A painting by McKensie Rudder will be honored by being put on display in the office of Nicholas County Judge Executive Kenny Lyons. The painting, which depicts the clock tower on the Nicholas County Court House at night, was honored at the recent Nicholas County Fair and will adorn Judge Lyons's office wall.

This honor is only one earned by 12 year-old McKensie, a 7th Grade student at Nicholas County Middle School. She also came away from the Kentucky State Fair with a Second Place ribbon for another painting and First Place ribbons for sewing and cooking.

"With McKensie's ribbons, this brings our ribbon total to 17. It's a great improvement over last year," said 4-H President, Adam Tubbs. "We are very proud of all the efforts the 4-H Club has made."

Court discusses Tax Rates

By Melissa Mitchell

Last Friday the main topic that created a stir in the Nicholas County Fiscal Court meeting was the discussion of the 2012 property tax rates. The tax rate for the 2011-2012 year was the compensating rates of 13.3%.

Nicholas County Judge-Executive Kenny Lyons stated that it would probably drop this coming year due to a reduction in property sales.

A motion was made by Magistrate Jeff Randolph to take the compensating rate of 13.5% for the 2012-2013 fiscal year. Before a second was made, Judge Lyons asked the court to remember that the court is struggling to operate with low revenue.

"I know that we don't want to raise the taxes but I can't sit here and borrow money to tie the court up. We are in a bind right now and we need to do something," Judge Lyons stated.

"I am not against the tax but I think that we need a fair tax," Randolph said. "There are people that don't pay the first tax and it is not right. If we need to sit down and talk about a fair tax I am for it but this is not something that is fair."

"I agree we need the money but if we do it we need to do it in a fair way," Randolph added.

If the court raised the taxes with the 4-tenths % it would be $4.00 per $1,000.00. The taxes over the year have ranged from 15.9% in 1976 to 13.1% in 2010.

"We just can't do this to the people with the way the economy is today. People drive to Lexington and having to pay more for gas and make less than what they did years ago," Magistrate Jimmy Wells said.

"In my heart I don't feel like it is right to raise the taxes when there are two-thirds of the people that don't pay any tax," Randolph said. "If we need to have a special meeting called to hash out a fair tax then let's do that."

Judge Lyons replied, "I just can't sit here and watch the county go down the drain."

A motion was made by Randolph to use the compensating rate of 13.5% with Magistrate Mike Webb seconding the motion, all approved.

Approval for the Mathers Fund was next on the agenda for the applicants that were eligible for the funds. There wasn't much of a difference from the numbers of last year. This years recipients of Mathers Fund will receive $150.00 per child. A motion was made by Webb seconded by Magistrate Darvin Mitchell with all approving.

The fire board presented the court with two names for their recommendation to fill the firefighter positions on the fire board: Steve Minton and Andy Whirles. Johnny Parton resigned from his position on the fire board, and Tracy Brown was appointed as the elected position. A motion was made by Magistrate Jimmy Wells, seconded by Randolph with all approving.

The court approved the bids of Hinkle Contracting to do the blacktopping on Lakeshore and Hickory Ridge roads.

Rescinding the Synthetic Drug Ordinance was recommended by the members of KACO because if the sheriff made a drug arrest with the county ordinance will not match the state ordinance and if the court rescinds the ordinance it will match. Webb made the motion with Randolph seconding and all approved.

The building committee recommended that the court get a bid on the Health Department for the Asbestos removal, but to accept the bid of Tim Layne, who submitted a bid for $1,500, for removal of the carpet. Another recommendation was made to accept the bid from Mark Wade to work on the fire house on fixing the roof, and the bay door.

Sheriff Sidles addressed the court on the decision of being able to help the department out with the reimbursement on the Sheriff Department Dodge truck so that the department could sell the truck to seek getting a vehicle that is better on gas.

The court asked for more time until the Sept 11 meeting, so that the members of the court could check into this to see what they could give. Sheriff Sidles agreed to wait on the answer for the next meeting.

"I appreciate any help that you can give the department," Sheriff Sidles added.

Under the new business, the court discussed that the nursing home was in need of replacing 16 more windows due to them leaking. The court asked for more bids to be able of what the approximate cost would be so the court members would have a better understanding of the price.

Also Magistrate Darvin Mitchell asked the court to appoint another member to the Animal Board due to the resignation of Carol Powers. Adam Tubbs was recommended to be placed on the Animal Board. A motion was made by Darvin Mitchell and seconded by Jeff Randolph with all approving to place Adam Tubbs on the Animal Board.

The next scheduled meeting will take place on Sept 11 at 6:00 p.m.

Accident at Substation Causes Massive Power Failure

An accident at the KU Electricity Carlisle Substation left 1,431 citizens in Carlisle and Nicholas County without power for several hours.

Kentucky Utilities, who serves 2,035 customers in Carlisle and Nicholas County alone, experienced a fire at the substation which is adjacent to the Carlisle City Fire House.

The fire occurred at approximately 3:30 on Saturday afternoon.

"The breaker on the substation short-circuited it, which caused the fire," said Carlisle

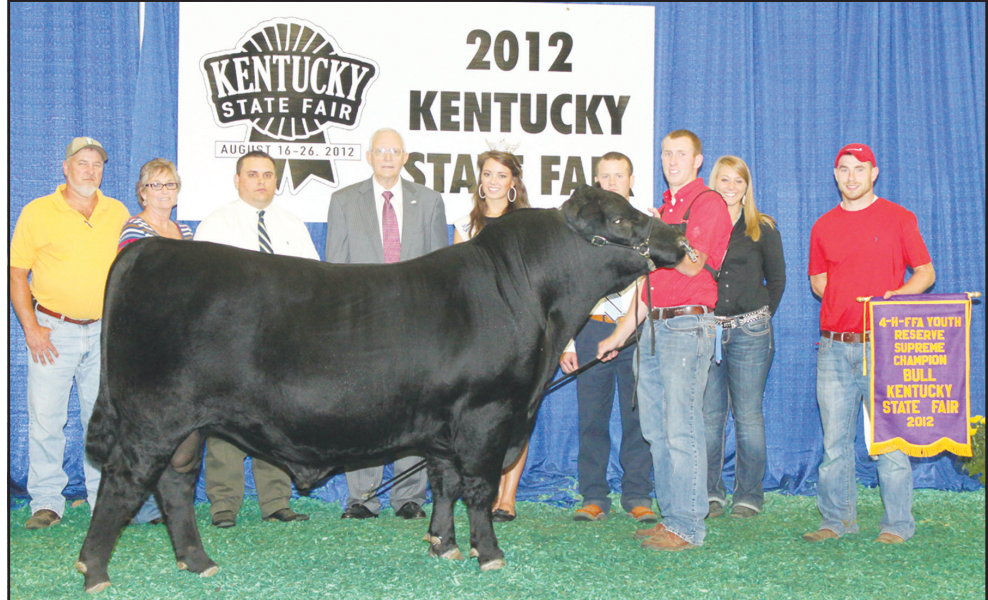

Fire Chief Jim Bidle.

