Bus, car collide; injuries minor

Driver of the car to face several charges

On the morning of Oct. 7, Carlisle Police responded to an automobile accident involving a school bus and a car at the intersection of Sycamore and West Main Street.

While en route to the school, Bus 211, driven by Ronnie Clark was struck near the entry door by a car operated by 39-year-old Angela Treadway of Carlisle.

All 30 students and the bus driver were checked out by EMTs at the scene and released.

Several students were taken by parents to the emergency room for extra precaution.

Carlisle Police Chief Darrell Layne performed the investigation, and worked the accident.

When asked about the accident, the chief replied, "Any time you have children involved, it gets everybody's blood pressure up a little bit."

Chief Layne then added, "At the time nobody really suspected the driver was under the influence or anything. Most of that didn't occur until once we arrived at the hospital." Treadway had advised authorities that her brakes had failed and she could not stop at the stop sign. She was transported to Nicholas County Hospital for injuries sustained in the collision.

Bluejackets Classic is a big success

By Elizabeth McCarty
 KYNewsGroup

The little town with the big heart had a large group of visitors Saturday for the first Bluejackets Classic marching band competition held at Nicholas County High School.

Groups from 15 different high schools across the state along with their parents and other spectators convened upon our town drawing crowds of 2,000 to 2,500 people at certain times of the day.

The school grounds were transformed into band trailer and equipment bus parking, with handicapped parking at the top of the hill. The elementary school gym and cafeteria became a dressing room, and the elementary school playground, the softball field, and an area behind the elementary school became warm-up areas for the competing bands.

Everything took on a new purpose for one day.

All spectators were stopped even before they reached school grounds and asked to park at the old jockey building lot. From there, they were bussed in without complaint.

The school busses from the various schools were parked at the Kentucky National Guard Armory, all 35 of them. Practices of offsite parking are very common in events of this scale according to Nicholas County Schools Transportation Director Dennis Jackson.

"We went to offsite parking partly for safety reasons to keep traffic away from the band kids and partly because we needed the additional parking," Jackson said.

"We don't have enough room for everything on campus, but overall, I think everything went awesome."

Fundraising booths were set up throughout the competition grounds. Admission, programs, flowers, buttons, spirit bricks, photos, face painting, vote for your favorite band and of course food was made available for the crowds to purchase with a majority of the profits going directly to the band.

A couple of the booths were run by the cheerleader and football boosters who were profiting from their individual fundraisers.

Mayor Training: AT-MOS Energy National Gas Course, U.K. College of Engineering: Low Cost Safety Improvements for Rural Roads, Newly Elected City Official Academy, Attended many Planning and Zoning and various other city official training sessions."

Mr. Sorrell continued, "I salute you Mayor Booth and congratulate you for the job you are doing as Mayor of Carlisle. A saying I've heard many times and I believe to fit this occasion: When you took office, 'You were handed a bag of lemons and with the help and support of the City Council and others you have made lemonade.' And now I'm honored to present you with a 'Kentucky Colonel Certificate'. Congratulations Mayor Booth."

A Kentucky Colonel Certificate is the highest honor awarded by the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Colonels are Kentucky's ambassadors of good will and fellowship around the world. It all began when Kentucky's first governor, Isaac Shelby, named his son-in-law, Charles S. Todd, the "colonel" of his staff. Shelby later issued commissions to all who enlisted in his regiment in the War of 1812. Subsequent Kentucky Governors commissioned colonels to act as their protective guard; the colonels wore uniforms and were present at most official functions.

The official "Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels" was founded in 1932 by then-Governor Ruby Laffoon and has since been incorporated as a charitable organization. Through the years, Kentucky Colonels have contributed thousands of dollars to worthy causes. Kentucky's governor and lieutenant governor serve as the commander-in-chief and deputy commander-in-chief, respectively. All officers serve without pay or compensation.

Beyond the surprise recognition of Mayor Booth, there were many items on the agenda. Minutes were approved from September 12, 14 and October 1 meetings. Motion made by Tommy Crawford, Seconded by Betty Jo Booth. All members voted in favor.

The next item on the agenda was a complaint about Mark Hughes Car wash lot.

Mr. Hughes said, "I didn't know there was a problem with putting cars there. I am stuck in the lease even though car wash burnt down. It's not a junk yard, it's a salvage yard. It was told to me that I was allowed to have it there as long as it was a salvage yard and not a junk yard. I am not going to renew the lease in August 2012. I tried to get out of lease when the car wash burnt down but was unable to." Mr. Hughes also said, "There is no one living there now," when questioned by Mayor Booth.

Mayor Booth said, "We receive complaints about it every day. There is nothing we can do, there is nothing illegal or against city regulations about it (the salvage yard), as long as there are no parts being sold off of the cars then they are salvage only."

Mr. Hughes went on to say that his company does their best to keep everything neat and in order and they are very respectful to the citizens.

was the discussion of the Soil Conservation District. County Attorney Dawn Letcher began the events with a discussion about the KRS statutes of what a Soil Conservation District is and how to fund it. Letcher said that a Soil Conservation District's purpose is to conserve and develop all natural resources of the district. It is up to the Fiscal court to decide how to fund the District and should they fail to approve the budget that it is their responsibility to respond to the request and then mediation goes on until a reasonable budget is approved.

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

RALLY POINT

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

"George Stockton was six feet and three inches tall... He was a man of uncommon muscular power... He could whip any man. He feared nothing but his maker."

Robert Stockwell, Draper Manuscripts, Volume 10BB

"I was born in 1776, while father was out to Kentucky. When we settled our station in 1786/1787 The Williams' and Barnes families settled with us."

George Stockton Jr., Draper Manuscripts Volume 12 BB

"Father (Michael Cassidy) was in seven close contact fights with the Indians and was in seven major battles with the British. He was also in 22 skirmishes with the British and 20 skirmishes with the Indians."

Francis Cassidy, Draper Manuscripts Volume 21 S.

The wilderness of north-eastern Kentucky, autumn 1789

The two men were so unlike in every conceivable way that had they not been among the most-feared men along the frontier, their very appearance together would have been laughable. But no one ever laughed at either Major George Stockton or Captain Michael Cassidy.

Major Stockton was huge, a mountain of a man with every course markings and bizarre Native American tattoos that crept all along his body, including his face.

Michael Cassidy was so small-barely five feet in height, that he was often mistaken for a young boy, his face a horrid array of scars and disfigured flesh.

The two men were the closest of friends and had stood beside one another for several years along the harsh Kentucky frontier.

Stockton first came to the Kentucky wilderness in 1776 on an exploration trip. He left after a few months but came back to stay a decade later.

Cassidy came in 1782 and never left.

