Large marijuana plants found

By Melissa Mitchell & Charles Mattox

Clandestine Nicholas County marijuana growers lost 30 gargantuan plants last week when lawmen located and eradicated the illegal plants.

"Some of the plants were 12 feet tall," Nicholas County Sheriff Jeff Sidles said. "We located them in the middle of a very dense brush pile after receiving an anonymous tip."

Sheriff Sidles and Nicholas County Deputy Sheriff William Thoroughman located the marijuana, some of the plants of which were so big they couldn't be effectively cut with a machete, but had to be pulled up by hand instead.

"The place the plants were located in was very hard to get to," Sheriff Sidles said. "It was so dense that we believe these plants were set out pretty early and hadn't been checked on in a while."

Sheriff Sidles applauded members of the community who continue to work with him and area law enforcement officers to suppress illegal activity and Sidles.

"We were given a tip on this patch of marijuana and although it was located in a brush pile some of the plants were so tall we could see it."

Mature marijuana plants can easily yield a pound of processed marijuana, according to local law enforcement officials, who place a value of approximately $2,000 a pound for the product on the black market.

Though abuse of prescription pain pills has been the biggest problem lawmen face with black market products, Sidles says marijuana is making a comeback.

Sheriff Sidles encourages all residents to receive good information related to illegal activity and this is just one more example of that," Sheriff Sidles said.

Sheriff Sidles said he is not naming any suspects at this time but continues to gather information with the ongoing investigation.

Anyone with any information about clandestine marijuana growing operations or any other illegal or suspicious activity is encouraged to contact Sheriff Sidles at 859-289-3740 or at 859-473-5747.

Four charged with local burglaries

Two men and two women have been arrested in connection with recent Nicholas County burglaries.

Nicholas County Sheriff Jeff Sidles arrested Joshua Cunningham, 29, Wesley Boone, 29, Hannah Hogsten Boone, 20, and Stephanie Gill, 27, all of Carlisle, and charged them each with one count each of burglary, 1st degree, and burglary, 2nd degree, upon their July 31 arrest.

Cunningham had been previously charged on July 20 in an unrelated charge.

Sheriff Sidles said additional charges of theft may be pending.

All four remain lodged in the Bourbon County Jail.

Sheriff Sidles said

he was contacted by a resident of the Lake Carnico area whose home had been burglarized on July 16, with a forced entry being made and several items, including a handgun, TV, jewelry and other valuables including historical artifacts, being taken. Sidles began his investigation, which led him to a Cynthia pawn shop where he located the stolen handgun, a .38 caliber Charter Arms.

"While I was there I received a report of a second burglary," Sidles said. "This burglary occurred on Suggs Road and involved the taking of video games and other items."

Sidles said both burglaries took place in broad daylight while the home owners were away from their home.

"We were able to recover the handgun and several other items from the two burglaries," Sidles said.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Michael Fogleman assisted Sheriff Sidles with the investigation.

Sheriff Sidles cautions all residents of Nicholas County to remain vigilant and work together to prevent future crimes of this nature. Anyone who witnesses any suspicious activity is encouraged to contact law enforcement agencies or dial 911.

Sheriff Sidles said Monday morning that he is investigating another home burglary that occurred over the weekend on Cassidy Creek Road. A TV and several remote control cars and a .22 caliber rifle were among the items taken, according to Sheriff Sidles who asks that anyone with any information regarding the burglary to contact him at 859-473-5747.

All persons are presumed innocent until proven guilty or pleading guilty.

Fiscal Court discuss repairs

By Melissa Mitchell Manager melissa@kynewsgroup.com

Fiscal Court members met on Friday in a special called meeting to discuss roads and repairs of buildings.

Judge Executive Kenyon Lyons asked the court to take a look at the road situation. There are numerous roads in need of repairs throughout the county. According to Judge Lyons, roads in District 1 seem to be in dire need of resurfacing. He asked the court members to share their flex money to help assist in repairing the roads in District 1.

"We aren't going to catch up by district. I am looking at it county wide," Judge Lyons stated.

"I don't have a problem with sharing, but we have already discussed what we were going to do for this year," Magistrate Jeff Randolph replied.

Magistrate Mike Webb suggested that they go ahead as planned this year to work on the roads they turned in from each district and then start with a plan next year to work on the county and share the money to where it is needed.

All of the magistrates agreed to continue with the plan they had implemented earlier in the year, then work on next year to share the money and fix the roads by county wide. Repairs at the hospital and the old Health Department building continued to be a topic for the court. According to Judge Lyons the hospital is need of a roof and air conditioner. To repair the two it would cost approximately $150,000.

Magistrate Steve Hamilton stated that the hospital does need something done to it. County Attorney Dawn Letcher, quoted from the lease that the tenants are responsible for the sidewalks, parking area, and to be responsible for the roofing repairs. The landlord is responsible for checking into the sidewalks, and the parking lot to make

REGARDING JONES HOY AND JACK CALLAWAY

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

August 10, 1782, on a bridge adjacent to the west bank of Tate's Creek, in present-day northwestern Madison County, Kentucky, at William Hoy's Station.

Some would consider it strange that nine-year-old Jones Hoy had an uncle, John "Jack" Callaway, who was two years younger than he was. But those who lived along the Kentucky frontier in 1782 accepted it without interest, for they knew the head woman of the family's clan; Elizabeth Jones Hoy Callaway, who was Jack's mother and Jones' grandmother.

Elizabeth Jones had married John Hoy early in her life and the couple had two sons; John Booker Hoy and William Hoy.

Elizabeth's husband died in 1766 and the next year she married Colonel Richard Callaway who was a widowed father of 13 children. They had three additional children together including Jack. Jack Callaway and Jones Hoy were born in, and lived their entire adolescent lives in, the frontier war zone, with most of their years living in the area that encapsulated central Kentucky.

Few families in America would ever sacrifice so much upon the altar of freedom as the Callaway family did in frontier Kentucky.

The relationship between the Callaway family members and several clans of various Native Americans is spellbinding on several levels.

The family is directly linked to, and related to, the family of Daniel Boone.

Elizabeth (Betsy) and Francis (Fanny) Callaway (two of Colonel Callaway's daughters) had been captured with Jemima Boone in 1776 and the rescue of the girls had become something of a legend across the countryside.

