

Debate over dog dilemma heats up

By Stephen Scalf

Last week's Mercury reported that members of the Nicolas County Animal Welfare Society (NCAWS) appeared before the fiscal court and urged court members to take action to control dogs across the county. The proposal found no support from fiscal court members, with comments such as: "It's been that way for years," (Magistrate Avery Thornsburg), "I don't think it's that big of a deal... If there is a problem, I take care of it," (Magistrate Daryl Stacy), or the recommendation, "If there is a problem, just give me a call," (Sheriff Dick Garrett).

However, directly on the heels of last week's article, a couple of incidents came to light that focused even more attention on the issue:

Shortly after 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 17, Betty Morford had just returned home when someone hollered to her that a big dog was eating one of her hens. She ran to the back door and saw a big, gray dog on the porch. The dog had broken into the cage on the porch and was tearing apart the hens that had been inside. When the dog saw Morford, it growled and lunged at her. By the time Morford had retrieved her gun the dog had left the porch and gone into the backyard where it was joined by two other large, black dogs, a large, chocolate-colored dog, and a small, black dog. Several other cages had also been broken into and the dogs had killed those chickens, as well, and were eating on them. Morford shot the large, gray dog injuring it, but not killing it. The dogs all left, but by then, the damage was done. Morford lost a total of 14 chickens, including her fancy game rooster, Whitey, for which Morford claims she had been offered $1,000 previously.

Morford went on to state that this is not the first time these dogs have been to her property. "They've killed cats before. They've killed cats before. The dogs are vicious and something needs to be done."

Eva Chapman's property on Old Paris Pike backs on the school grounds and straddles the city/county boundary. When they moved in eight years ago, Chapman discovered several stray cats on the property. Using humane traps, she rounded up the cats over several months, took them to a veterinarian in Millersburg and paid to have the healthy ones spayed or neutered and to receive their shots, and to have the unhealthy ones euthanized - at a cost of over $1,000.

One day, she found one of the cats had been mangled and took it to Dr. Akers in Paris, who quickly identified it as a dog attack. Chapman found two cat carcasses, which they disposed of.

The fourth attack happened on Jan. 2. Chapman was sitting in her sunroom that leads out to her back porch. Two dogs, which Chapman identified as a black Labrador and a chocolate Labrador, came onto the porch, jumped grabbed two cats that were sitting there and killed one of them. Chapman was so upset

City officers' patrol route in question

By Charles Mattox
News Reporter
charles@thecarlislemercury.com

Council Member Sandy Ritchie put Carlisle Mayor Ronnie Clark and Chief of Police William Denton on the hot seat during the city council meeting last Monday night when Ritchie brought concerns to their attention.

Ritchie told the Mayor, Chief Denton and other council members, that she had received concerns from constituents that told her they had seen Carlisle police cruisers and officers on US 68 and those officers were patrolling. Ritchie said her constituents wanted to know why this was being allowed and why the officers were not patrolling in the city of Carlisle instead.

Mayor Clark and Chief Denton both answered questions related to Ritchie's concerns. Both stated that two officers lived on US 68 and they were in the process of traveling to their home or to work when they were identified. Chief Denton said his officers regularly patrol Lake Road but do not patrol US 68 and stated that one of the cruisers was probably his but he was simply driving it home. Mayor Clark and Chief Denton assured Ritchie and all others that their devotion was to the city of Carlisle but they had to travel back and forth to their homes in some form or fashion.

Bluejackets All 'A' run ends in finals to Brossart

By Brad Laux

Nicholas County stayed with Bishop Brossart for three quarters, but the Mustangs' defense eventually proved too tough to crack in Saturday's championship game of the 10th Region All "A" Boys' Basketball Tournament at Paris. Bishop Brossart (14-2) held the Bluejackets to just five fourth-quarter points in pulling away to a 58-33 victory and its seventh All "A" Classic title in the last eight years.

"I thought our defense was good all game," Mustang head coach Mike Code said. "We held them to 19 points in the first half and then 14 in the second half. The difference was that we got live ball turnovers that we used to get scores. It all started out on the top with our guard play from Jordan Armstrong and Zach Fardo."

Turnovers really hurt the Bluejackets, especially in the second half when they had 12 to just two for Bishop Brossart.

"They played hard. We just weren't ready for their defensive pressure," Nicholas County coach Michael Cofer said. "We did a couple things to try to score, but we didn't run the offense because they pressured us all over the floor."

"We were with them for three quarters, but it all comes back to execution and I'll take the blame for that," Cofer added.

It was the first appearance in the 10th Region All "A" Tournament finals for the Bluejackets since 2000, while the Mustangs have been a regular in the championship game, appearing eight consecutive times before being ousted from

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

The Flemingsburg Raid.

June 1864

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

Confederate General John Hunt Morgan was fit to be tied.

His Calvary had been defeated in Mt. Sterling, Lexington and Cynthiana.

Now all he wanted to do was find a safe place for his wounded and escape with what was left of his command. He'd captured the local Provost Marshall; a man named Wallingford and threatened to send him to Libby Prison.

