Nicholas County Man Sentenced 15 Years

Charles Lee Fryman, 51, of Nicholas County, Ky., was sentenced Monday to 15 years in prison for being a felon in possession of a firearm.

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph M. Hood enhanced Fryman's sentence because Fryman had three prior convictions for violent felony offenses, making him an Armed Career Criminal under federal sentencing guidelines.

Fryman previously admitted that on June 22 and 23, 2011, he was in possession of several firearms, including three rifles, two shotguns, and two pistols. Fryman pleaded guilty to the charges in July of 2012.

Under federal law, Fryman must serve at least 85 percent of his prison sentence, and, upon release, will be under the supervision of the United States Probation Office for five years.

Kerry B. Harvey, United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, Paul J. Vido, Special Agent in Charge, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (Louisville Field Division), and Rodney Brewer, Commissioner, Kentucky State Police, jointly made the announcement today.

The investigation was conducted by the Kentucky State Police and ATF. The U.S. Attorney's Office was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Robert M. Duncan, Jr.

A Carlisle man who was accused of killing his mother was sentenced on Monday morning.

Sam Terrell, 20, who entered an Alford Plea in Nicholas County Circuit Court on October 16, was sentenced to 18 years in prison.

According to police, Terrell murdered his mother, Betty Jo Terrell, in the early morning hours of May 13, 2011.

Sam Terrell was charged with murder, criminal mischief, 3rd degree, and terroristic threatening. The Nicholas County Grand Jury returned an indictment for murder against Terrell on May 23, 2011. Terrell has been in jail since his arrest.

The plea agreement is for the charge of manslaughter in the 1st degree, which is punishable by a sentence of up to 20 years in prison. It was recommended that Terrell serve a sentence of 18 years. Terrell must serve 85 percent of that time, 15.3 years, before he would be eligible for release.

New City Council Members to take Seats

The votes are in for Election Day 2012 in Nicholas County. The voters of Carlisle and Nicholas County have decided who they would like to have as their new officials in local, state and federal government. A 2,685 voter turnout was reported for Nicholas County, counting absentee votes and all five districts. Voters stood in line for approximately 40-50 minutes in order to cast their ballot.

The Carlisle City Council has only two incumbents returning along with four new members, there were ten individuals vying for a position on the City Council. Those voted to the city council include: Doug Garrett, who received 493; Larry T. Jolly, 402; Chris Allison, 412; Alice Tap Hughes, 415; Billy Mac Gaunce, 398 and Sandy Ritchie, 373. Other candidates were Franklin Hughes receiving 250, John Jones 349, Betty Jo Booth 223, and Betty Fay with 193. Former Council members Tommy Crawford and Eugene Hall did not seek reelection.

The race for United States Representative was a very convoluted one for many voters in Nicholas County. This is due to the resignation of Geoff Davis, the former Representative, just months ago. The redistricting of several Kentucky counties, including Nicholas County, from the fourth district to the sixth played an integral part in this election as well.

The next elected office is that of United States Representative for Kentucky's 4th Congressional District. William R. Adkins, the Democratic candidate, won this race with a total of 1,106 votes. Thomas Massie, the Republican candidate, won 1,098 votes in Nicholas County while David Lewis, the Independent candidate came away with 93 votes. Due to the redistricting of several Kentucky counties, the overall winner of this race will hold this office until January, at which time Nicholas County will become part of the 6th Congressional District.

The office of United States Representative for Kentucky's 6th Congressional District was next. Garland "Andy" Barr, the Republican candidate, carried Democratic incumbent Ben Chandler with 1,419 votes to Chandler's 1,059. Independent candidate Randolph Vance received 93 votes in Nicholas County. Barr's victory in Nicholas County was an appropriate one, being one of many across the district. Barr ousted Chandler and will assume the duties of Representative for Kentucky's 6th Congressional District in January.

The office of President of the United States was the next office up for election. In Nicholas County, Republican candidate Mitt Romney won 1,583 votes, trumping Democratic incum-ment Barack Obama's 948 votes. Jill Stein, the nominee from the Green Party, received six votes while Randall A. Terry, the Independent candidate, received 16 and Gary Johnson, the nominee from the Libertarian party won 27 votes.

The people of Nicholas County also voted on a constitutional amendment. The amendment asked voters if they were in favor of amending the Kentucky constitution to state that the citizens of Kentucky have the personal right to hunt, fish and harvest wildlife, subject to laws and regulations that promote conservation and preserve the future of hunting and fishing shall be a preferred means of managing and controlling wildlife. A total of 1,676 "yes" votes were received for amending the Kentucky constitution. 247 voters voted against amending the constitution.

A total of 2,685 voters showed up to exercise their civic duty in Nicholas County and Carlisle. Although the weather was somewhat frigid by some standards, there was an amazing voter turnout in Nicholas County.

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

*Insanity laughs under pressure we're cracking
Can't we give ourselves... one more chance
Why can't we give love that one more chance
Why can't we give love give love give love give love give love give love give love give love give love
'Cause love's such an old fashioned word
And love dares you to care for
The people on the edge of the Night
And love dares you to change our way of Caring about ourselves
This is our last dance
This is our last dance
This is ourselves
Under pressure
Under pressure
Pressure*

Excerpted from the song "Under Pressure" written and performed by Freddie Mercury, Brian May, Roger Meadows and John Deacon of the group Queen, and with the collaborative efforts of David Bowie. The song was released in 1981.