Betsy and Fanny's brothers: Micajah and James; had been captured with Boone's salt makers at the Lower Blue Licks Springs in 1778 and hadn't been heard from since, although Boone and several other salt makers had escaped and returned to Kentucky. Boone's escape and his questionable actions following his escape, particularly in the days prior to the great siege of Fort Boonesborough, had caused a rift between Boone and Colonel Callaway, which eventually led to Callaway having Boone tried for treason and other charges in a formal, military court marshal.

Boone was acquitted of all charges but the bad blood between both men led to their moving away from one another and caused a division within the families of both men.

The two young boys; Jones and Jack, had absorbed a wealth of frontier knowledge and developed essential survival skills even at their very early ages.

One of the greatest tragedies to their family had come during the summer of 1780 when Colonel Callaway was away from Hoy's Station and was caught by raiding Shawnee warriors, a splinter group of the enemy forces, which destroyed Ruddle's and Martin's Stations that same summer.

The Shawnee splinter group had found Callaway along the Kentucky River, not far from the station and had tortured and scalped him.

Then they had burned him alive.

Similar atrocities were common along the frontier and such was the environment that Jones and Jack grew up in.

Though the Revolutionary War was officially concluded in the east with the surrender of British General Cornwallis at Yorktown on Oct. 19, 1781, that had meant little to the many Native American warriors that were still fighting for supremacy in the western lands of Kentucky.

The warriors of the Wyandotte, Mingo, Chipewa, and Shawnee nations, had clashed fiercely with the settlements in central Kentucky that very year, with the Battle of Little Mountain, fought in present-day Montgomery County between Kentuckians under the command of Capt. Sam Estill and Wyandotte warriors.

Fearing annihilation at the hands of colonial militia, who attacked their villages along the Sandusky River in Ohio, the Wyandotte's had collectively decided to die as a nation of warriors and thus had resigned themselves to their fate with a violent intensity not seen since or before.

They were led by fatalistic, but brilliant guerrilla fighters, such as the renegade Simon Girty and Mingo Chief Black Wolf.

On August 10, 1782 the perfect storm was brewing and Jones Hoy and Jack Callaway would find themselves in the eye of the coming storm of violence.

History has not recorded what the boys were thinking about or talking about that summer morning outside of the walled stockade of Hoy's Station.

But history has recorded that the two boys were captured by a rogue splinter group of Native American warriors who were among the great British and Native American enemy force that was looking to destroy the Kentucky settlements.

Both boys were taken captives as they gathered watermelons from one of the gardens near the station.

That single small incident would lead to the cataclysmic battle of Upper Blue Licks, the Siege of Bryant's Station and the subsequent Battle of Lower Blue Licks, which all occurred only a few days following the capture of Jones Hoy and Jack Callaway.

If the Good Lord is willing, dear reader, we will examine the circumstance and heroic actions which would mark those next two weeks of August 1782 and forever change the lives of all who lived in this ancient and beautiful, though sometimes merciless land.

Two Local Women Donate Hair to Locks of Love

By Eric Tolson

Last Wednesday, Jackie Bond, 40, and her daughter Mary Ruark, 19, ventured to Georgie Girls Hair Salon to receive haircuts. Upon entering, they informed the stylist that they would be donating a large portion of their hair to Locks of Love, an organization that uses donated hair to make wigs for patients suffering from cancer.

"I just thought someone could use it more than I could," said Bond, "I had planned to do it before, due to a friend of mine getting cancer. Unfortunately, she passed away, so I never got around to donating. My father and mother-in-law both died from cancer and lost all their hair because of the treatments, so cancer has affected me very closely."

Locks of Love is public non-profit organization which provides hairpieces and wigs to financially disadvantaged children in the United States and Canada. The organization benefits children under the age of 21 who suffer from long-term medical hair loss from any diagnosis. Most of the children helped by the organization have lost their hair due to a medical condition known as alopecia areata, which has no known cause or cure. The prosthetic hair pieces Locks of Love provides help to restore the confidence and self-esteem of the children, which enables them to face the world and their peers.

Bond and Ruark decided that morning that they would be donating, having each grown their hair to incredible lengths. They decided that this is the most direct way they could help the cause and know that their hair will go to a good cause.

Nicholas County Welcomes Foreign Exchange Student from Germany

By Eric Tolson
KYNewsGroup
eric@kynewsgroup.com

Being in a new place can be very difficult for anyone. Even if you move to a new town, it can be very challenging learning the places, people and way of life that others deem normal. Can you imagine what it would be like being in a completely different country? Language aside, it can be extremely difficult learning the way of life and traditions of others. Even things as simple as food can be a massive change. Christoph Krüger, a 16 year-old foreign exchange student in Nicholas County, endures and embraces these challenges daily. Hailing from Germany, Christoph will be attending Nicholas County High School as a senior in the coming school year. He will be taking many classes during his 10-month tenure at Nicholas County, including U.S. History, Business Math and English 4, which he hopes will help him better understand the language. When asked about how different American is compared to his native Germany, Christoph responded with great enthusiasm. "It is very different, much larger than Germany. But I'm hoping to learn a great deal about the way life is in America. It's been fairly easy adapting so far, but I'm really looking forward to going to school in America." Robert Carson, Christoph's host parent, is a resident of Nicholas County who lives on Bethel Road. Carson had heard about the foreign exchange student program through a relative, who once hosted a student from Switzerland, and decided that it would be a great opportunity to learn about another culture. Christoph enjoys many activities, including swimming and sports, and also hopes to play football while residing in Nicholas County. He is very excited about the upcoming school year, and hopes to learn all that he can about American life.

Tractor Show at Allison's Concrete

By Eric Tolson
KYNewsGroup
eric@kynewsgroup.com

Tractor shows are usually a very interesting event. They are often very exciting events, not only for the wide variety of farm equipment, but for the interesting people that consistently attend these events. Allison's Tractor Show & Ride was no exception.

Allison's Concrete, located in along US Highway 68 in Blue Licks, KY, located just outside of Carlisle, hosted a tractor pull last weekend from August 3-5 that attracted an array of people to display and view the many different kinds of tractors and other farm machinery. The event was free to all that chose to attend and was kicked off with a 25-mile tractor ride throughout Nicholas County.

The festivities began at 1 p.m. and included a great selection of good food, gospel and country singing, and were topped off with a fish fry by local Nicholas County resident Dick Garrett on Saturday. There were also drawings for various prizes, which were donated by Allison's Concrete.

All proceeds from the food sales went to benefit the Nicholas County Senior Center.

Nicholas County Road Workers Earn Trophies at District 9 'Rodeo'

By Eric Tolson

Ten crew members of District 9 of the Kentucky Department of Highways earned awards in the recent Equipment Rodeo, the Olympics of road workers. With more than 50 crew members competing, this is a very high honor.

