Greetings from Nevada! I hope you are all having a great week.
With twins, as I'm sure with any small child, they tend to do something new and different every day.

Outside for a while so we could use the cool down. We got them in their swimsuits and took Antonio and got into the pool. Immediately, he started screaming.

It was my first time at the pool... I took a little nap. I looked at the pool splashing around in what seemed like a while ago.

Threats, hypocrisy and deceit were the Fourth District Congressman Geoff Davis bragged about voting for the National Defense Authorization Act (HR 5658) that authorizes military appropriations for 2008.

It's possible with the electronic voting machines being used today for one person to change the outcome of even a Presidential election.

Congratulations to all the seniors who graduated this year. We got our graduation edition of the Carlisle Mercury yesterday and I had a good time browsing through the pictures and reading everyone's plans for the future.

It's like the way they celebrate their birthday. For generations ago many of the kids would drop out of school and get jobs in the city.

grad friends and relatives, cater a huge feast, and bring in live entertainment. You can compare it to a fancy wedding reception - all for a couple who is too young to remember any of it.

And of course, it's not really for the kids, but the ties back to the tradition of the whole village coming together to celebrate another one of their numbers.

and find your place in the world. No matter how far away a journey takes you, however, there's always a piece of your heart that stays at home; you have to come back for a visit occasionally in order to feel complete.
