Routine drug trial not routine after all

By George Lewis

At first blush, the trial of Thomas Clifton seemed relatively insignificant, barely a blip on the radar screen of the criminal justice system, nothing more. After all, he was convicted of only one count of simple drug possession, a misdemeanor. But Clifton's trial was important in that it represented a tableau of the drug life, replete with pill-seeking trips to Florida, children taken from their mother, innocence lost, and a life squandered.

On Aug. 14, 2010, Clifton pulled into the Crockett's IGA parking lot. He was there not to buy groceries, according to his prosecutor Nicholas County Attorney Dawn Letcher, but to sell drugs - oxycodone, a highly addictive pain killer, and alprazolam, commonly known under the brand name Xanax, also highly addictive and often used recreationally to enhance the euphoric effects of other drugs.

Clifton came and left at least twice, possibly three times, that day, raising suspicion among store employees, one of whom called police. According to the testimony during Clifton's jury trial Friday in district court. Clifton was not charged with trafficking, which is a felony, because initially the only evidence of that crime was circumstantial - a large number of pills in an unmarked container and a large amount of cash on his person. Prosecutors, at that time, did not know of the potentially damning testimony of Jane, whom Attorney Letcher had not yet ferreted out of the Bourbon County jail after identifying her as one of Clifton's probable customers.

It was the sworn testimony of Jane and Clifton's mother that took the trial out of the routine and into the realm of the tragic.

Jane shuffled into the courtroom in an orange jump

Storm puts county in a twist

By George Lewis

As golf-ball-size hail slammed against windshields and cracked windshields, a tornado scare swept through Nicholas County mid-afternoon Tuesday, sending people scrambling for shelter and galvanizing parents whose children hadn't yet returned from school.

The tornado siren began wailing about the time a report came over the police scanner that a twister had touched down in Millersburg and was headed toward Carlisle.

The hail began a few minutes later and gathered in intensity and size as the sky grew ominously dark.

Adding an extra mea-

 Defendant Thomas Clifton said he "didn't have a clue" that the pills were in the car he was driving.

Shortly after the storm passed Tuesday, Carlisle police officials issued the following explanation and request:

"When the emergency siren sounds a warning, one siren is a county fire. Only the courthouse siren will sound. Two short sirens indicate a city fire. Again, only the courthouse siren will sound. A continuous siren at all siren locations indicates a tornado warning or a several storm warning that requires immediate cover. We gratefully ask citizens to refrain from calling the police and 911 to ask what the sirens are about. That ties up emergency lines, which keeps us from getting help to people who need it. Contact the police only in the event of an emergency.

Old country club put on the block

By George Lewis

Nicholas County magistrates Tuesday decided to proceed with the steps necessary to sell the country club building and accompanying two acres.

Magistrates seemed to be in general agreement that the building and land, which were donated to the court, constitute a white elphant.

"It's more expense than you'll ever bring in," said Magistrate Steve Hamilton.

"They gave it to the county to help and it's not helping," said Judge-Executive Kenneth Lyons referring to the Kouhry family.

In other business, the court discussed the formation of committees composed of magistrates that would lessen the day-to-day duties of the judge-executive, who would delegate more often.

"There's a whole lot more to do now than there was 12 years ago," Judge-Executive Kenneth Lyons said.

While magistrates seemed willing to form and serve on the committees, a question arose of just how far the authority of the committees will go and what would constitute day-to-day activities.

With the help of Nicholas County Attorney Dawn Letcher, the court determined that the committees would use common sense to determine which issues the committees could deal with and which would be taken before the entire court.

The court also learned that the county has an extra $198,404 that came from unexpected revenue sources.

With modest population growth, redistricting appears unlikely

By George Lewis

With the release last week of the 2010 Census data, Nicholas County may have to change its political boundaries.

But given the county's modest 3.81 percent growth in population -- 6,873 to 7,135, according to the recent Census -- that prospect appears slim.

County Judge-Executive Kenneth C. Lyons named Mike Cryor, Kimball Booth, and Cynthia Scalf to a redistricting board at a called meeting of fiscal court Thursday.

And a computer whiz with the Bluegrass Area Development District (ADD) showed fiscal court a software tool that would make review and analysis of population data relatively easy, but at a cost of $3,000.

The tool was developed to overlay a geographic information system and would enable ADD staff to more easily analyze population numbers, with the political advice of county officials.

"There's a lot of politics involved. I don't know the politics of the county and I don't want to know," said James Whisenhunt of ADD.

"You may very well not have any changes whatsoever," Whisenhunt said. "I hope that's the case because it's a lot easier."

If changes aren't necessary, BADD would reduce the fee by $1,000, Whisenhunt said.

"I don't want to spend if we don't have to spend, but I want to do it correctly," said Magistrate Steve Hamilton.

Said Judge-Executive Lyons: "Having it done by a professional is worth it; it's more accurate."

On Tuesday, the court voted to offer the ADD

$2,000 to do the assessment.

Fiscal court has final say over whether and how redistricting would occur.

The county didn't require redistricting following the 2000 Census.

Redistricting is a legal requirement ensuring that all residents have equal representation.

In other business at last week's called meeting, the court:

- OK'd paperwork legalizing ambulance coverage of parts of Robertson County.
- Agreed to a resolution to accept about $20,000 in blacktopping funds from the Transportation Cabinet.
- Heard two representatives of the Administrative Office of the Courts explain the pros and cons of a state-funded judicial building (see related story, this issue).