As the years slowly roll by I am reluctantly beginning to acknowledge my immortality.

My days are numbered, dear reader, just like yours.

I grow increasingly old, and slightly more decrepit with the passing of each season.

No complaints here. I should have bit the dust many times, many years ago.

If you were to write my life's history in a mathematical equation, the fact that I am still alive, simply would not add up.

I lived dangerously there for a pretty-good while and I am still prone to occasionally commit acts of near galactic stupidity.

Every moment of every day is a blessing and there are no guarantees in this good life.

Such has been the case throughout history.

Material things can make our lives more productive and more comfortable, but life isn't always about a contest of comfort.

A HARMONIOUS OUTCOME

Life isn't always about a contest at all, simply a gift to be cherished while we can in whatever circumstances we find ourselves.

You and I know folks who are such control freaks and so greedy they actually think "they can take it all with them when they go," but like Old Pete told me one time years ago in the scrubby, near desert wastelands that surrounded Fort Hood Texas, "I've yet to see a hearse with a luggage rack, son."

Old Pete was "a good'un," as my folks would say of a man who could be trusted and had a little grit.

Old Pete "saw the elephant" near the Chosin Reservoir in North Korea, long before we met. When an old person used to say they 'saw the elephant', well, it meant they saw battle. Few acts of carnage in the annals of American history can compare to the frozen Hell American soldiers witnessed near the Chosin Reservoir.

It was a hellhole to be sure.

I don't know how much, if any, documented combat action my father saw at the end of World War Two or the front end of Korea, or those years in between along the DMZ where he was a military Police Officer, all I know was his stories about his military service were few and far between and how incredibly cold the Korean winter could be, so cold that when you urinated, your urine would turn to ice cubes before it hit the frozen ground.

That's about all my father would say of the place.

That and the .45 Colt pistol was the best weapon ever made.

We do our best and hope the next generation does a little better and lives with more joy than we did, and struggles less.

My military service and life in general, has been a cake-walk compared to my father's.

Dad had some pretty hard bark on his exterior but he always made time to give a little something back to the younger generations of his sons and daughters age.

My sister and I used to say, "look at him out there, molding that clay," on the endless summer days he would spend with the local and regional youth on the baseball diamonds scattered across Fleming County.

Raising five kids, working a factory job, raising a crop of tobacco and scouring the woods and streams to help put food on the table would be enough work for four men, but somehow, without complaint, he always managed to volunteer to coach youth baseball.

And his teams didn't lose very much.

Dad was never very good at losing.

Baseball, like hunting and fishing, remained a passion for him until his twilight years.

He remains the standard I hope to parallel one day as what a man should be, though I know that day will never come and on his worse day he was twice the man I could ever become on my best day.

He did things his way and along those same lines, so too do I.

I donated a fairly rare Native American axe to the Fleming County Covered Bridge Museum last week. The axe is made of granite, polished to the hilt and could fall a small tree if properly attached to a handle, in just a few strokes. Yeah, the bit is still fairly sharp after 2,000 years without being used.

It felt good to donate the axe, might spark an interest in some young person some day and lead them to follow along the broken trails that I've followed in search of knowledge and understanding you can't find in most books; the kind of knowledge and understanding you can only find in the solitude of the wilderness amid the ancient landscape where folks similar to you and I used to make their home thousands of years ago.

There is a lot more that connects all of us than separates us, dear reader; All of us.

I doubt that I will ever make that complete and harmonious connection that I witnessed my father make with his world. A world that was exponentially harsher to him than mine have been to me.

But I will continue to try.

I hope your days are filled with actions that will lead to a harmonious outcome as well.

Carlisle Cancer Care Club

Two Nicholas County women were drawn to receive a wreath and quilt at Carlisle Gifts and Collectibles on Monday. Pat Cohorn and Laura Parrish were present for the drawing and announced the winners.

Sharon Coffey was drawn to win the wreath, which was donated by Carlisle Gifts and Collectibles. Mary Jane Terrell received the fleece throw, which was made and donated by Kathy Guy of Carlisle.

"We've made a total of $82 from this raffle," said Pat Cohorn of the Cancer Care Club, "This is the kind of thing we've been doing since we've started. We really appreciate any donations for our cause."

The Cancer Care Club is a non-profit organization which is dedicated to providing help to cancer patients in need. The Cancer Care Club helps cancer patients in Fleming and surrounding Kentucky counties and southern Ohio. In the first half of 2002, the club has raised more than $19,000 to help those in Kentucky and Ohio who are living with cancer.

The Cancer Care Club offers a variety of services, including gas cards, help with groceries and prescription and prosthesis assistance, not to mention the assistance centered around a patient's specific needs.

To receive assistance from the Cancer Care

Club, a patient must meet certain, but minimal, criteria. To determine eligibility, a pathology report and a statement from a physician outlining the patient's treatment plan is required.

"This is a nonprofit organization, so none of us get paid," said Cohorn, the spokesperson of the Cancer Care Club for Nicholas County. "We operate on a donation basis and our primary focus is to help those with cancer who need help immediately."

Anyone who wishes to donate to the Cancer Care Club can do so at either the Deposit Bank of Carlisle or Carlisle's Whitaker Bank.