The Carlisle City Fire Department responded almost immediately. Although the fire was difficult to extinguish, power was cut off and the flame was eventually contained.

This unfortunately caused a major power outage, which affected a large portion of Carlisle and Nicholas County, leaving them without electricity. This outage also reached many businesses, including Marathon and Shell gas stations, as well as several more private residences.

Due to the tireless efforts of the employees of Kentucky Utilities, power was restored at approximately 8:10 p.m.

Kentucky Utilities could not be reached for comment regarding the fire.

The Nicholas County Emergency Medical Service and the Carlisle City Fire Department were dispatched to a reported two vehicle accident on East North Street last Thursday. Linda Prather was traveling south in her 2005 Suzuki on East North Street when the tire rod in her front passenger side wheel broke, causing her to lose control of her vehicle. She then veered into a nearby yard, but not before making contact with a 1995 Oldsmobile, which was parked on the side of the street. The Oldsmobile is owned by Thomas and Mary Warren. Prather was visibly shaken at the scene, but exhibited no signs of serious injury.

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

"I was in Estill's Defeat in the spring of 1782. In the battle were 25 Indians and 26 white men and it may be the hardest battle ever fought in Kentucky... I remember seeing Adam Capterton who was shot through the head. The shot didn't kill him right off but produced instant derangement."

Deposition of Samuel South, survivor of Estill's Defeat, Draper Manuscripts volume 12C pages 48-60. Samuel's brother, John South, was among those killed during that battle.

When barely a teenager, I would assist my father along his winter trap-line that stretched from our Martha Mills home, in central Fleming County, to the hills and hollows adjacent to Fleming Creek, for several miles in both directions.

One winter, while walking on the ice that formed on Fleming Creek, we found followed a set of mink tracks. The mink leaves a track similar to a cat. This set of tracks led straight to a hollow tree on the edge of the creek, and then simply vanished. "Watch this," Dad said to me with a grin and then stomped quickly and with good force on the ice, near the tree. From the roots of the hollow tree the mink rose beneath the ice and simply stared at us for a few seconds before swimming away.

Dad grinned and walked on down the creek but I stood there a while knowing I had just witnessed a rarity of nature.

"How did you know he would do that?" I asked.

"I understand my prey," my father, a great slayer of mink, said. "I knew what that mink was going to do before he did."

All of these years later, when I think about that incident, I can't help but to also think of the Kentucky frontiersman named Joseph Proctor, who also understood his prey and was a slayer of Wyandotte and Shawnee warriors.

Early September, 1782, near the Kentucky River, and just outside of the late Captain James Estill's Station.

He wouldn't tell his wife Polly Horn Proctor about visiting the small graveyard or his prayers at little Jenny Gass's grave. Polly was so broken-hearted, he dared not add to her sorrow.

History would remember this time in Kentucky as the summer of whispered sorrows; when so many regional families lost so much, as the cataclysmic conflict between Kentucky frontier families and Native American Shawnee and Wyandotte warriors intensified.

Joseph Proctor had only recently returned from burying the dead following the Battle of Blue Licks.

It seemed that digging graves took up much of his time these days; that, and perfecting his deadly accuracy with his Kentucky long rifle.

He could now reload his rifle while running at full speed. It was a survival skill learned from necessity.

Less than a month earlier he had held the river during the Battle of Battle Run and still earlier that spring he had escaped unwounded from the Hellish Battle of Little Mountain, or Estill's Defeat, as some were calling it.

He would never admit to killing any of the Wyandotte warriors in either engagement but had confirmed to close friends who pressed him that he had, "taken seven or eight very fair shots" during the conflict known as Estill's Defeat, which lasted up to an hour just south of where the town of Mt. Sterling would one day stand.

The battle was fought after Wyandotte warriors had approached Estill's Station early one spring morning while he, and about two-dozen other men of the station, had been with Captain James Estill, working together to build a large dugout canoe.

A messenger arrived from the station with dreadful news and they had all quickly returned home.

When he arrived at his cabin he found Polly, her family members and her friends, grieving pitifully and tending to the desecrated body of little Jenny Gass.

That very morning Jenny, an angelic and sweet young girl had raced from cabin to cabin excitedly telling all who would listen that she had experienced the most wonderful dream the night before, in which she had ascended to heaven and met God and she said it was the most beautiful dream anyone could imagine. The ladies of the station dotted on Jenny and when she was killed and scalped in full view of the station only a few minutes later, her prophetic words about her dream had shook them all to their core.

The consequential Battle of Little Mountain, fought two days later, had resulted in the death of eight of their closest friends, including Captain James Estill and his brother-in-law Adam Capterton. Joseph's brother, Rueben, had also been seriously wounded during the battle.

William Irvine (for whom the town of Irvine, would one day be named) was so grievously wounded that Joseph had carried him nearly 40 miles on his back during the awful, awful return to Estill's Station.

Then they had returned back to the battlefield to bury Captain Estill, Capterton and the others.

Joseph had taken a plum-bob from Captain Estill's pocket and silver knee buckles from Capterton's, and had given them to their wives afterward.

That had been hard. He had barely time to heal his heart when young Jones Hoy and Jack Callaway were taken from Hoy's Station and he was among a group under Captain John Holder who followed the raiding Wyandotte's to the Upper Blue Licks where they fought another dreadful battle.

With his deadly aim Joseph had saved the lives of Captain John Fleming and the crazy little wild Irishman Michael Cassidy.

Cassidy led a suicidal charge into the Wyandottes to retrieve Fleming who had been wounded and then they had all raced back toward where Joseph held the river crossing.

Then, after another sorrowful journey home, they received word of the siege of Bryant's Station and the Battle of Lower Blue Licks.

Now there was talk of a great northern raid to be led by General George Rogers Clark.

He had spoken to his close friend Lt. Colonel Daniel Boone about the proposed raid. Boone was still grieving the loss of his son Israel, who perished at the Lower Blue Licks defeat.

He and Boone had remained close friends. Members of the Proctor and Horn families were among the earliest settlers in Kentucky. They defended one another with their very lives during the great siege of Fort Boonesborough in Sept. 1778.