"We're very proud of our crew members for this accomplishment," said Alan Blair, Information Officer for the Department of Transportation. "Very few people realize all the rigorous training these individuals go through. These events are a great way to showcase their skills."

The annual competition provides an opportunity for highway equipment operators to demonstrate and hone their skills, while simultaneously preparing for the upcoming snow and ice removal season. This event is a very important part of the training program of the Transportation Cabinet.

Nick Clark, a road department employee in Nicholas County, took first place in the Truck and Snow Plow Road Course, and also the tractor mower event.

maintenance crew members also swept the grader competition. Workers Phillip Evans, Todd Myers and Nick Clark took the top three positions in this event, respectively.

Nick Clark placed first to take the overall trophy at this year's rodeo, with his fellow crew members of Nicholas County taking the overall crew trophy after scoring the most points among all 10

District 9 competing counties.

"It requires expertise to properly operate snow plows, end loaders, graders and other equipment," stated District 9's chief engineer, Bart Bryant. "These competitions showcase the high level of skill and professionalism that our crew members exhibit each day in keeping the state's highways maintained."

Child Find for Children with Disabilities in Need of Special Education or 504 Services

Child Find
The Nicholas County School District keeps educational records in a secure location in each school and Board office. The Nicholas County School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a postsecondary institution), before disclosing personally identifiable information to an entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA.

For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. The Nicholas County School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request three years after they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Nicholas County School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed.

Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavior disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services.

Children eligible for 504 services include those children in a public elementary and secondary education program who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student's ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

Children eligible for the State-Funded Preschool program include three- and four-year-old children identified with disabilities and four-year-old children who are at-risk, as defined by federal poverty levels up to 150%. Preschool children eligible for special education must have an Individual Education Plan (IEP) instead of a 504 plan to receive State-Funded Preschool program services.

The Nicholas County School District has an ongoing "Child Find" system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services.

The district's "Child Find" system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district boundaries who may need special education services.

The Nicholas County School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Nicholas County School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The District needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Nicholas County School District collects the information needed. The information the school District collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who lives within the boundaries of the Nicholas County School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education or 504 services, please call 859-289-3770 or send the information to:

"Child Find" activities will continue throughout the school year. Any information the District collects through "Child Find" is maintained confidentially.

Written Policies and Procedures have been developed which describe the District's requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information and "Child Find" activities. Back to School Safety

Back to School Safety Tips

Provided by your Carlisle-Nicholas Co. Emergency Management Calvin Denton, Director

The following health and safety tips are from the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP).

Making the First Day Easier

Remind your child that she is not the only student who is a bit uneasy about the first day of school. Teachers know that students are anxious and will make an extra effort to make sure everyone feels as comfortable as possible.

Point out the positive aspects of starting school: it will be fun. She'll see old friends and meet new ones. Refresh her memory about previous years, when she may have returned home after the first day with high spirits because she had a good time.

Find another child in the neighborhood with whom your youngster can walk to school or ride with one the bus.

If you feel it is appropriate, drive your child (or walk with her) to school and pick her up on the first day.

Backpack safety

Choose a backpack with wide, padded shoulder straps and a padded back.

Pack light, organize the backpack to use all of its compartments. Pack heavier items closest to the center of the back. The backpack should never weigh more than 10 to 20 percent of the student's body weight.

Always use both shoulder straps. Slipping a backpack over one shoulder can strain muscles.

Consider a rolling backpack. This type of backpack may be a good choice for students who must tote a heavy load. Remember that rolling backpacks still must be carried up stairs, and they may be difficult to roll in snow.

Traveling to and from school

Review the basic rules with your youngster:

School bus

Wait for the bus to stop before approaching the curb.

Do not move around on the bus

Check to see that no other traffic is coming before crossing

Make sure to always remain in clear view of the bus driver.

Car

All passengers should wear a seat belt and/or an age- and size- appropriate car safety seat or booster seat.

Your child should ride in a car safety seat with a harness as long as possible then ride in a belt positioning booster seat. Your child is ready for a booster seat when she has reached the top weight or height allowed for her seat, her shoulders are above the top harness slots, or her ears have reached the top of the seat.

Your child should ride in a belt positioning booster seat until the vehicle's seat belt fits properly (usually when the child reaches about 4'9" in height and is between 8 to 12 years of age). This means the shoulder belt lies across the middle of the chest and shoulder, not the neck or throat; the lap belt is low and snug across the thighs, not the stomach; and the child is tall enough to sit against the vehicle seat back with her legs bent at the knees and feet hanging down.

All children under 13 years of age should ride in the rear seat of vehicles. If you must drive more than children than you can fit in the rear seat (when carpooling, for example), move the front seat passenger's seat as far back as possible and have the child ride in a booster seat if the seat belts do not fit properly without it.

Remember that many crashes occur while novice teen drivers are going to and from school. You should limit the number of teen passengers to prevent driver distraction; this is even required by law in many states. Do not allow your teen to drive while eating, drinking, or talking on a cell phone.

Bike

Always wear bicycle helmet, no matter how short or long the ride.

Ride on the right, in the same direction as auto traffic.

Use appropriate hand signals

Respect traffic lights and stop signs

Wear bright color clothing to increase visibility

Know the "rules of the road."

Walking to school

Make sure your child's walk to a school is a safe route with well-trained adult crossing guards at every intersection

Be realistic about your child's pedestrian skills. Because small children are impulsive and less cautious around traffic, carefully consider whether or not your child is ready to walk to school without adult supervision

Bright colored clothing will make your child more visible to drivers.

Bullying

Bullying is when one child picks on another child repeatedly. Bullying can be physical, verbal, or social. It can happen at school, on the playground, on the school bus, in the neighborhood, or over the internet.

When your child is bullied

Help your child learn how to respond by teaching your child how to:

Look the bully in the eye.

Stand tall and stay calm in a difficult situation.

Walk away

Teach your child how to say in a firm voice.

I don't like what you are doing

Please do NOT talk to me like that

Why would you say that?

Teach your child when and how to ask for help

Encourage your child to make friends with other children

Support activities that interest your child

Alert school officials to the problems and work with them on solutions.

Make sure an adult who knows about the bullying can watch out for your child's safety and well being when you cannot be there

When your child is the bully

Be sure your child knows that bullying is never OK

Set firm and consistent limits on your child's aggressive behavior

Be a positive role model. Show children they can get what they want without teasing, threatening or hurting someone.