Stray bullet grazes 81-year-old woman

By George Lewis

Several residents of Shepherd Place apartments were in the midst of celebrating Mother's Day about 2 p.m. Tuesday when a stray bullet came through the wall, grazed the neck of an 81-year-old Lodema Foster and lodged in the chair where she was sitting in the recreation room.

Ms. Foster was taken to the hospital, where she was said to be in relatively good condition.

"We were playing Truth or Dare," said Anna Sexton, assistant manager of the apartments. "We couldn't believe it."

Angie Schalck, manager of Shepherd Place, which an apartment complex for the elderly, said, "The Community Action Council, which owns and operates Shepherd Place, wants to emphasize that safety is of the utmost importance to us and we are 100 percent sure this was an accident. We want all our residents and their families to know that safety is our number-one priority."

Carlisle Police Chief Darrell Layne said the bullet was a full metal jacket military-type round, probably 30 caliber that entered the wall at an angle from about a mile-and-a-half away. He said the round had lost much of its velocity by the time it struck the wall.

Layne said the bullet appeared to have come from Jackstown Road.

"It was a freak thing," Layne said.

Layne cautions citizens to avoid shooting firearms across ridge tops, at any high angle or in rocky areas where ricochets might occur.

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

MOTHER'S DAY DESIRES

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky
By Charles Mattox

"Native Americans lived year-round in what is now Kentucky. They constructed houses, planted crops, rejoiced at the birth of new family members, and buried and mourned their dead. In short, Kentucky has a rich and diverse archaeological record that attests to a long history of use by a variety of different peoples."

David L. Morgan, Executive Director, Kentucky Heritage Council and State Historic Preservation Office; from the introduction to the book Kentucky Archaeology, published in 1996, and edited by R. Barry Lewis.

day, in preparations of taking a few fresh flowers to place on my mother's grave.

And I thought about the dirt that I'd removed from beneath my nails from all the places I'd been in my 48 years of life.

My mother rests eternally beside my father in the Flemingsburg Cemetery.

The ashes of my brother Doug are there between them.

Their remains are entered in the far left section of a small ridge, which characterizes the cemetery: a rather large burial ground, which holds so many Fleming County men, women and children.

The sun was bright, late Sunday morning, as I spent a little time there and marveled at the butterflies which danced across the ridge, among the echo of the abundance of birds that joined them in a variety of places across the mowed fields.

Thinking back on it, butterflies seemed to be one of my mother's favorite creatures and remain one of mine.

My mother had married my father, an avid outdoorsman, in her youth and by the time I came along, the youngest of five children, it was clear she had given up on any attempts to deny the inevitable desires her rough country husband and "wild" children imposed upon her.

And yet, she possessed a timeless, country elegance and charm, which I marveled at and admired and which so very many of our families can relate to.

The caring and endlessly patient way in which she treated all children, and her attention to detail in tending the garden and canning the vegetables at the end of summer, are the first things that spring into my mind, along with the way she always put the needs of her family before her own.

And in my heart I know these same qualities have been embraced by countless Kentucky mothers for thousands of years.

And, for a long time, as a child and younger man, I took her quiet charm, and grace and other angelic qualities, for granted, just as I have so very many things in this blessed and wonderful, though often fragile, life.

As I spent time on that sun swept ridge Sunday, I couldn't help but think back to my childhood when my mother's step father Vic Reeves, was the caretaker of the Flemingsburg Cemetery, and how my sister and I, along with my cousins; Keith and Mark Hawkins, had spent countless hours exploring and even playing in the cemetery.

I can't speak for them, but I've never been afraid of any cemetery or burial ground, including the dozen or so Native American burial fields I've spent time in, in the near half-century of my life.

And I will have to say the sacred burial grounds of our Native American forefathers send otherwise electric jolts of indescribable sensations across my mind, body and soul, and has led to more than a few occasions, where a companion has nudged me and quietly whispered a strong desire to simply leave the place we were at in a hurry and never return.

But I never hurried away.

And I have always returned.

A quiet calm embraces me amid the burial grounds of northeastern Kentucky, more so than the average woods or streams seem to.

They remind me of things I hope never to forget: Who I am; and where I come from.

And I sometimes hear my mother's angelic voice reminding me in a humble tone to "never take on airs" and avoid the desire of "getting above my raising."

And I hope her gentle memories will help guide me to become a more compassionate writer, while struggling to overcome my father's influence of wild adventure.

I enter into a new period of my life, dear reader.

While recovering from what I hope is the final surgery of a cataclysmic fall three summers ago, which left me with a bum knee, and which has largely prevented my excursions into the burial fields and other sacred places in the wonderful wilderness landscape of the place I call home, I have been assigned to cover the news for The Flemingsburg Gazette. It is a wonderful, historic, newspaper with a rich heritage.

In the complex times in which we live, I hope to bring information and understanding to the valued readers of the Gazette as I cover events of local and regional impact.

And I hope to capture the essence of life for those who call this wonderful section of Kentucky "Home".

Like many men of my age, I carry the undeniable truths I have learned thus far on my path of life.

And I eagerly seek to learn more.

I hope you will continue to provide me with guidance on this endeavor.

Points of Interest

This week we take a journey to Old Concord Church, which is located about 12 miles north of Cane Ridge and about three miles southeast of Carlisle on Taylor's Creek. Some of my research refers to this church as Concord Presbyterian Church. It was in this church that a fight against slavery was staged.

According to the Carlisle-Nicholas Co. Tourism website, the Underground Railroad ran straight through Nicholas County by way of the Concord Church. It was here that slaves were brought to safety by John Rankin, a native of eastern Tennessee.

Rankin was on his way to set up his home in Ohio and had stopped and settled his family in Kentucky due to lack of funds. Rankin was a minister by trade and took a position at the Concord Church in order to save for his family's eventual move to Ohio.