Stockton was married with six children and another was on the way, as his wife Rachel was pregnant again.

Rachel's nursemaid declared the child would be a boy and both George and Rachel agreed if it was a son they would name him Robert, after their eldest son, whom George had buried nine months earlier following his death at the hands of Shawnee warriors.

The Major (as he was often called) hid his sorrow from most of his family and friends but he didn't bother trying that with Cassidy. Captain Cassidy had been with him when he had buried the boy.

Cassidy knew the Major had vengeance on his mind and that was fine by him, he still had plenty of scores to settle himself after what the Shawnee had done to him and many of his friends.

He unconsciously rubbed that hideous scar that slid across his face from eyebrow to lip and back to one ear. That was just one of the more prominent scars on his face and only one given to him compliments of a Shawnee war club.

When the two men came around a sharp bend in the wilderness trail they came nearly face-to-face with two Shawnee warriors, who quickly made their horses lunge into the woods.

One rode east and one rode west.

"Rally point, right here!" Major Stockton yelled to Cassidy, as he pointed to the largest oak tree near the path, while indicating a spot they should both return to when their chase was done. Cassidy immediately rode after the eastbound Shawnee and Stockton after the one riding west.

Although I've not found any depositions from either Cassidy or Stockton regarding the specific incident, Cassidy's children mentioned it and so did a mutual friend, Robert Stockwell; who knew both the Kentucky Ranger Officers.

According to Stockwell's version, Cassidy caught his warrior, who was large and powerful. Cassidy had a habit of tying a handkerchief around his musket lock assembly to prevent his powder from becoming damp and useless. Cassidy eventually shot the warrior in the shoulder. When Cassidy went to dispatch the warrior with his knife, the warrior spun around and overpowered Cassidy who surrendered to the warrior.

As the warrior went to tie Cassidy's arm, he slithered loose and the two began a desperate struggle with one another in hand-to-hand knife fighting.

Finally Cassidy prevailed and took the warrior's scalp, musket, weapons, trinkets and horse and returned to the Rally point where he found Major Stockton reclining against a fallen tree, whistling an Irish tune and twirling a similar scalp around his head.

Both men were Kentucky Ranger officers and both men were largely responsible for the safety and welfare of hundreds of pioneer settlers. Their actions protected the lives of those settlers, and ultimately their tens of thousands of descendants, many of whom still call northeastern Kentucky their home.

If the good Lord is willing, dear reader, we will join Captain Cassidy and Major Stockton again.

Area hospital main entrance closed for bypass construction

Bourbon Community Hospital's main entrance will be closed to traffic on Wednesday, October 12 and Thursday, October 13 due to the roadwork on the bypass. Hospital visitors and patients will be diverted to the rear entrance on South

Main Street. There will be a "flagger" on the bypass to divert the traffic during business hours. After business hours, patients and visitors will be able to enter the main entrance by a gravel drive. "We are sorry for any inconvenience this may cause our patients and visitors, but we look forward to the completed project," stated Diane Wagoner, representative for the hospital. "We want to make sure that everyone arrives safely at the hospital and we appreciate your patience during the construction process." If you have questions, please call Diane at 859/987-1001 or e-mail her at diane.wagoner@pnt.net.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
I wanted to take time to write this letter to the community to let them know how very much they are appreciated. This isn't going to be a formal letter- it's more of a down-to-Earth letter of gratitude and pride sharing!

About a year ago Marty Feltner, Principal of Nicholas County High School, made mention in passing of hosting our own band competition. "Have we ever hosted our own band competition?" I answered "No, Sir, we haven't". "Why not?", he asked. And I answered with "We've never really had the facilities to do so. Is this something you'd want to happen?" Knowing that we now had an awesome place to host such an event, I received a confident "Yes!" The day before KMEA's (Kentucky Music Educators Association) deadline to host a contest was up, I went to him and asked him if this was still something he was interested in doing and received the same "Yes!" So I took things from there and presented our contest and it was approved for Saturday, October 8, 2011!

This past Saturday Carlisle played host to fifteen of the finest bands in the state and eight of the best judges you can find! We hosted the first ever Bluejacket Classic". It was a day I will not soon forget! What an amazing feeling of pride came over me that day as I heard so many positive comments from spectators, drivers, band staff and directors! I want to thank so many people- forgive me if I leave someone out.

To the Administration and staff: Thank you so much for supporting and initiating this event with open arms and guidance when needed. Without your consent and your support this event couldn't have happened. It is my hope that you realize this truly was a dream come true for this band program. Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

To the Band Boosters: My hat goes off to you! You said this would be pulled off without a hitch even when doubts were raised and you did just that. I am so proud of how well you managed to handle this event. You've shown our kids and this community what teamwork truly is and that when you have that - there is success. Thank you for not only supporting me and the students but for being such good friends and family to me when my own family is so far away. That means the world to me. Thank you so much and I love you all!

To the Carlisle community: (including all the groups that helped on Saturday- Rotary, bus drivers, Med Corp, the crew I had in the press box, my errand runners, hospitality ladies...) I have been overwhelmed by the support this community has shown for this event. From placing ads to sponsoring trophies to offers of help to just plain ol' showing up to watch the show- you all have really shown the state of Kentucky you truly are the 'little town with a big heart'. Your hospitality and care for the band program shined through all day and the spectators raved about it several times. THANK YOU for everything!

To my band students: Thank you so much for being you! Your enthusiasm for what you do and your dedication to this band program is undying and it motivates ME at times when it should be the other way around. That means we are a team and we have each others backs like it should be. We are truly a family and you all have done an amazing job this year doing just that- working together. Always remember- Eyes with Pride and I love you guys.

Once again, thank you again for everything you have done to make this an amazing year for the band program in general. It is my hope that the community realizes that this program means the world to these kids and it's their passion. Anything like band or sports that make a kid's heart tic is worth supporting and encouraging. That support and encouragement means everything to these students. After all, that's what Nicholas County Schools is all about- the students.

Sincerely,
Debbie Hale
Director of Bands
Nicholas County Schools

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank all those that helped make the first Nicholas County Blue Jacket Classic such a huge success. To all those in the community, the merchants, all the county and city officials, the City Police and Sheriff's Department that provided traffic control and all others that worked to make this a very successful event. A special thanks to Industrial Development Authority Chairman Carlton Jones and all the board members for approving the off sight parking at the Jockey parking lot.