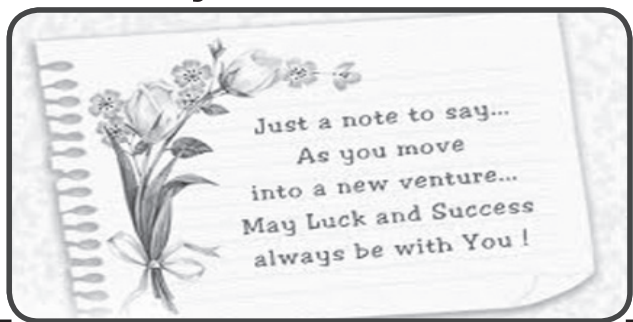

On this quiet night in early September, beneath the stars, Joseph Proctor prayed; prayed earnestly for the protection of his wife and her family and his father's family. He even prayed for the salvation of his soul. His soul had been so tormented of late he even began to stay awake all night long, fearing the grotesque nightmares he experienced when sleep washed over him. He had seen and done things no man should ever have to see and do.

Joseph Proctor would indeed participate in several other forays against the enemies of Kentucky in his life, and he would eventually also find his soul's salvation, becoming one of the earliest leaders of the Methodist Church, following his being ordained.

But those are other stories to be shared in some future column if the good Lord is willing, dear reader.

Two young deer were spotted playing in a field just outside of Mt. Olivet on a recent hot Summer night. Many Robertson County deer can be spotted around the area. These two deer seem to be drawn to the apple trees looking for apples that are falling from the trees this time of year.

Summer4Life!

Summer blood donors can save lives, win big

Lexington, KY - It's a Summer4Life at Kentucky Blood Center (KBC) this year.

From May 19 through Sept. 14, all donors (18 and over) will not only be able to enhance the lives of Kentucky patients, they will also be automatically eligible to win a 2012 Toyota RAV4.

(County) donors can be part of Summer4Life by donating at the following blood drive:

Nicholas County Hospital
Tues., Sept. 4 from 8 am - 1 pm on the KBC Bloodmobile at 2325 Concrete Rd. in Carlisle.

"Thirty-thousand people will need to walk through our doors and roll up their sleeves this summer in order to provide enough blood for the patients we serve," said Martha Osborne, KBC's Executive Director of Marketing & Recruitment. "We think the chance to win a 2012 Toyota RAV4 is a great way to encourage donations."

Each time someone registers to donate, they will be automatically entered to win the compact SUV. Because of the length of the RAV4 promotion, donors can be entered in the giveaway more than once this summer.

To schedule a donation, visit kybloodcenter.org or call 800.775.2522.

Blood donors must be 17-years-old (16 with parental consent), weigh at least 110 pounds, be in general good health and meet additional requirements. Sixteen-year-old donors must have a signed parental permission slip, which can be found at kybloodcenter.org.

About Kentucky Blood Center
KBC, the largest FDA regulated blood bank in Kentucky, is a non-profit organization dedicated to ensuring a safe, adequate blood supply for patients at nearly 70 Kentucky hospitals and clinics in more than 60 counties. KBC relies on volunteers to donate 400 pints of blood per day to meet area patients' needs. Over the last year KBC distributed nearly 130,000 blood components.

New law is making a dent in tax filing burden, lawmakers told

Efforts are underway to create a standard occupational license tax form for Kentucky businesses and place current forms used by those businesses in one online location as mandated by the 2012 General Assembly, a state legislative committee heard yesterday.

House Bill 277, sponsored by Rep. Jody Richards, D-Bowling Green, and Interim Joint Committee on Local Government Co-Chair Rep. Steve Riggs, D-Louisville, mandates that a standard occupational license tax return form for use by all local taxing districts in Kentucky be in place by mid 2017. The form will replace dozens of forms currently used by local taxing districts across the state, according to Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes, whose office is responsible for implementing HB 277.

Until the standard form is in use, Grimes said businesses will be able to find their taxing district's current occupational license tax forms on the Secretary of State's One Stop Business Portal. The Secretary of State's Office is asking that all local taxing districts in Kentucky send in their current forms by Nov. 1, 2012, along with instructions, to be posted on the web portal at onestop.ky.gov.

"We are getting tremendous feedback," Grimes said. "We are getting these forms into our office on a timely basis." She said she hopes to have received 100 percent of the forms from all taxing districts by January.

Creation of a standard form is now being worked out by the Secretary of State and several entities including the Kentucky League of Cities, Kentucky Association of Counties, small business associations and Kentucky Society of CPAS, Grimes said.

Grimes said Kentucky has over 200 taxing jurisdictions, and that HB 277 will reduce the time businesses have to spend communicating with state government.

Riggs, who chaired Wednesday's meeting, said the need to address the occupational license tax form issue was raised by a fellow lawmaker who pushed to get the issue addressed for more than a year. "That is how ideas are born: Just from practical living experience," Riggs said.

The One Stop Business Portal was created with the passage of 2011 Senate Bill 8, sponsored by Sen. David Givens, R-Greensburg, and Sen. John Schickel, R-Union. Today, Grimes said, Kentucky has over 10,000 businesses that have registered to operate in the Commonwealth using the web portal. She said her office is now working to streamline the portal to benefit all citizens and not just businesses.

"We appreciate you giving us the ability to do what there is in the statute. We are working our hardest to stretch every dollar you provided for us," Grimes said.

BREAD OF LIFE

Sharon Feeback and Phyllis Brady enjoyed the "Mini School of Christian Mission" on Saturday, held at the large multipurpose building at the Ruggles Camp ground. It was from 9:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and the topic was "Poverty: What Can We Do?" It was about helping and giving and serving. The lesson was taught by Rev. Ted Beam from Bowling Green, with much group participation.

Sympathy is extended to the families and friends of Cavanaugh Booth of Barterville road who passed away Aug 22 after a rather long illness and also to the family and friends of Mary Catherine Allison Knapke who passed away Aug. 23. She was a registered nurse at Nicholas County hospital for 44 years.

Prayers and Concern go out to Norman Ritchie and to Carol Power and also to both John and Sheila Brady.

Sheila spent three days in the hospital last week in Lex. Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brady and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle very much enjoyed supper on Sunday night at the home of Rob and Aleta Doyle and dear children Eli and Ella of Mt Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Davis and children Caleb and Shelby entertained on Saturday night with supper for Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle, Jonathan Doyle and others for her dad, Jeff's birthday.

Phyllis Brady, Nancy Beckett, Bob and Trudy Mynear McGuire and Irene thoroughly enjoyed revival the past week at the Cynthia United Methodist Church. The outstanding evangelist was Rev. Terry Faris, now from Wilmore, who is a retired pastor and former district superintendent, and has held many revivals.

The Barterville U.M. Church recently had "The Tillets" to speak and show slides. They are missionaries to Africa, but will be in the states for a few months.

Among those Phyllis Brady visited the past week were Martha Raye and Norm Ritchie, Carol Power, Pauline Cartmill, Jeff Doyle and Alberta Glass. Alberta attended the birthday party recently of grand grandson Braxton at the home of Danita and Blaine Earlywine and sons Aiden and Braxton in Bourbon County.