Points of Interest By Elizabeth McGarty

Slavery was not practiced in Ohio, so the minister was determined to get his family there. He wanted to raise his family somewhere where the community supported his beliefs. From 1817 to 1821 Rankin was minister at Concord Church and filled the role as best he could.

"There, (in Nicholas County) he and his growing family worked with like-minded friends to welcome slaves escaping across the Ohio River and to send them on to other safe houses. In this manner slaves moved along a chain to freedom," says the Carlisle-Nicholas County Tourism Website.

According to the website, in those days some people in Nicholas County did have slaves, so Rankin and some of his fellow followers had to work very quietly amongst themselves.

Rankin and his followers helped many slaves make safe crossings before he eventually made his move on to Ripley, Ohio.

Without Concord Church and John Rankin, many slaves would not have gotten a chance to travel on the Underground Railroad through Nicholas County, and therefore I deem them both points of interest for our community.

Ruins of Old Concord Church can still be found at the coordinates listed above. The historic marker for said church is located in downtown Carlisle.

Daily Confession of Faith

In Christ I am anointed and a powerful person of God.

I am a joint-heir with Jesus and more than a conqueror.

I am a doer of the Word of God and a channel for His blessings.

If God be for me, who can be against me?

I am blessed coming in and I am blessed going out. My enemies are fleeing before me. God has commanded

His blessing on my storehouses. He has opened His Good Treasures and I shall lend and not borrow.

I am the head and not the tail.

He has given me power to make wealth.

I dwell in the secret place I have

His protection and provision. God is my refuge, my fortress I am not afraid of the snare of the fowler.

No Evil shall befall me and no plague shall come nigh my dwelling. God has given his angels charge over me

And they are bearing me up in their hands lest I dash my foot against a stone, as declared in Psalms 91.

I Peter 2:9 establishes I am a chosen generation, A royal priesthood, a holy nation.

I am a peculiar person called out of darkness into his marvelous light.

I Peter 2:24 states, I have been healed by the stripes of Jesus.

Cancer, Sugar diabetes, heart disease, sickness, afflictions, infections, or any other disease can not enter my body.

I am without spot or blemish,

An intercessor, the righteousness of God, saved, and washed in the Blood of Jesus.

"No weapon formed against me shall prosper, and every tongue which rises against me in judgment You shall condemn.

This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD, and their Righteousness is from Me,"

Says the Lord.

I am saved from wrath by him and justified by the Blood of the Lamb.

Lord I pray that those may prosper that love Jerusalem and that peace will be within them and prosperity in their houses according to Psalms 122:6-9.

VELOZ'S VIEWPOINTS

Editor's note - Amy Veloz wrote a weekly column for The Mercury for nearly four years. This is an updated column that will appear on occasion.

Greetings from Nevada! I hope you are all having a great week.

Hello, Carlisle! It has been such a long time and so much has changed since I last wrote a column for this paper. But with my Dad involved with the paper again, I thought I would take this opportunity to catch you all up on the going ons in my life.

Can you believe that Analise and Antonio are 4-years-old already? I sure can't!! They are so much fun these days. Well, they have always been fun, but the fun just keeps growing right along with them.

Analise goes to Early Childhood for speech. They both were going to preschool for a while, but now Analise is in school and Antonio stays home and hangs out with me. They are both so smart! Analise gets to ride the bus which 95 percent of the time she loves. And she loves her teacher. Analise is so very girly and practically demands to wear a dress nearly every day. Her hair is getting long and is so very curly.

We did have a hiccup in the hair department however. In November, she and Antonio took the scissors to her hair. It was a team effort and they did a "great" job. Great as in it really was a perfect mullet! I cried, a lot. It has finally grown out enough that the front looks like bangs now, and she really does look cute with bangs. While I would have never given her bangs, they are cute. She, however, hates them. When she complains about them, I remind her that she wouldn't have them if she hadn't cut her own hair.

Analise is in ballet and she loves it and really does a pretty good job. Her recital is this weekend (from when I'm writing this) and she is very excited. They are doing their dance to "The Good ship Lollipop" and Analise really does look like Shirley Temple. Their outfits are just darling. I can't wait to watch her perform up on stage.

Analise and Antonio also play t-ball. They are young for their team, but they wanted to play so badly so we struggle through the minor bouts of playing in the dirt. They haven't really cried much, which is good. And they look so very cute in their uniforms. They play for the Dodgers and Antonio has a blue helmet that matches the team colors. Analise's is BRIGHT pink, thanks to Aunt Carol for getting it for her. Analise's favorite color is pink and she wanted nothing but a pink helmet which I couldn't find anywhere in Vegas. So Aunt Carol came to the rescue for us.

They look so cute batting and playing in the field. I love that they are athletic and enjoy group activities/sports. They have a great group of friends, which are the children of our friends. They play so well with others, which makes this Momma very happy.

Now about Antonio. He certainly is his Momma's boy. I just love that little guy. He is so smart. He speaks very clearly, which is why he isn't in Early Childhood as well. He loves to watch television, but he watches mostly educational tv. He loves shows about animals, and science. He watches PBS the most and his favorites are Sid the Science Kid, Dinosaur Train and Wild Kratts. Wild Kratts teaches him all about animals, more than I know about them, and every time it comes on he tells me "this is my favorite show".

He is also ALL about super heroes. I honestly am not even sure how he knows so much about them. I think boys might be born with the knowledge of them imbedded or something. He loves shirts that have superheroes on them and fights to wear one of those daily. He loves to pick his own clothes and get himself dressed, which doesn't make me unhappy in the slightest.