Fondest Memories

By Melissa Mitchell
melissa@kynewsgroup.com

Have you often wanted to sit down and watch some good ole television? I know I have and with me being off work I have found myself thinking about some of the old television shows that used to come on. Darwin and I would always love to watch T.V. in the evenings, couldn't wait to get home so we could watch Alf, Home Improvement and much more. Alf used to be a very popular comedy show that several loved to watch. So many times he would talk about the spaceships and cause turmoil for the family. A great deal of laughter was shared while watching that show. Home Improvement was another popular show, with Tim Allen, which he has another show coming Last man Standing so I am interested in watching that to see if there is any comparison to this. Jill and Tim were always going at it because he would try to fix things in and around the house. Those two shows are not the only old ones that I remember but two of my favorite. Hee Haw, Dallas, Love Boat, Family Feud, Happy Days, and much more were ones that were favorites by many. I know that my grandparents really loved to watch Hee Haw and Sandford and Son, Papaw and Mamaw Scott would just laugh as hard as they can watching them. But I have to say that the funniest one that they loved more was Archie Bunker in All in the Family. That was a resemblance of mamaw and papaw Scott about how Edith would go around and wait on Archie hand and foot and that was how Mamaw was with papaw. Think back to some of the old shows that you used to watch, I bet a smile comes about to your face when you think about them. I know it sure brings back some memories for me. Until Next time keep those memories rolling.

The Saltwell United Methodist Women met at the church on Monday night with 10 women. The purpose was recited. Sue Rule had prayer for the sick. Phyllis Gaunce gave the devotional. Diane Phillips gave a very good program she prepared about "aprons". She brought several and talked about all different things our mothers or grandmothers used them for, besides keeping their dress clean. She also read and illustrated in the Christian life. Using the letters in apron, A for attitude, P for patience, R for responsibility, O for opportunity, and N for needs. She also used scripture for each. It reminds us to lead a clean life. She gave away a prize, an apron, won by Sue Tanner. Molly Smith read the minutes and roll call. There were 50 sick visits and 35 charities. Joyce Smith read a story called, "After the Storm, Neighbors Helping Neighbors". Two thank you notes were read. Sharon Feeback and Joyce Smith reported on the good District Meeting. Sue Tanner had the meal and Sharon Feeback won the door prize. Six Methodist men joined us for dinner. The Irvingsville Baptist Church had their annual wiener roast and hayride last Saturday night. Phyllis Brady was invited to a "Tea" at the Elmarch U.M. Church's Women's on Saturday and enjoyed it immensely. A light lunch and several choices of tea and the tables, the windows, etc. decorated so beautifully with fall items. We had cute homemade place cards and napkins ect. Bonnie Teater was an excellent speaker and so enthusiastic, speaking on each color of fall. The Indian Creek Baptist Church had their annual picnic on Saturday afternoon before the service. The Rohs Theater, Cynthia, also known as the Harrison Community Theatre almost had a full house on Friday night for the play, "The Fantastics", which really was fantastic. The 15 players were excellent actors and singers, which included Doctor Besson and daughter Abby. It was performed 3 times. The Nicholas County High School is to be commended for hosting the band competition. It had a great turnout and had great talent displayed. The Ellisville Homemakers met on Tuesday at the library with 14 in attendance, Eleven members, two visitors and Agent Kim. The pledge was recited, followed by devotion. Faye Buggard had a copy of the minutes for each of us. Martha Kaye Ritchie conducted the business. Kim Foster announced many upcoming events. The hostess for the meal was Debbie Workman and Mary Jo McCord with potluck also. Our white elephant sale today was so much fun. Phyllis Brady had the recreation and prize won by Phyllis Alexander. About 50 cakes are to be made for our cakewalk at the fall festival.

Nine Lady Jackets recognized before last home match

By Brad Laux
KYNewsGroup

Nearly half of the Nicholas County volleyball team took to the court on Wednesday for the final time as the Lady Jackets honored a group of nine on Senior Night before its match with Deming.

"They all love each other and are a close-knit bunch. The bus rides are hilarious," said first-year Nicholas County coach Penny Bretz. "They get down on themselves, but whether they win or lose, they get back to their fun selves and have had a fun senior year. All nine are going to go on to college and that's big for a small school like ours. They will be greatly missed both on and off the floor."

The nine: Lindsey Banks, Chelsey Lyons, Robyn Cohorn, Anna Marie Mattox, Christina Baker, Katelyn Crawford, Laken Howard, Ramona Asal and Katie Trussell, faced a tough task against rival Deming and ended the match by dropping a 25-11, 25-11 decision. The end brought about a variety of different sentiments.

"I have mixed emotions. It is sad that my high school career is almost over. I'd like to keep playing. We didn't do as good as we hoped. We have a good team, but we're just not consistent. We have good potential; just everybody didn't play well at the same time," said Howard, admitting that volleyball was her favorite sport.

Nicholas County (4-16) proved to be little competition for Deming (26-6), which is steamrolling its way through its best-ever season.

The Lady Jackets stayed close early in the first set until Lady Devil Kenzi Graves reeled off five straight service aces to push the visitors to an 8-3 lead. It was part of Deming's 12 aces in game one.

"Defensively, we need to work on hitting off hard servers. (But) I think our setters did well, setting to our spikers," Howard said. "(There are) just little things we need to get under control and stop being so nervous during the game."

Nicholas County stayed within five at 11-6 until Deming's Jessica Mitchell tallied two kills, Hannah Gifford added one and Liz McClain reeled off six service aces to cap off a 10-0 run.

"We wanted to play stronger and so we were ready for the Bracken (County) match Monday (in the district tournament)," McClain said. "We wanted to player together as a team and move to the ball. We could have played a little better. There are always some mistakes, but we did good."

The Lady Jackets stopped the run by scoring three straight points, including two on a pair of aces by Howard, but Deming was able to finish the set on a Samantha Gaunce ace.

The Lady Devils scored the first three points of the second set and eventually jumped out to an 11-2 lead, again helped by four Graves service aces.

The hosts put together a mini-run and closed with-in seven at 13-6, but three Lady Jacket errors allowed Deming to take a 16-7 advantage. From there, the powerful Lady Devil offense did the rest as the visitors went on a 7-2 run that included three kills from Hannah Gifford and three aces from Gaunce, before eventually finishing out the win with a Kelsey Carmack kill.

"We didn't play well. We didn't move to the ball," Bretz admitted, although noting there were some bright spots. "Our seniors who normally do not play much showed they can play. ... We've been close a lot, but we have no one with that killer instinct to step up and put people away."

Deming raised its all-time record against Nicholas County to 15-0, including a 6-0 mark in Carlisle. The win was the Lady Devils ninth straight, which extended their school record. Deming, which is 17-2 since Aug. 28, also captured its sixth consecutive road victory and improved to 16-6 away from Mt. Olivet.

Conversely, the Lady Jackets dropped their eighth straight and fifth in a row at home. Nicholas County finished the regular season with a 3-8 mark in its new gym.