The KHSAA Title IV Audit of the General Equity meeting will take place on Nov. 15th at 4 p.m. in the High School library. Open to the public, all are welcomed to attend.

School Test Scores

By Eric Tolson
KYNewsGroup
eric@kynewsgroup.com

The students of the Nicholas County Schools underwent a change in the manner that standardized testing is done. This new method of testing has resulted in lower test scores across the state, most noticeably in the subjects of reading and math. The reason for these lower scores is the results of higher standards and the increased difficulty of the tests.

The design and assessment of the test has changed from the previous assessment model known as the Commonwealth Accountability Testing System, commonly referred to as the "CATS test." The new testing assessment is centered in Senate Bill 1, passed in 2009 by the Kentucky State legislature, is known as Unbridled Learning - College/Career for All.

Unbridled Spirit brings a new assessment and accountability system as well as new learning standards for Kentucky's public school students.

This new testing format measures a student's performance in a subject. It also measures gaps in academic performance who are ethnic minorities, have disabilities, are English language learners or come from low-income households and students who do not fit into these categories. The test also measures a student's growth in reading and mathematics, how well the schools and districts prepare students for life after high school and how many students graduate in time.

Each school and district in Kentucky received a score from zero to 100 based on a composite of the factors mentioned above.

In District Overall, Nicholas County scored a 46, which is a 7th percentile rank in the state. These scores have classified Nicholas County as a "Needs Improvement" school and has been named a Focus District. District-wide, math was the content area that was in the most need of improvement.

Each school's individual scores didn't fare much better.

Nicholas County Elementary School scored 51.2 in the district, placing them in the 26th percentile in the state of Kentucky. This has placed the elementary school with a "Needs Improvement" classification. NCES did outperform the average in the state in the science content area.

The Middle School scored a 45.2, which puts the school in the 16th percentile in the state. This again classifies the school with a "Needs Improvement" classification. Social studies was NCMS's strongest subject, exceeding the state average.

Finally, Nicholas County High School had low test scores as well. The overall test scores of the High School were a 42.3, which places them in the 7th percentile in the state. This again classifies the school as a "Needs Improvement" school and will be a focus school in the district. NCHS's social studies scores exceeded the state average.

Now that the test scores have been received, both schools and their decision making councils will be busy analyzing the data from these tests to find strengths and areas of needed growth. Superintendent Gregory Reid will be directing the district staff to assist in this effort.

"I am always proud of the hard work of the students and staff here at Nicholas County Schools," said Reid. "However, with a new assessment and new standards, there is much work to be done. We now know what our baseline score is and how we compare to other schools and districts in the state, which makes us that much more determined to work hard to move our scores toward the top of the list."

When asked about these scores, Kevin Miller, Director of Pupil Personnel, expressed many ways in which the school curriculum will focus in order to improve these scores for the next year.

"As always, we will have a primary focus on reading and math," said Miller. "These are very important subjects that not only are integral parts of the test, but they're valuable tools that they will use later on in life."

Mr. Miller also expressed his concern about parent/teacher relationships in regards to education.

"It's very important for the parents and teachers to work together to make sure that a student is getting the best education possible," said Miller. "Parental involvement is vital to developing a sense of hard work and perseverance. Parents and teachers working with students to help them study is a cornerstone to the educational process and it will help the students do well on these tests. These tests are much more difficult in comparison to previous testing systems and set much higher standards. There is an adjustment period for some students in the difficulty for these tests, but I am confident that the students will continue to grow and improve."

MERCURY MEMORIES

The Court of Appeals has affirmed the City of Carlisle annexation of the properties of the Nicholas County Board of Education. The decision of the court was rendered Friday, October 25, with all three judges concurring in the decision.

Voters will go to the polls in Nicholas county Tuesday to decide on who will occupy seats of leadership for either four or two years. Contested races are on the November 5 ballot for Mayor of Carlisle, the six seats on the Carlisle City Council, the Kentucky Fourth Congressional District seat in the U.S. house of Representatives, a seat in the U.S. Senate and, in one district, a seat on the Nicholas County Board of Education.

The transportation operation of the Nicholas County schools has received special recognition. It has been selected by School Bus Fleet, a California-based trade magazine, as a "great fleet." The fleet was profiled in the October issue of the magazine, which has covered the school transportation industry since 1965, in a special report on 50 exemplary school bus fleets.

As most young adults would, Mary Byron was looking forward to her 21st birthday. But she barely lived to see it because, on her birthday, her ex-boyfriend, Donovan Harris, shot and killed her. One month earlier, Harris has been incarcerated for raping and kidnapping Byron. Once released from the Jefferson County Correctional System, Harris shot Byron seven times as she left work. "If Mary Byron had known her attacker had been released from jail, she might have been able to take precautions to protect herself," said Nicholas County Attorney, Joseph H. Conley. That's why Kentucky has created the V.I.N.E. system, the nations' only statewide automated victim notification system. V.I.N.E. can be used two ways: victims can call V.I.N.E. for information, and the system can call victims to notify them that an inmate will be released.

Faced already with the possibility of a $6,500 deficit at the end of the current fiscal year, the Nicholas County Fiscal Court informed the Industrial Authority that it couldn't match the offer made by the Carlisle City Council. But the Industrial Authority has made a possible arrangement to remain open. According to Industrial Authority coordinator Kathy Howard, upon word that the fiscal court could not provide the money necessary to meet Industrial Authority tax expenditures for the next three months, there has been an offer in Nicholas County's private sector to match the city council's commitment made at a special meeting last week.

