Garrett pleads guilty

Nicholas County Sheriff Leonard "Dick" Garrett entered guilty pleas to criminal charges midway through his criminal trial and resigned from office Tuesday, at the Nicholas County Court-house.

He admitted to charges of theft by unlawful taking, more than $300; and an amended charge of abuse of public trust.

The plea recommends a sentence of five years imprisonment on each charge with sentences to run consecutively for a total of 10 years.

In return for the guilty pleas, the Commonwealth agreed to recommend that Garrett's prison sentence be diverted for five years if he commits no further crimes.

If Garrett does not violate the conditions of diversion, he will have no felony record.

If he does violate the conditions he may be sent to prison for his entire sentence of 10 years.

Special Circuit Judge the Honorable William Mains accepted Garrett's plea and set a final sentencing date for Nov. 3, at 10 a.m.

As an additional part of the plea agreement, Garrett agreed to never run for public office again and will pay up to $38,237 in restitution, although the plea agreement stipulates that $6,311 of that amount will be shared "with any conviction against Bennie Buckler; in the event the defendant can provide the proper documentation of any monies included in the restitution amount were used for appropriate purposes pursuant to the federal asset forfeiture guidelines," according to the 'Commonwealth's Offer On A Plea Of Guilty' document.

"I am pleased with the resolution. The sheriff admitted his guilt and he will pay back the monies to the asset forfeiture account at the sheriff's office and most importantly he will be prohibited from running for a public office in the future," specially-appointed prosecutor, Commonwealth's Attorney Kathryn Hendrickson said following the guilty plea. That plea came as a shock to many.

Carlisle leaders open bids on local property

Carlisle City Council offered conditionally to sell the Jockey Building if terms can be met.

A Monday's meeting council members discussed the bids on various jobs and properties belonging to the city.

Up first, the anticipated sale of the Jockey Building. Larry Noe, president of Save-a-Lot franchisee Saver Group made a bid of $210,000. The group would allocate 20,000 square feet to build a Save-a-Lot Grocery Store.

Noe said his goal is to change the zoning of the property from light industrial to general commercial.

City attorney Skip Watson gave his professional opinion that the zoning may be tricky at the moment.

Carlisle Mayor Kevin Booth then brought to the table the option to give the group 45 days to get necessary permits and zoning changes.

"I would like to take the first building, closest to town and convert it into one of our retail stores and leave the rear building as light industrial, for possible warehouse space", said Noe.

This posed more zoning inquiries to Watson. The council voted unanimously to allow the 45 day window, and to also have Watson look over zoning regulations. Mayor Booth stated that he believes this project will be good for the city, and county alike, creating jobs and choices.

Among other bids considered was the disassembling of two water towers in the county. One Bid was placed, by Sparks and Sparks construction. The company was asking for $25,000 to disassemble and take away the metal and concrete. While the metal sale would be lucrative, the idea of charging the city to remove the dilapidated towers was too much. The council unanimously voted to decline the bid.

In other business at Monday's council meeting:

*The council heard a complaint from Melanie Swartz of Baker's Acres concerning the ownership of property in front of her house. The said property has a road going through it, with land on both sides. Swartz states that the city owns a 40 foot right of way, with only 20 feet being road. The issue being a neighbor is harassing her and her family, by claiming to own the land directly in front of her property and that on the other side of the road. The council voted to investigate the issue by looking at the deeds and plats, and discuss later.

* GRW officials from the engineering company used by the city for its waterline project gave an update on the East Union Road line. The representative brought to light that the new line would need possible easements due to moving the line. The new line is a six inch line, opposed to the previously placed two inch. The firm also presented its qualifications to the Council, to be approved considered Engineer on water projects. The board unanimously approved of GRW.

Crooked Creek man injured in mowing accident

A Crooked Creek Road man is healing from injuries sustained when a vehicle struck the riding lawnmower he was operating Friday evening near his home.

Gary Hawk, 39, who lives on Crooked Creek

Road near the Harrison County/Nicholas County boundary, was operating a Huskie riding lawn mower near his home on Friday evening when he inadvertently pulled in front of a 2005 Pontiac Vibe, operated by Ronald Newby, 56, also of Crooked Creek Road at approximately 7:15 August 5.

Newby checked on Hawk's condition and the two men spoke and exchanged information, according to Nicholas County Sheriff Dick Garrett.

After indicating that he was not seriously injured, Hawk and Newby spoke momentarily and then Newby drove away. Shortly afterward, Hawk began experiencing pain and called for an ambulance.

Members of the Nicholas County EMS responded to the scene along with members of the Nicholas County Fire Department.

An emergency helipad was considered for a possible air evacuation but Hawk was transferred to Harrison Memorial Hospital where he was treated for non-life threatening injuries and released.

New school year to begin this week

By Philip Smith

As the dawn of the new school year approaches, and students get ready to return, educators are feverishly preparing for the first day. Here in Nicholas County, the sound of pencils on desks has been replaced with the sound of power tools and paint rollers. Currently at Nicholas County Elementary, renovation is underway to install a new heating and air system.

Elementary School Principal Shawn Parrish was excited about the new additions to the infrastructure. "The new HVAC system will give us the ability to regulate the temperature in each classroom." The school was last renovated in 1991; the new work being done is a sign of the growth in our school system.

Down the way at the high school, they are gearing up for an exciting year. This year, the school is hosting a major marching band competition. On Oct. 8 of this year, the High School Marching band will play host to the Bluejacket Classic band competition. High School Principal Marty Feltner said he was anticipating a great year for both academics and athletics. "My only goal for the year is that all students have success in their schoolwork and extracurricular activities, and that they stay healthy," said Feltner.

As we get ready to pack lunches and put our kids on buses, remember that if there is any question on days that school is out, you can always check out our

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

REUNION

"So
So you think you can tell
Heaven from Hell
Blue skies from pain
Can you tell a green field
From a cold steel rail
A smile from a veil
Do you think you can tell?

Did they get you to trade?
Your heroes for ghosts
Hot ashes for trees
Hot air for a cool breeze
Cold comfort for change
Did you exchange?
A walk on part in the war
For a lead role in a cage

How I wish, how I wish you were here
We're just two lost souls
Swimming in a fish bowl
Year after year
Running over the same old ground
What have we found?
The same old fears
Wish you were here"

The song Wish You Were Here, written in 1975 by David Gilmore and Roger Waters of the group Pink Floyd, a band that was among the favorites for the class of 81.

I sure was glad to see some of my classmates who graduated from Fleming County High School in 1981.

We had a lively get together over the weekend.

I went to our five-year reunion in 1986 but hadn't made it to another one since.