Deming held decisive advantages in most statistical categories. The Lady Devils had 16 kills to Nicholas County's four and 20 service aces to just two for the Lady Jackets. However, the hosts only committed three service errors to the visitors' nine.

Carmack led the way for Deming with seven kills. Gifford contributed four, with Jessica Mitchell tallying three and Lacey Mitchell two. Howard and Sarah Hamilton each had two kills to pace Nicholas County.

Graves finished with a match best nine aces, while McClain chipped in six and Gaunce contributed four. Howard had both of the Lady Jackets' aces.

"I thought the girls did a great job winning their 26th game this season," Deming coach Ann Grause said. "They have made me very proud of all of them."

Bretz is sad to see her nine seniors leave and wished she had a chance to coach them longer, but is excited about the young Lady Jackets who are the program's future.

"Lindsey has played for six years. She was the only one to play since middle school. The rest played for just two or three years, but they've all improved a lot this year," Bretz said. "I wish most had played for four years. They have improved their ball skills and attack skills and if they'd played for four years, several could have played in college. If some of the younger kids stick with it, they will be good in two to three years."

Nicholas County and Deming next head to their respective district tournaments. The Lady Jackets host the 38th and will face George Rogers Clark on Monday at 7:30 p.m., while Deming travels to Augusta for a first-round meeting against Bracken County, which is scheduled for a 7:15 p.m. start.

Band

Debbie Hale said she was pleased with the way the competition turned out.

"I think everything was wonderful," Hale said. "I heard nothing but compliments, and if any negative it was just constructive criticisms on what to do better next year because they want to come back!"

In the preliminary round of competition, 15 bands competed. The results are as follows: Class A, Paris High School was awarded 1st place, best music, best effect and best guard. Metcalfe County was awarded 2nd place, best visual and best percussion.

Class AAA, Bourbon County was awarded 1st place, best music, best visual, best effect, best guard and best percussion. Corbin was awarded 2nd place. Fleming County was awarded 3rd place.

Class AAAA, South Oldham was awarded 1st place, best music, best visual, best effect, best guard and best percussion. Anderson County was awarded 2nd place and Montgomery County was awarded 3rd place.

Class AAAAA, Eastern High School was awarded 1st place best music, best visual, best effect and best guard. Bates Creek was awarded 2nd place and Dixie Heights was awarded 3rd place and best percussion.

The top 10 bands advancing to finals were: Anderson County, South Oldham, Montgomery County, Corbin, Campbell County, Bourbon County, Bates Creek, Henry Clay, Eastern High School, and Dixie Heights.

In finals competition, Eastern High School was awarded best music and best visual. There was a tie for overall effect between Eastern High School and Bourbon County. Dixie Heights was awarded best percussion and Bourbon County was awarded best color guard. Montgomery County was awarded 10th place, Corbin High School was awarded 9th place, Anderson County was awarded 8th place, South Oldham was awarded 7th place, Campbell County was awarded 6th place, Henry Clay was awarded 5th place, Dixie Heights was awarded 4th place, Bates Creek was awarded 3rd place, Bourbon County was awarded Reserve Grand Champion and Eastern High School was awarded Grand Champion.

Community members, band alumni, parents, friends and other volunteers made this event a successful one according to Hale.

"What do you say to a community that has supported something like this," Hale said. "We may be a small town, but we are a class act when it comes to inviting others in and welcoming them. I just want to thank everyone from the bottom of my heart!"

The Nicholas County marching band will be back in competition next weekend, Oct. 15, at Ryle High School for a Mid State's Band Association competition. Preliminary performance time is set for 1:15 p.m.

gency room, the officer working the report noticed slurred speech and lack of focus and alertness. According to police, she appeared confused and advised nurses that she was a passenger in the vehicle. She then informed hospital staff that she had taken Ativan, which was not prescribed to her. In her possession was also, Tramadol and Prothazine with a straw, police added.

She was later arrested for disregarding a stop sign, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of drugs, wanton endangerment, possession of a prescription drug not in proper container and possession of drug paraphernalia. The school bus involved in the accident was a 2011 Thomas Built Saf-T-Liner C2, purchased earlier in the year.

The bus sustained damage to the entry door and the paneling on both sides of the step.

Nicholas County School District Administrator Doug Bechanan said, "We want all of our students checked out by EMT personnel, to make sure there are no injuries on the scene, and we also transport them back to our facility here."

Two ambulances were dispatched to the elementary school, where Emergency Medical Professionals setup a triage station.

The bus was taken back to the bus garage for repairs.

izens who live in town, to the point that he doesn't put vehicles on the lot in which someone was deceased in.

The Council next approved payroll transfers for October 2011 with a motion by Betty Jo Booth and a second by Billy Mac Gaunce with all in favor.

Next on the agenda was the second reading of Ordinance of 15-2011 Curfew Ordinance. The ordinance is related to the curfew of minors. A minor is considered any person under the age of 18 or 17 and under. Parent is anyone who is a guardian of the child. Public places include streets, restaurants, schools, etc. and allow means to knowingly give permission or to neglect to prevent. For a parent to be in violation they must know that the child is in violation.

According to the ordinance it shall be unlawful for any parent to allow a child to be in a public place by themselves with the exception of the minor by a parent, with another child's parent authorized by parent, as long as it doesn't infringe on their first amendment right. Exceptions are provided if the minor has written notice, have reasonable reason and police have been notified.

Other exceptions include when returning home and with one hour of a school activity, church activity, when engaged in a business or occupation, when the minor is in vehicle with an adult, when the minor is passing directly through the city limits, if the minor married or had disability of minor standing removed. Police may request information from a suspected minor including; name, age, parent's names, etc. Penalties include a fine no less than $25 or no more than $500 or no more than six months jail or both.

There are more exceptions and more definitions given to the ordinance. The ordinance will be published in the newspaper upon passing and there will be a time period after passing before it goes into effect.

City Attorney Henry Watson III said, "You need to make certain findings before making decision and those findings must be in the minutes. You need statistics to show the need for the ordinance instead of just a want for it."

According to the members of the council, Gladys Shroul brought the issue before the council in a previous meeting. Watson said, "The County Attorney will have to prosecute the people accused." Watson also asked Carlisle Police Chief Layne if he could bring statistics showing the need for the ordinance and present them at a meeting so that they could be on the record. Layne stated that he could and could have them within one day.

The ordinance was tabled until the next meeting to give Chief Layne time to get statistics on the minutes.

Tommy Crawford made the motion and John Jones seconded it, with all members in favor.

Alan Bryan of GRW Eng. was scheduled to give an update on CDBG monies available, but was not present for the meeting.

The next item for discussion was removal of the water towers.

