

Fire destroys Moorefield house

Family escapes uninjured but losses everything

An early morning fire Jan. 8 destroyed a Moorefield home and all the belongings of a family, but thankfully resulted in no injuries.

Henry and Kim Corey and their three children lost all of their worldly possessions and barely escaped their burning home at 5657 Moorefield Road when a chimney fire spread across the roof structure of the historic home shortly after midnight on Jan. 7.

"We couldn't see anything but smoke everywhere," Kim Corey said of the experience after she was awakened by her husband shortly after the fire began. "We were able to get the kids out but all we got out of the house was the clothes we had on."

The children: Joshua, 12, Kayla, 11 and Autumn, 9, escaped the fire with their parents, leaving the inferno and facing the bitterly cold, subfreezing temperatures.

A strong wind accelerated the fire and the cold hampered the valiant efforts of ten Nicholas County Firefighters who responded as quickly as possible over the ice and snow-covered roads to battle the blaze.

"The firemen did everything they could," Kim Corey said. "And even as cold as it was they stayed all night."

Corey and others praised the firefighters who could not save the structure but prevented the wind from carrying the blaze any further.

"I think we have a very dedicated group of fireman," Nicholas County Fire Chief Mark Hughes said following the fire. "We had everything against us that night. The road conditions were bad and the wind made the temperature about six degrees below zero."

Although Hughes said the ten dedicated volunteer firefighters performed admirably in the harsh conditions, one of the three trucks simply froze up, with the water pump freezing and the engine freezing as well. "We had ice cycles hanging from our faces," Hughes said. "We're very glad the family escaped the fire and none of our firemen suffered any serious injuries."

The Corey family has suffered two home fires in as many years, according to Kim Corey, who said in August the family lost some personal belongings in an August 12 fire at a different home. The family was able to

Grand jury indicts four

Members of the Nicholas County Grand Jury issued indictments against three men and one woman, while in session in Nicholas County Circuit Court on Jan. 4.

Tracy Farrow, 37, was indicted on the charges of receiving stolen property, marijuana cultivation of five (5) or more plants, first offense; possession of drug paraphernalia, first offense and possession of marijuana.

The indictments allege the offenses took place on or about on Oct. 1, 2009.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Dennis Mabry testified to members of the grand jury before they issued the indictments against Jeff Farrow.

Mabry also testified to the grand jury about a co-defendant in the case, Jeff Farrow.

Jeff Farrow, 27, was indicted on the charge of marijuana cultivation of five (5) or more plants.

Michael Eads, 24, was indicted on the charge of criminal possession of a forged instrument, second degree, (two counts).

Eads allegedly committed the crimes on or about on Oct. 27, 2009 and Nov. 1, 2009, when Eads "intended to defraud or deceive another" with two forged checks totaling $175.

Carlisle Police Officer Mark Snedegar testified to members of the grand jury before they issued the indictments against Eads.

Snedegar also testified to members of the grand jury regarding a co-defendant, Celia Eads, who was also indicted on one count of criminal possession of a forged instrument, second degree. The grand jury alleges that the offense occurred on or about on Oct. 19, 2009. On that day Celia Eads allegedly forged a check totaling $60.

An indictment is not an indication of guilt but rather a procedural step in the judicial process, which ensures the movement of an alleged crime from the district court level to the circuit court level. All persons are innocent until proven guilty or admitting guilt.

Herrington sworn in

Nicholas County Sheriff Dick Garrett, left, is shown with Nicholas County Deputy Sheriff Joe Herrington, right. Herrington was sworn in as deputy sheriff last month. Herrington said he looks forward to continuing to serve the community.

Enriching our community

Many of our local 1st graders will have a new favorite book very soon. My Favorite Book, a beautifully illustrated volume expressive of moral values, is being made available in certain local schools as a gift to 1st graders by local business leaders who are concerned about the future of our children.

With each distribution extra copies of the book are given to the school along with an interactive CD-ROM incorporating the themes of the volume.

A copy of the volume goes home with the child to become his or her very own. Printed in this book is a Parent Guide explaining the values covered in the book along with suggested topics for family discussions.

Without the support of local community leaders this program would not be possible.

The schools involved are Nicholas County Elementary School. Sponsors are Mathers Gaunce Funeral Home, Nicholas Co. PVA, and Sopers Family Drug.

Alleged burglar tracked down

By Charles Mattox
News Reporter

Carlisle Police Officers literally tracked down a burglary suspect last Thursday night after a resident of Eastern Avenue called in a complaint of someone who had kicked their back door in.