It did my heart good to see my old friends again.

Every moment of every day is a blessing not to be taken lightly or for granted, dear reader.

My classmates and I are experts on that.

As we creep closer to old age (I hate to think about it, but ... well, 48 years old is getting old) we are all realizing that our time on this good world is growing shorter.

Many of us have said too many goodbyes to our family members.

We have lost 14 of our former classmates.

It seems as if we lost way too many of them before we had even graduated.

I do still weep on occasion, when I think of my family members and my old friends who are no longer with us. But more frequently I simply nod and realize how lucky I was to have known them for the period that I did.

I try to live a little better and wonder about what my departed classmates think of the lucky survivors when they look down upon us from eternity.

They saw us laughing a plenty over the weekend and remembering them fondly.

I had a few good laughs at Uncle Sam's expense with one of my old friends.

"Thanks for your service to our country over there in the big sand box, Buddy" I said to my old friend and classmate, Daniel Peck; a veteran of the Iraq War.

"Damn IEDs" he said at one point as we sipped on a tall cold one.

I hadn't drank a cold beer with Peck (I don't think I ever called him Daniel in my entire life), since right after graduation.

We used to obliterate road signs with our empty bottles back in the day, when we were young and ignorant.

Times were different then but I suppose young adults haven't really changed in generations across history, the only thing that has changed has been technology.

I don't think a single one of us owned a calculator in high school.

Video games were almost unheard of and 'pac man' was something we saw only on our senior trip and we were amazed. We were used to 'pong' and felt undeservedly rich that we actually had a pong game in study hall.

Most of us were packing cell phones over the weekend.

The world has changed around us and we have changed with it.

We were joined Saturday night by retired Fleming teacher/coach Ted Purcell and his wife.

And I don't know how they do it, but they appeared to be the youngest couple at our reunion.

Mr. Purcell-or Coach Purcell as I still call him, was my psychology teacher, a gym teacher and a baseball coach, to me as a student in middle school and high school.

I liked him a lot as a teacher and coach and still enjoy his conversation.

He continues to be a wealth of knowledge.

Coach Purcell was not a man who minced words in the classroom or on the sporting field.

Most of my male classmates fondly remember him as an outstanding football coach-and he was, but his knowledge of baseball was remarkable, as well.

I always got the sense that he was not only giving his best for his students, but also that he genuinely cared about our good welfare.

He came from the old school of discipline along with a great many of my educators, from 'back in the day'.

He wasn't a slouch when it came to discipline.

He wasn't necessarily a "control" type, but when you were in his classroom or the gym or a particular sporting field, there was no doubt in anyone's mind about who was in charge.

Coach Purcell was in charge.

He made a believer out of me, in much the same fashion as did my grade school principal Claude Asbury, Greetings from Kentucky! I hope everyone is having a great week.

This has been a great week, that is quickly coming to an end and I will all to soon be on a plane back to Nevada.

We spent this week going out and doing a few things. We went to the Flatwoods pool. The kids loved it, including Isaiah. He was perfectly content being in the water. I was actually a little surprised that he didn't even really fuss. He got a little tired, and ended up falling asleep but he was content, so we were happy. Analise even tried swimming without her floaties. She did a pretty good job, but after trying for a while, her arms got tired and she was ready to put the floaties back on.

We took the kids to see Captain America and they loved it. I was afraid it might be a little too violent for them, but truthfully, it wasn't that bad and they really enjoyed it. They didn't care too much for the bad guy but they loved that he lost in the end.

On Wednesday we went to Northern Kentucky to visit my Grandma again. We hadn't had enough time to visit during the reunion, so we wanted to have some more time with her. She was able to love on Isaiah and we were able to get one of her amazing meals. The food was so delicious, she even made me a cherry cheese-cake for dessert because she knows how much I love it.

After leaving Grandma's house we went to the Newport Aquarium. We unfortunately got there too close to closing and so we had to hurry a little bit but it was still a lot of fun. Ben and the kids absolutely loved it. The excitement in Antonio's voice over things just made me smile from ear to ear. I love watching my family do things they enjoy. The looks of excitement on their faces makes me so happy. It makes just about anything and everything worth it.

After the aquarium, we went to stay the night in Flemingsburg with Carol. Antonio was in hog heaven with all the boy toys that Evan has. Sadie doesn't have very many boy toys that keep his interest. He has resorted to playing a lot of computer games instead. But at Evan's house, where there is only a little boy, he was so excited. He didn't want to go to bed because he wasn't going to have enough time to play with all the toys.

He even woke up early so he could play before we got on with our day. We went to a store that morning called Downtown Girls. What a store. If you are girly at all, you should check out this store. Analise was in hog heaven wanting one of everything, of course, her mother wanted one of everything too. We left there two very happy girls. Although, Ben wasn't as happy with the final price, but oh well.

After that we headed to Lexington to go to Monkey Joes. Monkey Joes is a giant indoor play area for kids that is filled with bounce houses for kids of all ages. They have a section that is for children under 3, that insures no child over 3 is in there. Which makes it safer for the little kids to be able to play.

The only bad thing about Monkey Joes? Adults can't play too! Ben and I had a great time watching the kids play along with Sadie and Evan. The other great thing about that place was the nursing room. They had a small, closet type room that was painted beautifully and had a changing table and a leather rocking recliner. It was so comfortable and I was able to feed Isaiah without a struggle. It was just a great place. I would definitely take my kids there again and I would love to have a place like that in Pahrump.

Today we are hoping to catch one more movie before we head out. I just love the price of movies here and the closeness of the theater to the house. Maybe for today it will be The Smurfs? We head home tomorrow and while I will miss my family, I can't deny that I am ready to be back in my own bed with my own pillows. It is amazing the little things you miss when you are away.

Until next week, make it a great one!
Amy

Bond's Broadcast

For most, this week will represent the first day of school.

It may be the very first day for some, or the first day of say, the senior year.

Mainly we talk about back-to-school in reference to elementary through high school and no so much college classes.

I don't know if you can remember the first day of school for yourself but I remember the first grade of school for me.

While I went to Nursery School, which is now referred to as daycare, I did not officially go to kindergarten. I just showed up the first day of school and the adventure began.

I went the first day of school to Williamson (W.Va.) Main. It was a giant (at least it was then) red building and the best I remember three stories with a basement. The basement was where the cafeteria was but I didn't eat at school since I lived only a block from school, I went home for lunch.

I remember two things about the first day of school. The first day we got several books, they were small paperbound books and we put them in our desks so each person would have them.

The other thing I remember most about the first day of school is that the pencil sharpener made pencils really, really sharp. The reason that I can so easily recall the quality of the pencil sharpener is that on my left arm just above my wrist on the underside of my arm is a broken point of lead which to this day is visible.