The Carlisle United Methodist Church had homecoming services Sunday with a former pastor, Rev. Jim Doughton preaching the message. "Doxology" brought special music and also the Praise team. Dinner was served after the service. Mike and Malinda Sosby attended.

It is a settled thing in heaven that the latter rain is greater than the former rain (Joel 2:28; Acts 2:16-18). Some of our hearts have been greatly moved by the former rain, but it is the latter rain we are crying for. What will it be like when the time comes and the heart of God is satisfied? We remember what happened on the day of Pentecost; "And they began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance" (Acts 2:4).

What a lovely thought that the words they spoke were from the Holy Ghost! We are having to learn-whether we like it or not-that when we come to our end, God is only beginning. Then it is all God, and the Lord Jesus stands forth in the midst with such divine glory that we are impelled, filled, led so perfectly. Nothing else will meet the need of the world.

There is something beautiful about how the people in Jerusalem recognized that Peter and John had been with Jesus. There was something so real in these disciples, so much like their Master: "Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus" (Acts 4:13). May all in the temple glorify Jesus; it can be so.

The outstanding thing in the life of Jesus, more than anything else, was the fact that the people glorified God in him. When God is glorified and gets the right of way and the minds of his people, the people are as he is, filled with God. Whatever it costs, it must be. Let it be so. Filled with God!

The only thing to help people is to tell them the latest thing God has given us from the glory. There is nothing outside salvation. We are filled, immersed, clothed; there must be nothing felt, seen, spoken about, but the mighty power of the Holy Ghost. We are new creatures in Christ Jesus, baptized into a new nature. "He that believeth on me...out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water" (John 7:38). The very life of the risen Christ in everything, moving us to do his will.

Thought for today> are you a born again follower of Jesus Christ. It's the only way to Heaven

Thoughts from the Pastors Study

By Bishop Stephen Scalf
The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

Come and Feast

I heard a wonderful sermon Sunday evening in which the preacher risked being prideful by admitting there is something he truly excels at. In fact, he claimed his entire family is probably better at this activity than just about anybody else they know. And the event in which they shine is...

...Eating.
"There really isn't anything much better than a good buffet," he said. "Just the thought of all that food... You can choose exactly what you want and eat as much of it as you want... It's like heaven (at least in a physical sense)."

His entire family shares this passion for food. They took their three kids to Orange Leaf Frozen Yoghurt in Lexington, where you dip up whatever you want to eat and then the cashier charges you based on the weight. The kids went through the line, loading up their dishes until they thought they had everything they wanted. They were just about to head to the cashier when they realized, "Hey! There's toppings!"

When they finally got to the cashier, as he rang them up he commented, "Wow! I think this is a record!"

The five servings ended up costing over $50!

The preacher then told about his youngest son. When he started spending the night at friends' homes, they would warn him, "Don't eat too much!"

After they picked him up one morning, he told them they had eaten pizza for dinner. "How many pieces did you eat?" they asked. "Two? (Silence) Three? (Silence)" There was no response until they got to eight.

The next time he stayed over, they told him he couldn't eat any more than the head of the house. When they picked him up, they explained to the father in the home about the rule and he started laughing.

"So that's why he kept asking me, 'Are you going to have another piece?'"

Now this was a sermon I think most of us can relate to, to some degree or another.

But then he got to his point:

When we are hungry or thirsty, our body has a way of letting us know. Saturday until about 1:00 p.m., I was out pulling fence posts. I was hot, sweaty, and dirty. (I have witnesses!) After about three hours of working out in the hot sun, I couldn't get enough water into my system fast enough. I was so thirsty I felt dry to the bone.

The preacher shared with us the story of Jesus at the well with the Samaritan woman. "Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." (John 4:13, 14)

After His miraculous feeding of the five thousand, many sought after Jesus - not because they believed, but because

He had given them bread, saying, "Lord, evermore give us this bread." And Jesus said unto them, "I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst." (John 5:34,35)

What a tremendous promise this is!

But it raises the question: As much as we enjoy eating, or how much we pay attention to satisfying our hunger and quenching our thirst - our physical cravings - how much attention to we pay to feeding our souls. One day, every one of us will eventually shed our mortal bodies - these shells we pay so much attention to. But how much care do we put into nourishing our immortal soul - that part of us that makes us who we truly are - the part of us that really matters?

Jesus taught, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

We would never consider going into a buffet, paying for an entire meal and then leaving without eating. But how many of us leave church just as empty as when we walked in the doors because we slept through the service, or texted with our friends... anything besides "feasting" on God's word?

Every time we sit down to a meal, let it serve as a reminder that we also need to feed our souls. Our Lord and Savior has prepared a buffet beyond compare; so much spiritual food and drink that we will never hunger or thirst again. Let us do more than just sip and nibble here and there. Let us strive to enjoy and to glory in the feast!

In Memory of Anthony Duane Petitt
June 23, 1984 - September 3, 2007

It happened so fast, no time for goodbye
My son you were gone in the blink of an eye
Five years have passed since that awful day
God called you home, here you could not stay
I carry your memories here in my heart
Missing you until we are no longer apart
Love and miss you until we meet again
Anthony you were more than my son, you were my friend.