Use effective, non-physical discipline, such as loss of privileges

Develop practical solutions with the school principal, teachers, counselors, and parents of the children your child has bullied.

When your child is a bystander

Tell your child not to cheer on or even quietly

watch bullying

Encourage your child to tell a trusted adult about the bullying

Help your child support other children who may be bullied. Encourage your child to include these children in activities

Encourage your child to join with others in telling bullies to stop

Before and after school child care

During middle childhood, youngsters need supervision. A responsible adult should be available to get them ready and off to school in the morning and watch over them after school until you return home from work.

Children approaching adolescence (11 and 12 year olds) should not come home to an empty house in the afternoon unless they show unusual maturity for their age

If alternate adult supervision is not available, parents should make special efforts to supervise their children from a distance. Children should have a set time when they are expected to arrive at home and should check in with a neighbor or with a parent by telephone.

If you choose a commercial after school program, inquire about the training of the staff. There should be a high staff to child ratio, and the rooms and the playground should be safe.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,

I have read all of the letters to the editor that has been published in the papers over the past couple of weeks. Last week Dorsey Watkins had a letter to the editor which I found to be very interesting.

Instead of finding all the negative things that sometimes we as citizens do, we should look at the overall positive ways that we have prospered as a community.

Attending the fiscal court meetings each month would be the first place to start, and speaking to the magistrates to give them your opinion instead of trying to put them out.

I as a tax paying citizen I prefer to have magistrates instead of commissioners. I encourage every citizen in this county to take a stand and stand behind our magistrates. Our county will get more representation with the five magistrates than what we would with three commissioners. For example

With having five magistrates, the county would have county wide representation, more of a vote, and have someone from their district to represent them. Five magistrates produce a great deal of ideas for the county, and there is a better chance for the right vote with five.

If we have commissioners we are looking at stacking the court, having a very little input for you might get a commissioner from the other end of county to represent the opposite side of the county. It is easier to sway the opinions of three than of five. Having five to represent the county offers a better selection of opinions.

It seems that there is a group of people that want to change something to their benefit instead of what is best for the county. From what I have read, there is more of a personal agenda for personal gain, instead of a county wide benefit. Some have stated that we need to raise taxes to where I may agree some, but the way that the economy is today that is not the solution.

Other counties may operate with a commissioner government but we are Nicholas County not other counties, yes the may have a bigger population than us; some of those counties are trying to return to a magisterial government for the lack of representation with commissioners.

The magistrates have been doing a good job. They try to find ways to save money, to help the county out. Such as just the past couple of years, they sale the scrap materials to receive money, they have not replaced a worker for saving the funds, using a different jail facilities, and selling Lake Carnico to keep the cost down. The money from that sale should be set aside to help the community out for something that we direly need.

I strongly encourage the citizens tax payers of Nicholas County to take a stand and stand up for our magistrates and lets keep the government as a magisterial government and VOTE against the Commissioners.

Nicholas County schools go back in session next week. More than 1,100 Nicholas County children will be entering into the morning and afternoon traffic mix, beginning Wednesday (August 14), as they travel to school by car, bus bicycle and on foot. All motorists in Carlisle and throughout Nicholas County are reminded that younger children have little experience in dealing with traffic situations. This means that vehicle drivers must use extra caution, especially during the first and early days of the new school year.

The 2002 Nicholas County Fair opened Monday night and will continue in full swing through tomorrow (Saturday) night at the West End Park. The extreme heat and humidity limited the audience on opening night, but the change in the weather Tuesday 'opened the door' for more families to enjoy the fun and the fair events.

Last Saturday night (August 3) was another special night for more than 100 graduates of the old Carlisle High School. They gathered in the cafeteria of Nicholas County Elementary & Middle School for an evening of celebration and reminiscence at their annual Alumni Association banquet.

1997

A $400,000 federal grant will help put a sewer system at Carlisle's East End. Construction could begin Spring 1998. The next step is completion of a letter of conditions and a preliminary engineering report. Those reports could be completed within the next 30 days.

City Council looks serious this time about drawing up a juvenile curfew ordinance. Although not entirely in agreement in the particulars yet, council did discuss the legalities and responsibilities of having the ordinance. Parents would have key responsibility. Reports of juveniles being on city streets at all hours, creating noise and possibly being involved in vandalism are being heard by the mayor and city council members.

The fence will come down. A compromise was reached after nearly an hour-and-a-half discussion with four attorneys at Tuesday's regular meeting of Nicholas County Fiscal Court. A main concern for magistrates and the county's insurance carrier was that having a roadway so near to the fence where the child was playing gave the insurance carrier, KaCo, "some concerns," described Flemingsburg Attorney Frank H.

McCartvey, previously a Flemingsburg county attorney for 13 years.

The Kentucky Registry of Election Finance dismissed allegations against Nicholas County resident Shirley Gardner as groundless based on the result of an investigation that found no evidence to exist for the Registry to believe a violation of campaign finance regulations ever occurred. According to the Kentucky Registry's files released after the dismissal, allegations against Shirley Gardner came following the publications of all political campaign contributions in an issue of the Lexington Herald Leader in which Gardner was listed as having donated to the Martha Wilkinson Campaign during the democratic primary campaign in 1991.

On Friday afternoon, at about 1:00 p.m., Clay Hun, one of Carlisle's oldest business managers, officially retired after 35 years of almost continuous service to the community. In a rare touch of irony, during Friday's reception for Hunt at the station, an Ashland truck stopped by to fill the tanks. Even during his retirement, the service continues, just as Hunt's service continued virtually non-stop for all those years.

Nicholas County students received $179,600 in state student financial aid from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) for the 1991-92 school year. Of that amount, 60 students shared $39,437 in grants, and 61 loans totaling $140,163 were guaranteed.

The Nicholas County

Water District issued a boil water advisory effective July 28, 1987. The boil water advisory was issued because of the low chlorine level and the potential for contamination.

The Nicholas County Home Extension office will hold a telethon, Thursday, August 6 from 1 to 3 p.m. In addition to Agent Marjorie Wilson, Home Economist Bernice Cash of Harrison County RECC will be on hand to field callers' questions. During the telethon hours, the extension office will also be offering free pressure gauge checks for pressure cookers.

Paul Salyers and his wife, Betty, recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamon at their home at 111 West North Street. He is a youthful man at 57 with a merry twinkle in his eyes, and a shy smile that gives way to laughter often as he tells you about his life and his poetry.