Michael R. Willoughby, 27, was charged with burglary, second degree, and his wife Elizabeth, 23, was charged with alcohol intoxication in a public place.

Both Willoughby's reside on Paris Lane in Carlisle.

The couple were arrested, interviewed and charged, by Carlisle Police Officers Sgt. Darrel Layne and Michael Kiskaden, who arrived at the scene of the break-in with Hancock, Carlisle's K-9 unit.

Hancock is a 16-month-old male German shepherd dog that quickly trailed the suspects to their location, where they were apprehended.

"Hancock did an excellent job of tracking," Sgt. Layne said. Layne is the K-9's handler and expressed confidence that Hancock will continue to be an asset to the city police force. Layne and Hancock have been teamed up since September and work cohesively together.

Hancock didn't waste any time when he arrived at the scene of the break-in.

The violation time occurred at 9:45 p.m., with the arrests being made 23 minutes later, according to Michael Willoughby's arrest citation.

"He (Hancock) hit the trail very quickly," Sgt. Layne said and noted that the home was occupied at the time the basement door was kicked in.

"The door had a dead-bolt lock and it was completely destroyed," Sgt. Layne said.

The Willoughby couple was read their Miranda rights and each provided a written statement after they were located beyond visual distance from the scene.

Michael Willoughby wrote that he kicked in the door at the residence "while looking for a dog."

Elizabeth Willoughby wrote that they were looking for a missing dog and "no one had answered the front door" of the residence.

Mrs. Willoughby also wrote that she did not know why her husband had kicked the door in but indicated they had been searching some time for the "missing dog" and were cold.

Both are scheduled to be arraigned this week in Nicholas District Court.

Sexton pleads guilty

By Charles Mattox

A Nicholas County man indicted on the charges of receiving stolen property and being a persistent felony offender entered a guilty plea to amended charges last week in Nicholas Circuit Court.

Roy D. Sexton, 24, who was indicted by a Nicholas County Grand Jury in Oct. 2009, on the charges of receiving stolen property, $500 or more and persistent felony offender, second degree, entered a plea of guilty to a single charge of receiving stolen property, $500 or more.

The grand jury members issued their indictments against Sexton following testimony of Nicholas County Sheriff Dick Garrett.

Sexton allegedly was in possession of a stolen ATV belonging to Wayne Milton on Aug. 30 when Garrett saw him on Milton's ATV driving on Cassidy Creek Road, according to Garrett and the indictments issued against Sexton.

Sexton's trial was scheduled to occur on Jan. 7 but he and his attorney Jennifer Wittmeyer signed a Commonwealth's Offer on a Plea of Guilty document on Jan. 4.

The plea agreement states that the Commonwealth recommends Sexton be sentenced to two years imprisonment on the charge of receiving stolen property and the charge of persistent felony offender, second degree, was dismissed.

Sexton shall also pay restitution of $1,525 to Milton, according to the plea agreement.

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

Nip And Tuck

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

"The inability to appreciate the virtues of the departed, disqualifies us to put a proper estimate on the merits of those that remain. What is his character, but the product of our deeds? Habit makes character, and character makes destiny. An appreciation of character in ourselves gives us power to appreciate character in others." Kentucky historian James J. Dickey

Sept. 19, 1929 from the Dickey Manuscript Collection housed at the Fleming County Public Library.

"I first became acquainted with the Upper Blue Licks and the buffalo road leading there while with the Thompson party in July 1773." John Finley deposition as recorded in Fleming County Land Book E pages 63-64

I believe the cold temperatures would have qualified for a "three-dog night" on any given night recently.

I only have two dogs, but they provided a little extra warmth to my mind, body and soul, as the temperatures plummeted.

And, as I sat outside with my two dogs the other night, as darkness fell across the snow-covered and frozen landscape, I couldn't help but imagine how our Native American and pioneer forefathers could have survived such conditions along the same hills and hollows as we now call home.

They didn't have any kerosene heaters or electric furnaces.

The closest thing they had to wood burning stoves were clay hearths or later, stone-lined chimneys in log cabins.

We know from archaeological excavations in northeastern Kentucky, particularly the excavation of the Morgan Stone Mound in Bath County, that the Native Americans, who lived here 1,500 years ago, lived in circular huts approximately 26 feet in diameter.

Archaeologists call this culture of Native Americans; Woodland, with two social distinctions called Adena and Hopewell.

The Woodland people were responsible for building the large earthen burial mounds, examples of which can still be found in Sharpsburg and Moorefield.

