors a surveillance videotape investigators had taken from Shell after Stamper's arrest.

Many of the minutes from the videotape were mysteriously missing.

"Any idea where those minutes are?" Guarnieri asked Graves as he played the video, which had segments missing in excess of 10 minutes.

"I have no idea," Graves said, and testified that he had never personally viewed the tape.

A portion of the video that Guarnieri played to the jurors showed Stamper entering the store, waiting at the counter, paying for the cheeseburgers and exiting the store directly in front of Murrell.

Jurors saw that Stamper did not stagger, sway or even fumble for his wallet and credit card when he paid for the meal. His actions were crisp and smooth as depicted on the video, which seemed to directly contradict the testimony of Myers and others