CANCER PATIENT GIVEN HOURS TO LIVE PENS TALE FOURTEEN YEARS LATER

Cancer survivor, Darrell L. Smith, captures the struggles of a cancer patient in his autobiography now available titled, 'After The Cancer, What Now???' Smith, a devout Christian, tells of the struggles and triumphs he managed through years of battling terminal colon cancers as well as prostrate cancer.

Smith will be signing copies of his book and sharing his story at the Nicholas County Public Library on Thurs., Aug. 16.

Taking the advice of NBC's Today Show Host, Katie Couric, whose husband has passed from a battle with colon cancer, Smith was screened in 1998. After results showed he was suffering from two forms of terminal colon cancer, Smith began his harrowing battle of hospital stays, surgeries, medical bankruptcies and homelessness to survive cancer to now be cancer free. Dubbed the "Miracle Man" by many of his doctors, Smith uses 'After The Cancer, What Now???' to encourage others to not give up on life, even when others deem it a losing battle.

"I have found out that 'hours to live' and turn into 'cancer free' with enough will, fight, determination and pure faith," Smith says. "I'm so blessed to still be walking the Earth, that I feel it only fitting to offer encouragement and hope to others who are fighting a similar battle."

After 'The Cancer, What Now???' is available on Amazon.com as well as other online bookstores.

The book will be available from the author with his signature during the signing.

Smith will gladly sign copies of the book and the book will be available among the volumes available for checkout at the Library.

TRIANGLE NEWS HEADQUARTERS~SALTWELL~BARTERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Doyle and all his family were among over 100 in attendance. Sunday at the Doyle family reunion, held at Lexington Park, Paris. Jeff Doyle asked the blessing before a bountiful meal. After lunch a short meeting then Don Adams gives more history and genealogy etc. , then the "Doyle Family Memorable Books" are given out, compiled by Patty Doyle which contained records and happenings in the past, then many in the past year such as weddings, showers, births, deaths, graduations, parties, vacations, jobs, mission trips, awards, church activities, poems, sick list for prayer, sports, camps, accomplishments, feature stories etc. Each family now has 27 of these books which are "Priceless" to us.

Sympathy is extended to the families of John D. Faulconer of Headquarters and also for Larry Wills and Josie Ratliff whose funerals were all last week.

Don Adams and Phyllis Brady enjoyed the "Carpenter Reunion" on Saturday held at the home of Sarah Dan Carpenter Tribby near Mayslick. A good crowd attended. The oldest member of this family gave a talk then Don gave talk on many of our distant relatives and had old pictures to show and to give out. These being part of the family of our grandmother Amanda Carpenter Doyle. Our 3rd great grandfather gave the land for the carpenter chapel which now is the Wallingford United Methodist Church which many of our relatives were active members there.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Doyle and children, Eli and Ella and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle and Mrs. Lily Botts just returned from a weeks vacation to Yellowstone National Park and many other places of interest. They went by plane and then drove many miles in about three states.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady enjoyed the 156th year of the "Old Reliable Germantown Fair and Horseshow" on Friday night in which the Carroll Doyle Stables showed four horses winning two first places and two second places. He won the championship Stake class. On Sunday night Phyllis and Bobby enjoyed Supper and homemade ice cream and cake for the 18th birthday of David Whitson at the home of Carl and Rhonda Whitson, Mt. Carmel Road.

A large crowd attended the "Art Walk in Cynthiana Friday before last, which included the Orema, "The night of January 16th" at the court room of the older courthouse starring Brian Cannup as one of the attorneys and this play was put on in Carlisle courtroom as a high school play that Brian and Rob Doyle ect. Was in long ago. Also the night included the "Post it Note Fashion Show" at Rohns Theater. This is so unique with contestants with outfits made completely of 3M's post it notes and scotch tape. Many peoples paintings were displayed in business's. Phyllis' niece Michah Fryman's artistry was one of many. Also another good activity was a "Poetry Slam". Several reading or reciting poetry written by themselves or someone else. Phyllis also loved this and even more things on that Friday.

Get well wishes go to Drew Fuller from near Headquarters who had two session with kidney stones.

BREAD OF LIFE

Mark 5 While he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further? (verse 35).

At that moment, Jairus heard the worst, most fear-provoking words any parent can hear. But Jesus didn't even give him time to react. As soon as He heard the words spoken to Jairus, He said, "Be not afraid, only believe" (verse 36). Or, as Luke 8:50 records it, "Fear not: believe only, and she shall be made whole."

That's a stunning statement when you think about it! Most people would have said just said the opposite to Jairus in that situation. They would have patted him and said, "You just go ahead and cry. I know you're frightened and sad right now, and it's perfectly understandable. Just express your feelings."

But Jesus knew something most people don't. He knew that fear tolerated is faith contaminated. He knew it's impossible to be in fear and faith at the same time. And, since the life of Jairus' daughter depended on his faith connection to Jesus, He commanded him not to fear.

Had it been impossible for Jairus to obey that command—if he couldn't help being afraid—Jesus' command would have been unjust. But it wasn't impossible for Jairus, even in that high-pressure situation. And it's not impossible for us, either. In fact, because Jesus absolutely conquered the power of fear through His work of redemption, it's far easier for us as born-again believers that it was for Jairus to fear not.

Yet, even without the benefit of the new birth, he did it. With Jesus by his side, he found a way to obey. He refused to fear and, as a result, his story has a happy ending. Jesus went to Jairus' house, told the people who had already started grieving and making a tumult over the girl, that she wasn't dead, but sleeping. And they laughed him to scorn. But when he had put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damsel was lying. And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, Talitha cumi; which is being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, arise. And straightway the damsel arose, and walked; for she was of the age of twelve years. And they were astonished with a great astonishment (Mark 5:40-42).

According to 1 John 4:18, 'Fear hath torment'. If fear is there, so is torment, Worry is torment, Anxiety is torment. Torment is the element Satan uses. Here's why fear is such serious business: Just as faith is the spirit connector to God and THE BLESSING, fear is the spirit connector to the devil and the curse. We've already seen throughout the Bible, faith is what activates the operation of THE BLESSING. Faith releases the anointing of God in people's lives. When Jesus ministered on earth, and preached peace (shalom: which includes healing, deliverance, prosperity, and a life with nothing missing and nothing broken) people who believed what He preached connected with Him and received that peace. They were healed. They were delivered from demons. They ate their fill of loaves and fish. Those who didn't believe, didn't make that connection.