The Native American people who inhabited the same landscape, beginning about 700 years ago, built rectangular huts, and these types of structures remained in use through the historic period of occupation by Shawnee and Cherokee cultures and was adopted by Kentucky frontiersmen in the form of log cabins.

Legendary frontiersman Simon Kenton would often hunt alone during the deep winter and provided enough meat to keep many Kentucky settlers (specifically those in Harrodsburg) from starving to death.

A particular favorite hunting ground of his and his old friend Daniel Boone was located near the Upper Blue Licks and the Nicholas County community of Milltown and the Fleming County community of Battle Run.

Boone and his companions counted 600 buffalo crossing the river there in 1784. The year before, Kenton settled his station in present-day Mason County.

But Kenton, like Boone, had been familiar with all the land along the Licking River, long before 1784.

Though John Finley first saw the Upper Blue Licks in 1773 he did not build his house there until much later.

His son David often took walks with Simon Kenton, when Kenton was older in life and would tell young David Finley about his early adventures along the frontier.

During the winter of 1776-1777 Kenton was hunting with his two dogs: Nip and Tuck, which were of a breed called the mountain cur and resembled in many ways the modern hound dog.

In subfreezing weather Kenton would often hack a hole in the frozen ground and start a fire with white oak bark and add small chunks of wood. When the fire started in earnest he would cover the hole over with dirt, leaving a small air hole in the center. He would then sit cross-legged over the hole and with Nip on one side and Tuck on the other he would cover himself and his dogs with a buffalo robe.

Many mornings he would awaken with several inches of snow atop the robe, yet he remained warm in the otherwise frozen landscape.

I have tried to imagine the closeness he felt to his two dogs at such times, considering he was otherwise alone and believing himself to be a fugitive wanted for murder back in Virginia.

David Finley would tell historians that Kenton showed him a spot near the Licking River where during that frozen winter of 1776-77, Nip and Tuck had attacked a large buffalo bull, which Kenton had shot and intended to butcher. The bull was still full of fight and though Kenton tried frantically he could not stop the dogs from tackling the bull. He watched helplessly as the animals tumbled down a frozen hill, and onto the ice covered Licking River.

The ice buckled beneath the weight and Nip and Tuck were gone forever.

"It was one of the greatest losses I ever suffered in my entire life," Kenton told Finley with tears in his eyes as he stood upon the very ground decades after the tragic loss.

I suppose it still remains the same it has for hundreds of years, dear reader.

It's hard to measure the value of a good dog.

My two Cents

Winter Weather

My Two Cents

By Steve Scalf

Officially, winter has barely been here for three weeks and already I'm hearing folks complaining about the cold and snow, saying how they can't wait for warmer temperatures to return. I understand where they're coming from. My desk is beside a drafty window and by the time I head home at the end of the day, the left side of my body feels like it's frozen.

But not everyone seems to mind the winter weather. The kids who attend the Nicholas County schools - or rather, used to attend there - have been pretty enthusiastic about not having to go to school. My son, Max, happily tells everyone that two weeks into the new semester, he's only had to go to school once.

It's not that the kids don't like going to school; Max actually enjoys it. It was the same thing when I was a kid, though. An unscheduled day off from school was like an extra holiday, thrown in just for fun. I'm not so old that I have forgotten how much I enjoyed snow days, myself.

I remember one winter in particular, probably during the early months of 1978, when northern Indiana got hit by surprisingly heavy snowfall, shutting down school for a couple of weeks. One of my friends lived on a farm and once the roads were passable, invited about a dozen of us out.

When we got there, we split into two teams and decided to play war games, one team being the attackers and the other being the defenders. I was on the defenders team. We had to take off through the woods with only a 10 minute head start before the attackers came after us. As quickly as we could, we came up with a strategy: Lay some false trails through the snow, then backtrack and hide, wait for the attackers to pass us by, then head back to the fort and prepare a snowball ambush for them when they returned.

We had left all sorts of tracks through the woods and had just finished backtracking when one of my teammates pointed to a small hole in a snow bank. Upon closer examination, we discovered the drift had formed a good-sized snow cave, large enough to hold all six of us. We climbed inside, using a branch to sweep away any tracks leading to the entrance, and waited for the attackers to pass us by. Moving to the very back of the cave, we began scooping up snow, packing snowballs, arming ourselves as best as we could.

Our look-out by the tiny entrance whispered back a report: The other team was falling for it; they were almost all past our position. We started creeping forward, getting ready to make our break back to the fort, when suddenly, a face appeared in the entrance, calling out, "Hey everybody, check it out, I found a cave and I think the other guys are in here.