Mayor Booth said, "The first bid for the water Towers removal was to have the city pay $25,000 to have them removed and a motion was made not to accept. Since then have had several more put in bids; Randolph Excavations, T and N contractors, McClean, and Jolly and McCarty.

Randolph Excavations bid was to lay the towers over with a dozer, will pay the City $2200 for towers, clean up all concrete, dig down 16 inches and reseed the grass.

The bid given by McClean was to start from the top work down. Bid doesn't say anything about financial transactions.

The bid received from McCarty and Jolly was to notch front legs, release back legs and pull over with skidder or dozer. They will pay the city $2500. Will help load concrete, but not haul off.

T and N bid to remove all materials from the demolition site and pay the city $2000 for towers.

A motion was made by Eugene Hall to accept the bid from Randolph Excavation; it was seconded by Tommy Crawford with all members in favor. Work will begin soon and is given up to 30 working days to complete.

There was a long discussion about the Baker's Acres road dispute, the council members along with Mayor Booth and City Attorney Watson, decided the best path to follow was to send letters to all parties involved to request that they show up for the next meeting so that a resolution could be reached.

New Business on the agenda included Surplus property consisting of a 1979 Chevy Sludge truck chassis and the old wooden city barn. A motion to sell the truck via sealed bids was made by Billy Mac Gaunce and seconded by John Jones with all members in favor. A sealed bid will also be accepted for removal of the barn, it is the hope of the council that it will be removed for the lumber, with possibly a fee being paid to the city again with a sealed bid. Betty Jo Booth made the motion and Doug Garrett seconded it with all members in favor.

The final business on the agenda was a resolution to designate alternate or substitute place in case of an emergency situation: Emergency Management Director Calvin Denton came to Mayor Booth to inform him that the council and city office need to set up a place to hold city meetings in case of emergency in which the city office would be inaccessible, according to Booth. A motion was made to accept the City Fire Department as an alternate location to hold meetings and run the city, just in case there was an emergency (such as the building collapsing). Tommy Crawford made the motion, with Betty Jo Booth seconding it, and all members voting in favor of the location. The members did leave open the possibility of other locations as well.

Fiscal Court

Soil Conservation District would not fall under a "taxing district" such is created for Libraries, education, etc. instead it would need to be a direct funded appropriation. The question that the Fiscal Court members must decide is what a reasonable budget is.

Silas Cleavor was the first person not on the court to speak. He said, "I want to talk to you about being a human being, if you don't push forward you will never take the hill."

The members of the court all took turns speaking about their opinions on the tax.

Steve Hamilton began, "There are valid points on either end. I am from a working family and do not want to see it closed, however 80% of my district doesn't want an increased tax. It puts us in a tough situation. I have asked some questions and got some answers. It would be great if we could put it on the May ballot and let the people decide."

Unfortunately that cannot be the case. A letter from the office of Sannie Overly was presented. It said, "KRS 262.200(4) states that funds for an approved budget for a board of supervisors for a conservation district may be paid out of the general fund for the county or from the levy of a millage tax on all real property within the county. Funds for an approved budget shall be supplied either from general funds or from the levy of a millage tax on all real property within the boundaries of the county. The tax shall be collected in the same manner as other county taxes, and shall be credited to the board. The funds so collected shall be expended by the board for the employment of soil conservation aids and for other purposes directly associated with the program, including promotional activities, prize moneys, office equipment and supplies, and incidentals deemed necessary. I consulted with Mark Mitchell in Local Government, and he said that since the tax is to be collected in the same manner as other county taxes and there are no special provisions concerning how the tax is levied, the fiscal court must levy the tax by ordinance. The statutes do not provide for a public referendum, so the question of the levy of the tax cannot be put to a public vote. Public forums may be held to allow for debate and input, but the tax must be levied by the fiscal court by ordinance."

The letter puts to rest the possibility of a public vote on the matter.

Jeff Randolph was next to speak. He stated, "I want the project to stay afloat but my concentration leans more towards an ambulance tax. I have less people that would use it than anybody."

Darvin Mitchell said, "We have to do something to help them, they are a good organization, but we need to do what is in the best interest of all of Nicholas County."

Mike Webb continued, "We need to sit at the table and do a lot of negotiation. We have to watch what we budget. I am definitely not for adding a tax on it."

Jimmy Wells, added, "I have been a farmer too, I started cutting tobacco at eight years old. I have never got anything from the Soil Conservation District but I know it has good things in it. Funding will put us in a bind. I don't want to see taxes raised."

County Judge Executive Kenneth Lyons began by going over figures from 2005 to date. He then stated, "If we are going to keep operating this county and we want these services, we have to find a way to pay for them. When I was in business I never asked for a raise in prices unless it was absolutely necessary. I don't like to raise taxes but if we are going to have these things, we need a way to fund them so we can move forward and not let the rest of the world pass us by. It isn't my decision to make; it is that of the court."

Silas Cleavor spoke again saying that soil Conservation builds manure barns, and many other projects and those projects are taxed, giving money back to the community.

Jeff Randolph then stated that he thinks that if it could be put on a ballot that it would never pass.

The Soil Conservation district has been in operation in Nicholas County since 1941.

John Cleavor Jr. said, "90% of the farmers are getting old. The Homestead Act is changing things. We need Soil Conservation and Extension. I have used it my whole life. This county is rich in Agriculture tradition."

Steve Coleman, Director out of Frankfort, Said. Many of these programs are struggling to keep programs available. The State is matching the money that the county puts in. Kentucky has 121 Conservation Districts and day in and day out they help people. For every one dollar the Fiscal Court puts in they get $10 back."

A quote was heard at the meeting, "It's not always the most popular thing that makes us successful."

Steve Hamilton explained, "The majority of farmers I have spoken to said they have survived without anything from the Soil Conservation District and will continue without the Soil Conservation District."

Tara Duncan was next saying, "We didn't ask for a tax, we asked for funding."

The total asked for was $63,000 from the Soil Conservation District. County Attorney Letcher asked that the District submit an updated budget to the court with what they needed to stay afloat.

The Resolution was tabled until the October 12 meeting, to allow time for discussion and to receive the updated budget from the Soil Conservation District. Mike Webb made the motion, Steve Hamilton seconded it, and all members of the court were in agreement. With that the meeting was adjourned until October 12 at 5:00 p.m.

A message from your Emergency Management Agency

Nicholas County
Emergency Management Agency
Calvin R. Denton EM
Director, Carlisle, KY
859-289-3760

Did you know? State statute requires that every county have an Emergency Management Agency? Some cities have embraced this idea and created an EM agency in addition to the county EM Office because they realize the critical role this agency has during disasters.