I had sharpened my pencils for at least the seventh or eighth time that first day and so I would be able to attest to the pencil sharpener's effectiveness when a boy in the first row stood up as I walked by causing me to puncture my arm.

By Hank Bond

When I got up I realized the pencil was sticking out of my arm giving me a pretty good understanding of just how sharp the grinder could make a pencil.

The first grade to me amounts to only a few specific memories.

The reading circle is my most prominent memories as we were divided into groups for reading time. My best guess is reading time was about 20 minutes a day per group - but to me it absolutely flew by.

I enjoyed the challenge of reading so much that I asked the teacher to allow me to take the book home each evening so I could read to my mom.

I was through all the books in the first grade before Christmas and we were getting children's books from the library so I could continue to read.

We had a community container for crayons and that served this bunch of rowdy 6-year-olds well.

The rest of the first grade was generally simple. We had recess twice a day and a 50 minute lunch hour.

While my handwriting was never very good I had no problem learning letters.

I still can't write very well but I do my best. One thing is for sure, I never really had to worry about anyone copying off me since I simply am the only one to read my handwriting.

When I have interviewed people in the past I have had them look down and ask, how in the world can you read that?

I managed to get by but it sometimes needed to be written pretty quickly. If I take notes really fast sometimes it's hard to figure them out.

My favorite subject in school was never reading or writing but always math. I wasn't a fanatic about advanced math but manipu-

Bread of Life

The Bread of Healing

If a son asks for bread from any father among you, will he give him a stone? - Luke 11:11

Scripture reading: Mark 7:24-30; Luke 11:5-13

The following question arises: Are salvation and healing for all? They are for all who will press right in and claim their portion. Do you remember the case of that Syro-Phoenician woman who wanted the demon cast out of her daughter? Jesus said to her, "Let the children be filled first, for it is not good to take the children's bread and throw it to the little dogs" (Mark 7:27). Note that healing and deliverance are here spoken of by the Master as "the children's bread"; therefore, if you are a child of God, you can surely press in for your portion.

The Syro-Phoenician woman purposed to get from the Lord what she was after, and she said, "Yes, Lord, yet even the little dogs under the table eat from the children's crumbs" (v.28). Jesus was stirred as He saw the faith of this woman, and He told her, "For this saying go your way; the demon has gone out of your daughter" (v.29).

Today many children of God are refusing their blood-purchased portion of health in Christ and throwing it away. Meanwhile, sinners are pressing through and picking it up from under the table and are finding the cure, not only for their bodies, but also for their spirits and souls. The Syro-Phoenician woman went home and found that the demon had indeed gone out of her daughter. Today there is bread - there is life and health - for every child of God through His powerful Word.

The Word can drive every disease away from your body. Healing is your portion in Christ, who Himself is our bread, our life, our health, our all in all. Though you may be deep in sin, you can come to Him in repentance, and He will forgive and cleanse and heal you. His words are spirit and life to those who will receive them (John 6:63). There is a promise in the last verse of Joel that say, "I will cleanse their blood that I have not cleansed" (Joel 3:21 KJV). This essentially says that He will provide new life within. The life of Jesus Christ, God's Son, can so purify people's hearts and minds that they become entirely transformed-spirit, soul, and body.

The sick people were around the pool of Bethesda, and one particular man had been there a long time. His infirmity was of thirty-eight years' standing. Now and again an opportunity to be healed would come as the angel stirred the waters, but he would be sick at heart as he saw another step in and be healed before him. Then one day Jesus was passing that way, and seeing him lying where in that sad condition, He asked, "Do you want to be made well?" (John 5:6). Jesus said it, and His words are "from everlasting to everlasting" (Ps. 90:2). These are His words today to you, tried and tested one. You may say, like this poor sick man, "I have missed every opportunity until now." Never mind that. "Do you want to be made well?"

Thought for today: One touch of living faith in Him is all that is required for wholeness to be your portion.

MERCURY TRIANGLE HEADQUARTERS~SALTSWELL~BARTERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Davis and Shelby, Jonathon and Baeleigh Doyle, Megan Doyle and Christian Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Doyle, Eli and Ella very much enjoyed the Annual Doyle Reunion on Sunday held at the Legion Hall at Paris.

There were over 110 in attendance. Jeff Doyle asked the blessing. After the dinner a short business meeting was held. Don Adams gave more genealogy and had brought older pictures. Phyllis Brady had their picture albums there of all the reunions.

Tri-Presidents are Wanda Doyle, Shelby Doyle and Jennie Doyle, Secretary is Leah Boardman, and Treasurer is Ona Doyle. Patty Doyle is making our "Doyle Memorabilia Book" again but it is not finished. Each year it is priceless with so many events and happenings through the year.

Everything that's done at and for our reunion is truly a labor of love. At the Germantown horseshow on Friday night and the Jerry Doyle Stables won first place 3 times and a second place also.

The Carroll Doyle Stables won first place 2 times and a second also. This writer would have been there if not during revival.

The Methodist Men of the area and their families had their annual picnic on Friday night held at Little Switzerland Park in Harrison County.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Feedback and daughter Nannette and Wes Leonard went to Bardstown last weekend to see the Outdoor Drama, "The Stephen Foster Story".

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitson were among those who enjoyed a Birthday Cookout for David Whitson on Saturday night held at the home of Carl and Rhonda Whitson, Mt. Carmel Road.

He is their 17 year old son and the nephew and godchild of Phyllis and Bobby.

A nice meal was served and then cake and homemade ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Small enjoyed all 3 nights of the Gabbard's Annual Gospel Homecoming held in the big amphitheatre in Falmouth on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

It is always so good with well known gospel groups.

The main singers were "Gold City", "Karen Peck and New River" and "The Bowlings", It was reported one of the biggest crowds.

Area Bass Tournament provides scholarships for MCTC students

Maysville Community and Technical College (MCTC) has awarded memorial scholarships to 15 area students. The scholarships were funded by the Second Annual Friends of Cave Run Lake Memorial Bass Fishing Tournament, which was held on April 30th. The recipients were chosen from Bath, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan counties and are enrolled as students at MCTC.

Some of the scholarship recipients include: Chantel Hodge and Levis Plummer of Owingsville, Regina Setters of Wellington, Clayton Howard and Sommer Smith of Frenchburg, Courtney Taul and Betty Odem of Mt. Sterling, Tara Vance of Grassy Creek, Bobbie Jo Wright of West Liberty, and Jacob Brown of Clearfield.