He is however, SLOW! He does everything at practically a snail's pace. So when we are in a hurry, I'm in trouble. We do manage to arrive to things on time most of the time, but it usually isn't without me ready to pull my hair out.

He loves to draw pictures and write notes. I, of course, have to tell him how to write some letters and how to spell things, but it just makes his day to be able to write something for someone. His newest thing too is pointing out when things rhyme. He is nearly always right about things rhyming.

He also loves playing t-ball. His favorite part is of course the snack time at the end of the game, but who doesn't love a snack? He gets a little bored out in the field, but batting was always more fun for me too. He just loves spending time with his friends and when we have to leave he almost always throws a fit. I don't like that part, but I love that he loves spending time with others. He certainly wasn't that way when I last wrote this column. He was very shy back then. He has definitely out grown that.

He is going to play soccer this summer and he is very excited about that. Sign ups are coming up soon and his best friend, Jackson plays as well. I'm hoping we can get them on the same team.

As for me, well, I'm expecting again. This time it is just one. While part of me is a little sad that this one won't have that built in companion like Analise and Antonio do, I am so excited to experience just one baby. I am due in just a couple of weeks, with my scheduled c-section being on May 25, provided he doesn't come on his own before that.

And yes, I said he. It is a boy. We are naming him Isaiah Howard Veloz. The kids are so very excited for him to come out. They love to feel him kick, but they really can't wait to meet him. And neither can his Mom and Dad. We will be a family of five in no time, and I'm really excited.

Until next time, make it a great one!
Amy

The Ellisville Homemakers

The Ellisville Homemakers had their monthly meeting Thursday at the Adult Education center under the library with 11 attending. Phyllis Brady had devotions reading part of Proverbs, 31st chapter where it tells about a good woman, then read a poem that she and a sister wrote about their mother and asked Phyllis Alexander to pray. We then had the pledge to the flag. Martha Ritchie conducted the meeting Faye Buzzard read the minutes and roll call was answered by telling about our mother and that was quite a discussion of good things. Debbie Workman gave treasurer's report. Announcements were given and plans made for a trip next month. We are to prepare a Basket of items for our auction at our county meeting June 21 at Neal Building. We are invited to a ladies meeting and meal at the Carlisle Christian Church. Today we had a delicious lunch potluck but hostesses were Debbie Workman and Phyllis Alexander and their decorations were for Mothers Day and Derby day with hats and horses on the tables etc. Favors of notepads and pens were given everyone. Our lesson today was by Patsy Smoot and Jo Ann Martin on cooking for one are two. We were given materials and recipes. Our next regular meeting will be Sept. Phyllis Brady had a game about things in Ky. won by Debbie Workman.

Dr. Janet Tameran, left, presents a check for $500 to Gladys Shrou, Carlisle-Nicholas County Tourism Chairperson. The donation will be used to further beautify the Tourism Triangle, located near the high school across from the Marathon station. Tameran said she challenges others to contribute. Already, 450 tulip and daffodil bulbs have been planted there, and the addition of other flora is planned, particularly trees and bushes. Eventually, a gold-lettered welcoming sign will be erected there. Tameran said she drives by the triangle every day. "It's the first thing you see when you come into town," she said.

Light turnout predicted for primary

In six days, voters will decide in Kentucky's primary which of the candidates will go on to November's election.

Election officials in Nicholas County foresee a light turnout for Tuesday's election.

Nicholas County Clerk Douglas Fryman predicted that about 450 voters will cast ballots here.

The county has 5,303 registered voters, said Darlene Davis, deputy county clerk.

Davis reminds voters that an absentee voting machine is available at the county clerk's office for those who cannot vote in person on election day.

Some of the reasons you cannot vote in person include voters who will be outside the county on election day, a voter or spouse who has surgery scheduled that will require hospitalization on election day, and a voter in her last trimester of pregnancy.

A medical emergency application for an absentee ballot is available at the county clerk's office.

Voting locations in Nicholas County: the old armory located across from the Dollar Store for the precincts of Moorefield-East Union and Rafferty-Meyers; the remaining three precincts, Mayors Office-Engine House, Mathias-City Building and Headquarters-Barterville, vote at the new armory located near the hospital.

The polls, of course, are open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

If the prevalence of campaign signs is an indicator, none of the candidates on Tuesday's ballot has appeared to have generated much buzz around the county, with the possible exception Commissioner of Agriculture Richie Farmer, who is running for lieutenant governor on the Republican ballot.

Farmer is a household name due to his participation on the 1992 University of Kentucky basketball. He has garnered a measure of unfavorable press coverage lately due to his personal circumstances and alleged free spending of taxpayers' money.

The most visible candidate in terms of the number of campaign signs that have cropped up in the area is Alison Lundgeran Grimes, a Lexington attorney who is running against former Bowling Green Mayor and incumbent Elaine Walker for secretary of state on the Democratic ballot.

Wondering what the ballot will look like? Here is a brief overview of the statewide candidates so you can be prepared on May 17.

Bourbon Community Hospital business office relocates to new location

Bourbon Community Hospital announced today the new location of its Business Office. The Business Office, formerly located on Clinic Drive, has moved to Triple Crown Medical Suites, often referred to as the "Blue Roof Building" at 5 Linville Drive, Suite 102.

"We made this move for two reasons", stated Joe Koch, Hospital CEO. "The new location will allow customers to park closer and the front canopy is convenient for customers during bad weather. In addition, the office staff needed more room and this will allow the staff the space they need. It was an easy decision to make based on the circumstances."

