Family Planning: An Historic Right
By Donna P. Hall

American women, like those in other industrialized countries, take our family planning for granted. But we shouldn't. It's only been 40 years since family planning was recognized as an international human right.

Voting. I would really like to put in this column how much I would like everyone to vote. By now I would suppose there are some who have not made up their minds of whom they plan to cast a ballot - and that is fine.

Greetings from Nevada! I hope you are all having a great week. Well, one more baby has entered the world. The maid of honor from my wedding, a good friend of both Ben and I, had her baby tonight. She was born 4-6 weeks early. They had a hard time determining her due date and gave Lauren three different dates throughout the course of her pregnancy.

I can't wait to get to Kentucky. It's not that I mind Hawaii - I'd be an ungrateful fool to complain about the chance we have had to live in Paradise.

I'm not talking about the ocean. When in their right mind don't love playing at the beach? I'm talking about the plain old, ordinary tap water that comes out of the faucet.

with a group of 'locals' the actual Hawaiian kind - whenever they greet us, the men give us powerful hugs; the women embrace us more gently and give us a kiss on the cheek.

During my last visit, Hank Bond invited us to join the Carlisle Mercury staff for dinner at the Carnio Country Club. When I was one of the young ladies, trying to be polite I gave her a great, big Aloha hug and a little peck on the cheek.

So this is part of the reason I'm so eager to move to Kentucky - to restore peace in our home. The water in Nicholas County tastes the same water in supposed to be Hawaii (where milk is about? Whenever we are to changes that make you want to raise your glass and say, "I'll drink to that!"... a nice, tall glass of pure Nicholas County tap water, that is.
