In the past few weeks, I've talked with voters in Bethel, Moorefield, Sharpsburg, Clintonville, Millersburg, North Middletown, at The Levy, in Owingsville, Carlisle, and Paris. All across our district, I ear one thing from you over and over: The 2008 legislative session was embarrassing and wasteful.

Let's stop the bickering.

It costs us a lot of money to send legislators into session in Frankfort. When they accomplish little, and their discussions degrade into petty, partisan bickering, that's money wasted. Kentucky doesn't have the funds to spare. I believe in spirited debate, in fighting hard for my constituents, and I've certainly participated in that. But most of all I believe in accomplishment, in doing the job you're chosen to do and in getting the job done. I hope you'll send me to Frankfort again, so I can get the job done

> Jim Lovell has a proven record of getting the job done.

James M. Lovell, branches of government and with other legislators. a self-described workaholic, is well-suited for the role."