"This is our second year to host the bass tournament and our first year to work with the Rowan campus of MCTC," said Friends of Cave Run committee member Billy Hough. "This is a great partnership we have with MCTC and MSU and we are proud to provide scholarships for their students."

All of the entrance fees and sponsor donations from the tournament are set aside to fund the student scholarships.

"Although the high water at the lake did affect the turnout we still had about 60 fishing boats in the tournament," said Workforce Solutions Business and Industry Liaison Mark Lambert. Lambert served as coordinator of the tournament for MCTC's Rowan Campus. About fifteen faculty and staff members from MCTC also volunteered their time.

Tournament coordinators took the opportunity to recognize community members from the Cave Run Lake area who have passed away. Memorial plaques were presented to the family members of these individuals.

For more information about the tournament or to become a sponsor, contact Mark Lambert at 606-783-1538 extension 66335 or by emailing mark.lambert@kctcs.edu.

THOUGHTS FROM THE PASTOR'S STUDY

Don Toy Mt. Zion Christian Church

Be Fruitful as You Grow Older!

Have you noticed that no matter how old some people get, they never lose their attractiveness? It just moves from their faces to their heart. Today you get the impression that a person's usefulness ends at sixty-five or seventy. What nonsense! What a waste of potential! Picasso produced some of his greatest works at ninety. Rubinstein gave one of his greatest recitals at eighty-nine. Marjorie Stoneham Douglas, who's credited with saving the Florida Everglades, was still fighting for the cause at one hundred.

Read your Bible: "Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died; his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated" (Duet. 34:7). "The Lord blessed the end of Job's life, more than the beginning" (Job 42:12).

Noah built the Ark when he was five hundred, went into it for a while, then came out and stared the world all over again. "It ain't over till God say's it's over," and if He "ain't said so," live every moment He gives you to the fullest!

"The older the violin, the sweeter the tune," so pick up your bow and make some music. When someone told the eighty-nine-year-old poet Dorothy Duncan that she had lived a "full life" she replied sharply, "don't you dare 'past tense me! If you're not too old to learn and you haven't outlived your enthusiasm, you can 'still bear fruit in old age.'" It is up to you. If you can breathe - pray! If you can speak - encourage others! If you can - recall - share your wisdom. Remember creation! It's wonderful what God can do in just one day. So give Him all the days you have left.

Look for opportunities to help others when they are faced with a crisis situation. You could provide transportation, fix a meal for them, help them with a financial need or just be there to listen to show that you care.

Invite folks to dinner or ask them to join you in an evening of relaxation and social activity. There could be an opportunity to share your home with another member of the Body of Christ in your local Church. The need might be social, emotional or spiritual. Many people are lonely and in need of fellowship, and may be too bashful to reach out to others. They are waiting for an invitation to share their lives with someone else.

Jesus said that we are the light of the world, (Matthew 5:14). Light is good! It is needed when it is dark. There is much darkness in our world today. If you have HIS light, let it shine!

Children have a song that they sing that we ought to sing as we grow older. The words are, "This little light of mine, I'm gonna' let it shine. This little light of mine, I'm gonna' let it shine, let it shine, let it shine, let it shine." The song teaches the children to let it shine all over the neighborhood and not to let Satan blow it out. Now that is a song we need to learn and sing as we grow older!!!

Blue Licks Battle anniversary celebration nears

By Charles Mattox
KYNewsGroup
charles@kynewsgroup.com

The 229th anniversary of the Battle of Blue Licks, the last Revolutionary War battle in Kentucky, will be commemorated Aug. 20-21 at Blue Licks Battlefield State Resort Park, just off of US 68 near the Robertson-Nicholas and Fleming County line.

The park will host a variety of special programs throughout the entire weekend, including special exhibits at the Pioneer Museum. Among those exhibits will be original powder horns and shooting bags.

Beginning at 8 a.m. on Aug. 20, visitors can enjoy a variety of programs designed for the whole family. Live music, hands-on pottery making, living history performances including Albert Robert, the gentleman physician, and Maggie Delaney, the indentured servant, are just a few of the special programs scheduled for the weekend.

A re-enactment of the Battle of Blue Licks will be held at 3 p.m. each day. Programs will continue on Sunday from 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Admission to the event is $5 for ages 13 and above; ages 12 and under are FREE with a special entry fee of $15 per carload. The special $15 carload fee will grant access to all individuals in the vehicle. Admission includes parking and access to all pay facilities such as the public pool, mini golf, Pioneer Museum and all of the special programs.

Food and craft vendors will also be set up on the park, so load up your van and bring the entire family out for a full day of special programs and activities. For more information, call 859-289-5507, or toll free at 800-443-7008.

Blue Licks Battlefield State Resort Park has a lodge, cottages, campground, Hidden Waters Restaurant, Pioneer Museum and Store, gift shop, miniature golf, picnic areas and hiking trails. The resort is located 45 miles northeast of Lexington off historic Highway 68.

One of the highlights of the battle anniversary celebration each year is the battle re-enactment. Re-enactors from across the state and nation converge on the park and establish time-period encampments that feature the lifestyles of Native American, Pioneer and British-supported Canadian Rangers.

The Battle of Blue Licks was fought on August 19, 1782 on land which is now encompassed by the Blue Licks Battlefield State Resort Park.

The battle was the culmination of hostilities that raged throughout the month of August between Native Americans warriors who were supported by British officers and about three dozen Canadian Rangers, who led attacks on Hoy's Station on August 10 and Bryant's Station on Aug. 15.

Two young boys were kidnapped from Hoy's Station in the present county of Madison on August 10, by a small splinter cell of Native American raiders. The entire British supported army that attacked the Kentucky settlements were led by three British officers: Captains William Caldwell, Alexander McKee and Matthew Elliot, several Native American war chiefs and "turncoat" renegade Simon Girty.

150 "Wyandottes" made up the largest group of Native Americans. They were joined by warriors from the Shawnee Tribe, Chippewa Tribe, Ottawa Tribe, Delaware Tribe and even a few warriors from the Cherokee Tribe and Mingo Tribe.

The group of 70 warriors that attacked Hoy's Station was led by a Mingo chief named Black Wolf, according to some historians. The attack caused militia soldiers from Capt. John Strode's Station and David McGee's Station to join soldiers from Hoy's Station, under the command of Captains John Holder, John Constant and John Fleming. The group, said to number 17 men by most historical accounts, followed the raiders through portions of Bath and Nicholas County to the Licking River at the Upper Blue Licks. There they crossed the Licking River into what is now southern Fleming County. The frontiersmen split their group into two commands and pursued the raiders who sprang a deadly ambush along Sapp's Branch near the community of present-day Battle Run.