- "[We] have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but... the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father" (Romans 8:15).
- "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but the power, and of love, and of a sound mind" (2 Timothy 1:7)
- "The LORD is my helper, and I will not fear..." (Hebrews 13:6)

Thoughts from the Pastors Study

Reflections on a Summer Day

I traveled back home this week-needed to be there-funeral for a friend. As I sat in the little church in the wood where I spent many a Sunday evening as a boy, my mind was flooded with memories of a simpler time. The pastor for this funeral service seemed to not be formally educated, but his words of truth were among the best I've heard in years. And after the service, as I mingled with family and old friends, I was taken back to childhood that was not as primitive as we have been led to believe...a childhood that prepared me so well for life I so wish my kids could have been raised there too. You see, back then:

- We only had three TV channels, and the language was indeed censored for our protection. (Now, as an adult parent, I miss that innocence more than I can say).

- In the summer, our air conditioning consisted of open windows or electric fans. No one seemed to mind the heat—we knew nothing else and thus got used to it.

- The country store was a great place to hang out with friends, and to "network". No Internet addictions back then—just party line telephones.

- We didn't have Bass boats, so we fished the creek, river, and farm ponds—with Zebco rod and reels, and sometimes cane poles. And we set bank lines and trot lines too...Were we the forerunners of 'Swamp People'?

- Youth baseball was a fifteen game schedule and All-Stars—and no one practiced or played on Sunday. Some adult leagues did play on Sunday afternoons—AFTER CHURCH. Kids and families had a variety of hobbies, not just one sport.

- We had chores, helped mow grass for the elderly in the community, put up hay, helped our dad on the farm...you know, that concept called 'work'.

- When August rolled around, Mom and Dad took us to town, and we picked out our clothes for the school year (not for the next month). Five outfits seemed to be OK at school—don't remember ever being scolded for wearing the same rotation for most of the year.

- No air conditioners at school either...so yes, our backs would stick to the chair in the afternoons until mid-September. Didn't seem to bother anyone much.

- To my knowledge, we had no suicides in my school, or the community where I grew up. (It did happen, but at that time was not romanticized or played with by youth looking for one last ultimate thrill).

- Those of us who really wanted to go to college got to go, and there was an abundance of good jobs for those who would rather go straight to work for a local plant or company.

- Cars and trucks weren't as well made back then, but we recycled them to the younger ones in the family until the wheels fell off. *Dad never had, or needed, a brand new car. He finally purchased his first off the lot when in his 70's.

- Credit cards were hard to get, and thus the typical family had little debt—at least compared to today's standards.

- Gardens produced food for us, and we had home cooked meals most of the time. Eating out at a restaurant was a big deal, and we couldn't afford to do it often.

- Fast food was a pizza every now and then, and a hamburger or fish sandwich at McDonalds after swim practice or a ball game.

- The older folk seemed mentally, emotionally, physically, spiritually, morally, and relationally stronger than my generation of today.

- We had unethical leaders, politically motivated wars, and corporate corruption back then just like today. We assumed we'd have all that fixed by now...

- In many, many ways, we've become "smarter", obviously more technologically advanced, and with more affluence than we know what to do with (but also with more poverty). As I look around, I see a society in "deep water" on an array of fronts, and I kick the ground in disgust at my generation. We've allowed a lot of carelessness on our watch.

- I miss the days of my youth. The 'grown ups' then knew so much more about how to build (and protect) the 'great society' than they were given credit for. And now, as their funerals become more frequent, and the words shared honor them for their good, moral, unselfish, and faithful work, I ponder: "What will they say about us at our funerals?"

Accident at Intersection of North Street and North Broadway

By Eric Tolson
KYNewsGroup
eric@kynewsgroup.com

A Carlisle Police officer was dispatched to respond to an automobile accident at the intersection of North Street and North Broadway at approximately 12:30 p.m. on Monday afternoon.

According to witnesses, Frank Towle was traveling down North Broadway Street in his green Buick Lesabre when a Schwan's truck ran through the intersection, forcing Towle to immediately apply the brakes on his vehicle. Towle struck the right side of the truck, causing extensive damage to the front-end of his vehicle. The right rear tire of the truck then rolled over the front end of the Lesabre, causing further damage to the car and some minor abrasions to the tire. No injuries were reported by either party involved.

August Financial Aid Tip

Some colleges, especially private schools, require an essay before deciding whether to admit high school seniors as college freshmen. That essay may also help when it comes to paying for college, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

Generally, the more exclusive the college, the more important the essay may be in admissions and financial aid decisions.

Essays allow schools to learn more about students than just the application shows. That gives writers a chance to set themselves apart.

Students should devote a great deal of time and consideration to their admissions essays. Colleges are looking for students who can express themselves clearly, using proper spelling, grammar and punctuation. It may take several drafts to get it right, but the essay needs to be well written and free of errors. Students should have others, including teachers, school counselors and parents, proofread and review the essay before final submission. The better the essay, the better a student's chance of being accepted at a top school.

August money tip for students

Whether saving or borrowing money, you need to pay close attention to your interest rate, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

For savings accounts and other investments, look for the highest interest rate possible. But examine closely any opportunities that promise tremendous interest rates. Those may be scams that cause you to lose your money. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Look for investments that can earn you compound interest. That means you earn interest not only on the amount you invest, called the principal, but also on the interest you have already earned on the principal.

Compare the annual percentage rates (APR) on loans and credit cards. The lower the APR, the less you will pay in interest. A low APR is especially important if you carry a balance on your card.

Look carefully at loans that carry a variable or adjustable interest rate. The interest rate on those loans goes up or down depending on market conditions. You might prefer a fixed interest rate. It may start out higher than a variable rate, but it will not increase as most variable rates do.

KHEAA sponsors "Win an iPad contest"

Kentucky residents have another chance to win a new iPad from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) in a sweepstakes being held through Facebook in August. The contest runs from 12 a.m. on August 1, 2012, through 12 a.m. on September 1, 2012.

To enter, a Kentuckian must click on the orange graduate icon on the KHEAA Facebook page, answer one question about college, and "like" KHEAA on Facebook. KHEAA will not share or sell any personal information to a third party.

Only Kentucky residents are eligible. Employees of KHEAA or its sister agency, the Kentucky Higher Education Student Loan Corporation (KHESLC), and their immediate family members are not eligible. Prior winners are also not eligible.

The drawing will be held in early September, and the winner will be notified by email. The winner must respond by email within three calendar days to receive the iPad. If no response is received within three days, another winner will be drawn.