One of the magical aspects of youth is the ability to live fully in the moment. And at that moment, our adventure stopped being a game. Realizing we were hopelessly trapped, adrenaline whipped our young hearts into a frenzy as the "fight or flight" instinct kicked in. Our minds were no longer capable of reason; our single thought was: SURVIVE.

Grabbing up snowballs, we charged forward, plunging through the banks of the drift, rather than waiting in line to wiggle out the entrance. As we burst into the open, our would-be attackers froze in shock at the edge of the woods to our front. We charged forward, wild war cries bellowing forth from our chests as we began hurling snowballs with surprising strength and accuracy.

Dazed by the fury of our assault, the "attackers" turned in panic, scattering in every direction as if running for their lives. Before long, one of the more level-headed "defenders" called for us to rally back around and suggested we make it back to the fort before the other team could re-group.

When the "attackers" finally made it back, however, they came waving a white flag. Our first encounter had taken the fight right out of them. They just wanted to come back in and find out what had made us go berserk like that. The next half-hour was spent with the entire groups re-telling of The Great Snow Battle, with countless interruptions as each boy added his own details. Before long, however, we began to grow impatient for the next adventure and someone came up with the idea of digging a huge network of tunnels through the deep snow. But that's a story for some other time.

So even though there are times when I'm sitting at my drafty desk and my toes get so cold they ache; and it always seems that it's on those days when I'm chilled to the core that I am most likely to notice the Hawaii license plate on the front of my wife's van; in spite of these things, the winter weather brings back so many wonderful memories from my youth that I am willing to endure the goose bumps...

...and the frequent warnings from my wife to "get those icy stumps you call feet back on your own side of the bed."

And that's my two cents Steve Scalf

Memories up in flames

by Melissa Mitchell

On Jan. 8, 2010 at approximately 12:30 a.m. the alarms dropped for the Nicholas County Fire Department indicating a structure fire was on Moorefield Road. Waking from a deep sleep, and thinking that the address that was given was my very own home, I jumped up quickly and started getting my husband Darwin up. Once I reached the living room, I finally was able to hear the correct address, which was beside my house.

The house my grandparents had once lived in was on fire, there was smoke coming from the back of the house, but flames were not noticeable at this time. I then heard the county fire department respond that they were on the way, but the treacherously slick roads were slowing them down. Minutes before the fire department reached the residence I noticed that flames could be seen from what used to be the living room window when my grandparents lived there.

The "old home place" sold in 1998 following the death of my papaw.

The Corey family, which was renting the home from the current owners, escaped the burning house safely, but they were in the eight-degree cold temperatures, with wind blowing, and with nothing but the clothes on their backs.

The fire department reached the home within a few minutes, and began to extinguish the fire. While looking out the window, we were able to see the flames die down, noticing lights moving around within the front of the house. Horns were blaring, letting everyone know to evacuate the house, the fire was getting out of control, sparking in the walls, floors, and chimneys. The blaze became more intense and there was no saving the house, as winds were wreaking havoc and creating turmoil for the firefighters.

Contacting my parents and letting them know that the old home place was engulfed in flames, brought such great heartache to my family. Mom soon notified my grandmother, Dollie Lyons, of the tragic scene that we were witnessing.

She began to cry, from a broken heart.

My great grandfather, S.S. Lyons purchased the home in 1946; then in 1957 my grandparents, S.S. Lyons Jr. and Dollie Lyons, moved in the home, and began their family. They had three daughters: Carolyn (Johnny) Scott, Amy (Richard) McDonald, and Shirley (Joe) Wilson, that were raised on this farm, and in this house.

My grandfather always made them aware of the history that was within this old house, which held so many memories for the Lyons' family.

When I was growing up, there were many times that I would stay there during the summer, and enjoy many meals, laughs, and endless hours playing with Barbie Dolls. My brother, Johnny, would go and take his matchbox cars and play with them on the picnic table.

Work hands enjoyed the meals that my grandmother would make, when they were housing tobacco for my grandfather. I remember how they would come to the old well, where we would have a dishpan of water and a fresh bar of lava soap, for them to wash up in before they came in the house.

Mamaw would fry up pork chops, make gravy, with potatoes, and brown beans. She would get up early in the morning and cook the cornbread. Oh my, I can smell that wonderful meal now. The men would always comment on the cooking and how they couldn't wait for lunch.

Many of Christmas' was spent in this old house, and my grandfather really enjoyed the food and having the family home most of all. I remember a time, when Santa Claus came to visit us, and how papaw laughed and enjoyed the way the grandkids would react to Santa. We would have to wait 'til everyone was finished eating before we could open up the gifts, and papaw loved to eat, so you can imagine who was the last one to finish.