Or worse. He's also allowed some of his men to help themselves to local horses and firearms.

The interior of the Fleming County Jail was filled with Union supplies and had acted as headquarters for a local Union Home Guard unit.

Morgan told the leaders of Flemingsburg that he intended to burn the supplies along with the rest of the town.

The old Mexican War veteran and southern sympathizer, Captain Cox came to the aid of the town and spoke with General Morgan, who was resting in the old Flemingsburg Hotel. Cox asked about Elizavillanative Captain George Will Jackson, leader of Company B. of the Mounted Rifles, who rode with Morgan.

But Jackson had been captured by Yankees at Cynthiana only two days before, and the incident seem to add fuel to Morgan's anger as Jackson and Morgan's second in command Pete Everett, were best of friends.

Jackson had recruited approximately three-dozen Fleming County men to join him in service for Dixie at the beginning of the war and many of the soldiers were still with Morgan. They told their neighbors how Jackson had been ordered to guard the retreat from Cynthiana and how he had his horse shot beneath him near the edge of the Licking River. The last they saw of him he had fired his pistol until it was empty and then thrown his pistol and his spurs (a coveted Yankee souvenir of war) into the Licking River before surrendering.

Morgan's men lay scattered throughout the town of Flemingsburg. They lay in the streets and along the sidewalks sleeping with the reigns of their horses tied around their wrists and ankles.

What a sight they must have been for the inhabitants of the town.

Finally Capt. Cox was allowed to negotiate a peace treaty with General Morgan, where he would remove the supplies from the jail (at no cost) and his wounded men would be allowed to stay in Flemingsburg and receive treatment.

As a further act of good faith General Morgan purchased two wagonloads of needed supplies from the Dudley store and paid $200,000 cash in for the goods.

He offered Dudley either Confederate or Union dollars and Dudley shamefully said he would prefer to be paid in Yankee dollars. And so he was.

The citizens of Flemingsburg were glad to be rid of Morgan as they had just received word that his men had stolen $72,000 from a bank in Mount Sterling only a few days earlier and they had no doubts that Morgan's men would surely burn Flemingsburg to the ground if given ample reason and opportunity.

Morgan and his men escaped to Virginia and this was to be his last raid through Kentucky.

My two Cents

Learning to be Joyful

My Two Cents

By Steve Scalf

I had just exited my teenage years when the 80s rolled around. I had survived my high school years and was enjoying the start of my college experience. I was old enough to be considered an adult, but was still young enough that I hadn't incurred any of the responsibilities I have since come to associate with being a "grown-up." Life was carefree and easy.

It wasn't just me, though. That seemed to be the pervasive attitude of the decade. In the latter part of 1983, Cyndi Lauper soared to the top of the pop charts with her hit, "Girls Just Want to Have Fun." Five years later, it was Bobby McFerrin who set us at ease with "Don't Worry, Be Happy."

One of my favorite ways of having fun was going to King's Island. The more "thrilling" a ride was, the better I liked it. The bigger the adrenaline rush, the better. As soon as the safety harnesses would release, my friends and I would scramble out and hurry back in line to do it all over again. At the end of the day the park would shoot off the fireworks and we'd pack into my old VW Beetle and make our way back home, smiling from ear to ear the whole way.

Back then, if you had asked me, "What is the secret of happiness?" my answer probably would have sounded a lot like the songs of the era:

"Don't worry so much about everything and just have fun."

Life has a way of teaching you lessons, though. Somewhere along the line, as my day-to-day experiences gradually transformed me from a carefree youth into the consummate nit-picky worry-wart I am today, I eventually noticed something: Life isn't just about having fun.

Over the years, I have known people who lived for that next thrill. The first half of the week, all they'd talk about was the wild time they had last weekend and the second half of their week was filled with planning for the wild time that would start the minute they got off work on Friday. It's just like that other 80s hit: Loverboy's - Everybody's Working for the Weekend.

I was always a little envious of these worry-free people. They always seemed like they were so happy, I couldn't help wishing I could be more like that. Over time, however, I began to notice a trend: During those times when these same friends weren't out partying, they weren't really very happy, at all. It was like how adrenaline eventually wears off after the roller coaster ride. If the secret of happiness was to relax and have fun, then what happens to happiness when the fun eventually stops?

I can't put my finger on a single, life-changing experience, but somewhere along the way I quit putting so much emphasis on having fun, and started finding things that brought deeper, longer-lasting happiness - or Joy.

Perhaps my first big lesson in this department came during the birth of our first child, Katie. I thought we were so very well-prepared. I had been to all the childbirth classes. We had seen the movie and practiced all the breathing techniques. It was going to be PERFECT. But then Katie decided to come facing sunny-side up. Halfway through, she got stuck.

Over the next 18 hours, I had to stand there in complete helplessness as my wife suffered wave after wave of intense pain, watching her strength gradually sap away until she was so exhausted that she fell asleep between contractions - and realizing that I had helped put her in that situation. Not that it did any good, but every time she pushed, I did the same thing - hard enough that I broke blood vessels in my neck.