The Emergency Management Agency is routinely called EM, not to be confused with EMS (Emergency Medical Service) which is the ambulance service. The EM office in smaller communities normally consists of one person, the EM director. They may have a volunteer deputy director or two and a Search and Rescue Coordinator, while larger County EM Offices may have several paid staff. EM is normally one of those behind the scenes agencies with a wide degree of responsibility without the public having knowledge what this agency does. So it is important for the public to know what this agency is and its width and breadth of duties and obligations in local government.

The EM Director is in essence the jurisdictions public safety officer. The EM Director works closely with all emergency response agencies, and health care agencies to create an emergency plan called the Emergency Operations Plan that address's the roles and responsibilities of each agency for the various types of natural or manmade disasters that affect the jurisdiction and how local governments will respond to the aid the citizens within constraints of public law.

Among the many duties

all of which cannot be covered here but of vital importance include the Emergency Operations Center (EOC). A secure EOC is the direct responsibility of the EM Director. During disasters the EOC serves as the central hub or nerve center for local government and the various response agencies where they come together in a single location to coordinate and make joint decisions as to how to make the best use of manpower and resources available in the jurisdiction. The EM Director is also responsible for hazardous materials (HAZMAT) planning and mitigation planning. During a locally declared disaster or emergency, along with a multitude of other duties, the EM Director is the lead coordinating agency that is responsible for making the decision to open shelters, request assistance from the state or surrounding counties and conduct damage assessment.

Extensive preplanning is required to establish and maintain a shelter system to take care of disaster victims that may find themselves with nowhere to go. Shelter locations need the capability to prepare meals, provide sleeping arrangements plus people to manage and run the shelter and provide security. Shelter operations may last a single night or extend into weeks, depending on the disaster and the ability of individuals to find family to live with or make other accommodation arrangements.

Often during major disaster local jurisdictions will need assistance from the state or surrounding counties. The EM Director has the responsibility for assuring those requests are properly requested and must plan for the needs of those mutual aid resources when they arrive, to include: feeding, fuel, lodging, and providing and individual to serve as a supervisor for those assets to report to. During disasters the EM Director also serves as the primary liaison for the local jurisdiction of government to work directly with state agencies and FEMA to assure that all possible support and assistance is requested to help the community recover.

Damage assessment is a critical element to recovery from disaster that has destroyed infrastructure, businesses and private residences. The EM Director cannot successfully complete this task alone in the short time frame set by state or federal officials. This damage assessment report not only affects that jurisdiction but affects the entire State's chance of receiving assistance from FEMA. Therefore every road that may have been affected has to be assessed and individual homes that received damages reported and require assistance from others who have received proper damage assessment training.

Responsibilities for searching for missing persons fall to the EM Director according to state statute. It is EM's responsibility to assure that there are agencies in the county trained to search for individuals that may have become lost. Searches may last from a few hours to weeks.

All searches are highly technical and are considered a life and death mission until the individual is found, because the current condition of the missing person is not known until they are found. The local EM is the initiating agency for Golden Alerts. A Golden Alert is activated for individuals that have been determined to have an organic brain disorder as defined in state statute NOT all missing persons fall in the category of EM responsibility, such as run-aways, searches for criminals, activities that are declared criminal in nature by law enforcement or individuals that may be armed and may be a threat to searchers.

This is not an all inclusive list of responsibilities of the EM Director and it should be clear that EM cannot begin to fill their legislative mandates without the help of every emergency response agency in the jurisdiction working together for the citizens and the community. The EM office is a coordinating and support agency during major emergencies and disaster. Together they are a team.

If you are interested in learning more about your local emergency management and are interested in a speaker for your club or organization, contact your local EM Director and invite them to share the rest of the story with you.

Woody Graham elected President of Kentucky Building Materials Association

(Flemingsburg) – Woody Graham has been elected President of the Kentucky Building Materials Association. He has served on the board since 2006. Woody is the owner of A.W. Graham Lumber Company in Flemingsburg, KY.

In early 1998 Woody began selling lumber from a pick-up truck. The response to Woody's lumber venture was so overwhelming that in February of 1999 he decided to take the risk of working full-time in his own lumber and building supply business. Woody's business grew and quickly went from 2 to 25 employees selling a wide range of lumber and building products. Woody is married to Cindy Graham. They have three children Michael Hughes, Shelley Justice, and Andrew Graham.

The Kentucky Building Materials Association located in Louisville, Kentucky is an organization made up of retail lumber and building material dealers and associate members. The association is dedicated to developing and delivering programs, services and related products that will assist its members in serving the public in a professional manner. The KBMA, formed in 1906 and in continuous service to its members for 102 years, is affiliated with the National Lumber & Building Material Dealers Association located in Washington, D.C.

The election of Mr. Graham took place the KBMA's annual convention in Louisville, earlier this year.

Plant now for spring beauty

By Melinda Myers, gardening expert, TV & radio host, author and columnist

Don't miss a chance to color up your spring landscape. Get busy now planting spring flowering bulbs like daffodils, tulips, and hyacinths.

Look for creative ways to use bulbs in your landscape. Plant a massive ribbon of blue squills or grape hyacinths to create the illusion of a river in your spring landscape. Or fill the front lawn with shorter bulbs for added color. Just wait until they are done blooming to mow the grass at its highest possible setting.

Mix bulbs to double the bloom power or extend their flowering beauty. I like to mix the equally assertive daffodils and squills for a double layer of color. Try combining early blooming crocus with mid spring daffodils, late spring tulips, and even later blooming allium for months of enjoyment.

And force a few to enjoy indoors or outdoors in areas where you can't plant bulbs in the ground. Give these bulbs 15 weeks of temperatures between 35 and 45 degrees to initiate bloom. Forcing bulbs video

Plant spring flowering bulbs outdoors in fall, so winter's chill can set the flower buds for the beautiful spring flowers. Those gardening in the south need to look for bulbs that require minimal chilling or are pre-cooled for winter planting. Northern gardeners have until the ground freezes to get their bulbs in the ground.

Plant bulbs 2 to 3 times their vertical height deep in properly prepared soil. Add a low nitrogen slow release fertilizer like Milorganite to the soil at planting. Water thoroughly as the bulbs are putting down roots before the ground freezes.

Those tired of battling the animals may want to plant resistant bulbs such as daffodils, hyacinths, Fritillaria, alliums, Camassia, glory-of-the snow, snow drops squills, Kentucky Senate President and Republican candidate for Governor, David Williams, was in the area Oct. 4, meeting with constituents and asking for their support to become Kentucky's next governor.

Williams was welcomed at Double S Entertainment in Flemingsburg, by Fleming County Judge-Executive Larry Foxworthy.