The Business Office closed for two days to make the move and was open for business on Monday, May 2nd at the new location. Phone numbers for the Business Office did not change.

Thieves strip house of copper

By George Lewis
KyNewsGroup
george@kynewsgroup.com

It what has become a common occurrence, thieves stripped a home of its copper wiring and pipes last Wednesday.

The theft occurred in the Pleasant Valley community and was discovered when the homeowner returned after being away for a while.

Nicholas County Sheriff

Dick Garrett said another recent copper theft occurred at a vacant home under renovation in downtown Carlisle.

"It's getting to be about an everyday occurrence," Garrett said.

The sheriff surmised that the purloined copper is sold at junk yards and recycling centers to fund drug habits.

"That's about 90 percent of it," he said. "The rest is to put food on the table."

Whitaker Bank employees treated Nicholas County teachers to a buffet last week to mark Teacher Appreciation Week. The bank began honoring teachers in this way some years ago, said Duane Kenney, Whitaker Bank area president. About 70 teachers took advantage of the meal and drawings for door prizes, which included gift cards, car-wash kits and other useful items. Phil French, high school industrial technology teacher, had his number drawn for the grand prize, an outdoor fireplace.

Asbury finishes second in conference

NCHS graduate Zach Lemons ends tourney in Top 10
HENDERSON—Freshman Zack Burr led the Asbury men's golf team to a second-place finish at its first KIAC Tournament at Audubon State Park.

The Eagles completed the 36-hole tournament with a score of 638, Brescia won with a 611 total.
 Burr took second on the individual side as well, scoring a 76 on day one and coming back with the day's best round on Friday with a 75. Isaac Church from Brescia shot a 70 on day one and a 77 on day two to take the tournament at 147, four shots better than Burr.

 Fellow freshmen Zach Lemons and Daniel Gibbons placed in the top ten with 157 from Lemons and a 159 from Gibbons, good for 8th and 9th place, respectively. Lemons, a Nicholas County High School graduate, finished both rounds under 80 with a 79 on day one and a 78 on day two. Gibbons shot a 78 on day one and an 81 on day two.

 The Eagles were sitting a mere one stroke in front of Cincinnati Christian for second place after the first day. The freshmen-laden squad fired off a 315 on the second day, eight shots better than day one and 18 better than CCU's second day 333.

 Asbury concluded an inaugural campaign with second place finishes in each of its four spring invitationals.

Lady Jackets demolish Lexington Christian

In a game that was almost over before it started the Nicholas County Lady Jackets defeated Lexington Christian 15-0 in the third inning. Strong batting and tough defense gave the Jackets to their eleventh win of the season.

Reesa Martin went two for two batting with four RBI'S including a sacrifice fly that scored the first run of the game.

McKenzie Hopkins went three for three and brought two runners home. Emily Curran, Shelby Wade and Tabitha Ritchie also had multiple hits in the game.

Emily Curran went the distance, finishing the game with four strike outs and only allowing one hit. The Lady Jackets scored four runs in the first inning and eleven in the second before the game was called.

Head Coach Barry Bretz Said, "LCA was a young team, so we were an older team for a change. Going into the season if you told me we would be 4 games over 500 at this point in our schedule I wouldn't have believed it. The worst part about it is we could be a lot better, than that, that's pretty scary considering we have so many players that have several years of eligibility left and no seniors."

The victory brought the Lady Jackets record up to eleven wins and seven losses for the season.

Toby Howard, Laken Howard and Mandi McLean lead Nicholas at EKC Track Championships

By Brad Laux
 Sports

After not competing in last year's Eastern Kentucky Conference Track and Field Championships, Nicholas County returned to the meet on Saturday at Rowan County and posted some strong individual performances, despite having depleted squads.

"We only had six girls and six boys (competing), so we did as well as we expected," Nicholas County head coach Greg Letcher said. "I was real proud of Toby Howard in the 110(-meter) hurdles. It was the first time he ran (the event) since the first meet of the season and he got a 'pr'. We had two girls in the triple jump, Laken Howard and Mandi McLean, who both went over 30 feet and that's pretty exceptional for a small school. And both our boys' and girls' relay teams did well."

Toby Howard's performance may have been the most impressive of the day for the BlueJackets. Howard put up a fight against two-time state qualifier Chip Clark of Fleming County in the 110m hurdles and came away with a runner-up finish in a time of 17.82. He also finished nearly half a second ahead of the third-place competitor, Isaac Lee of Rowan County. In addition, Howard finished fifth in the 300-meter hurdles, covering the course in 46.27.

Toby Howard also ran a leg of the runner-up 4x100-meter relay team that also included Jake Blakeman, Zach Howard and Devin Johnson. The BlueJacket foursome finished in 49.69. Rowan County won the event in 47.18.

In addition to the 4x100m race, the same quartet brought home fifth in the 4x200-meter relay in 1:42.83.

"Our 4x2 (relay) was sluggish, but our 4x1 came back and got second. The team ran well," Johnson said. "It's been a rough year for me, but I came out today felt good and we ran our race. They exchanges were the key. We got them down and things fell in place. It's one thing that we have struggled with all year, but we really practiced it this week and today we got it. We've got a young team, but we've been together for a while and we are starting to make something out of nothing."

Laken Howard and Mandi McLean led a strong contingent of Lady Jacket competitors. Not only did they finish second and third, respectively, in the triple jump, but they also were key members of the 4x100m and 4x200m relay teams which each finished third.

Laken Howard took second in the triple jump with a leap of 30'05.50", while McLean was third in 30'02.00". Fairview's Felicia Mills won the event with a mark of 33'04.00". The three were the only competitors to clear 30 feet.