Carlisle High School Alumni Banquet

Photos by Eric Tolson

Memories are a very important part of our lives. Without a past to build on, none of us would ever have a future. Most of the memories we have are those of the friends we had when we were younger. Our friends are always there for us. They share our ups and our downs. They share our joy and heartache. Arguably, there is nothing more important than the friends we make throughout our lives. High school is where most of us form our most significant bonds with others. As we graduate from high school, we move on with our lives, often forgetting about our acquaintances just a few years ago. Luckily, we occasionally are blessed with their company, allowing us to reform our bonds, at high school reunions. The former students of the Carlisle High School were blessed with this opportunity at their most recent Alumni Banquet.

Graduates of Carlisle High School, located from 1893-1963 on what is now known as East North Street, held their annual Alumni Banquet in the cafeteria of the Nicholas County Elementary School last Saturday. The former students were treated to memories of their lives as students as the school, as well as food and musical entertainment.

The graduates were treated to a welcoming speech by Co-President Judy Judge, a member of the class of 1962. Following this, a presentation of awards for the class of 1962, who were celebrating their 50th reunion, by Co-President Gladys Shroust was given. A video entitled "Down Memory Lane" was also shown, causing many people to reminisce about their school days. Attendees at the banquet included graduates of Carlisle High School from as far back as 1943.

"We all look forward to this every year," said Edith Walton, member of the class of 1957, "It's a great opportunity to talk with the people I knew in high school. I hope we can keep doing this every year."

Foreclosure settlement aids Kentucky's homeowners by Kentucky Attorney General Jack Conway

Since 2007, nearly nine million homes have been lost to foreclosure. Banks foreclosed on nearly 67,000 homes in Kentucky since the height of the mortgage foreclosure crisis in 2008. This crisis brought our country to its knees and turned the American dream into a nightmare for families in every community in our country and our Commonwealth.

As you may recall, my office was part of the national foreclosure settlement announced earlier this year between state attorneys general and the nation's five largest banks. Our participation in this historic settlement secured $58 million to provide direct and immediate assistance to Kentucky families and communities affected by the mortgage foreclosure meltdown.

Nearly $39 million of the settlement is available to homeowners who faced foreclosure and had loans with Bank of America, JP Morgan Chase, Wells Fargo, Citi and Ally/GMAC. An independent administrator is allocating this money to consumers who qualify for refinancing, loan write downs, debt restructuring and/or payments of up to $2,000. For more information on qualifying for this segment of the settlement, visit our website www.ag.ky.gov. On July 30, I announced the allocation of the remaining $19.2 million of this settlement to help create affordable housing, revitalize abandoned or vacant properties and to assist Kentuckians who have lost their homes.

Keeping this money was no small task. During the budget process in Frankfort, I fought to make certain that his money went to consumers and communities; communities like Louisville, which has seen more than 17,200 foreclosures since 2008.

I was pleased to be joined by Mayor Greg Fischer at the press conference announcing the distribution of $1.5 million to the City of Louisville, of which $750,000 will go to the Vacant and Abandoned Property Initiative and will be matched in part by the Bloomberg Foundation. This will help rehab vacant properties and return them to use and the property tax rolls. An additional $500,000 will go toward the Targeted Demolition Program to address blight, and $250,000 to the Affordable Housing Trust Fund for housing grants to increase access to affordable housing for low to moderate income families.

Of course, this isn't just a problem in Louisville. It's a problem across the Commonwealth. That's why $7.5 million of the settlement is designated to assist federally-supported housing programs that cover all of Kentucky's 120 counties through the Kentucky Housing Corporation. Three million of that allocation will go to the NeighborWorks Alliance, which will leverage matching grants for an additional $7.5 million, to assist with the purchase and rehabilitation of existing properties, purchase and rehabilitation of affordable rental properties, and purchase of mortgages to restructure payment in an effort to allow homeowners to retain properties. Three million dollars will establish a down payment pool and closing cost assistance pool for owners who want to purchase vacant or foreclosed properties. The remaining $1.5 million goes to KHC's Homeownership Protection Center, which will fund 19 Kentucky Housing Corporation approved counseling agencies that provide foreclosure prevention and pre-purchase counseling.

I am pleased that we were able to identify agencies that can match our settlement dollars with other grants, allowing us to maximize the settlement to help even more Kentuckians.

Additional allocations include:

- $250,000 to each of Kentucky's four regional Legal Aid Centers to help homeowners who are going through the foreclosure process or seeking to avoid foreclosure.
- $5 million to the Office of the Attorney General to assist consumers and investigate mortgage and securities issues. This includes potential litigation regarding Mortgage Electronic Reporting Systems (MERS) involvement in wrongful foreclosures.
- $4 million to update the Kentucky All Schedule Prescription Electronic Reporting Program (KASPER). Money will be used to enhance software to ensure compliance with House Bill 1; Kentucky's newly enacted prescription drug abuse law.
- $150,000 to the Cabinet for Health and Family Services. Funds will provide lead abatement through the Division of Public Health.

As part of this settlement, all of the agencies receiving funds must report to my office monthly with details on how they are spending the money.

This settlement is about providing second chances. It's about communities fighting back, and it's about fighting for Kentuckians who don't have a voice.

Carlisle Christian Church Celebrates Beginning of Football Season

In honor of the new school year and the new football season, the Carlisle Christian Church hosted a pizza party for the members of the Nicholas County High School football team. During the pizza party, the players were treated to a viewing of Facing the Giants, an inspirational football film. This party was an amazing opportunity for the community to meet this year's football team.

In Normandy, Governor and First Lady Honor Kentucky Service Members Killed in WWII

Governor Steve Beshear and First Lady Jane Beshear planted flags at the gravesites of fallen Kentucky service members on Thursday during a visit to Omaha Beach, the site of the American and Allied D-Day attack against Germany on June 6, 1944, during World War II. "Today, we visited the American Cemetery at Omaha Beach with President

Laurent Beauvais of Basse-Normandie Regional Council, and we participated in a wreath-laying ceremony at the memorial there. Jane and I also placed Kentucky flags at the graves of several Kentuckians," said Gov. Beshear. "We walked the beach where thousands of Americans were killed fighting to liberate Europe. This place has special meaning to every American. Being a veteran myself, it was a very emotional moment for me as taps was played to honor the dead."

Gov. Beshear is continuing his economic development trip, with meetings in Germany and France to showcase Kentucky's business-friendly climate and strengthen existing ties with European companies already operating facilities in the Commonwealth.