The Carlisle Mercury was recognized as Nicholas County's "Corporate Citizens of the Year" by officials representing the Bluegrass Area Development District Wednesday night. Elected and civic officials from the 17 counties that made up the BGADD district gathered at the Marriott's Griffin Gate Hotel in Lexington Wednesday to pay tribute to each county's leading industry.

A jury returned a verdict of guilty against David Hufans on felony charges of tampering with evidence and recommended a one year sentence. However, jurors also suggested that in sentencing, Circuit Judge Robert McGinnis invoke leniency in the judgment. Hu-fans, 31, was arrested last June in connection with the arrest of Carlisle resident William Mynear for allegedly shooting a .32 caliber revolver eight times into a Moorefield resident's trailer.

Herndon Cemetery preservation begins

Fleming County folk artist Johnny Jett examines a row of historic gravestones that have emerged since he and Coleman Callaway began cleaning and preserving the Herndon Cemetery.

Two well-known, local men have been working together to help preserve and restore a local historic cemetery near the Fleming and Nichols county border.

Fleming County artist and log cabin restoration expert, Johnny Jett, has joined Nicholas County land owner and philanthropist Coleman Callaway of Abner's Mills Road, in working to preserve and restore the Herndon Cemetery, located on a portion of Callaway's 650-acre farm.

"We've done a lot of the heavy work and we're working on making a good access from the road to the cemetery," Callaway said as he and Jett took a break from chainsaw work and cleaning debris from the cemetery lots before Hallowne. "I want to make the cemetery look good and have a good access for people to come and visit."

The cemetery sits on a beautiful elevated knoll near the confluence of Buchanan Creek and Licking River, amid beautiful landscape that has attracted people for centuries.

Coleman Callaway carefully cleans one of the more recent headstones within the historic Herndon Cemetery.

said he believed the place was a camping spot for Native Americans long before pioneers came to live nearby.

"I've found some worked flint around here as we've been cleaning," he said.

A listing of complete families buried in the cemetery can be found on page 514 of an original issue of 'The History of Nicholas County', with several names including Purcell, Rogers, Bartlett and Shepherd, among those still easily visible today, thanks to the efforts of Callaway and Jett.

Jett and Callaway continue to work closely o

the project as they have on several others in recent years, including the building of three log structures on Callaway's property.

Callaway's three loyal dogs: Misty, Tiffy and Daisy, provide comic relief and are loving companions wherever Callaway goes.

Callaway said as he and Jett continue to progress with the cemetery project they have noticed burial patterns, family plots and an abundance of child graves, some marked with names, some with initials and there are random field stones placed on edge that mark the final resting place of the unknown.

"There is an abundance of wonderful history here, Callaway said. "Just an abundance of history."

TRIANGLE NEWS HEADQUARTERS~SALTWELL~BARTERVILLE

The Ellisville homemakers had their monthly meeting on Thursday, Nov 1st at the Adult Education center with 17 in attendance. The pledge to the U.S. flag was first. Faye Buzzard had asked Dawn Arnold to give a talk about "Operation Christmas Child" which is so worthwhile. Phyllis Brady wrote the Devotional reading the 100th Psalm then a poem "Thank you God for Everything" and had a prayer. Faye Buzzard gave out copies of the minutes and they were approved, Debbie Workman gave treasurer's report. Several announcements were given. The council meeting is Nov. 9. The subject of revising our Bylaws was brought up. Membership dues are to be in by today. A few are going to the Derby Dinner Theater Play of "White Christmas." The veterans meals is at the school on Nov. 12. Some are going to the "Living Well Seminar" in Lex. On Nov 10. The next lesson training is at Extension Office Nov 15. We were thankful today to have our new agent, Rachel Abney with us. She was pleased that so many went to the Area meeting. Nicholas County had a lot of entries in the cultural arts and won several ribbons. The clubs have been asked to make pillow case dresses to be sent to orphanages in Haiti. This club made a good sum of money at the cake walk at the Fall Festival. This club has gotten four new members in the last two months, Shelia Kinder, Chelsea Tarvin, Bryan Buzzard and Lois Mitchell. Three thank you notes were read from various things given. Arthur and Faye Buzzard were our hostess today with Thanksgiving meal and potluck too. They gave several door prizes following our meal. Mary Jo McCord gave the lesson on "Bread Making Basics" and we also got literature on last months lesson "Nourishing Your Joints". Today Faye had given everyone a bottle of homemade detergent. Our annual auction was held and made a good amount and had fun doing it. We planned four projects of giving. Today we were glad to have Martha Rae back with us. The Barterville U.M. Church had a good crowd last Saturday night Oct 27, for the hayride and weiner roast. Also a good crowd Sunday with their new pastor and Pauline Bussell joined church and was baptized. They all seem to really be pleased with Bro. Jim and Janice Rawlings. Janet Doyle May, Phyllis Brady, Marcy and Rod Arnold and Sons, Garnett Wayne and Donna Vickers and Jimmy Campbell, Clarine Finch were among family of Marvin and Sue Doyle and Donna and Billy Dixon who enjoyed church Sunday at Victory Chapel at end of (Moorefield Road). Good message by pastor Bro. Kevin Miles. This was the first service in the new church, and it was packed. Sympathy is extended to Shelby Doyle on the passing of her sister, Roxie Wiglesworth, 71, of Cynthia. A large crowd attended funeral on Friday night at Ware Funeral Home. She was a retired beautician and husband Albert "Happy" Wiglesworth was a Tobacco Grader. Rev. Jimmy Rose, 92 years old, a retired Methodist minister had the good service and he was their neighbor for years.