Watching the house go up in flames was so heart wrenching for my family, even though my grandparents didn't live there any more, I could step outside and still see that big two story house standing, and tell my kids, "that is where Mommy grew up and used to play," Now there are only two desolate and lonely chimneys standing near a concrete front porch, and a mess of rubble. The visual memory of the heartwarming house is gone, and stands now only in my memory. Everything else went up in flames.

Bread of Life

God Wants You Well

Luke 6:17-19 17 And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judaea and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases; 18 And they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed. 19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

It is God's will for you to be healed, but your faith cannot operate beyond your knowledge of God's word. The word says my people are destroyed for lack of knowledge. (Hosea 4:6) Psalms 103:2-3 says Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases;

One of His benefits is healing for your body. If you had been taught that it is God's will to heal you in the same way that you have been taught it is God's will for you to be saved, you would have a different attitude towards sickness. Jesus bore your sicknesses and carried your diseases, at the same time and in the same manner that He bore your sins. You are just as free from sickness and disease as you are from sin. To live free from sickness, you must plant the word of God concerning healing in your heart.

The Bible says the word is the incorruptible seed. You are ...born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever. (1 Peter 1:23)

You are healed the same way. Incorruptible means that the seed cannot be destroyed; it cannot be spoiled. Satan cannot stop the power of the word of God.

Once you hear the word and decide to make Jesus Christ the Lord of your life, there is no power that can stop the new birth from taking place in your spirit. It is the same way with healing. You receive everything from the Lord in the same way; by faith. Results come when you hear the word, receive it, and act on it. Jesus is healing all diseases everyday: Diabetes, heart disease, cancer, tumors, sight restored. Two came out of comas last week.

Praise God, Jesus is the same yesterday, today and forever.

"It could have been much worse and we are all grateful to have escaped the fire, but it was just after Christmas and the kids... Well... We lost everything," Corey said with a heavy voice.

Sue White, Kim's mother, provided the family with a temporary home with her at Salt Lick, in neighboring Bath County and on Monday the Corey's moved into a house near their former home at 2240 Moorefield Road.

Anyone who is able to assist the family in this time of need is encouraged to do so and items may be dropped off at the Corey's new residence.

Items may be dropped off at the Carlisle Mercury, as well, for anyone wishing to assist the family.

Joshua wears a man's size 48 with Kayla and Autumn wearing typical sized young ladies and girls sizes. Kim Corey wears a size 14 and her husband size 38.

Mrs. Corey expressed praise for Mathew Warner who is renting the family a home and especially to Connie Wills, Autumn's teacher at Nicholas County School.

"She has been a tremendous help," Kim Corey said.

Emergency management officials recommend using extra caution and safety as cold weather continues, and regional firefighters have remained busy through the frigid weekend.

Ivan Trent, 60, of Bluestone Road in Rowan County perished in a Jan. 9 mobile home fire.

Investigators have not released the cause of that fatal fire.

Thoughts from the Pastor's Study

by the Rev. Adam Schell, Pastor, First Baptist Church

Next Monday, as a nation, we pause to commemorate Martin Luther King, Jr. Day. This day has been set aside for the last twenty-five years as a time to honor Dr. King's life and his contributions as one of America's greatest champions for racial justice and equality. Although I did not know Dr. King, and although the Civil Rights movement reaches its climax years before I was even born, I have grown up hearing stories about Dr. King. I have heard of the attacks and beatings that King and his supporters endured. I have heard the stories of the time he spent in prison, and how his greatest written works were composed behind those bars. I have heard of his non-violent philosophies, and I have seen video footage that shows that Dr. King practiced what he preached.

But my earliest memories of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. come from my days in elementary school. Like countless school children across the country, I grew up watching Dr. King's most famous speech year after year. As I sit writing this article, I can still hear the baritone of his voice as Dr. King repeats time and time again one of the most famous phrases in the history of American speech, "I have a dream." That speech was delivered on the steps of the Lincoln Monument in Washington, D.C. over thirty years ago, and in it Dr. King called for not only civil rights for all African Americans, but also for racial reconciliation between whites and blacks.

In 2010, we can safely say that American has made great strides in extending civil rights, but the work of legislation cannot change the heart of any person. Although African Americans have been granted certain rights by our government, there are many throughout this country and in our own community who look down their noses at any minority. Our own experiences can tell us that legislation alone has not reconciled this nation.