Love you always,
Dad

We say "go home" every time.*

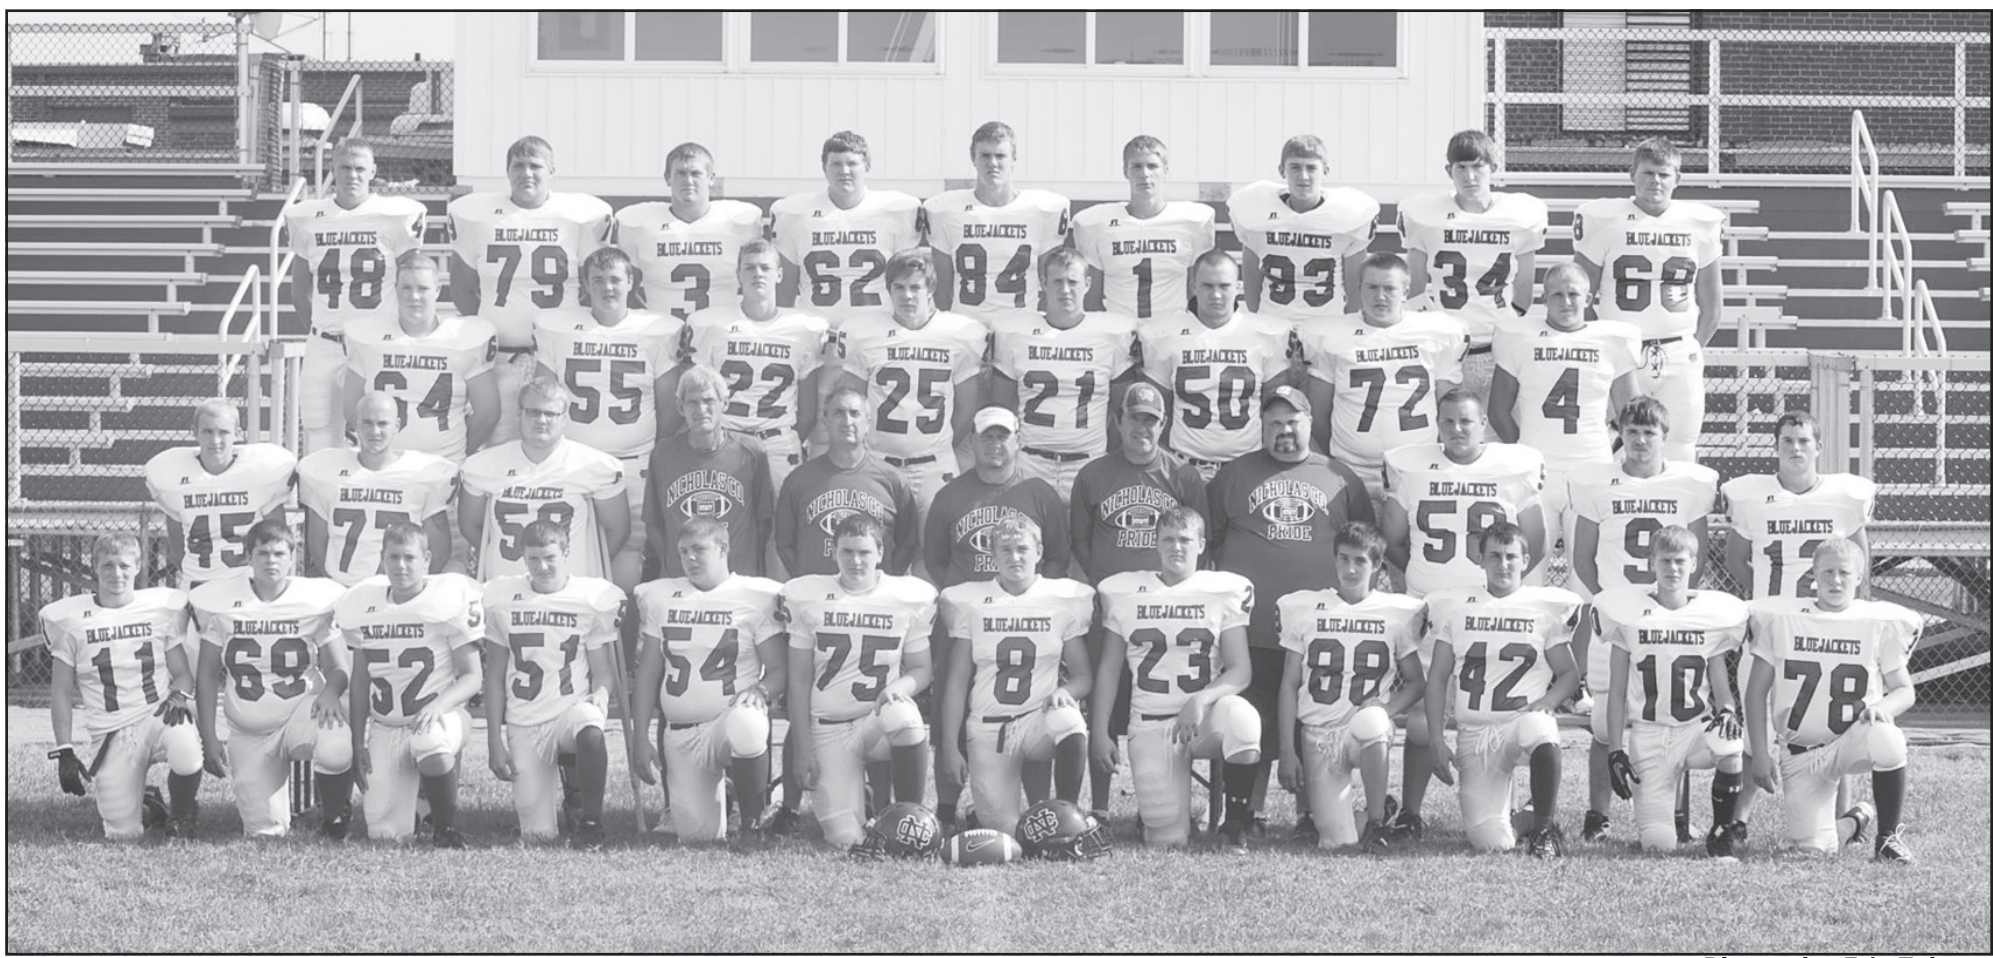

All those bells and whistles of a larger hospital don't matter much when you're having surgery. What matters is whether your surgical team is experienced and skilled to handle the job. HMH orthopedic surgeon James Pettey, M.D., performs many orthopedic and sports injury-related surgical procedures, including knee and hip replacements, at Harrison Memorial Hospital. The same procedures performed in Lexington -- only closer to home where you're surrounded by friends, family and a skilled surgical team you know and trust.

Bluejackets fall to Fleming County

FLEMINGSBURG - The Nicholas County Bluejackets faced a tough road test in Week 1 of the Kentucky high school football season. The Fleming County Panthers enacted some revenge Friday night. In the 2011 season, Nicholas County edged the Panthers 46-45. Surging Fleming County won convincingly in the latest meeting, defeating non-district foe Nicholas County 53-14 Friday night at Panther Field.

Fleming County scored first when McAdams hooked up with Chaise Gully on a 24-yard touchdown pass. Nicholas County, however, managed to answer. Following a 79-yard kickoff return from Carl Hurd, just a few plays later, Austin Allison scored on a two-yard run. After the extra-point kick missed its mark, the game was tied 6-6.

Then, Fleming County proceeded to dominate. The Panthers led 46-6 in the fourth quarter before Nicholas County scored its second and final touchdown.

McAdams hooked up with Maverick Burnett on a 41-yard touchdown pass and Carmelo Puente reached the endzone on a successful two-point conversion attempt as Fleming County moved ahead 14-6 with 56 seconds left in the first period.

Burnett worked his way back into the endzone in the second quarter, returning a Nicholas County punt 45 yards for a touchdown. Kicker Erik Mikelsoo landed a successful extra-point kick after Burnett's second touchdown.

McAdams passed for a 52-yard touchdown to Aaron James and scored on a three-yard run for Fleming County later in the second quarter.

After intermission, Fleming County ate up nearly seven minutes

McAdams hooked up with Boyd later on a 23-yard scoring pass as the Panthers pushed out ahead 46-6.