BREAD OF LIFE

Proverbs 4:20-23 My son attended to my words, incline thine ear unto my sayings (21) Let them not depart from thine eyes: keep them in the midst of thine heart (22) For they are life unto those that find them and health to all their flesh (23) Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of Life. John 15:7 If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you. Do you need a miracle today? Then believe for a miracle, confess you've got a miracle then receive your miracle. Yes, you can! You've already done it once when you made Jesus the Lord of your life, you believed, confessed and received the greatest miracle in the universe, the miracle of a reborn spirit. Every other miracle you receive will come exactly the same way, you start by simply believing what God's word says concerning your area of need, by letting that word change your heart and mind. A lot of people try to skip that step. They try to believe for a miracle without spending enough time in the word of God to change their hearts and minds. They just want to confess it with their mouth and have it instantly appear, but it won't happen until we believe it in our heart. It's what we believe in our heart and say out our mouth that we receive. If you don't have enough faith yet to believe for the miracle you need. You can get it, Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God. Romans 10:17 so start filling the ears of your heart with the word until faith for your miracle is born. That's what the woman did who had the issue of blood. She believed in her heart that Jesus would heal her. Then she spoke to hear faith out loud. Then she acted on that faith and she received her miracle. See Matthew 9:20 It wasn't Jesus decision. He didn't suddenly say "you know, I think I'll work a miracle for that little lady today". No, she made it happen. She took her faith and drew on the power of God. That's why Jesus said "Daughter your faith has made you whole". Matthew 9:22 You have that same opportunity. God's power is always present everywhere. Your faith will bring it into your life, body, or circumstance. So reach out to Jesus. Believe. Confess and receive your miracle today. Read Matthew 9:18-31. Trust, Believe, and Obey 24hr prayer line 859-473-2600 Bro. Phillip

Thoughts from the Pastors Study

As we turn to the month of November, we begin to think about Thanksgiving. One of the major things for which I am thankful this year is the fact that political commercials on TV have now become history. Regardless of who you voted for, I am sure you join me in being thankful that we have now moved past the negativity of what we have heard in recent weeks and months. The reality, however, is that we are only 2 years from the next election. Be thankful for a moment of bliss.

Thanksgiving! I am reminded of a Ziggy cartoon which I have in my file. He begins by saying, "After a while I figured out that I have a lot to be thankful for!" He muses, "Somewhere along the way I stopped anxiously waiting for things that I wanted." He adds, "I gave up waiting and just went on living, and I did all of the little things I enjoy."

He goes on to say, "I figured that if I couldn't be happy with what I've got, then I would never be happy!" Then comes the final realization. "A funny thing happened, once I accepted being content with what I had, I started to get things I had always wanted, things like contentment and happiness!"

Ziggy is quite a philosopher and theologian. What is it that brings us a sense of satisfaction in our life? It is not the material realities of life. The new car, the 3-D giant screen TV, the latest designer fashion dress/suit do not bring us what we want most in life. We exert a great deal of time and energy on achieving such things, only to find that we are still searching and longing for what brings us a deep sense of fulfillment in life.

Our Thanksgiving is not for more of what we already have, or for what we sense is missing in our lives. With Ziggy we need to be thankful and content with what we already have. We have so much more than what we sometimes realize. A new car might be nice, but the one we have gets us to work during the week and to church on Sunday. The new 3-D TV would be nice, but the one I now have doesn't require me to wear special glasses. The latest fashion would be nice, but that big comfortable sweater that I curl up in to read my favorite book sure keeps me warm.

For those who have family and friends and food and health - there is so much for which to be thankful.

Whatever it is that you have, I trust that you will find, together with Ziggy, a sense of contentment and happiness in this Thanksgiving season.

In scripture we read: "Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom and THANKSGIVING and honor and power and might be to our God forever and ever! Amen."

Kay Shanklin Retires

By Eric Tolson

It was a bitter-sweet afternoon at the Nicholas County Hospital as employees said goodbye to a long-time employee and friend. Kay Shanklin, Administrative Assistant at the Nicholas County Hospital retired after 16 long years.

Ms. Shanklin began her job at the hospital on Halloween in 1996 and has immensely enjoyed every facet of her job. Although she was happy to be retiring, Shanklin still couldn't help but show some emotion, for she would be leaving the people she had worked so long with. In her free time, Ms. Shanklin has wide variety of hobbies. She enjoys scrapbooking, crocheting, and is an avid volunteer for many causes. She also has a large collection of tea pots, some of which she received as gifts for her retirement.

"Now that I'm retired I'm going to spend more time with my children and grandchildren," said Shanklin. "They live near a beach, so I'm going to move there and enjoy my retirement and spend more time with my family."