Believe me, it wasn't fun. Not even a little bit. But when Katie finally made it out and I held that perfect, little baby in my arms, I felt such complete and indescribable joy. And unlike the fading happiness that came from roller coaster rides and other thrills, the feelings I experienced at that moment continued to grow stronger and deeper with time.

So even though I don't have as much fun these days as I used to, I am grateful for the cares and worries of my life that have taught me that things like sitting silently while watching a sunrise might not be a whole lot of fun, but they sure can be joyful.

And that's my two cents, Steve Scalf

Bread of Life

Luke 6:45 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil treasures of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil; for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.

Words won't work without faith any more than faith will work without words. It takes them both to put the law of faith in motion. Many believers don't realize that. They'll continually speak words of doubt and unbelief, then they'll jump up one day and say a couple of faith words and expect mountains to move—and to their dismay they don't. Why not? Because Luke 6:45 says, It's the words that come from the heart that produce results. The person who just throws in a couple of faith words now and then isn't speaking them from the abundance of his heart, so they're not effective. II Corinthians 5:7 for we walk by faith and not by sight. Don't look at the circumstance, look at Jesus, the Word. If you want to receive healing by faith, for example, fasten your mind and your mouth on the word of God where your health is concerned. Instead of talking about how miserable you feel, quote Isaiah 53:5, say "Jesus was wounded for my transgressions. He was bruised for my iniquities. The chastisement of my peace was upon him; and with his stripes, praise God, I was healed."

If you'll continue to meditate on those words and continue to say them, the truth in them will begin to sink in. They'll take root in your heart and begin to grow. And eventually, you really will be speaking from the abundance of your heart. When that happens, it won't matter what the circumstances look like. You'll know you have what you've been believing for and the devil himself won't be able to talk you out of it. You'll cross the line from hope to faith, and you'll start seeing those mountains move!

Early Headstart program returns to Nicholas County

By Stephen Scalf
Staff Writer
steve@thecarlislemercury.com

Nicholas County has had to do without the Early Headstart program for nearly nine years. After securing new federal funding, Community Action Council is pleased to once more offer the program within the county and is currently accepting applications. The program is available to children from 6 months to 3 years of age. It is an eligibility-based program, meaning applicants would have to meet the financial-need guidelines, which are the same as the guidelines for the Headstart program; or, the child needs to be diagnosed with a disability. If they are receiving services from programs like First Steps, they are automatically eligible. "What's unique versus the program we had in the past," said center manager Angie Schalch, "The children had to have a childcare contract in the state and a payment source, so the parents or the state had to pay about $120 a week for them to attend. This is a free program." Early Headstart consists of two programs: the Combination program and the Home-Based program. The Combination program will operate classes three days a week in the classroom set up in the Scrubb Grass Road facility. The parent and child will attend either the morning session will run from 8 - 11:30 a.m. or the afternoon session from 12:30 - 4 p.m. The program also includes one 90 minute home visit each month. The program provides parent education and parent-child activities to foster positive parent-child relationships. The Home-Based program entails a 90 minute visit in the home, once a week. Teachers work with both the parent and the child, presenting two socialization experiences a month, and build on the knowledge that the parent is the child's primary teacher. It is a development assessment program that allows teachers to better evaluate a child's progress and to teach parent-child activities that build on the assessment. The Home-Based program is also open to pregnant mothers. For more information about the Early Headstart program or to enroll, call the center at 859-289-7172.

Over the years, the General Assembly assigned additional executive and administrative duties to the county judge. In a 1975 amendment to the constitution, the county judge was stripped of his judicial powers and responsibilities, but stated that "[n]othing...shall be construed to limit the powers otherwise granted by this Constitution to the county judge as the chief executive, administrative and fiscal officer of the county..."

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Allison King

I have selected Allison for Student Spotlight because of her pursuit of perfection while accomplishing a task. While in class Allison is quiet and often hesitant to volunteer information, but her assignments are completed in a timely and quality manner. I first noticed Allison's desire to create quality work while she was completing her Odyssey group project. She took initiative to lead her group in designing and executing a creative and visually fantastic project. As a result of Allison's drive for perfection, she and her group ended up turning in one of the best projects I have seen this year.

--Mr. Stinson

Robyn Cohorn

I am nominating Robyn Cohorn for Student Spotlight. She maintains an A average in Algebra II and always participates in a manner which assists in the direction we are going. Robyn plays Varsity and JV Basketball this year and has done so for many years. Robyn is one of our shining examples of a hard working student, who also has the goal of dunking a basketball one day.

--Mr. Riley

Spencer Bailey

Spencer Bailey is a pleasure to have in class! He always gives 100%. Spencer is a hard worker and provides me with his best effort. He comes to class prepared and always ready to participate. He is such a model student.

Spencer always has a smile on his face and a positive mental attitude. He is polite and courteous to other peers and teachers. Spencer will accomplish any dream that he sets for himself.