Nicholas County backup quarterback Ben Duncan completed a 25-yard touchdown pass to Zack Howard with 6:58 remaining for the Bluejackets' final score.

Puente returned a kickoff 65 yards for Fleming County's final touchdown.

Robert Hopkins-coached Nicholas County will host West Carter in a home opener this Friday night. West Carter is 0-2. The Comets have dropped games to Fairview and Bath County. Kickoff for the Nicholas County-West Carter game is set for 7:30 p.m.

First Lady Jane Beshear and Commissioner James Comer Launch Ready, Set, Grow Initiative

Joint effort provides "A Kid's Guide to Gardening" in Kentucky

First Lady Jane Beshear and Agriculture Commissioner James Comer recently launched Ready, Set, Grow: A Kid's Guide to Gardening - a joint initiative by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and the Governor's Office of Agricultural Policy.

The announcement took place at the Kentucky Exposition Center's Governor's Garden, which is one of six Governor's Gardens located across the Commonwealth.

garden. "I am delighted to assist students of all ages plant their own gardens by lending my support to the Ready, Set, Grow initiative," said First Lady Beshear. "Working with the Department of Agriculture on this project is a perfect partnership for the Governor's Garden Program, which seeks to educate the public about the health and economic benefits of community gardening and locally grown foods."

Ready, Set, Grow is a part of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture's education initiatives. The project shows that anyone can grow a garden, even if on a small patio. It features examples on how to grow gardens and ways to cultivate seed varieties in to mature plants. Additionally, it provides students with a planting and harvesting guide as well as an activity section to maintain interactive learning.

"This guide will teach students to appreciate the importance of where your food comes from by showing them how to grow a garden, but also how to take care of it once it begins growing," said Commissioner Comer. "As a consumer, making smart food choices for your family is very important, whether it's growing a garden or buying Kentucky Proud local products."

Jobless rates down in 97 counties from July 2011 to July 2012

Unemployment rates fell in 97 Kentucky counties between July 2011 and July 2012, while 18 county rates increased and five stayed the same, according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

It was followed by Fayette and Franklin counties, 6.6 percent each; Oldham and Union counties, 6.7 percent each; Scott and Shelby counties, 6.8 percent each; Hancock County, 6.9 percent; and Daviess, Jessamine, Madison and Owen counties, 7.1 percent each.

Magoffin County

recorded the state's highest unemployment rate — 16.7 percent. It was followed by Fulton County, 15.4 percent; Harlan County, 14.6 percent; Jackson County, 14.4 percent; Leslie County, 14.3 percent; Bell County, 13.9 percent; Wolfe County, 13.7 percent; McCreary County, 13.6 percent; Letcher County, 13.5 percent; and Knott County, 13.3 percent.

- Rowan County 7.6%
- Bourbon County 8.5%

Mason County 8.6% The nationwide jobless rate for the month of July was 8.3%, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. They do not include unemployed Kentuckians who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks. The statistics in this news release are not seasonally adjusted to allow for comparisons between United States, state and county figures.

Gov. Beshear overhauls Career and Technical Education in Kentucky

In a move to help produce the skilled workforce businesses require today and in the future, Governor Steve Beshear today signed an executive order that will overhaul the state's career and technical education (CTE) system.

The order unites the state's two CTE systems under the guidance of Kentucky's Department of Education. The goal is to create a unified, more relevant and efficient system to educate and prepare students for the world of work in a real-life setting.

"It is our responsibility to prepare students for higher education as well as for the workplace," said Gov. Beshear. "Today's employers require a workforce that is skilled, adaptable and equipped to compete in the global marketplace. Our students need an education system that provides job-training and learning opportunities that will put them on a career pathway. Transforming and elevating CTE is essential to this process. We must create a career and technical education system that is a first choice, not a last chance."

The executive order is part of a larger effort to prepare students for a wider range of career options through high-quality CTE programs. Educators, businesses and administrators across the state are working together to make these programs more accessible earlier, more academically rigorous and better aligned with post-secondary requirements and employer needs.

For example, the Kentucky Board of Education has adopted a college and career readiness measure that includes an academic component and a technical skill component. The Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) offers dual credit opportunities so that high school students can earn college credit. Kentucky provides funds from the Carl D. Perkins CTE Basic Grant to encourage secondary and postsecondary institutions to develop innovative career pathways.

In addition, the Governor's Task Force on Transforming Education in Kentucky and the Graduate Kentucky steering committee, led by First Lady Jane Beshear, have both made recommendations to improve career and technical education opportunities and reinforce its role as a critical component of Kentucky's college and career readiness initiative.

"CTE can make the direct connection for students between education and jobs," said Education and Workforce Development Cabinet Secretary Joseph U. Meyer.

"These programs offer learning opportunities that can inspire all students to explore careers and tackle more challenging courses."

Studies show that graduation rates are higher among students who participate in CTE programs as opposed to those who do not. These high school graduates are then more likely to transition to postsecondary education or employment.

Seventy-five percent of Kentucky high school students, more than 150,000 pupils, were enrolled in career and technical education programs last year. Career and technical education — offering hands-on training in areas such as agriscience, machine tool technology, health sciences, electrical technology and business administration — is provided at 323 middle and high schools, area technology centers and career and technical centers across the state.

"Bringing the Office of Career and Technical Education into the Kentucky Department of Education is an excellent move," said Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holliday. "Career and technical education directly connects learning and jobs for our students and provides them with engaging real-world opportunities so that they can transition to higher education or employment with ease. This move is a key strategy in our efforts to ensure college and career readiness for all students."

The executive order also establishes a CTE Advisory Committee that will provide guidance in the design and implementation of programs that give all students the best possible opportunity for career preparation in a unified system.

"By bringing together oversight of career and technical education at the state level we will become much more effective in delivering the training our students need and our employers expect," said Rep. Carl Rollins, of Midway.

The signing ceremony was held at Lexington's newest career and technical high school, Locust Trace Agriscience Farm. In addition to classrooms with adjoining labs, the facility features 6.5 acres for gardening, a state-of-the-art greenhouse and aquaculture area, an auditorium to accommodate livestock and machinery, an equine barn and arena and an on-site veterinary clinic. The school offers courses in plant and land science, biotechnology and environmental science, agriculture power mechanics, equine and vet science, and small and large animal science.

Planning for Dental Fair in Nicholas County

By Eric Tolson

Plans for an upcoming Dental and Health Fair were discussed at a recent meeting at the Nicholas County Health Center on Wednesday, August 22.

The purpose of the fair will be to provide necessary dental and health check-ups for those people in Nicholas County who need them.

"One of the main reasons that people don't seek proper dental care is the financial burden it places on them," said Lenora Kinney, organizer of the fair. "Money should not get in the way of someone wanting to get medical assistance."