Back in 1963, the same year that Dr. King delivered his "I Have a Dream" speech, he spoke at Western Michigan University. Following that speech, Dr. King was interviewed by the president of Western Michigan, during this interview, Dr. King was asked, "Don't you feel that integration can only be started and realized in the Christian church, not in schools or by other means?" In answering this question Dr. King indicted much of the Christian world when he said, "We must face the fact that in America, the church is still the most segregated institution in America. At 11:00 on Sunday morning when we stand to sing and Christ has no east or west, we stand at the most segregated hour in this nation."

A lot has changed in our world since Dr. King made this comment, but sadly the church remains largely the same. Although worship styles and other church practices have changed, many churches and many Christians still do not understand what it means to love our neighbor as ourselves. As a pastor and as a Christian I am heartbroken by this reality. It seems clear throughout the stories of both the Old and New Testaments that God loves all people regardless of things like race, or age, or sex; yet we in the church struggle to look beyond the outer surface to encounter the inner person who is created in the image of God.

This year our government has challenged people of all ages and races and backgrounds to come together on Martin Luther King, Jr. Day and work on various projects to improve the lives of American citizens, all in an effort to become that "Beloved Community" Dr. King envisioned. I don't intend to sound skeptical, but one day of service will not be able to undo centuries of damage. What our world needs, what our country needs, what our community needs to begin to reconcile us all together is love. We all must step down from our own pedestals and begin to see each other through the eyes of God, when we do this we may finally begin to realize the dreams that Dr. King so eloquently spoke about.

My dream for Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, and for everyday is that we do just this, so together let's all set ourselves aside and look to our fellow human with the love that God has for us all. Let's being will to serve one another, like Christ was willing to serve us all.

Bluejackets fall to Bath County

By Brad Laux

Playing just 17 hours after falling to Bracken County 62-41 on the road, the Nicholas County boys' basketball team faced Bath County for its first home contest in over three weeks on Thursday.

The quick turnaround did not help the Bluejackets shooting, which also had struggled against the Polar Bears. Nicholas County made just 10-of-17 free throws and was 4-of-21 from 3-point range in falling to the Wildcats 67-62.

Despite the final score, Bluejacket coach Michael Cofer was pleased with his club's effort.

"We played with more intelligence and effectiveness defensively (than against Bracken County)," he said. "But, we didn't make our shots and we made some crucial mistakes down the stretch. On the positive side, we battled and I am a lot happier with that."

Nicholas County (4-4) got off to a fast start, but could not hold off Bath County in the final quarter.

Led by a dominant performance from Charles Washington, the hosts took control of the game early. The Bluejackets used a 9-0 run to take a 13-5 lead with 1:55 to play in the first quarter. Nicholas County's advantage grew to 10 points twice, including at the end of the opening period at 22-12.

The Bluejackets scored the first four points of the second quarter to take its largest lead of the day at 26-12. However, Bath County (6-4) battled back and trimmed the margin down to six points after a 10-2 run.

The Bluejackets led by nine at 31-22 midway through the period, but over a stretch of 36 seconds Bath County had closed to within four points at 31-27 with 3:29 to play. From there, both teams traded baskets and Nicholas County ended up taking a 39-37 advantage into the locker room.

Charles Washington led the hosts with 16 points, while Kyle Campbell had 12. Cody House, whose eight late second-quarter points helped Bath County rally, paced his club with 11 points. Taylor Maze, the team's leading scorer who sat out the Wildcats' last game with tendonitis, had 10 points, while Brad Stump added nine.

Bath County took its first lead (40-39) since the 5:51 mark of the first quarter on a Maze 3-pointer 35 seconds into the second half. It was the first of five lead changes in the period.

The Wildcats stretched their lead as high as five points after Bobby Lyons stole the ball, converted a lay up and added a foul shot at the four-minute mark to put the visitors ahead 48-43.

However, led by five straight points from Washington, Nicholas County stormed back and regained control at 50-48 one minute and 50 seconds later.

The only points scored in the final two minutes of the quarter came from Stump, who hit 5-of-6 free throws to give the Wildcats a 53-50 lead at the break.

Like in the third period, the final quarter featured numerous (six) lead changes.

Campbell tied the score at 53-53 with a 3-pointer right out of the gate and Zach Lemons followed by adding a basket to put Nicholas County back on top.

Washington's lay up off an offensive rebound with 2:03 to play gave Nicholas County a 62-58 lead, but it ended up being the final points that the Bluejackets scored.

House notched a 3-pointer and Lyons added a basket with 1:14 left to return the lead to Bath County at 63-62 and Maze made four consecutive free throws in the final 30 seconds to secure the victory.