-- Mrs. Irvin

Stephanie Gubser

It is a pleasure to nominate Stephanie Gubser as my Student Spotlight choice. She has a high standard for herself, she tries her best, asks questions, and truly works hard in class. While she takes her lessons seriously, she is also a lovable, funny, and very energetic person. With her motivation, she can do whatever she wants, and I wish her all the luck in the world.

Keep up the good work, Students!

The Book Nook

by Melissa Mitchell

Jeannette Walls inspired me with her novel "Half Broke Horses", she tells her maternal grandmother's tale, from a first person point of view. The story opens with urgency as a flash flood threatens to drown young Lily and her siblings. Lily's quick thinking saves them, and as they wade home the next day, the children's mother declares that God has saved them because she has been on her knees praying all night. She insists that the exhausted kids get down on their knees and pray. She can break a horse, read the weather, teach school, drive a car, and fly a plane. Her story is amazing, simultaneously inspiring and sad. Lily's voice is very strong when stating: "There weren't no guardian angel, Dad," I said. I started explaining how I'd gotten up to the cottonwood tree in time, figuring out how to switch places when our arms got tired and keeping Buster and Helen awake through the long night by quizzing them. Dad squeezed my shoulder, "Well, darling, maybe the angel was you."

Lily and her husband are employed running a ranch, she cooks nothing but beans and steak. The hands and the family wore shirts backward and inside out before washing them. "Levi's we didn't wash at all. They shrank too much, and it weakened the threads. So we wore them and wore them until they were shiny with mud, manure, tallow, cattle slobber, bacon fat, axle grease, and hoof oil, and then we wore them some more. Eventually, the Levi's reached a point of grime saturation where they couldn't get any dirtier, where they had the feel of oilskin and had become not just waterproof but briar-proof, and that was when you knew you had really broken them in. When Levi's reached that degree of conditioning, they were sort of like smoke-cured ham or aged bourbon, and you couldn't pay a cowboy to let you wash his." The writing is consistent and smooth, so that one hardly thinks about the words and just "lives" through them alongside Lily and her adventures. Not exactly an angel, Lily sells moonshine during prohibition. She works so hard at all she does that a double course load at college feels like a vacation. This book is one that will inspire you of just how things were at one time or another for some that are not as fortunate as others. Where there is a will to survive, you will find strength. You can find a copy of this book in your local library. Until next time happy reading.

The Honorable Leonard T. Garrett, Nicholas County Sheriff
Members of the Nicholas County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the Sheriff of Nicholas County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2008. This financial statement is the responsibility of the Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. As described in Note 1, the Sheriff's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2008, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1. In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated October 16, 2009 on our consideration of the Nicholas County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit. Based on the results of our audit, we have presented the accompanying comments and recommendations, included herein, which discusses the following report comments:

- 2008-01 Expenditures Should Be Paid Within 30 Days Of Receipt

- 2008-08 The Sheriff Should Properly Account For Clothing Reimbursement
- 2008-09 The Sheriff's Office Lacks Adequate Segregation Of Duties Over The Forfeiture Account

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Sheriff and Fiscal Court of Nicholas County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these interested parties.

the tournament in the semifinals by last year's runner-up, Deming.

"It's nice to get back (to the All "A" state tournament)," Code said. "It's something that we shoot for every year. I am really proud of the kids. This is a special group which works hard every day."

Nicholas County (9-6) started off as the stronger team. The Bluejackets scored the game's first three points and led by as many as five at 7-2 after a Charles Washington lay up with 5:02 to play in the opening quarter. Bishop Brossart managed to come back and tie the game when Jacob Rieger made the second of two free throws after being fouled on a lay up attempt following a steal in the open court.

Kyle Campbell broke the tie with a lay up with 41.4 seconds to play in the period and Nicholas County held an 11-9 advantage heading into the second quarter.

Rieger hit a 3-pointer 53 seconds into the second period to give the Mustangs their first lead of the day at 12-11. Bishop Brossart stretched its advantage to four points after Justin Morscher contributed another 3-pointer just over a minute later.

Nicholas County battled back to tie the score at 15-15 and took the lead after J.D. Wagoner connected on a basket off an offensive rebound. The Bluejackets extended their advantage to 19-16 after a Campbell lay up at the 2:38 mark, but the Mustangs tightened up their defense and scored the final four points of the half, including a buzzer-beating 3-pointer by Fardo, which gave Bishop Brossart a 20-19 lead at the break.

Rieger and Campbell each scored eight points to lead their respective teams at halftime. Fardo and Washington also added six points apiece.

Bishop Brossart gained the momentum early in the third period and used it to generate as much as a nine-point lead.

After a Washington free throw 40 seconds into the quarter, the Bluejackets did not score again until 4:29 remained on the third-period clock. During that time, the Mustangs reeled off seven straight points to take a 29-20 advantage. Morscher scored seven of his team's first nine points of the quarter and Bishop Brossart never looked back.

Nicholas County managed to close the gap to four points after a pair of 3-pointers from Dalton Hampton and the Mustangs held a 33-28 advantage heading into the final period.