In the running battle that followed, William Clemmons, John Wilson, John Douglas and William Buchanan were killed. John Fleming was severely wounded but was saved by a daring charge from Michael Cassidy, a Revolutionary War veteran who had just arrived at Strode's Station following the surrender of British General Cornwallis at Yorktown, on Oct. 19, 1781. The surrender was ended hostilities among British regular officers and American forces in the east, although the war along the Ohio River Valley, and particularly throughout Kentucky, only intensified.

Following the ambush at Upper Licks, a large Native American and Canadian Ranger force of approximately 300 attacked Bryant's station. After two days of fighting, and as other militia soldiers were racing toward Bryant's station from across the Commonwealth, the enemy force retreated.

A group of approximately 182 Kentucky militia soldiers under the command of Colonel John Todd and Colonel Stephen Trigg and Lt. Colonel Daniel Boone followed.

The enemy force they followed soon joined with a similarly sized group of additional enemy forces and together the two forces planned an ambush just north of the Licking River at the Lower Blue Licks Springs.

As the Kentucky force neared the southern shore of the Licking River, Lt. Colonel Daniel Boone called for a war council and advised he thought a trap was awaiting them. He and Major Hugh McGary, who led a large group of militia soldiers from Harrodsburg, got into a heated argument. McGary finally encouraged his men to follow him across the river and soon all the soldiers were on the north side.

The group reorganized, though some historians fail to mention this, and it was a very deliberate formation of three groups of Kentucky soldiers who moved northward from the river up the hill toward the enemy.

Boone led the left wing. McGary led the vanguard in the front center with Todd leading a large formation behind McGary's men. Trigg led the right wing.

All of the men were on horses, but most dismounted as they approached the summit of the hill.

McGary and his 25-hand-picked soldiers fired first into the enemy.

The return fire from the enemy forces knocked all but three of his men from their horses and as fighting erupted across the battle line, many of the Native American warriors fired a single shot, dropped their rifles, pulled their war clubs and tomahawks from their war belts and charged straight into the Kentucky lines. The Kentuckians were overwhelmed in a matter of minutes and a disorganized retreat began back toward the river.

14 Kentucky officers, including Todd and Trigg were killed.

Two others were captured. 48 privates were killed and six others captured.

Among the privates killed was Israel Boone, Daniel Boone's son, who died in his arms near the Licking River.

By virtue of Default Judgment, Summary Judgment and Order of Sale of the Nicholas Circuit Court entered in the above styled action on July 14, 2011, and to make enough money to satisfy said Judgment owed Plaintiff in the principal amount of $22,519.36, plus accrued interest as of June 9, 2011, of $1,846.82, which continues to accrue at the rate of $4.69 per diem, plus $405.67 for 2009 ad valorem taxes with 12% per annum interest thereon, plus late fees of $118.20 as of June 9, 2011, plus fees and escrow advances and any advances pursuant to KRS 426.525, for expenses including recovery and sales cost and reasonable attorneys fees, plus any other unpaid ad valorem real property taxes, and its costs herein expended, including costs of sale, all as provided in said judgment; the undersigned Master Commissioner will on August 13, 2011, at or about the hour of 10:00 a.m. at the Nicholas County Courthouse in Carlisle, Kentucky, offer for sale to the highest bidder(s) the following described property located at 283 Suggs Road, Carlisle, Nicholas County, Kentucky 40311, and all improvements, fixtures and appurtenances now or hereafter situated thereon, and all rents and profits therefrom, and more particularly described as follows:

"A certain tract or parcel of land lying in the Ellisville section of Nicholas County, Kentucky, and more particularly described as follows:

"BEGINNING in the center of the Sugg Pike and corner to Bowles; thence with Bowles' line in a Southwesterly direction 218 feet to a post, corner to Balls' other land; thence with Balls' line in a Northwesterly direction 367 feet to a post, corner to Balls' other land; thence with Balls' line in a Northeasterly direction 202 feet to a point in the center of the Sugg Pike; thence with the center of the Sugg pike 330 feet to the point of beginning, containing 1.5 acres, more or less, but being sold by boundary and not by the acreage. Subject to legal highways.

"There is EXCEPTED from the above described property, the following tract conveyed to Al Smith and Ginger H. Smith, husband and wife, by deed dated June 7, 1994, and of record in Deed Book 90, Page 329, of the Nicholas County Clerk's office, and more particularly described as follows:

"A certain tract or parcel of land lying in the Ellisville section of Nicholas County, Kentucky and more particularly described as follows:

"BEGINNING at a point in the center of the Sugg Road, a corner to Allen Bowles (DB 76, PG 415); thence running with the line of Bowles South 43 deg. 47 min. 00 sec. West-220.00 feet to a corner to Bowles and Roy Cox (DB 81, PG 537); thence running with the line of Cox North 40 deg. 22 min. 05 sec. West-183.00 feet; thence North 48 deg. 28 min. 03 sec. East-214.20 feet to a point in the center of Sugg Road; thence running with the center of said road South 42 deg. 00 min. 00 sec. East-165.00 feet to the point of beginning and containing 0.866 acres, more or less."

"Being the same property conveyed to Anthony W. Hedrick, single, by William Linville, a single person, by deed dated April 4, 1997, and of record in Deed Book 96, Page 333, of the Nicholas County Clerk's Office."

Upon the sale of the above-described property, the purchase price may at purchaser(s)' option be payable in cash. If the purchase price is not paid in full, the successful bidder(s) shall make a deposit of ten (10%) percent of the total purchase price payable in cash, certified funds, or by an other immediately verifiable and collectible medium of exchange acceptable to the Master Commissioner, and give bond payable to the Master Commissioner with approved good and sufficient surety thereon for payment of the remaining part of the purchase price within thirty (30) days after the date of sale, said bond to have the same force and effect as a judgment and to be a lien on said property and to bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) percent per annum from date of sale until paid, which bond and accrued interest can be paid before maturity.

Said property shall be sold as a whole "as is" and free and clear of all liens, claims, encumbrances, right, title and interests of all parties hereto and anyone claiming through them, but shall be sold subject to:

- (a) 2010 and subsequent years ad valorem property taxes (and assessments if any) which shall be paid by the purchaser(s);
- (b) Legal highways, easements, restrictions, covenants and stipulations of record affecting said property, and applicable zoning ordinances and governmental laws and regulations affecting same;
- (c) Any assessments for public improvements levied against the property;
- (d) Any facts that could be disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.
- (e) Any right of redemption which may exist.