Local judge participates in 2012 Circuit Judges College Oct. 29-31 in Lexington

Circuit Court Judge Jay Delaney, who serves Harrison, Nicholas, Robertson, Pendleton, participated in the 2012 Kentucky Circuit Judges College that took place Oct. 29-31 in Lexington. The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state's Circuit Court judges. The event included 19.25 hours of continuing education credit for the judges.

The judges received updates on case law and legislation and attended sessions on the Open Records Act, child support and domestic violence and met with legislators and other officials to discuss legislation on child fatalities and near fatalities. The judges also heard from Chief Justice of Kentucky John D. Minton Jr. about the work of the Kentucky Access to Justice Commission, which was formed to identify the most pressing legal needs of those unable to afford lawyers and create a statewide plan to address those needs.

"There is a great need for legal aid to help low-income citizens who have nowhere else to turn for assistance with evictions, child custody issues, consumer fraud, government benefits for the elderly and other important legal matters," said Circuit Court Judge Paul F. Isaacs, who serves Bourbon, Scott and Woodford counties and is president of the Kentucky Association of Circuit Judges. "Chief Justice Minton encouraged the circuit judges to support Kentucky's civil legal aid efforts by letting people know how to find legal assistance and improving court processes for those with limited access to attorneys."

Circuit judges also had the opportunity to attend courses about evidence, youthful offender procedures, the Kentucky State Police Forensic Laboratory System, writs and appeals from District Court, Westlaw, the State Law Library and House Bill 463. HB 463 took effect in June 2011 and is the most comprehensive overhaul of Kentucky's penal code in more than 30 years. All three branches of government supported the legislation, which is designed to curb the cost of incarceration without compromising public safety.

Circuit Court is the court of general jurisdiction that hears civil matters involving more than $5,000, capital offenses and felonies, divorces, adoptions, termination of parental rights, land dispute title cases and contested probate cases. The college also offered sessions specifically for Family Court judges that covered child abuse, parental rights, maintenance (spousal support) and electronic recordings of Family Court proceedings. There was also a session for the judges to discuss trends and issues in family law cases. Family Court is a division of Circuit Court and has primary jurisdiction in cases involving family issues, including divorces, adoption, child support, domestic violence and juvenile status offenses.

Administrative Office of the Courts

The AOC is the operations arm for the state court system and supports the activities of nearly 3,300 court system employees and 403 elected justices, judges and circuit court clerks. The AOC Division of Judicial Branch Education provides continuing education for the elected officials. As the fiscal agent for the state court system, the AOC also executes the Judicial Branch budget.

Carlise man indicted by Bath Grand Jury

By Cecil Lawson
News Editor
cecil@kynewsgroup.com

A Carlisle man was recently indicted by a Bath County Grand Jury.

Last Thursday, the Bath Grand Jury returned an indictment against Paul D. Jolly, 49.

He was indicted on one count of criminal possession of a forged instrument, second degree, for allegedly passing a forged check in the amount of $200 on the account of Shauna Garrett from the Deposit Bank of Carlisle at Town and Country Food Mart in Owingsville on July 10.

Jolly was also indicted on one count of being a persistent felony offender for previous convictions for theft by unlawful taking, over $300, in Nicholas Circuit Court in March 2009, and for two counts of forgery, second degree, by Bourbon Circuit Court in December 1995.

Dept. Johnny Botts of the Bath County Sheriff's Office appeared before the Grand Jury as a witness for the Commonwealth.

The first count of the indictment carries a penalty of between one and five years, and the second count acts as an enhancement.

An indictment from a grand jury is a formal accusation against an individual and is not a conviction. The indictment simply states charges made against an individual accused of a crime before the case is turned over to a prosecutor.

All persons are considered innocent until proven guilty or pleading guilty.

KSP Kicks Off Statewide Safe Driving Program: Operation R.A.I.D.

Kentucky State Police kicks off a six-month fall, holiday, and New Year enforcement campaign called Operation R.A.I.D. (Remove Aggressive, Impaired and Distracted drivers from Kentucky Roadways). The effort was developed by KSP Commanders across the state to target driving behaviors that cause most crashes in Kentucky. Operation R.A.I.D. begins Nov. 1, 2012 and runs through April 30, 2013.

KSP Director of Operations, Lieutenant Colonel Jack Miniard says the unique aspect about Operation R.A.I.D. is that although it will have the same objectives, each post will have a different operational plan based on crash activity in that region.

"Many times, law enforcement will participate in a blanket campaign that may or may not work well in certain areas," says Miniard. "Operation R.A.I.D. allows each post to identify targeted areas based on real time crash data and mapping systems for more effective results."

Miniard says the campaign will have both an enforcement and educational component to assist in getting the message out to motorists. "We will have more visible enforcement in crash corridors, more roving patrols, and an increase in safety checkpoints across the state," adds Miniard. "Posts will utilize best practices for which they have had the most success and combine current crash data to identify targeted enforcement zones."

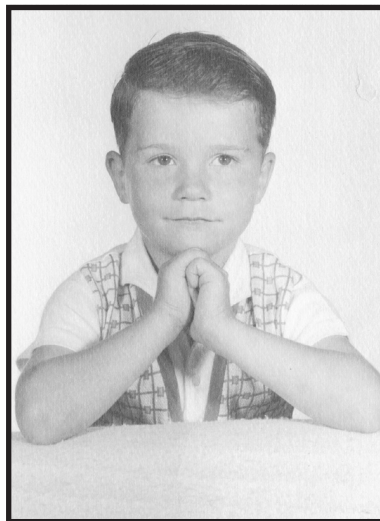

"Each post will be challenged to utilize their Public Affairs Officer's as an outreach tool to the community," says Miniard. "Through media and education we can get our message out while providing the public with safe driving resources."