Bishop Brossart scored the first 12 points of the fourth quarter to take control for good. Nicholas County tallied just five points in the period as the Mustangs gradually built their lead up to 25 where it stood when the final buzzer sounded.

Campbell led Nicholas County, which had its four-game win streak snapped, with 12 points. He also had six rebounds and four assists. Hampton finished with nine points, two rebounds and two assists. Washington added eight points and six rebounds. Campbell and Washington were named to the all-tournament team.

Cody Fryman added two steals and J.D. Wagoner finished with four points and two rebounds.

Rieger's 17 points paced the Mustangs, which increased its win streak to six games. Rieger also finished with six rebounds, four steals and three assists. Morscher tallied 12 points, seven rebounds and five assists. Armstrong notched 10 points, five assists and three steals. Fardo chipped in 10 points and four steals. Travis Norton contributed four points, four rebounds and two steals; while Justin Saunders and Nathan Brugger each added two rebounds to the winning cause.

As a team the Mustangs held advantages in assists (14 to seven), turnovers (eight to 21), steals (13 to five) and rebounds (25 to 24).

Joining Campbell and Washington on the all-tournament team were Armstrong, Fardo and Rieger; as well as Ryan Gallenstein of St. Patrick, Cody Maggard of Paris; Colton Fraysure of Augusta; Tucker Glass of Calvary Christian; Luke King of Deming; Ryan Vogel and Quinton Gindele of Silver Grove, and Dylan Hamilton and Devin Workman of Bracken County.

Each school also had one representative on the All-Academic Team. Hampton was chosen from Nicholas County. The other honorees were Cody Jodrey from St. Patrick, Trent Rankin from Paris, Hunter Kiskaden from Augusta, Chase Vander Meer from Calvary Christian, Dustin Bradford from Bracken County, Jeremy Hammons from Silver Grove, Jonathan Caldwell from Deming and Brugger from Bishop Brossart.

Nicholas County advanced to the championship game with a 75-47 victory over an improving Silver Grove team on Friday night in Paris.

The Big Trains, which entered the contest having won all three of their games this season in their last six outings, took an early 13-9 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Bluejackets stormed back behind a 24-point second period to take a 33-24 halftime lead. Led by Washington, Nicholas County continued to pour on the points as it stretched its advantage to 57-38 by the end of the third quarter, before finishing with the 28-point win.

"Silver Grove did a good job of attacking our zone and took the lead," Cofer said. "Charles got in foul trouble early, but we got a big spark from our bench in the second quarter when we went to a full-court press. Cameron Dale hit two huge 3-pointers and played great defense on the ball. The bench played a huge role in the second quarter and we were able to come back and take the lead."

Washington finished with a game-best 26 points, including scoring 15 in the third quarter.

"Charles had 20 points in the second half and came out like a man possessed," Cofer said. "We went to a full-court press and came after them in the second half. We jumped on them and didn't look back, which was good to see."

Campbell added 22 points and hit seven 3-pointers. Zach Lemons finished with nine points, Dale chipped in eight and Charbe Pope had six. As a team Nicholas County made 11 3-pointers.

Ryan Vogel led Silver Grove (3-11) with 18 points. Jeff Morris contributed 12, Travis Baumann tallied seven and Quinton Gindele added five.

Nicholas County returns to Paris to compete in the Bluegrass Conference Tournament. The Bluejackets opened with Berea on Tuesday and will play again on Thursday. The team travels to face Berea again on Tuesday, Feb. 2, before hosting four straight games, beginning with Harrison County on Friday, Feb. 5.

Nicholas County holds off Calvary Christian

By Brad Laux

For most of Thursday's 10th Region Class "A" boys' basketball game between Nicholas County and Calvary Christian, it appeared as though the Bluejackets were going to easily cruise to victory and dethrone the defending tournament champions.

Nicholas County (8-5) had routinely pounded the ball inside to 6-foot-5 center Charles Washington on virtually every possession and the Cougars simply had no answer for him.

However, the Bluejackets seemed to struggle with prosperity. They turned the ball over 11 times in the third quarter and then seven more times in the fourth period to allow Calvary Christian (3-10) the opportunity to get back in the game.

The Cougars rallied from an 18-point third-quarter deficit to cut the margin all the way down to two with four minutes to play, before Nicholas County was able to regather itself and earn a 62-52 win in Paris.

"We did everything we could to give this one away," Bluejacket coach Michael Cofer admitted. "I hope we got our turnover game out of the way today."

Nicholas County made 13-of-16 free throws on the night, including 11-of-14 in the final period, but committed 25 turnovers.

"They put a lot of pressure on us on the perimeter and forced us to play out there in the second half, and we turned the ball over way too much," Cofer said. "We want to go to Charles every time and they really did a great job defensively (in the second half). They are a well-coached team."

Washington, who had nearly half of the Bluejackets' first-half points (14), finished with 25, along with collecting 12 rebounds, four steals and three blocks. He admitted that the Cougars' defense caused the team trouble in the second half and that his club started to panic.

"We had it (under control) and really got kind of scared," Washington said. "Both their pressure in the backcourt and their defense triple-teaming me (hurt us in the second half).