The Governor and First Lady are in Normandy as part of an American delegation in support of the Alltech FEI World Equestrian Games 2014, which will be held there. The delegation will meet with economic and tourism development officials in preparation for the upcoming competition.

sure they are in proper order.

"The court is not obligated to the contract, but does have an obligation to the community," Letcher added.

The court members agreed to table this matter to see what the hospital is willing to pay.

A bid was received by Tim Layne for cleaning and repairing the old health department building. Removal of the carpet. With a mold smell, there will need to be some cleaning of the floors, walls and ceiling to be able to remove the mold.

Hamilton suggested that they go back to Layne to get another quote to remove the mold from the ceiling and things before while removing the carpet before replacing the flooring to prevent the mold getting on the newly repaired floor. All agreed.

The very unusual situation of a house in Moorefield, leaves the court with a difficult decision to have to make. With an obligation by the court to protect the citizens and the environment, all members of the court felt it necessary to maintain a bare minimum cleaning by placing a lien on the property. The court is not doing any cleaning or repairing to this house, for the property to be sold. The owner is deceased, and no known relative or person of interest willing to step up and take the responsibility, so the court is obligated to protect those around the area. The house gives off a horrific odor of pet and human feces, mold, along with rats, that lingers to other property owners. With the hazardous condition that the house is creating for other citizens around the area the court feels an obligation to seek justice and protect the citizens.

The court agreed to turn the matter of the house on Moorefield Road over to the County Attorney Dawn Letcher to be able to explore all options of what can be done and how the fiscal court can recover the money spent towards the house.

The next regular fiscal court meeting is scheduled for August 14th at 6 p.m.

Boys' Sweet 16 state championship game set for Sunday

For the first time in the 95-year history of the KHSAA Boys' Sweet 16, the tournament championship game will be played sometime other than Saturday night.

The traditional state tournament format will undergo a transformation for the 2013 event due to potential scheduling conflicts with Rupp Arena.

"We received a request a few days ago from the University to consider other Saturday (and potentially Sunday) alternatives in the event that the final schedule for 2012-2013 necessitated the Wildcats playing at home on Saturday, March 9," said KHSAA Commissioner Julian Tackett. "The 2013 scheduling has been a constantly evolving challenge for a while as we had previously surrendered our contracted dates for the arena to allow UK to host the NCAA Second/Third round that year."

The semifinals, a doubleheader that has been played on Saturday morning for more than fifty years, will move to Saturday night while the championship will be played at 2 p.m. on Sunday afternoon. The opening and quarterfinal rounds will remain on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday as in previous years. Exact tip-off times for the semifinals have not been confirmed and will be announced at a later date.

The decision was made on the part of the Association to eliminate the potential scheduling conflict with the University of Kentucky men's basketball program on Saturday, March 9 and measure affects the 2013 tournament only.

"It is important that the two largest and most tradition rich clients sharing the arena work together on a solution when there comes that time that we both need the facility," Tackett noted.

"They say that necessity is the mother of invention," Tackett continued. "While we all like to be reverent to tradition it's not a bad idea to try something new and we have certainly been willing to do that in the last few years. The format of our tournament, particularly Saturday, has been a discussion topic for years with coaches, fans and media. Circumstances have created both a need and an opportunity for us to try something different for one year and we will see what happens with it. The worst that can happen is we go back to the formula we know has worked for most of our 94 years."

Tackett emphasized the reason the Association decided to make the change at this time is twofold. First, it gives longtime fans of the event ample time to make changes to travel and lodging plans in Lexington for the week of March 6-10 prior to any final announcement by the SEC as to the Kentucky schedule. Second, since both the KHSAA and University of Kentucky have a scheduling overlap, the KHSAA's preemptive decision is a simple case of wanting to be a good neighbor and partner to not only to the staff of Rupp Arena, but also the University, which has assisted the Association over the years through use of its facilities and personnel for championship events.

"We appreciate the KHSAA not only for their working with the University on hosting the second/third rounds of the NCAA, but in helping through this unprecedented schedule conflict," said DeWayne Peevy, Executive Associate Athletic Director / External Operations at the University of Kentucky. "We both need the arena and in this way, we both have access."

The format of the Houchens Industries/KHSAA Girls' Sweet 16 at E.A. Diddle Arena in Bowling Green the following week will not change.

"Without the necessity due to scheduling conflicts, we did not think it would be fair to the participants and fans of the girls' tournament to revise that schedule, and arbitrarily switch them to a new format that has not been tried yet," said Tackett. "This change is being made because of a scheduling conflict with the boys' tournament. No such conflict exists with the girls' event in Bowling Green. But after the 2013 tournament, we will review the situation as we do each year, and make any necessary future decisions."

This Mt. Olivet Dog was seen with her own beach towel and lounge chair recently at an area pool. Maybe it is right we are into the dog days of Summer.

Summer Reading

The 2012 Summer Reading Program at the Robertson County Public Library was a success once again this year. Sixty readers of all ages participated in the program. The sessions lasted four weeks throughout the month of July. The theme for the younger readers was "Dream Big, Read" and "Own the Night" was the theme for the older readers. The sessions were based on achieving your dreams; dreams and their meanings; nocturnal animals, zombies, ghosts, monsters and things that "go bump in the night". The children enjoyed crafts, games and stories and more. One of the sessions featured firefighter James Linville, whom the children got to ask questions and sit in a fire truck which was very exciting for the children. Also, during one of the older group's sessions, Paul Tierney of Blue Licks State Resort Park told ghost stories. This was a very popular event for the summer readers. This was the first year for an adult summer reading program. The theme for this new program was "Between the Covers". These sessions were for adults ages 18 and up and included cooking, crafts, decorating and the famous love stories throughout history.

On July 27th, the library held a closing program for all of the summer reading participants which included food and an array of games, such as glow in the dark bowling, Pictionary and animal bingo. Overall, our summer reading program was a great success and the library looks forward for another good turnout in 2013.

Robertson County's Country Tap Cloggers Entertained At the Old Reliable Germantown Fair Saturday Night..... Many fair goers stopped Saturday night to watch as the Country Tap Cloggers came to dance under the cover of the Pavillion. They performed in several numbers including Break Out, Shake It Up and Beat It. The cloggers will perform again in two weeks at the Kentucky State Fair and again at Natural Bridge State Resort Park. Many area girls will continue to perform with the cloggers at area events this Summer and at upcoming Fall Festivals.