Miniard says the campaign focus is on reducing the loss of life on Kentucky highways. "This program is not about writing tickets, it is about enforcing traffic laws and bringing awareness to dangerous driving behaviors that cause crashes," adds Miniard.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) defines aggressive driving as occurring when "an individual commits a combination of moving traffic offenses so as to endanger other persons or property." NHTSA studies show that aggressive drivers cause two-thirds of all fatal crashes and 35 percent of all crashes.

Jackets oust South Floyd, advance in Class A State Playoffs

Playing on the road in the opening round of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association's State Football Players didn't deter the Nicholas County Bluejackets. Nicholas County advanced in the Class A State Playoffs on Friday night, defeating host South Floyd 35-28.

Nicholas County ended a two-game losing streak, improving to 7-4. The Jackets will continue on the road in the second round of the Class A State Playoffs.

With the win, Nicholas County advances to play Fairview in the second round of the Class A State Playoffs. Fairview defeated Nicholas County 36-7 when the two Class A, District 7 rivals met during the regular season.

The loss eliminated South Floyd from the postseason. South Floyd exited the 2012 season one game below .500, finishing 5-6.

Nicholas County returned to the win column after suffering back-to-back losses to district foe Fairview and Bath County.

The Jackets, under the direction of head coach Robert Hopkins, played with plenty of determination in the contest. After making the long road trip, Nicholas County played its way to a win.

The Jackets thrived on the ground, rushing 43 times for a 354 yards and four touchdowns.

Senior running back Austin Allison led the Nicholas County offense, rushing 23 times for 228 yards and three touchdowns. Fellow senior running back JD Wagoner followed. Wagoner rushed 16 times for 125 yards and one touchdown as the Jackets won and advanced in the Class A State Playoffs.

Wagoner delivered a pair of two-point conversions for Nicholas County in the road game.

Caleb Becraft (eight tackles, eight assists), Jake Kirby (nine tackles, two assists) and Zack Howard (seven tackles, three assists, one sack) led the Nicholas County defensive effort.

Stepping up big defensively late in the contest, Nicholas County kept South Floyd out of the endzone. The Nicholas County defense limited South Floyd to less than 200 rushing yards. The Raiders rushed 43 times for 198 yards.

South Floyd senior Weston Little led the Raiders on the ground. Little rushed 33 times for 129 yards and two touchdowns.

South Floyd managed to pick up additional yardage through the air. Jacob Crager, a sophomore quarterback, completed 11-of-20 passes for 148 yards and two touchdowns.

Little was Crager's top target, hauling in six catches for 101 yards.

Corey Thornsberry and Brett Daniels each had a touchdown reception for the Raiders.

Nicholas County's second round opponent, Fairview, rolled to a 69-0 victory over Phelps on Thursday, Nov. 1. Fairview is the only undefeated Class A team left in the state. The Eagles boast an 11-0 record.

Nicholas County will visit Fairview looking to knock off the Eagles and reach the Class A, Region 4 championship game. Kickoff for the Nicholas County-Fairview game is set for 7:30 p.m.

BlueJackets continue preseason practice

The Nicholas County High School boys' basketball team is back on the court, working hard in preseason practice. Kevin Reinhardt is in his second season as head coach of the Nicholas County High School boys' basketball program. Following a triple overtime loss to Deming in the opening round of the 38th District Tournament, Nicholas County concluded the 2011-12 season 6-24. The Jackets entered the off-season eager to go back to work in preparation for the 2012-12 campaign.

"Practice is going good," Reinhardt commented. "Guys are working very hard getting ready for the season. We have a lot of guys out still for football, so when they come back we are going to spend a lot of time trying to get them in shape and ready to play. But the guys that have been at practice for the last three weeks have been getting better everyday, and they have been working hard. My staff and I feel that when we get everyone in practice everyday, and we get to start playing other teams, we will improve even more throughout the season, and have a chance to do some special things in February."

Nicholas County is picked to finish 10th in the 10th Region. George Rogers Clark (9), Bourbon County (8), Augusta (7), Mason County (6), Harrison County (5), Campbell County (4), Scott (3), Bishop Brossart and favorite Montgomery County (1) are picked to finish ahead of Nicholas County in the preseason regional poll.

Nicholas County is predicted to finish second in the 38th District. The Jackets are ranked behind Harrison County and in front of Pendleton County and Deming.

The Nicholas County High School basketball teams will host Jacket Madness on Nov. 14 at 6 p.m.

Due to Superstorm Sandy, the Columbus Ships, the 'Pinta' and the 'Nina', will now open in Maysville on Thursday November 22nd. The ships will be docked at Limestone landing, intersection of E. McDonald Parkway and Limestone St. near Hwy 62 Bridge, until their departure early Monday morning December 3rd. The 'Nina' was built completely by hand and without the use of power tools. Observance of Veterans Day

Veterans Day is intended to honor and thank all military personnel who served the United States in all wars, particularly living veterans. It is marked by parades and church services and in many places the American flag is hung at half mast. A period of silence lasting two minutes may be held at 11am. Some schools are closed on Veterans Day, while others do not close, but choose to mark the occasion with special assemblies or other activities.

a regular or holiday schedule.

