Thoughts from... the Pastor's Study

By Bro. Ernie Carmickle

That is something special about this little town. In this town you can't walk down the street without being greeted by 30 or more people. Some of them are strangers, but over the years less and less have been strangers and more and more have become friends.

I like to eat at Garrett's Restaurant, especially breakfast. You will see me there at least three or four times a week. I've got to be careful with my time there because it is the hardest place I've ever seen to get out of.

I am coming up on 5 years as a citizen in this town and I wonder where the time has gone. It seems like yesterday I pulled up in front of the church parsonage with a big U-Haul truck and unloaded the few pieces of furniture we have accumulated over the years.

Now we are getting ready to do the same thing again. I can't say that I enjoy moving. It's never been what you might call fun, but in the ministry it is a reality.

Pastors just don't stay forever in one place. Even though I don't like moving, that's not the worst part of it.

The worst part is leaving all the people I have come to know and care about. I've spent so many churches and downs over the last 28 years, and made friends in every one of them, but I must say
