Sam Reid, Carlisle; Kyle Dickerson, Madisonville; Emily Swintok, Lexington; and Allison Willingham, Morehead, accompanied by Professor William Nixon, participated in several learning and planning sessions. mane and affective way and it is my belief that it will continue to work with NCAWS to correct the areas in which Nicholas County has failed to deliver. That being said, I want to thank from the bottom of my heart all the local business and volunteers who have stepped up and realized wholeheartedly the importance of taking action. I moved to Carlisle from South Florida in June of 07 with the hope of getting back to my cause I know we can meet this goal. I believe in this community and its compassion to do what is right. If we all group together for this worthy cause we can make a difference that will be a part of Carlisle's legacy forever! Three county roads to be resurfaced

Three rural roads in Nicholas County will be resurfaced. The project will begin at the junction of KY 3316 and Concord Taylor's Creek Road and will end at the junction of KY 13.

According to Transportation officials, who recently met with Nicholas County Judge-Executive Larry Tinch and members of the fiscal court, $305,900 has been allocated for routine maintenance of rural secondary roads within the county to include guardrail installation and maintenance.

Magistrate Jeff Randolph voiced concern over the conditions of state-maintained KY 3316 and two other miles of KY 3316 (Concord Taylor's Creek Road) will be resurfaced. "It's in terrible and shameful condition," Randolph said. Transportation Cabinet officials noted Randolph's concerns as they did with Magistrate Daryl Stacy and Magistrate Steve Hamilton.

Hamilton expressed concern over previously allocated projects including guardrail installation on KY 3316, which was never completed.

Stacy expressed concern over the conditions of KY 3316. "We fully intend on resurfacing it (Old 68)," District Nine Engineer Randy Stuhl said.