"We just needed to take the ball down low, because they couldn't stop me in the first half," he added.

Washington scored eight of the Bluejackets' first 10 points as both teams tried to establish control early. However, after a Nicholas County time out with 4:36 to play in the opening quarter, the Bluejackets went on an 8-0 run in which four different players scored.

Calvary Christian responded with a run of its own. After Nicholas County led 16-7 with 2:15 left in the opening period, the Cougars rallied and scored the next seven points to close out the first quarter trailing 16-14.

Nicholas County answered by scoring the first 11 points of second period to take a 27-14 advantage and forcing the Cougars to take a time out with 4:17 remaining until halftime.

Just like in the first quarter, Calvary Christian bounced back. The Cougars finished the period out-scoring the Bluejackets 7-4 as Nicholas County carried a 31-21 advantage into intermission.

Kyle Campbell, who was still recovering from a bout of pneumonia, added to Washington's first-half scoring tally with eight points of his own. Six different Cougars got on the board in the opening two quarters, led by Pierce Kohls with six points.

Nicholas County began the second half by scoring the first five points to extend its lead to 15 points. The Bluejackets kept the pressure on and extended their advantage to 18 at 45-27 after a Cody Fryman lay up with 3:22 to play in the quarter.

Kohls and Tucker Glass each knocked down a 3-pointer in the final two minutes of the period to trim the margin to 12 points at 45-33.

Campbell's lay up 22 seconds into the final period pushed the lead back to 14, but the Bluejackets then hit a cold spell as Calvary Christian went on a 9-0 run over the next two minutes and 24 seconds. Washington broke the drought with a pair of free throws with 5:01 to play, but Glass answered with a 3-pointer and followed up with a lay up at the 4:08 mark to close within two points at 49-47.

The Cougars had a chance to further cut into the deficit after Washington picked up his fourth foul three seconds later, but Darin Bray was unable to connect on a free-throw attempt.

Washington scored off an offensive rebound on the team's next possession to give the Bluejackets a four-point cushion. He then added two more free throws and Campbell followed with a lay up to stretch the Nicholas County lead up to eight points at 55-47 with 2:39 to play.

Calvary Christian drew within three points after a Bray 3-pointer and a pair of Kohls' foul shots with 1:17 to play, but Campbell made six consecutive free throws over the next 51 seconds to squash the Cougar comeback for good.

"Hitting free throws that matter down the stretch was the difference," Cofer said.

The victory gave Nicholas County a season-best three-game win streak, while Calvary Christian fell for the ninth straight outing.

Statistically, the game was fairly even. However, the Cougars committed six more fouls and the Bluejackets held a 36-25 edge in rebounding.

Campbell finished with 21 points. He and Zach Lemons helped contribute to the team's rebounding advantage with eight and seven, respectively. Lemons also had five assists and two steals.

Dalton Hampton finished with eight points, and also chipped in five assists and four rebounds. J.D. Wagoner dished out four assists and added two steals to the winning effort.

Glass scored a team-high 12 points for Calvary Christian. He also contributed four rebounds and two blocks. Kohls had a solid all-around game, finishing with 11 points, five steals, four assists and four rebounds. Chase Vander Meer registered nine points, three assists and two rebounds; while Bray tallied eight points, four rebounds and three assists.

Zak Duty notched four points. Andrew Moran grabbed five rebounds (all on the offensive glass) and dished out three assists. Zak Kees rounded out the team with two rebounds.

Nicholas County entered the tournament with a Jan. 15 road win over Augusta (89-73) and a Jan. 12 home victory over Deming (64-43). The Bluejackets last dropped a game on Jan. 11 at Pendleton County (89-63).

The Crazy Horse Lady

Rain, rain and more rain! Whatever happened to moderation? Weather has been great if you are a duck! No really, we should all be treating this rain as a blessing for good hay, pastures, spring flowers and all that follows!

We did get one Saturday so far in January that was nice enough to ride. Of course, all of our horses needed some very heavy-duty cleaning in order to get the mud off of them and ready for our adventure. Funny thing though, none of us complained about the extra time and work it took one bit! We were just happy for the break in the weather so that we could spend time with each other and our horses. We rode for about four (4) hours! Four (4) glorious, warm, no rain, no snow, hours with our equine partners and friends.

This was an extremely SPECIAL ride for me because I got to spend those four (4) hours not only with my friends, but my new Rocky Mountain horse, Diamonte! She rides like a dream! It's like sitting and relaxing in a rocking chair on the front porch. The big difference between the two was that I got to start a new relationship of trust and respect with a beautiful, smart chocolate filly. It was SUPER! You really need to check these beautiful, quality horses out at www.sylvandellfarms.com, you will not be disappointed!