Howard also scored points in the long jump, taking sixth with a leap of 11'11.50". Her teammate Anna Mattox was ninth in the event with a distance of 11'08.00".

Robyn Cohorn and Hannah Coldiron joined Howard and McLean in both the 4x100m and 4x200m relays. The Lady Jacket 4x100m team was nipped at the line by Fairview (57.43 to 57.51) and took third. The Nicholas County foursome was also third in the 4x200m race in a time of 2:00.50.

Cohorn also put in a full day. In addition to her relay contributions, she also finished fifth in the 300m hurdles in 58.88 and claimed eighth in the shot put with a toss of 21'06.00".

"I ran the best I could. With the heat I didn't think I could do it, but I finished strong," Cohorn said. "One of my 4x1 (relay) teammates threw up and we still finished third."

The Lady Jackets picked up points in two other events. Elizabeth Johnson placed fourth in the shot put with a toss of 23'05.00", while Coldiron captured fifth in the 100-meter dash in 14.26.

Nicholas County's boys also scored in three additional competitions. Zach Howard led the way by placing third in the triple jump with a leap of 36'09.00". He also was sixth in the 400-meter dash in 57.32. Spencer Bailey brought home a fifth-place finish in the 3200-meter run, covering the distance in 11:58.26.

The two squads had a bunch of competitors place just out of the points. Bailey was seventh in the 1600-meter run in 5:12.70, while Coldiron was seventh in the 200-meter

The Nicholas County track team performed well at the Fleming County Twilight Meet on May 6. The boy's and girl's teams combined for a total of sixteen top ten finishes.

In the boy's meet Caleb Pope took second in the 200 meter dash and third in the 100 meter dash as well as second in the long jump. Toby Howard finished fifth in the 110 high hurdles. Caleb Pope, Devin Johnson, Jake Blakeman and Zack Howard captured the third place finish in the 4x100 meter relay. Toby Howard, Devin Johnson, Jake Blakeman, and Zach Howard took fourth in the 4x200. Chris Morgan Threw for third in the shot put and Jake Blakeman endured the 800 meter run to finish sixth. The girl's also had great results with Laken Howard capturing second and Mandi McLean taking third in the triple jump. Laken Howard also took sixth in the long jump.

The 4x100 relay and the 4x200 relay featured similar faces as the same four girls ran both events and finished fourth in both as well, Robyn Cochorn, Anna Mattox, Mandi McLean and Laken Howard competed in the relay.

Kendra Letcher grabbed the sixth in Discus and Shelby Watkins showed her endurance finishing sixth in the 1600 meter and fifth in the 800 meter run. The team has been consistent all season and their dedication really shows.

Lady Jackets drop close district game to Harrison

CYNTHIANA - After defeating non-district foes Holy Cross (Covington) and Lexington Christian a combined 31-1, Nicholas County faced Harrison County Thursday evening (May 5) in a key 38th District softball matchup. In a relatively low-scoring contest, Harrison County managed to edge the Lady Jackets 3-2.

tough district game against rival Harrison County," Nicholas County Coach Barry Bretz said following his team's game versus the longtime district foe. Host Harrison County faced a two-run deficit before battling back to score three unanswered runs to register the district win. Visiting Nicholas County got on the scoreboard first in the opening inning when pitch Emily Curran, helping her cause, delivered a two-out double. The score remained 1-0 until Reesa Martin belted a solo home run in the fifth inning to push the Lady Jackets ahead 2-0. Harrison County rallied in the fifth inning, scoring two runs on one hit and two Nicholas County errors.

Moving out in front for good, Harrison County connected on two doubles in the sixth inning to lead 3-2. The Lady Jackets managed to get runners on first and second bases with only one out in the seventh inning but couldn't score. Curran pitched the complete game for Nicholas County, allowing only one earned run while recording five strikeouts.

"We played really well for six innings, but we made some mistakes in the fifth that gave them runs with two outs," Bretz confided. "We were in control throughout the game but we didn't complete the job. If we learn from our mistakes and get better from them then it will be a good learning process for our little ones to grow and

Fondest Memories

As the weekend was approaching, some of my family were talking about some of the memories that we had and the laughs that we shared. My brother and I were talking about one summer day when our cousins, Brian, David and Danny Mattox came down with their parents to visit.

breeze. Then suddenly we heard the door open, and dad came across the yard with smoke rolling out of his ears. Johnny and I knew that we were in trouble, when we saw dad coming out the door. He grabbed us up and took us to the yard. Then he tanned our hides. Mom and Dad were furious, Mamaw called down and said "Carolyn did you know that the kids are sitting in the middle of the road?" well that did it.

I wonder how many of you did things that when you were little that you look back on now and think why did we do those things? I know that I have many of times. But I will say that it didn't seem that things were as dangerous then as they are now or at least they didn't seem to be that bad. I know that as you get older that you look at things differently but it just didn't seem to be that bad.

From surprising teams being first in the division to world series contending teams being in last. The Boston Red Sox had one of the best off seasons trading for Adrian Gonzalez and signing Carl Crawford from rival Tampa Bay. However they only won two of their first twelve games and everyone hit the panic button. The Red Sox have since turned it around playing good baseball and are currently in second behind rivals New York Yankees.

NBA The first round of the playoffs are now over and was it interesting. The only team to sweep was the Boston Celtics defeating the New York Knicks. Rondo and Boston played great but no billups and Amore not 100% left the Knicks with no hope. The Chicago Bulls won in five games. The one thing about the Bulls is can they make enough shots to stay in games. The Pacers were just to young and inexperienced. They had no answer for Derrick Rose.