Washington paced Nicholas County with 27 points, 10 rebounds, five blocks and two assists. Campbell added 20 points, eight rebounds, four assists and two steals.

Lemons contributed four rebounds and two assists, while Cody Fryman had three rebounds. Kalep Brierly and J.D. Wagoner each finished with two rebounds as the Bluejackets held a 36-32 advantage on the boards. Harry Fagan and Dalton Hampton each dished out four assists. The hosts finished with 18 as a team, but committed six more turnovers (17 to 11).

Stump finished with a team-best 18 points and 11 rebounds. House contributed 16 points, including hitting four 3-pointers, and collected four rebounds. Maze tallied 15 points, seven assists and six rebounds; while Lyons added 13 points, five rebounds, four assists and two steals. Jared Ravenscraft grabbed four rebounds, and Tyler Fraser came off the bench to chip in three assists and three rebounds for Bath County.

"We were a little rusty, but I have to tip my hat to Nicholas County. It is the first time I've played them. They are very talented," Bath County coach Jim Hicks said. "Cody House and Brad Stump had career games. Other teams are finding out that if you shut down Taylor, we have other players who can score, too."

The Wildcats followed the Nicholas County game by playing at Rowan County this past Tuesday and will host Jackson County on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Bath County contest broke up a stretch of eight road games for the Bluejackets, which snapped a string of three losses in four games with a Saturday road win over St. Francis in Louisville 87-63.

Nicholas County went on the road to face Model on Tuesday. The Bluejackets play at Menifee County on Thursday and Pendleton County on Friday. The team's next home game is Tuesday against Deming at 7:30 p.m.

Jackets, Lady Jackets set to vie for All 'A' titles

The Nicholas County High School boys' basketball team was back in action at home on Tuesday, hosting Deming in a pivotal 38th District game. Results from the Nicholas County-Deming boys' basketball game were unavailable at press time. The Jackets will visit Augusta on Friday (Jan. 15) before competing in the opening round of the 10th Region All "A" Classic. Nicholas County will face Calvary Christian on Wednesday, Jan. 21 in the opening round of the Boys' 10th Region All "A" Classic at Paris. Calvary Christian fell to 3-6 on Monday night following a loss to Bellevue. The Eagles have posted wins over Augusta, Ludlow and Heritage Academy this season.

Campbell County, Beechwood, Bishop Brossart, Dayton and Scott have also defeated the Eagles. Calvary Christian is the defending 10th Region All "A" Classic champion. The Eagles outlasted St. Patrick 74-64 before edging Deming 68-54 in the championship game. Last season, Pineville dealt Calvary Christian a heartbreaking loss in the opening round of the Touchstone Energy All "A" Classic at Eastern Kentucky University's McBrayer Arena in Richmond, slipping past the Eagles 37-36.

Nicholas County hosted last season's 10th Region

All "A" Classic. The Girls' 10th Region All "A" Classic tipped off on Monday at Bracken County as St. Patrick defeated Paris 65-48 in an opener. The Nicholas County Lady Jackets will face St. Patrick in the nightcap Wednesday night. Other opening round matchups will include Bishop Brossart vs. Deming, Silver Grove vs. Augusta, Bishop Brossart vs. Deming and Calvary Christian vs. Bracken County.

The Nicholas County Lady Jackets take an even 5-5 record into the 10th Region All "A" Classic. Currently ranked 11th in the 10th Region standings, Nicholas County boasts wins over Menifee County, Kentucky School for the Deaf, Deming, Augusta and Pineville. The Lady Jackets have dropped games to Harrison County, Somerset, Eastern and Bourbon County.

The Nicholas County girls have dropped back-to-back games to Bourbon County. Nicholas County will look to halt a four-game losing skid in the opening round of the regional tournament. The Lady Jackets have regular-season games remaining versus Bourbon County (home, Jan. 18), Pendleton County (home, Jan. 23), Model (at Berea, Jan. 25), Bath County (home, Jan. 28), Fairview (home, Jan. 30), Berea (away, Feb. 5), Model (away, Feb. 6), Fleming County (away, Feb. 8), Sayre (away, Feb. 10), Paris (home, Feb. 12), Garrard County (home, Feb. 13), Harrison County (home, Feb. 15) and Burgin (away, Feb. 19).