Neither the Court nor the Master Commissioner shall be deemed to have warranted title to any purchaser(s). Purchaser(s) shall be entitled to possession of the premises, and a deed will be delivered to the purchaser(s), upon full payment of the purchase price and confirmation of the sale and approval of the deed by the Court. It is further provided that the Real Property includes insurable improvements, and the successful bidder(s) at said sale shall, at such bidder(s)' own expense, carry fire and extended insurance coverage on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid in the amount of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the amount of the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner of the Nicholas Circuit Court and Plaintiff. Failure of the purchaser(s) to obtain such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser(s)' liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, Plaintiff to obtain said insurance and furnish the policy or premium thereon and the proper portion thereof shall be charged to the purchaser(s) as purchaser(s) costs.

Following sale of the above-described property, the Master Commissioner shall promptly report same to the Court, and said report shall be held over for a period of ten (10) days for confirmation or exceptions. Anyone desiring to object or except to the sale shall do so by that time or be forever barred.

GENERAL NEWS

Dinnertime can be family time, too

Today's families are busier and more budget-conscious than ever. With kids more engrossed in extracurricular activities and Mom and Dad fighting to make ends meet in a still struggling economy, time spent together as a family is increasingly scarce.

Perhaps nowhere is that more evident than around the dinner table. Only one in five families sit down to dinner together, with many instead grabbing meals on the go or choosing fast food. Neither option is especially healthy or cost-conscious. But there are ways even the busiest families can enjoy a healthy meal together without breaking the bank.

* Embrace technology. It's hard for many people, parents and children alike, to go an hour without being on the Internet. Families looking to spend more quality time together at the dinner table can now make the most of their time and their budget thanks to E-Mealz.com, a user-friendly online resource that provides a variety of easy weekly meal plans, complete with delicious dinner recipes and a corresponding grocery list that you just print and go!

* Emphasize the importance of dinner together. A healthy breakfast is often referred to as "the most important meal of the day." But families should recognize that eating dinner together is just as essential to building a strong family as breakfast is to building a strong body. Dinnertime provides the perfect opportunity for families to converse, connect with and relate to each other on a daily basis.

"Instead of crowding your full plate, we think that families should simplify," says Jane DeLaney, founder and President of E-Mealz.com. "Making time for a shared meal around the dinner table means more time together ... more enjoying, more embracing, more capturing moments, more memories, more eternal perspective, and more reflection. It means more of all the things that truly matter."

* Be efficient when shopping for groceries. Trips to the grocery store can quickly turn into expensive odysseys for unprepared shoppers. Since time is of the essence for most families, be sure to bring a grocery list along on your next trip to the grocery store. A well planned list can drastically reduce time and money spent at the store, which only leaves more time for the family and money in your pocket.

Special deliveries – stork arrives early

Two Fleming County couples and their families are breathing easier following the sudden birth of two baby girls over the weekend, before either family could arrive at the hospital.

One child was born at home and one was born in a vehicle on the way to the hospital.

A Cowan couple is celebrating the birth of a daughter at their home on Cowan Road early Monday morning.

Stephanie Kearns and Dougie Glass were expecting the birth of their baby girl, just not as quickly as she decided to arrive.

With very little notice, seven pound Elizabeth Skylark came into the world at the Kitchen of the couple's home.

Dougie was on the phone with KSP dispatchers who assisted during the birth as did Dougie's mother Barb.

KSP dispatchers notified Fleming County EMS and members of the Ewing Fire Department, who responded immediately, but they arrived after Elizabeth Skylark was born.

With EMS members tending to mom and baby, a member of the Ewing Volunteer Fire Department drove the ambulance to Fleming County Hospital and then to Meadowview Regional Hospital where Elizabeth Skylark will remain at mom's bedside for 48 hours (standard protocol for children born at home) and then the family will return home.

Stephanie said she thanks everyone who has had a good thought for her family and child in the past two days and is aware that her daughter's birth has caused no small amount of news in the extended Fleming and Nicholas communities.

Stephanie said little Elizabeth Skylark was doing very well and was healthy, (seven pounds and almost 20-inches long). And she is recovering as well.

When asked if there was anything the family needed, Stephanie paused for a moment and with an angelic laugh said "yes, diapers, lots of diapers."

The birth comes on the heels of the birth of a daughter born in a vehicle on the way to Fleming County Hospital approximately 24-hours earlier.

Sources in emergency services say that Ashley and wife Lisa Black were on their way to the hospital when their daughter also decided to come into the world early. Sources say the family is doing well and the baby girl is fine with everyone expected to return home soon.

Discover the most germ infested room in the house (it's not the bathroom)

Considering the nature of a bathroom, people generally think that most germs reside there. However, kitchens tend to be the most germ-filled room in the average home, and many kitchen items and surfaces can harbor bacteria and viruses that make people sick.

Although the average toilet bowl has 3.2 million bacteria per square inch, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, frequent disinfecting and cleaning of the bathroom helps reduce germ infestation. According to health expert Dr. Joseph Mercola, there could be up to 200 times more fecal bacteria on your kitchen cutting board than on your toilet seat. Even a kitchen tabletop contains an average of 344 bacteria per square inch compared to 295 per square inch for a toilet seat.

Unless people are considering cooking and eating meals in their bathrooms, it may be time to examine the germ-ridden areas of the kitchen and start cleaning.

* Cutting boards: Even the best-billed cutting boards can scratch or gouge, creating crevices where bacteria thrive. Also, because cutting boards are used for a wide variety of cutting tasks, there is a high likelihood of cross-contamination between raw animal products, seafood and vegetables. It's a good idea to routinely sanitize the board by running it through the dishwasher or cleaning with soap and water and then a small amount of a bleach/water solution.

* Sponges and rags: The tools of cleaning in the kitchen tend to be some of the most germ-ridden. There are roughly 134,630 bacteria/square inch on a kitchen sponge or cleaning cloth. It is easy to spread these germs to "clean" dishes and surfaces by using a germmy sponge for cleaning up. Ideally sponges should be replaced after one week of use. Sponges that remain wet or have leftover organic matter on them, like bits of food, tend to breed germs fast. Disinfect a sponge in the microwave for 30 second to a minute or run it through the dishwasher. Use one sponge for dishes and one sponge for cleaning the kitchen to prevent more cross-contamination.

* Kitchen faucet and surfaces: Using dirty hands to turn on the water in the kitchen can make grime and germs collect on this surface. Use a disinfecting product to clean the faucet, countertops and inside of the sink frequently.

* Drains: Not all of the water in a drain seeps out. This moist area, usually enhanced with bits of food or other organic material, provides a ripe environment for germs to grow and thrive. Baking soda is a good freshener and cleaner that is also relatively safe for the environment. Use it to disinfect drains and remove odors.