The series between the Atlanta Hawks and Orlando Magic had its ups and downs for both teams. The Hawks were finally able to knock off their rival and advance to play the Bulls. The magic didn't get any help from anybody but Howard. The Miami Heat rolled a past the 76'ers. Come playoff time is going to be very hard to shutdown both James and Wade. In the American League central over past years it's been a three team race between the Twins, Tigers and White Sox. This is a different year however and it's a two team race at the moment. The Cleveland Indians and Kansas City Royals are tired for first. Both teams were two of baseball's worst last season. The National league central division. Four teams will be fighting all year to see who will win the division. The defending champions, Cincinnati Reds are struggling at the moment with players on the DL. Committee reduces Mathers scholarships

By George Lewis KyNewsGroup

Recipients of Mathers Fund scholarships will receive less money than in the past, it was determined Tuesday in Nicholas Fiscal Court. Last year, $58,000 was available for the general-welfare fund and $51,000 for the scholarship fund. This year, the Mathers Committee had $61,000 to fund both aspects of the program, said Nicholas County Attorney Dawn Letcher. The reduction in funds occurred due to falling interest rates, she said. The committee decided to divvy up the funds in the following way, and the court agreed: Each successful scholarship applicant will be awarded $500 for the year, with $200 coming at the beginning of the first semester and the balance paid if the students makes the grade and enrolls for the second semester. That makes the total scholarship award $24,500. The general-welfare aspect will be funded with $37,200, which works out to about $124 per child. The general-welfare fund is used to buy school supplies for qualified elementary, middle and secondary school students.

Stage Six Electronic Medical Record Reached

Harrison Memorial Hospital achieved stage six of the United States Electronic Medical Record (EMR) Adoption Model. The Healthcare Information and Management Systems Society (HIMSS) created United States EMR Adoption Model to track the transformation from paper chart medical records to electronic medical records. There are seven stages to the model, and HMH has completed stage six. As of the end of 2010, 3.2% of hospitals in the United States achieved stage six, which places HMH as one of the most elite facilities in information technology. Several years ago, HMH leaders and physicians made a critical decision to invest in MEDITCH's Health Care Information System (HCIS) to increase efficiency of care and enhance patient safety. It began in May 2006, when electronic charting of medications, with bar coding and scanning of those drugs to match patient identification, was implemented. That same year, HMH joint ventured with five physician practices to do electronic records. The idea was to allow these pilot physicians to see the efficiency and value the process brought to their practices. It also allowed them to communicate across practices.

nursing, and pharmacy. The committee chose the emergency department as the pilot area to incorporate CPOE. Once training was successful, the emergency department went live with the project in November of that year. Following that success, a second team was charged with moving CPOE to the hospital's inpatient areas in 2008. Team members Linda Ring, RN, Jackie Burrell, PharmD, Jodie Sharp, RN, Martha Sullivan, IT Director, and Dr. Besson attended training in Boston before meeting weekly to move the medical staff in the CPOE direction.

in 2010. Sullivan credits the leadership of the hospital's executives in securing buy-in for information technology among Harrison's clinical staff. "HMH CEO Sheila Currans is a big supporter of electronic health records to improve the quality and safety of care," she says. "Currans encouraged nurses and physicians to see technology not just as a mandate, but as a real way to improve outcomes and patients' lives."

partment, our barcode scanning percentage rate is in the high 80s to low 90s," says Sullivan. "Our director of nursing really led the way and inspired clinicians to support this technology."

Picking up on Currans' early advocacy of technology, Sullivan has made sure her staff is aware of how important an integrated system can be to a small hospital. "A heavily mixed information technology environment leads to inefficient care practices, which our hospital cannot afford to have. We're able to standardize care across the hospital," she says. "Our physicians and nurses regularly comment on how the system makes the processes more efficient. With all pertinent patient information captured and stored in a single location, they are not wasting time searching for information or ordering unnecessary tests. This helped us reduce the costs of our health care at the same time we're improving it."

Not surprisingly, patients are also taking notice of the widespread utilization of technology at Harrison Memorial. "We've had patients tell us that they appreciate how their information is already in the system when they step into the hospital. They no longer have to answer the same questions for each visit," says Sullivan. HMH understands the important role technology plays to improve outcomes and meet the highest standards in care delivery and provide safe, quality care. The stage six achievement recognizes HMH's commitment to technology.

The nurses' commitment to technology is another key factor in HMH's stage six achievement. The hospital has implemented Bedside Verification (BV) solution enterprise-wide, and the nursing staff has taken full advantage of its benefits. "In the Emergency De-

Stamper named to zoning commission

By George Lewis
KyNewsGroup
george@kynewsgroup.com

Carlisle City Council named Helen Stamper to the Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night by a vote of 5-1 with Councilman Eugene Hall casting the no vote.

Hall questioned Mayor Kevin Booth's method of selecting Stamper as the candidate to present before council. Hall said he wants "new blood" on the planning commission. Stamper er has not previously served on the planning commission.

Stamper replaces Timmy Jefferson, whose term on the planning commission expired.

The council also learned that a presale appraisal of the Jockey Building has not yet been done but is expected by next council meeting. Council members discussed improvements that could be made to the building to make it more attractive to potential buyers.

The council voted recently to make preparations for the sale of the building, which was vacated when the company closed its Carlisle operation.

The council tabled a request from the state Department of Fish and Wildlife to use the city's shooting range, located near the sewer plant, until a contract can be drawn up.