Kinney went on to explain why a Dental and Health Fair is needed for Carlisle and Nicholas County and how it could benefit the community.

"Dental health is one aspect of general health that often gets neglected, and that's rather unfortunate," Kinney explained. "People need to learn how important their teeth are. At a dental fair, we can provide check-ups, cleaning, extraction as well as other services. The fair could also generate a great amount of income for county and attract many visitors."

Although dental health was the primary discussion point, several other ailments and aspects of health were discussed, especially the growing diabetes epidemic.

"Diabetes is another important health risk that people need to become more aware about," Kinney said. "The health fair will provide adequate testing methods and facilities that will allow people to make more healthy decisions that would prevent them from contracting diabetes."

Regarding the planning of the fair, the suggestion was made to have the involvement of the University of Kentucky. It was said that their involvement would entice people to attend the health fair and become more health conscious citizens.

As for the date, with proper planning, a Dental and Health Fair could come as soon as next year, providing that the cause gains enough medical officials and health equipment.

Commissioner Comer blasts handling of Eastern Livestock scandal; says victims deserve better

Surrounded by members of the agriculture community at the Kentucky State Fair, Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner James Comer slammed the bankruptcy process that has failed to provide justice to the farmers, markets, truckers, veterinarians and others whose cattle or services were stolen in the collapse of Eastern Livestock.

"The farmers who fell victim to this scandal depended on this income to pay their employees and feed their families," Commissioner Comer said. "It is a travesty that, after almost two years of legal wrangling, they are still being held hostage in this bankruptcy process. The payments to the victims are long overdue."

Hundreds of cattle farmers and markets lost millions of dollars when Eastern Livestock, a cattle brokerage company, filed for bankruptcy and failed to pay for livestock and services. Several of the perpetrators pled guilty to criminal charges in what has been called a check kiting scheme. Eastern Livestock was forced into bankruptcy in December 2010. A bankruptcy judge appointed a trustee to manage the payments to the victims, many of whom have now asked that the trustee be removed.

"This process has been a nightmare for my business and for many others in Kentucky's farm and livestock market community," said Jim Akers, COO of Bluegrass Stockyards. "Where is the justice for all of us who trusted in this legal process? We will not continue to sit idly by while our money is eaten up in legal fees and court costs."

Akers and others are supported by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association, and livestock groups all across the Southeast. These groups rallied together to call for the bankruptcy judge to remove the trustee and place this matter into a global mediation that would expedite settlement for the victims.

"We are in this case to speak for the small farmers who cannot afford high-powered lawyers," said David Maples, executive vice president of the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association. "This sad chapter in our farming community needs to come to an end."

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner James Comer, center, criticizes the lack of progress in settling with the individuals and businesses that were victimized by Eastern Livestock in a news conference Thursday at the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville. Secretary Grimes Reminds Businesses to File Annual Reports by September 10, 2012

Entities authorized to transact business in Kentucky were required to file annual reports with the Secretary of State's office and pay a $15 filing fee no later than July 2, 2012. Entities that missed the deadline were notified that they were no longer in good standing with the Secretary of State's office and allowed through September 9, 2012, to remedy the delinquency before being administratively dissolved or having their certificates of authority revoked. Because September 9, 2012, falls on a Sunday, entities may file their annual reports through Monday, September 10, 2012.

Annual reports contain information such as principal place of business, officers, and service of process address. They do not contain any financial information. "Annual reports are critical to providing the public accurate information about businesses operating in the state, which facilitates more efficient and confident relationships," said Grimes.

To date, more than 171,000 entities have filed their annual reports, with more than 63 percent filing online at www.sos.ky.gov. Grimes encourages the approximately 20,000 entities that still need to file their annual reports to follow suit: "Filing online is the most efficient way to file annual reports, saving both businesses and the state time and money." Entities can also file the required paperwork and pay the fee in person or by mail.

Under Kentucky law, domestic entities that fail to file an annual report by the September 10th deadline will be administratively dissolved; foreign entities that do not fulfill the requirement will have their certificates of authority revoked. Conducting business in Kentucky after administrative dissolution or revocation of the certificate of authority may result in civil penalties.

CRP Participants May Request Authorization to Conduct Emergency Haying or Grazing of CRP Acres

The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) announces the opportunity for Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants to request authorization to conduct emergency haying or grazing on specific CRP acres. Eligible producers who are interested in applying for approval to conduct Emergency Haying or Grazing of CRP land located in Kentucky must request and obtain individual written approval from FSA before any haying or grazing starts. Participants will be assessed a 10 percent payment reduction on their annual rental payment for the acres actually hayed or grazed. Interested CRP participants are required to submit a request to FSA and obtain a modified conservation plan to hay and/or graze under emergency provisions. The same acres may not be hayed and grazed under the same emergency designation. Emergency haying or grazing is not allowed within 120 feet of any stream or water body. Specified portions of each field or contiguous fields must be left or grazed with limited stock for wildlife purposes. Emergency haying or grazing is restricted to specific practices that are 12 months past being determined as fully established by the agency. Participants shall not start any haying or grazing activity until individual written approval is received for the CRP contract request. Approved haying authorization will end not later than August 31st. Approved grazing authorization will end not later than September 30th. To take advantage of the emergency haying and grazing provisions, approved participants can use the CRP acreage for their own livestock or may grant another livestock producer use of the CRP acreage for the purpose of haying or grazing. For more information and to request approval for emergency haying or grazing of CRP acres, contact the local FSA Service Center that administers the CRP contract. Opportunity for Continuous CRP Enrollment of Highly Erodible Cropland The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) announced that continuous sign-up for the Highly Erodible Land (HEL) Initiative under the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) started on July 23, 2012. Kentucky received a total allocation of 39,400 acres to enroll in the HELI CRP program. Offers will be accepted until either the state acreage allocation limit is reached or September 30, 2012 whichever occurs first. This initiative will accept offers with an erosion rate of at least 20 tons per acre per year for new cropland or CRP acres that expire on September 30, 2012; however, existing grass stands that are not considered expiring CRP will not be considered eligible for enrollment. Eligible cropland must also have a history of being cropped 4 out of 6 years, 2002 through 2007. Eligible CRP contracts set to expire on September 30, 2012, may be offered for consideration and approved contracts will become effective October 1, 2012. The contract duration is also 10 years. For more information, please contact your local FSA Office or visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/crp>.

Governor Proclaims September Commonwealth of Kentucky Preparedness Month

In conjunction with National Preparedness Month, Governor Steve Beshear has proclaimed September as Commonwealth of Kentucky Preparedness Month.