HEADQUARTERS-SALTWELL-BARTERVILLE

Compiled by Phyllis Brady

Rev. Vernon Adams, Paris, brought another wonderful message on Sunday at Headquarters Church, filling in for Pastor Brenda Routt. The church was very warm and Allen Flora had swept the walks of. We had 14 but not bad considering the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Routt and son, Adam

Routt spent the past week on a Cruise, starting from Miami, Florida. They went to Mexico, Jamaica and Cayman Islands. This was compliments of Adam for their Christmas Gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle, Bridget Davis and little Shelby and Phyllis Brady were among a very large crowd who enjoyed a baby shower on Sunday afternoon for the first child of Michael and Stephanie Jo Riggle Thomas, expecting a girl in February. It was held at Northside School. Stephanie teaches at Nicholas County Elementary. She will have 3 showers.

The Saltwell United Methodist Women and also the Ellisville Homemakers and Headquarters Homemakers didn't get to have their meetings this past week because of the weather.

Sympathy is extended to Matthew Daley Kennedy on the passing of a very dear brother, Raymond Kennedy of Lexington last week. They were all fine people.

David Earlywine recently took sunshine gifts to Daley Kennedy from Headquarters Church. Ira Howard stays with Daley a lot and has become very fond of him as anyone would.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady visited Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Doyle, Harrison County one day last week.

Paul Mullhollem and Claire attended the U.K. Georgia Basketball game on Saturday.

A few weeks ago, Brenda Gaunce sent Phyllis and Bobby G. Brady the following poem that appeared in big headlines in 1948 in the Lexington Herald. It read: "Carlisle Boy and a Lexington girl are first with letters to my Pop's Tops contest." Bobby writes (When he was 11 years old) "my Pops Tops because he stands behind a guy like me when everyone else stops, to help solve problems great or small, he comes to me whenever I Call. He would work and strive day and night to provide me with things I like. He is a real pal at work or play. The best kind of fellow in every way. Pop's sure are tops for you can plainly see, If it wasn't for Pop's, there wouldn't be boys like me."

Bob says he barely remembers this but we were sure glad to get it. "I'm sure if the Herald had a My Mom's Tops contest he would have definitely entered that!" His Mom and Dad were Gayle and Georgia B. Brady.

Testimony by Gov. Martha Layne Collins last week urged restriction on tobacco imports in testimony entered into the record during an International Trade Commission hearing in Washington.

The hearing was requested last Sept. at the urging of tobacco-state legislators to determine whether rising tobacco imports are endangering the federal price support system for domestic tobacco.

Miss MaryGlen Feeback, Carlisle high school and Miss Sue Irvin, Nicholas County high school, have been selected as member of the 1960's All-State Band to meet at Bowling Green Jan. 14. They were selected for their ability and past records. The band will be composed of 125 students from all over the state. A concert will be presented Saturday night, Jan 16.

Johnson Mathers Health Care goes tobacco/smoke free

Beginning Mar. 1, 2010, Johnson Mathers Health Care will join with other surrounding hospitals to become a tobacco/smoke free campus.

This move to become tobacco/smoke free is supported by the JMHC Medical Staff, as well as Board of Trustees. It is not a step taken lightly; however, one that we feel we must take in order to provide a healthy environment for our residents, patients, clients, visitors and staff. We join others in support of national and state efforts to reduce the negative health effects related to tobacco use and second-hand exposure.

More than 8,000 people die each year in Kentucky alone due to tobacco-related diseases. Tobacco use in and around hospitals and medical facilities poses health and safety risks for residents, patients, employees and visitors. In addition, second-hand smoke has been proven hazardous to people's health.

Our campus will become tobacco/smoke free to staff beginning on Feb. 1, 2010 and to the public (including hospital patients) on Mar. 1, 2010.

While we realize this is not a popular commitment for some, we are asking for community understanding, patience and support as we move toward a tobacco/smoke free campus beginning Mar. 1, 2010.

Monday night, the water committee was authorized to make application to the Public Works Admin. For a loan for construction of a new standpipe at the Carlisle water works.

Joe Clay superintendent of the water works told the council that the present tank has sprung a leak and it is feared the leak will grow larger. The present tank has been in use for almost 22 years, which is about the average life. The estimated cost for the standpipe is $6,000.

Three men invaded the Peoples Deposit Bank at Burlington, Boone county, late Thursday afternoon and escaped with between $1,550 and $2,000 lying in the cages.

The men fled in an automobile to Florence and then in the direction of Louisville.

Two men were at work when the bandits entered and ordered them to hold up their hands.

Start healthy. Stay well.

Health Fair, January 15, 10 a.m.-noon

Attend our free senior health fair and benefit from valuable health screenings, including blood pressure checks, blood screenings, therapy screenings, and information about a healthy diet.