Our 1st ride and we got the opportunity to experience many different scary things to a horse. We got to cross water, go over a cement bridge where their hooves echo, survive obnoxious-barking dogs, birds spooking, going over down tree limbs, cars, trucks, all-terrain vehicles and being off the farm away from all of her buddies! I almost forgot the scariest thing that we encountered together was a bunch of kids on their bikes with their mom. They were taking advantage of this glorious weather as well. Needless to say, Diamonte wasn't quite sure about this experience, but I stroked her neck, made her stop and just watch them. When I could feel her relax, we approached the kids on their bikes so that they could stroke her and let her know she was really okay and they weren't going to hurt her or me.

I'll also have you all know that I only ended rolling off her just once! That's right, just once! It was completely my fault because we took her in a spot that wasn't as safe as we thought it was due to all the wet weather we've had. Oh well, experience is a great teacher! Luckily for my sake and hers, neither one of us was hurt or really shook up. Of course, my girls all got a good laugh while asking if we were both okay. (It is always funny watching someone else do it!) Don't tell me you have never laughed at someone you were riding with! This is just part of it, fun, silly, laughing (of course, with no one getting hurt). In fact, I told my girlfriend, Paulette, that if I had to come off a horse this was probably the safest and best way.

I guess it probably was pretty funny and I can laugh about it now. I just kind of rolled right off her, while holding my reins, because we were in some sort of sink hole (I don't really know what else to call it really except maybe a TRAP). I was right there at ground level and just rolled right off of her to the ground as graciously as I could manage. I don't know about most of you, but being graceful while you're doing something stupid always makes it seem a little better. Her disposition is so wonderful that she didn't even spook or really try to get away. You need to remember this was our first (1st) ride together after her 30 day training and getting her certified. She handled it very bravely and yes, she did forgive me for getting us in this situation. I thanked her for keeping me safe, being brave and trusting me. What a way to start our new relationship together with trust and respect!

Before saying goodbye and I'll see ya next week, please remember to take the time to clean out and check your horses' feet daily, if at all possible. With all this rain we have been getting, most of our horses are being exposed to a lot of water and mud. This can create problems for some horses like thrush, hooves getting too soft or mushy frogs! For those of you that still have shoes on their horses, you need to make sure they're not getting loose from all the mud. In fact, now would be a great time for you to pull those shoes and let your horse go barefoot. Try it, you might just find out that you like it, the natural way! Just beware that these are times they need some extra care, not that it is not a good habit to clean their hooves daily anyways! I try to prevent problems before they exist! Remember no hooves, no horse!

So long until next week. God Bless You, Your Family and YOUR EQUINE FRIENDS and I pray you all have a safe and blessed week!

Crazy Horse Lady

Thought for the Week: Just by putting a smile on your face can make your day fabulous and you'll be surprised at how many other people you can make feel better as well!

Compiled by Phyllis Brady

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Feeback visited Mrs. Betty Livingood at her home at Sunday and also visited Lois Allison at Johnson Mathers.

Congratulations to Mrs. Mary Emma Patton on becoming 99 years old on Saturday. She is the mother of Lois Pridemore and others.

A correction from last weeks news items. It stated that Justin Doyle lost his dog when he was 4 years old. He lost his leg in a farm accident. Through the years he has had several prosthesis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady, Jeff Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle, Clarence Earlywine, Mr. and Mrs. John Cleaver, Jeff Dale, Jason Cleaver were among a very large crowd attending the visitation, funeral and burial at Jacksonville of Raymond McKinney 69, at Ware Funeral Home on Thursday night and Friday. Raymond and Bertha had helped Bobby and Phyllis on the farm a lot through the years besides his own work and also John and Phyllis Cleaver. Raymond was from a family of 12 and Bertha from a family of 16. Her brother, William Gaunce preached the funeral. We all had a big meal afterwards at Oakwood Baptist Church.

On Sunday the new pastor of the Carlisle Methodist Church, Rev. Wallace had the service at Johnson Mathers

Nursing Home. Ramona George played the piano and Br. Julia Hammonds helped with the singing. Bobby Brady had a good lunch with his sister Maxine and Fred Whitson, Cynthia one day the past week.

Get well wishes go to Helen Fryman who has been quite ill all week.

Sympathy is extended to the family's of several who passed away the past week, Emogene Clinkenbeard, Elsie Crawford, Raymond McKinney and Gary Brannock. Gary of Walnut Grove Road passed away Friday in Lexington. He is son of Lois Pridemore.

It is with Thanks and Appreciation to Jackie Kenney and Scott Kenney who are working on repairing some bad places on our walls of Headquarters Church. Last fall Denny Watkins put in insulation. There has been several improvements made in the last few years and yet more to be done to God's house. Rueben "Toby" Rountt and others has also done many things.

Number of candidates increases

By Charles Mattox
News Reporter
charles@thecarlislemercury.com

A surprisingly low number of potential candidates that filed seeking office early in Nicholas County showed signs of increase in competition as the opportunities to file drew to a close Tuesday afternoon as the Carlisle Mercury prepared to go to press.

Two men have filed seeking to be elected as judge-executive. Incumbent Larry Tinchler was the first person to file for the election and later the same day Kenneth Lyons also filed for the judge-executive position.

Incumbent Dawn Curran Letcher, County Attorney will face former County Attorney Donald Brumagen.