A bleach-and-water solution is one of the most effective all-purpose cleaners. Just use caution on surfaces or materials that you don't want stained.

Remember, some bacteria are good and necessary for human life. Therefore, don't go around making the house ultra-sterile. Otherwise it can disrupt the natural balance of bacteria and actually lead to more illnesses.

"Being the same property conveyed to Owron Gordon and Anna P. Gordon, husband and wife, by deed dated September 21, 1989, and of record in Deed Book 82, Page 483, of the Nicholas County Clerk's Office. Anna Gordon then conveyed her interest to Owron Gordon by deed dated December 20, 2000, and of record in Deed Book 107, Page 121, of the Nicholas County Clerk's Office. Thereafter Owron Gordon died and his interest was transferred to Owron Gordon II, and Anna Y. Pratt under the laws of descent and distribution of the Commonwealth of Kentucky through Nicholas District Court, 08-P-00055."

Upon the sale of the above-described property, the purchase price may at purchaser(s)' option be payable in cash. If the purchase price is not paid in full, the successful bidder(s) shall make a deposit of ten (10%) percent of the total purchase price and give bond payable to the Master Commissioner with approved good and sufficient surety thereon for payment of the remaining part of the purchase price within thirty (30) days after the date of sale, said bond to have the same force and effect as a judgment and to be a lien on said property and to bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) percent per annum from date of sale until paid, which bond and accrued interest can be paid before maturity.

Said property shall be sold as a whole "as is" and free and clear of all liens, claims, encumbrances, right, title and interests of all parties hereto and anyone claiming through them, but shall be sold subject to:

- 2011 and subsequent years ad valorem property taxes which shall be paid by the purchaser(s);
- Legal highways, easements, restrictions, covenants and stipulations of record affecting said property, and applicable zoning ordinances and governmental laws and regulations affecting same;
- Any assessments for public improvements levied against the property;
- Any facts that could be disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.
- Any right of redemption which may exist.

Neither the Court nor the Master Commissioner shall be deemed to have warranted title to any purchaser(s). Purchaser(s) shall be entitled to possession of the premises, and a deed will be delivered to the purchaser(s), upon full payment of the purchase price and confirmation of the sale and approval of the deed by the Court.

Following sale of the above-described property, the Master Commissioner shall promptly report same to the Court, and said report shall be held over for a period of ten (10) days for confirmation or exceptions. Anyone desiring to object or except to the sale shall do so by that time or be forever barred.

Garrett Trial

"He (Garrett) is a great boss!" Linda House stated, as she and others fought back tears.

House went on to state how she had been working with Garrett since the beginning of his term in 2003. She then said, "We couldn't ask for a better hero for the community, he always went way above and beyond the call of duty."

Pat Cohorn who also works in the sheriff's office said, "Dick was always there for me. When I had to be off for my Chemotherapy, where I could only work two weeks out of six months, he was there to help. He let me work when I could. He is a great man and was wonderful for this county."

After the trial Garrett shook his head and admitted that his head was 'going five hundred miles an hour' and that he is glad that this was over with and that he could put it all behind him now.

He continues to embrace the community.

"The people here have always been good to me, both when I was in the restaurant business and as sheriff. This is a great community, full of wonderful people and I wish the best for all of them," he said.

Garrett's attorney Raymond Bogucki said, "I'm still Dick Garrett's biggest fan and always will be. Dick did what he thought was best for him. Sometimes a client begins to speculate about the worst case scenario and what could happen. Dick was my client and my clients are my bosses; as my boss Dick told me what he wanted to do and so that's what I did."

Garrett's resignation has caused a dilemma for the county now as the office of sheriff has been vacated.

Nicholas County Judge-Executive Kenneth Lyons has already begun addressing the situation.

"I am going to call the state police and try to get them to help cover the county until we get this straightened out. Hopefully they can increase patrols and help with accidents and county calls until we are able to address everything," Judge Lyons said. Lyons also said that he was glad that the case was over and expressed hope that 'maybe some of the speculations and rumors will stop.'

Lyons stated, "We will just try to do the right thing and move on. I want to do what is best for the county. I wish the best for Mr. Garrett. I really hope he gets to move on and get everything back on track."

The trial of the Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Nicholas County Sheriff Leonard "Dick" Garrett began Aug. 3 in Nicholas County Circuit Court.

Garrett was indicted by a Nicholas County Grand Jury on Oct. 18, 2010 on the charges of theft and abuse of public trust.

Garrett's indictment alleged that between Jan. 2008 and Dec. 31, 2008, Garrett allegedly "took or exercised control over certain movable property, having a value in excess of $300, belonging to the Nicholas County Sheriff's Department, to wit taking cash in the approximate amount of $43,291 from Drug Asset Forfeiture Account."

The allegation against Garrett regarding the charge of misuse of public trust, as is listed in the indictment states that Garrett allegedly "obtained $95,000 in federal asset forfeiture funds and spent in excess of $10,000 for personal use."

Kentucky State Police Detective David Owen testified before members of two Nicholas County Grand Juries, prior to the issuance of indictments against Garrett and Carlisle Police Officer Benny Buckler, who was once a deputy sheriff under Sheriff Garrett.

Buckler was indicted on Apr. 4, of this year.

Buckler's indictment alleges that in the same time period as mentioned in Garrett's indictment, Buckler "unlawfully received, retained or disposed of certain movable property belonging to another knowing it to have been stolen, to-wit: money from the Nicholas County Sheriff Drug Asset Forfeiture Account. Said property having been recently stolen and having a value in excess of $300."

Count two of Buckler's indictment alleges that in 2008, Buckler allegedly "unlawfully took or exercised control over certain movable property, having in excess of $300, belonging to the Nicholas County Sheriff Department, to wit taking cash from the Nicholas County Drug Forfeiture Account, or was complicit thereto."

Special Senior Status Judge, Honorable William Mains, who was assigned to preside over the case, issued an order on July 13 for a separation of trials of the two Nicholas County lawyers and continued the trial date indefinitely at this point for Buckler, at the behest of Buckler's attorney, Public Defender Amanda Mullins.

A jury pool of over 100 potential jurors was called in an attempt to seat 14 impartial jurors: 12 jurors and two alternates for Garrett's trial.

Jury instruction and questioning of the jurors to determine if they were predisposed and had an unmovable opinion in the case as it began Wednesday and continued through Thursday afternoon with Voire Dire proceedings concluding on Thursday morning.

Repairs to close roads in Nicholas County

The Kentucky Department of Highways will temporarily close a state highway in Nicholas County this week for culvert repairs.