Williams gave an overview of his political stance on a variety of issues while speaking easily with all present. He made public comments to those gathered as a group and later spoke one-on-one to constituents.

"The most important thing we have to do is start creating well-paying jobs," Williams said as he began outlining his goals as governor.

Williams also said he was in favor of tax reform and wants to eliminate personal and corporate income tax while creating a new tax commission.

"We need a consumption tax but we need to make compensations for folks on a fixed income," he said. "We've got to jump start our economy."

Williams said the key to Kentucky's success was through economic growth and that was why he supported doing away with excessive state regulations.

"I don't think any state regulation should be more stringent than federal regulations," he said, while explaining that deregulation would also bring opportunities and jobs to Kentucky. "If a company is in federal compliance then there is no reason why they shouldn't be welcomed in Kentucky." He made it clear that he was not a fan of President Barack Obama and many of his policies, voicing strong opposition to the president's healthcare proposals.

"It is unconstitutional for anybody to be forced to buy any product," he said when referring to individuals purchasing health insurance as part of the president's healthcare proposal.

Williams said if the president's policies on healthcare were enacted it would raise the Medicaid recipients in Kentucky from 814,000 to 1.3 million.

"Kentucky needs to be there in the fight and fight this before the Supreme Court," he said.

Kentucky is not currently one of several states, which has filed a lawsuit against the proposed health care reform, but Williams thinks the state should join the legal battle.

Williams also voiced opposition against prevailing wage practices.

"Private schools can be built at least 25 percent less than public schools because they don't have to have prevailing wages. I think it should be a local option decided upon locally by each county. Let the people decide."

Williams also spoke against "frivolous medical lawsuits," and joked with the crowd on the subject.

"Hey, I'm a lawyer myself, but don't hold that against me," he said.

Much of Williams' platform was economy-based and geared to bring more money and jobs into the state. He said he believed that Kentucky had to embrace coal and nuclear power and possibly deregulate the coal industry to help keep electricity cheap.

"If the price of electricity continues to increase then we will lose more jobs," he said while stating many business owners would simply have to close their doors because they wouldn't be able to continue on with their business unless their energy costs were decreased.

"President Obama made sure that 19 coal permits were tuned down," he said. "Well you can't be for cheap electricity and be for Obama."

Williams did not say that he supported 'Mountain Top Removal' of coal, but did say that he believed "sufficient safeguards were in place" to protect the environment and the coal industry should be "developed responsibly."

He said he supported the Kentucky National Guard and when the security of the nation was at risk he would support the deployment of troops, but added "I don't think we need to be the police for the world."

He also criticized many of the policies Governor Steve Beshear supported and indicated the governor was acting cowardly for refusing to participate in a debate with him and Independent candidate for governor, Gatewood Galbraith.

"Governor Beshear has no vision," he said in summarizing his thoughts on the governor.

Williams said he was going to be a passionate leader if elected as the next governor and he was particularly passionate about agriculture.

Williams' running mate is well-known Secretary of Agriculture and former UK basketball standout Richie Farmer.

Williams has publicly stated many times that he will continue to support the Kentucky Proud program.

"Richie and I will be a great team," he said.

Williams has also repeatedly pointed out that he is "in favor of more jobs and less government."

He said he wasn't necessarily in favor of welfare reform, but did indicate the welfare system was being abused by a handful of recipients. He said that he "was in favor of drug testing welfare recipients."

Senator Williams received a warm and friendly welcome from Fleming County citizens, farmers, community leaders and business owners, who all enjoyed refreshments together, compliments of Mrs. Foxworthy, following the meeting.

Magistrate David Deatley was among the elected officials present and spoke privately, though briefly, with Williams before the senator left.

Williams appeared very relaxed, well versed and receptive, to all comments and questions posed to him.

He said he wants to be your next governor.

"No one will work harder for you as governor as I will and the day after the election is when the real work begins. I'm asking for your help and your vote."

and grape hyacinths.

Or protect animal favorites like tulips, lilies, and crocus with a bulb dip of Bobbex. Start with a pair of waterproof gloves for this task. Bobbex is safe and natural, but not a fragrance you want to wear all day long. Carefully remove the papery cover and soak the bulbs for 3 to 5 minutes in Bobbex. You will have the best results using the concentrated formula of Bobbex-R Animal repellent. Allow the bulbs to dry before planting. The scent of Bobbex masks the smell of the bulbs protecting them from hungry critters throughout the winter.

Then next spring apply Bobbex to your bulbs and other landscape plants as soon as they emerge and leaf out, protecting them from hungry rabbits, deer, and other animals.

So get a jump on the spring season with a bit of fall landscape care.

CRIT LUALLEN AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Steven L. Beshear, Governor
Lori H. Flanery, Secretary
Finance and Administration Cabinet
Honorable Kenneth Lyons, Nicholas County Judge/Executive
Honorable Leonard T. Garrett, Former Nicholas County Sheriff
Honorable Jeff Sidles, Nicholas County Sheriff
Members of the Nicholas County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the former Nicholas County Sheriff's Settlement - 2010 Taxes for the period April 16, 2010 through August 09, 2011. This tax settlement is the responsibility of the former Nicholas County Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for Sheriff's Tax Settlements issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the Sheriff's office prepares the financial statement in accordance with the modified cash basis, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the former Nicholas County Sheriff's taxes charged, credited, and paid for the period April 16, 2010 through August 09, 2011, in conformity with the modified cash basis of accounting.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated September 6, 2011 on our consideration of the former Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

Based on the results of our audit, we present the accompanying comment and recommendation, included herein, which discusses the following report comment:

2010-01 The Former Sheriff's Office Lacked Adequate Segregation Of Duties

Respectfully submitted,

GENERAL NEWS

Halloween-inspired treats

Part of the fun of Halloween is arriving home after a day of trick-or-treating and having some spooktacular treats to enjoy. Whether you're hosting a Halloween party or simply feeding a group of hungry, costumed kids, fun recipes that turn ordinary foods into spooky specialties are essential.

Mummy Wraps

Take the "pigs in a blanket" concept to a new level with this clever treat. Simply wrap hot dogs with strips of dough cut from refrigerator biscuits or breadsticks to simulate the look of mummy shrouds. Place them on cookie sheets. Cut small slits for eyes and place peppercorns or black mustard seeds to serve as the eyes. Bake for about 15 minutes, or until golden brown. To serve upright, place shish kabob skewers in the mummies before baking and then stick the mummies in a piece of craft foam covered in cheesecloth.

Cheesy Fingers

What's scarier than dismembered digits on a plate? All it takes is a package of mozzarella string cheese, a knife and some small, thin slices of green and red bell peppers for this gross delicacy.