"Kentuckians face challenges throughout the year, from tornadoes, flooding, winter storms to man-made hazards," Gov. Beshear said. "During my term alone, Kentucky has endured 11 presidentially declared disasters. Every household should be prepared to face these challenges at any given time, which is why I have proclaimed September as Commonwealth of Kentucky Preparedness Month."

The severe weather and tornadoes that struck Kentucky in early spring destroyed parts of West Liberty and inflicted severe damage on Salyersville, London and dozens of communities across the Commonwealth. Those storms were also responsible for the deaths of 25 Kentuckians and scores of injuries. Hundreds of homes, businesses and public buildings were damaged or destroyed.

"We urge Kentuckians to be prepared for any unforeseen emergency or disaster," said Gene Kiser, executive director of the Kentucky Office of Homeland Security. "Supplies such as water, non-perishable food, flashlights and batteries, radios, and first-aid kits are easy to store and can be lifesavers when a crisis occurs. A communications plan with family, friends and neighbors is also an important part in being prepared. As we have all witnessed in the past few years, emergency situations can happen any time, any place, so it is wise to be prepared."

Although state and local governments are ready to assist the public during times of emergencies and disasters, preparedness starts at home, said John Heltzel, director of Kentucky Emergency Management.

"In the event of large scale disasters, it may take time to respond immediately," Heltzel said. "The flooding of 2011 and tornadoes of February and March of this year have taught us many valuable lessons. One of the most important is the value of individual and family preparedness."

Heltzel said educating and preparing citizens is important, which is why Gov. Beshear, Kentucky Homeland Security and Kentucky Emergency Management are joining together to offer preparedness tips.

PLANNING FOR DISASTER:

- Be Aware:
- Know in advance your weather forecasts.
 - Stay tuned to your local broadcasting stations.
 - Discuss conditions with family members and know their location during times of known threatening conditions.

Be Prepared:

- Discuss known risks with family members and neighbors.
- Develop and review your emergency plan periodically for necessary updates.
- Refresh your emergency kit(s) periodically. A kit should have enough food, water and medications for five days.
- Drill: practice your plan with household members.

Have a plan:

- Utilities - Written instructions for how to turn off electricity, gas and water if authorities advise you to do so. (Remember, you'll need a professional to turn them back on.)
- Shelter - Identify safe locations within your residence.
- Contacts - Written contact information for relatives, neighbors, utility companies, employers/employees and local emergency contact telephone numbers.
- Evacuate - Predetermine evacuation routes. Identify where you could go if told to evacuate. Choose several places, such as a friend or relative's home in another town, a motel or shelter.
- Children - Make back-up plans for children in case you (or they) can't get home in an emergency

- Vehicles - Keep jumper cables in vehicle at all times. Maintain a half tank of fuel in vehicles. Move vehicles from under trees during possible wind events. Keep an emergency kit in the vehicle. During winter months, keep a blanket and bag of kitty litter in the trunk
- Medications - prepare a list of all prescription drugs
- Share your plan with others. It is recommended to include sharing it with contacts in another region or even another state.

Make a kit:

- First aid kit and essential medications (to include prescription medicines).
- Canned food and can opener
- At least three gallons of water per person
- Protective clothing, rainwear and bedding or sleeping bags.
- Battery-powered radio, flashlight and extra batteries
- Waterproof matches and candles
- Local phone book
- Special items for infants, elderly or disabled family members
- Extra set of car keys

Judge Executive Kenny Lyons invites all Veterans to the courthouse yard on Sept 4 at 8:30 a.m. to send the National Guard troops off on their call of duty and to show your support.

Adam H. Edelen
Auditor of Public Accounts

The Honorable Kenneth C. Lyons, Nicholas County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Doug Fryman, Former Nicholas County Clerk
The Honorable Martha Moss, Nicholas County Clerk
Members of the Nicholas County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the former County Clerk of Nicholas County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2011. This financial statement is the responsibility of the former County Clerk. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in the Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the County Clerk's office prepares the financial statement on regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the former County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 2011, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated June 28, 2012 on our consideration of the laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the former County Clerk and Fiscal Court of Nicholas County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Respectfully Submitted,
Adam H. Edelen
Auditor of Public Accounts

Janie Jett-Mason and Domino Band booked for BIG EVENT 2012

Domino Band of Lexington will perform Saturday, September 15, for The BIG EVENT 2012 at Deming Gym.

Schalch qualifies for All 'A' state tourney

MOUNT OLIVET - Deming High School golfer Daulton Schalch shot a 73 at Flagg Springs in Campbell County to qualify for the 2012 All "A" Classic state tournament.

Schalch placed second behind Bishop Brossart's Jimmy Kelley, who carded a 70. By placing second, Schalch qualified for the All "A" Classic state tournament at Eagle's Nest in Somerset on Sept. 8.

The talented golfer competes under the direction of Deming High School boys' golf head coach Aaron Massey.

Schalch will find out next week what time he will be teeing off in the All "A" state tournament.

Janie Jett-Mason a Robertson County native and Jerry will create laughs for all ages at the Big Event 2012 with Janie's sharp wit and Jerry's sharp tongue.

The BIG EVENT 2012 scheduled for Saturday, September 15, at the Deming Gym at 8:00 P.M. will have something for everyone.

The 2012 show will feature Robertson County native, Janie Jett-Mason with her ventriloquist act featuring Jerry. Additionally, Domino Band from Lexington will entertain attendees with a class act performance of Motown music from the 70's and 80's.

Other acts for the family oriented, variety show include Alyssa Robey, a young, country singer who will be traveling with Jett-Mason from Owensboro, KY. Two local acts of Deming Elementary students known as the Soggy Bottom Rappers and as the Little Glimmer Gang will also perform.

The BIG EVENT was held for the first time last fall in conjunction with the school fair weekend when nearly 400 people attended. This year's event also held in conjunction with 2012 school fair activities is being sponsored by the Class of 2016 as a moneymaker towards their junior-senior prom and their graduation expenses.

The class members assisted by Deming cheerleaders will be selling advance tickets at $5 for students and $8 for adults. The at-the-door prices will be $8 for students and $10 for adults. There will be tables with seating for 8 persons available again this year for $15 per table. All persons seated at the tables must have an entry ticket as well. Tables may be purchased from Patti Price who is helping the class sponsors, Roberta Collins and Joe Bane, coordinate the event. Tickets and tables will be available for purchase on September 1.

The Robertson County Farm Bureau will hold their annual steak dinner at the school cafeteria the same evening starting at 6:00 p.m. Tickets for that meal are available at the cafeteria door on September 15. The meal and event combined create a chance for a night out in Mt. Olivet for good food and good entertainment.

The KyNews Group office will be closed Monday, September 3 due to the Labor Day holiday. The office will re-open on September 4. Deadlines for any items being placed in the paper will be Friday, August 31st at Noon.