Beginning Thursday, Aug. 11, highway crews will replace two cross drains underneath KY 57 (Cassidy Creek Road) a tenth of a mile south of the KY 928 intersection. The road will be closed to all through traffic from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on both Thursday and Friday. Motorists may detour using KY 32 and KY 36.

Road work is subject to change depending on weather conditions. Motorists are asked to heed all warning signs, "Drive Smart" in work zones and remain aware of workers and construction equipment when traveling.

City Council

* The council was a presented a mock-up of a curfew for the city from Police Chief Darrell Layne. The curfew would be from 12 a.m. - 6 a.m. on weekdays and 1 a.m. - 6 a.m. on weekends. The curfew was not voted on, but was given to each of the council members and the city attorney to review and tweak.

* Mayor Booth also brought to the table the subject of new sidewalks in town, the City is applying for a Safe Routes grant, but is only eligible for $250,000. The project would be in the ballpark of $280,000. It was unanimously approved to allocate extra funds to cover the shortfall. Council member Betty Jo Booth, made the recommendation that money from the sale of surplus properties or the Jockey Building could cover this.

* Attending the meeting were Mayor Kevin Booth, Betty Jo Booth, Eugene Hall, John Jones, Tommy Crawford, Billy MacGauce, Doug Garrett, City Clerk Mary Stewart and City Attorney Skip Watson. All members of the council were in attendance.

Did you know???

Celiac disease is a condition that damages the lining of the small intestine, preventing it from absorbing parts of food. When a person has Celiac disease, his or her immune system attacks the villi, or areas along the lining of the small intestine, whenever foods that contain gluten are eaten. The damage that results from such an attack makes it hard for the body to properly absorb nutrients, causing many people to become malnourished regardless of how much food is consumed. Found in foods such as bread and pasta, gluten is a protein that can be avoided if people adopt a gluten-free diet. Such a diet means avoiding foods, beverages and even medications that contain wheat, barley, rye, and possibly even oats. While a gluten-free diet won't cure Celiac disease, it can cause the symptoms to disappear and help the villi heal. Celiac disease is often mistaken for irritable bowel syndrome, so if such a condition has been diagnosed but nothing seems to be working, men and women should request they be tested for Celiac disease.

my middle school principal Joe Simons, and high school principal Fairce Woods.

I am glad my teachers and principals were strict disciplinarians. I am the King of Fools and am still prone to make mistakes on a daily basis, but I shudder to think out how worse off I would have been had my teachers and principals not been there for me as a young student and young adult.

I can't help but wonder how much worse I would have been, had I not known my classmates who are no longer with us.

I don't know if angels have access to newspapers in Heaven but if they do, I think I speak for my fellow classmates of 1981 when I look skyward with a knowing smile and simply think, "I miss you and I wish you were here."

Bond

lating numbers in my head always came easy.

School is such an essential part of life now. When I was a youngster it wasn't uncommon to find people who had not finished high school. Many quit in the eighth grade to go to work and provide for their families.

There are so many young people now who just can't wait to get out of school - and to a degree I can understand that but unless they treat school as a preparatory exercise for post secondary education life is tough.

It's very difficult to find a job in this economy or any economy for that matter without a quality education. At the very least a high school education is required to get any type of job these days. A college degree doesn't guarantee a job but it does provide a much better chance to get one.

Appreciation of education is something that has been shared at my house for most of my life. That is true especially when I was in high school. I lived with a career educator and my mother had taught nursing as well as worked in administrative capacities.

My dad, although my parents were divorced, had graduated from Marshall University so education has always been at the forefront.

My children all have either earned college degrees or are making every effort to get back in school to finish a degree of some sort.

I am proud of them.

My largest regret in the world is that I did not get a degree of some sort. I consider it my largest shortcoming in life. I could have done much more than what I have done.

Accomplishments are in the perspective of an individual and to me not getting a degree is something I have missed. I do have to say I have been extremely fortunate to have experienced in my professional life and if I am ever able to retire I plan to take classes until I have a degree if it is at all possible.

I tend not to use the cool word very often but I have to report that the fact it is possible to get a complete bachelor's degree online is pretty darn cool.

I hope someday to have that degree because personal satisfaction is the most important kind. . . at least to me.

And so, for another week, thanks and thirty.

Financial Services Officer (Ag Consumer) Job #10540

Farm Credit Services is seeking a Financial Services Officer (FSO) to serve Maysville, Kentucky. The Financial Services Officer's (FSO) primary responsibilities center around building relationships with customers in the assigned market. The FSO will use his or her knowledge of agriculture and finance to fully understand the customer's or prospect's business and personal plans and then market the FCS financial services that best meet their needs. After initially screening for soundness, the FSO submits the information to an analyst, underwriter or scoring system for final decision. The FSO leads the customer relationship and often coordinates with others to serve the customer's loan, lease, crop insurance and servicing needs.

- A "typical" day after training might include:
- Building relationships with team members and prospects
 - Calling on customers and influencers
 - Preparing and assessing financial information
 - Preparing documents
 - Closing deals
 - Servicing loans
 - PR at community events (county fairs, auctions, advisory meetings)
 - Creating and implementing marketing strategies

Minimum Qualifications: Bachelor's degree in agriculture, business or related field and one to three years of experience in sales of financial services or credit analysis. Significant knowledge of agricultural industry (personal, professional or educational) is required. Salary is dependent upon experience.

- To be considered an applicant, you must:
- Meet minimum qualifications for the position
 - Submit your resume by 08/23/2011 to: www.e-farmcredit.com Careers, job opportunities, indicating the specific position for which you are applying

Check out our Benefits!

- Once on our Web site, click on Careers, Employee Benefits, then click on Employee Benefits Presentation.

We are proud to be an EEO/AA employer, M/F/D/V.

GENERAL NEWS

The survivors fled back to the interior Kentucky settlement and joined General Benjamin Logan who was leading a group of 500 other Kentucky militia soldiers.

Logan's force treated the wounded survivors, defended the interior settlements against a counter attack and finally, one week later, advanced to the battlefield at Blue Licks.

What they found was sickening. Many of those slain had been tortured first and the oppressive August heat, coupled with the mutilation of the warriors and the carnage from vermin had made almost all of the bodies unidentifiable. The remains found on the battlefield were buried together in one mass burial near the present north entrance to the Blue Licks Battlefield State Resort Park. Each year those slain Kentuckians are remembered and honored for their sacrifice in a ceremony at the park. The Battle of Blue Licks marked a low for the Kentucky settlements and spurred action from the fledgling nation. Within months a large Kentucky force under General George Rogers Clark attacked several northern tribes of Native Americans in retaliation for the Battle of Blue Licks. The violence between the Kentuckians and Native Americans escalated for the next 13 years.