Cut the cheese sticks in half and then use a knife to carve straight indentations to simulate the bends in the skin around the knuckles of the fingers. At the top, carve out a flattened area for the fingernail. Then place very small slices of red or green peppers to serve as the spooky fingernails. Adhere with a dab of cream cheese.

Bottomless Bog

This eerie bog will make children question what is inside.

Make a large bowl of green gelatin dessert and pop in different edible creepy crawlies before allowing the gelatin to set. Gummy worms, grape "eyeballs," sour fish, pieces of fruit tape, and anything else you can think of can be added. Kids will scoop out the dessert and discover the frightening things inside.

Skull Potatoes

Turn ordinary potatoes

into something seemingly more sinister.

Halve baking potatoes and carve each half into a skull shape, sort of like the outline of a pear. Bake until the potatoes are cooked through. Frost with sour cream. Use pieces of cheese to mimic decaying teeth. Black olives can be eyes and nose sockets of the skull.

Quesadilla Ghosts

An open-faced quesadilla can be turned into a spooky specter.

Cut ghost-shaped pieces from flour tortilla shells. Sprinkle with shredded Monterey jack cheese and allow to bake in the oven until the cheese has melted and the ghosts are crisp.

Spread sour cream over the cheese and then use slices of scallion for the eyes and a ring of jalapeno pepper for a mouth. Ghosts can be made gory with salsa as blood.

Vampire Veggies

What if veggies could suck blood? Conduct this science experiment and enjoy eating the research afterward.

Cut the ends off of stalks of celery. Place the celery in a tall glass filled halfway with tomato juice overnight. The celery should absorb the juice through the thin channels in the stalks. The next day kids can bite into the stalks and see the red streaks inside.

Spiderweb Garnish

Top cupcakes, cookies and cakes with delicate, homemade spiderwebs.

Melt white chocolate baking melts in the microwave or per the manufacturer's instructions. Use a squeeze bottle or a small spatula to drizzle the chocolate onto a piece of waxed paper in the shape of a spiderweb. Allow the chocolate to cool and then carefully peel off the paper.

Mashed Brains

Create a shepherd's pie-inspired dinner that's inspired by the look of brains.

Make your favorite meatloaf or hamburger recipe and place into a ramekin or even cupcake pans. Whip up a batch of homemade or instant mashed potatoes. Using a pastry bag fitted with a basic hole cake decorating tip, pipe squiggly lines of potato across the meat. Bake for around 20 minutes, until meat is thoroughly cooked and potatoes are crisp.

Halloween superstitions

Many different superstitions abound, some of which are tailor made for Halloween haunting.

- * If a candle goes out on its own on Halloween, it is thought a ghost has come to call.
- * A burning candle inside of a Jack-o-lantern on Halloween keeps evil spirits at bay.
- * You invite bad luck into your home if you allow a fire to burn out on Halloween.

- * A person born on Halloween can both see and talk to spirits.
- * Seeing a spider on Halloween could be the spirit of a dead loved one who is watching you.
- * If you hear footsteps behind you on Halloween, don't look back because it could be the dead following.

* Carry a lump of bread in your pocket when walking in the dark to serve as an offering to ghosts.

- * Don't look at your shadow in moonlight on Halloween night. Otherwise, you will die within a short period of time.
- * When a person lived a good life, flowers will grow on his grave. If he was evil, weeds will grow.

* Never slam a door; otherwise, you could hurt a ghost and risk haunting.

- * Holding your breath while driving by a cemetery keeps evil spirits from entering your body.
- * If a bat flies around a house three times, it is a death omen.
- * Ringing a bell on Halloween will scare evil spirits away.

Students of the week at NBCA

Photos Submitted

Nominated this week for students of the week from New Beginnings Christian Academy are: (Left) Emilee Schanding is a pre-school student and the daughter of Anthony and Sarah Schanding. She works hard in the classroom and is always well behaved. She is so quiet that even when she cries, it's silent. Also nominated this week is (Right) Mason Rorer is in his first year at NBCA and has easily stepped into the role of cafeteria monitor on a regular basis, reminding others to keep their voices down. He is the son of Branden and Kathy Rorer.

THOUGHTS FROM THE PASTOR'S STUDY

Steve Smith, Sr. Minister
Carlisle Christian Church

TWENTY-FIVE WAYS TO GET MORE OUT OF CHURCH

1. Before church starts (even before you get to church) prepare yourself through prayer and an open heart.
2. Get a seat near the front. There are usually fewer distractions there. (No offense to those who prefer the back).
3. Take notes and follow along in your Bible.
4. Sing in the choir.
5. Go to Sunday School.
6. Share something with your Sunday School Class.
7. Help out in the nursery!
8. Become a youth group volunteer.
9. Offer to go sit by an obvious visitor and make them feel especially welcome.
10. Volunteer to be part of a special service.
11. Volunteer to be a greeter. Stand by the doors and say hi to everyone who comes in.
12. Sing all the songs to the best of your ability!
13. Offer to help out with the church's benevolent ministry (either food or money).
14. Offer to assist a Sunday School teacher by being a helper and learn to teach for yourself.

15. Offer to help a ladies group accomplish a goal.
16. Pray for your ministers.
17. Offer to help clean the church (get direction from the cleaning staff first, but make the offer).
18. Help in children's church.
19. Determine to spend time every day in prayer and Bible reading.
20. Welcome new people. Give them directions if they don't know where to go. Better yet, take them there.
21. Stay awake. Go to bed early enough on Saturday that you can get something out of church on Sunday.
22. Discuss the sermon with your family during the drive home. Or ask the kids what they learned in children's church.
23. Say a prayer for you family, friends, and those sitting around you, even if you don't know them, God does.

24. Share a positive experience and invite a friend to go to church with you.

25. Thank God for the opportunity to worship Him. Rom. 12:1 So here's what I want you to do, God helping you: Take your everyday, ordinary life—your sleeping, eating, going-to-work, and walking-around life—and place it before God as an offering. Embracing what God does for you is the best thing you can do for him. [The Message]

Did You Know???

The tablet has revolutionized the world of computers, offering consumers a device that is more portable and lightweight than a notebook computer. Its utility and application for entertainment and general use has quickly elevated its status as a must-have device, particularly among on-the-go professionals. Since the inception of the Apple iPad, many computer manufacturers have developed their own takes on the tablet design. While the tablet has mainstream applications, it begs the question how one can be put to use in the business world. Tablets have very good battery life, so they can be used for long periods of time between chargings. The portability means they can be taken anywhere and presentations can be made in the boardroom or on the boardwalk. Mobile meetings and notetaking are also easy with tablets, and professionals are never without access to e-mail or the Internet