Michelle Knapke McDonald, the current county property valuation administrator is unopposed.

Doug Fryman is thus far unopposed for the position of County Clerk.

Kevin Hatchett filed on Nov. 5 and Emily Gaunce filed on Dec. 9 for the position of county coroner. They will face competition from Jason Curtis.

Nicholas County Sheriff Dick Garrett is facing opposition in the form of Kevin Ray Booth, Danny "Watt" Watkins and Bobby Price.

Incumbent Magistrate Mike Webb of District one will face competition from Johnathan C. Chase and Republican William H. Antonini.

Cecil ShROUT, John Jay Morford, Larry Jolly, Clarence Workman and Republican candidate Jimmy Wells have filed for candidacy for Magistrate of District 2.

Incumbent Magistrate Avery Thornsburg of District 3 (Moorefield, East Union) filed on Nov. 11, eight days after Darvin Mitchell filed for the same seat.

Incumbent Magistrate Jeff Randolph has filed for District 4 (Mayor's Office) and is facing opposition from Mitch Harmon and Debby Ecton.

Incumbent Steve Hamilton has filed for Magistrate of District 5 (Mathias). Hamilton is currently facing opposition from Steve Sexton and Michael Satch Smith.

Marsha Foster, Republican, has filed for constable of precinct 1, Michael Stracner, Republican has filed for constable of precinct 3 as has Democratic candidate Nelson Sewell. Philip Burden has filed for constable of precinct 4. Richard Hughes has filed for constable of precinct 5.

Commonwealth Attorney Douglas Miller has filed his candidacy for his current position.

No other candidates have filed thus far, as the Mercury prepares to go to press this week.

Candidates have until Jan. 26, 2010 to file.

Voters had until Dec. 31 to change party affiliation, but it is too late to change affiliation now.

According to information provided by the County Clerk's Office there are approximately 660 Republicans registered in Nicholas County and 4,514 registered democrats.

No candidates have filed as Republicans, according to county clerk officials.

This information was compiled at approximately 3 p.m., Tuesday as the Mercury prepared to go to press.

We apologize for omitting any candidate who waited until the last minute to file and will include their names in future election articles.

by the event that she has put her home up for sale and plans to move back to Millersburg, where according to Chapman, "They act immediately when big dogs are allowed to run loose."

"The dogs are a problem," said Sheriff Dick Garrett, who estimates at least 20 percent of his calls are about dogs chasing cattle, killing chickens, attacking sheep, or going onto other people's property and acting vicious. "If you know who the dogs belong to," Garrett continued, "the owner can be held liable for the damage. If a neighbor's dog comes onto your property and you call me, I'll talk to the neighbor and explain that if they like their dog, they need to keep it chained or penned up, because if it comes back on your property after I've talked to the owner, you have every right to do what you need to in order to protect yourself or your property."

County Judge/Executive Larry Tincher added, "When the owners are known, we notify the Sheriff and then it goes to the county attorney and it becomes a civil matter between neighbors. That's the way it should be. The county can't be responsible for everybody's dog, cat, goat, or whatever, causes damage."

It isn't always easy, however, to know who the dog belongs to.

According to Tincher, only a small fraction of the dogs in the county have been licensed according to the existing laws. In cases where the owner is not known, the county has a dog warden and NCAWS has appointed an Animal Control Officer, either of whom will pick up stray dogs - normally under the condition, however, that the person making the call has managed to catch the dog first.

The city already has an ordinance prohibiting animals being allowed to run "at large," but enforcement remains a problem. The city ordinance specifies that the county dog warden is responsible for enforcement. The county claims, on the other hand, that city ordinances should be enforced by the city police force and should not be the responsibility of the county.

Mayor Ronnie Clark stated that the agreement with the county about the enforcement of the city animal control ordinance dates back to nearly 15 years ago, when the city brought the basic 9-1-1 system online. Although the city and the county split the cost of the phone line evenly, the city provides funding for the dispatch. Nearly 80 percent of the calls coming in through dispatch are for the county, according to Clark. "In return for the city running dispatch," said Clark, "county agreed to let the dog warden - a county position mandated by state law - to respond to dispatch calls and to enforce the city's animal control ordinance." This agreement, however, was apparently never formalized in writing.

Enforcement is precisely the reason Kathy Chase and other NCAWS members initially approached the fiscal court. "There are many dog owners who become responsible as soon as they are made aware of the problem. It's the persistent problems that we are concerned about," says Chase, "The animal control officer receives a number of these calls and feels frustrated because there's really nothing that she can point to when she goes out and talks to these people to say, 'There really is a law that says you need to be in control of your animal; that you can't let your animal run loose.'"

Chase added, "After the fiscal court meeting, several members came to us privately and said they would be willing to listen to different options if we wanted to come back and talk to them again. Since that meeting, we have... found that there are actually some state laws already in place, passed by the Kentucky legislature five years ago, that may address many of the things that we're concerned about."

NCAWS members are going through those laws now and will be taking that information back to the fiscal court in the near future in hopes of coming to some sort of resolution.