The council also discussed the legality of placing wrecked cars on car lots that do not have a fence. The question is being researched.

suit and shackles and slowly made her way to the witness stand. There, she recounted how she had called Clifton on the phone on the afternoon in question and arranged to meet him at the grocery store to buy oxycodone.

attorney Matt Perdue as a "broken woman." Yet those who have known her for a number of years said Jane used to be a vibrant beauty, intellectually bright and capable of achieving success before she became acquainted with the illicit use of prescription drugs. Chances are good that at least some of those drugs Jane has used to feed her habit came from the infamous Florida "pill mills," where in 2009 doctors prescribed a half-billion oxycodone tablets. Florida is where Clifton's mother, Claudia Mitchell, testified she got the prescriptions for the pills that tripped up her son. Mitchell admitted on the stand that a doctor at a Florida pain clinic gave her scripts for hundreds of oxycodone in various strengths and hundreds of Xanax. She said the pills found in the rental car her son was driving were hers. She said she had made previous trips to Florida and planned to make more. Clifton took the stand and testified he "didn't have a clue" that the pills were in the car. He said he went to the grocery store that day for no reason other than to buy an Ale-8-One. He said Jane did approach him as he sat in the car, but she did so to ask him for a date, not to buy drugs. In his closing remarks, Perdue of the Department of Public Advocacy said the prosecution had not linked his client to the pills found in the car. "He's innocent; they were not his pills; he didn't go to Florida," he said. County attorney Letcher said that was precisely the point - that Clifton had pills that weren't his. She said Jane's testimony sufficiently linked Clifton to the pills and she asked the jury for a conviction and a recommended sentence of five years in jail and a $500 fine. The six-person jury retired and in less than 30 minutes granted her request. Perdue said he plans to appeal his client's conviction and declined further comment. He asked Judge Charles Kuster to set an appeal bond so his client could possibly remain free pending the outcome of the appeal. Kuster did so, but he set the bond at $5,000, which Perdue said was beyond Clifton's means. Kindhearted court officials allowed Clifton to visit with his mother before they handcuffed him and led him through the courthouse to jail. Clifton will get credit for 74 days he spent in jail awaiting trial. But the length of time he will be incarcerated is uncertain because he is currently on probation out of Clark County for a five-year sentence he received for theft by unlawful taking and complicity to burglary, and Friday's conviction may constitute a probation violation, court officials said.

Storms

sure of anxiety, the storm hit about the time Nicholas County school busses were delivering children to their homes or out-of-town sports events. In the midst of things, bus No. 10 stopped downtown, and its children were sheltered in the police station. As panic spread throughout the city, it was difficult to avoid dwelling on thoughts of tornadoes that wreaked havoc across the southern and eastern parts of the nation two weeks ago. At about 3:45, a welcomed message came over the scanner: "Everything is clear from Carlisle to the Bourbon County line." Still, effects of the storm were evident in several parts of the county. Concord Road was impassable with water over the roadway. On Upper Sharpsburg Road near the Bath-Nicholas county line, asphalt was washed completely off the roadway, according to dispatches. Hail hit Moorefield, which, from reports, seemed to take much of the brunt of the storm. A funnel cloud was reported in Myers Station. At 4:29, reports came in of clouds showing signs of rotation, accompanied by damaging winds and hail, in the Sugar Creek area in northern Nicholas County. At 5:02 p.m., Myers Station Road had flash flooding. Hail damage to tobacco crops was reported in several locations. At 5:09, perhaps the most welcomed announcement of the afternoon came over the scanner: "All the busses are reported in and safe and all the kids are all right."

Three arrested in connection with Goddard murder

Almost six years to the day after police discovered the bodies of Donald Walker and Marlene Mauk, Kentucky State Police Detectives and Green County, Ohio law enforcement officers have arrested three men and charged them with murder, according to KSP officials. A high-ranking KSP officer confirmed Tuesday afternoon that it is his understanding that three arrests were being made in connection with the murders. "I'm ecstatic," the officer said. Donald Walker, 43, and Marlene Mauk, 23, died from multiple gunshots to their bodies in their Goddard home at 689 Routt Road. Their bullet-riddled bodies were discovered on May 6, 2005. Marlene Mauk was a young mother with no criminal record and who had never been in any trouble with the law her entire life, and yet she was shot multiple times at close range before her life ended. Kentucky State Police Post 8 Detective Wess Prather is the fourth detective to carry the case. Prather joined fellow detectives Toby Gardner, Larry Bowling and Shawn Fearin Monday morning at the Fleming County courthouse where they joined together and traveled to Ohio to help effect the arrests. Mauk's mother Dawn said she received the call from Detective Prather mid-day Tuesday informing her of the news. She said she was hopeful the healing process could begin.

"I hope it can," she said with a lifted spirit in her voice. "Ryan (Dawn's grandson and Marlene's son, who is 9-years-old) has been having a lot of trouble sleeping at night and has been having nightmares for the past few weeks.... He told me he'd been dreaming about his mommy."

indicated the deaths of approximately 40 local citizens in the past 40 months due to prescription pain pill overdose deaths. Cecil Lawson contributed to this story.

According to Florida media sources, seven local men were arrested by Titusville, Florida undercover police officers on drug charges Friday May 6. Initial reports indicate nearly 3,000 pain pills were confiscated along with approximately $10,000 cash. According to reports published in Florida Today, in an article written by J.D. Gallop, the seven men were in two vehicles and when arrested were in possession of three varieties of pills: Oxycodone, Hydrocodone and Xanax. Those arrested were; Jeffrey Blankenship, 32, Owingsville, Larry McCarthy, 43, Van-

According to spokespersons at the jail, the majority of the seven, if not all, will go before Judge Griesbaum on June 7. Jail personnel confirmed the astronomical bond set for the seven.