History
On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918 an armistice between Germany and the Allied nations came into effect. On November 11, 1919, Armistice Day was commemorated for the first time. In 1919, President Wilson proclaimed the day should be "filled with solemn pride in the heroism of those who died in the country's service and with gratitude for the victory". There were plans for parades, public meetings and a brief suspension of business activities at 11am.

In 1926, the United States Congress officially recognized the end of World War I and declared that the anniversary of the armistice should be commemorated with prayer and thanksgiving. The Congress also requested that the president should "issue a proclamation calling upon the officials to display the flag of the United States on all Government buildings on November 11 and inviting the people of the United States to observe the day in schools and churches, or other suitable places, with appropriate ceremonies of friendly relations with all other peoples."

An Act (52 Stat. 351; 5 U. S. Code, Sec. 87a) was approved on May 13, 1938, which made November 11 in each year a legal holiday, known as Armistice Day. This day was originally intended to honor veterans of World War I. A few years later,

World War II required the largest mobilization of service men in the history of the United States and the American forces fought in Korea. In 1954, the veterans service organizations urged Congress to change the word "Armistice" to "Veterans". Congress approved this change and on June

Billy Boots

Vietnam Vet

1, 1954, November 11 became a day to honor all American veterans, where ever and whenever they had served.

In 1968 the Uniforms Holiday Bill (Public Law 90-363 (82 Stat. 250)) made an attempt to move Veterans Day to the fourth Monday of October. The bill took effect in 1971. However, this caused a lot of confusion as many states disagreed with this decision and continued to hold Veterans Day activities on November 11. In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford signed Public Law 94-97 (89 Stat. 479), which stated that Veterans Day would again be observed on November 11 from 1978 onwards. Veterans Day is still observed on November 11.

A RARE OCCURRENCE ON THE WAY TO THE FOURTH AND FINAL OBJECTIVE

April 1945

Ten miles northwest of Munich, in southern Germany
The cool spring wind struck his face as the M7 armored artillery vehicle squeaked and popped as it lurched along the roadway toward the fourth and final objective.

"Oh, to be home in Kentucky again," Private First Class Charles Edward Wilson, 19, thought while he peered beyond the cramped driver's compartment and hatch of the 26-ton armored vehicle that had literally been a large part of his home for almost a year.

For the briefest of moments he wished that he were once again back home in Kentucky, planting the burley crop and chopping weeds from the family's tobacco patch.

He closed his eyes and could picture his home once again and nearly fell completely asleep as he steered his vehicle, the lead vehicle, in the armored column of a dozen similar vehicles that made up Battery C of the 42nd Field Artillery unit of the Army's 4th Division.

The war was coming rapidly to an end now and everyone in his unit felt it, even General George Patton had boasted of it, and there was no denying it now. German soldiers were surrendering from the ruins of their homeland by the thousands on an almost daily basis.

Maybe he would soon be in the comfort of a nice warm bed.

It was a frequent fantasy of all of the survivors of his unit.

He'd promised himself many, many months ago in the frozen Hell of the Hurtgen forest and later at Bastogne, that if he were lucky enough to survive the war, he would sleep uninterrupted for a solid month.

He didn't know how long a human being could function without adequate sleep, but he knew he hadn't had enough sleep for longer than he cared to think about.

He squinted his eyes and clenched them shut before blinking rapidly in a futile attempt to shake the weary tired-

Tollesboro, native Christopher Wright, arrived at Fleming-Mason Airport at approximately 9:07 a.m. He was greeted by his family, members of the patriot riders and these fine soldiers with the 1st Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment. They were members of Charlie Company and served with Christopher.

ness that left his mind, body and soul, in a surreal fog of consciousness, and part of the overall fog of war.

From nowhere, and without warning, the putrid smell of rotting flesh hit him with the too familiar force of an exploding German mortar.

He slowed his armored vehicle down and listened as the rest of the crew grimaced and remarked about the horrid smell that seemed to be everywhere around them.

The stench of death was nothing new to them, but this smell was beyond description.

Just off the road he saw buildings and portions of a wall.

Part of a painted sign read "Dachua"

His crew commander, who was sitting just behind and slightly above him, tapped his head twice and pushed down slightly with the second tap, the universal armor signal for the driver to stop.

Wilson stopped the tank and left it in park but did not shut down the diesel engine. You just never knew when you might have to get going in a hurry and find cover. He'd made it too far along now in this madness to start slipping and taking unecessary chances.

He grabbed his Tommy gun and a few extra clips, and then he climbed out onto the vehicle.

He couldn't quite believe what he was seeing, as he continued to squint and rub the sleep from his eyes.

Skin-covered skeletons, 15 or 20 of them, were standing there near the road. Some were shuffling slowly toward them.

The rest of the crew gathered near him and beheld the ghastly spectacle.

No one spoke a word for a full minute. They all just stood there, staring.

Just beyond where the 20 or so skin covered skeletons stood they saw what appeared to be mounds of jumbled white trash

These jumbled pale mounds appeared to be about 300 feet in length, about the size of a football field someone would later remark. They were piled up about head tall and ten or so feet wide at the base of the mounds.

"Oh my God," someone said and began to vomit.

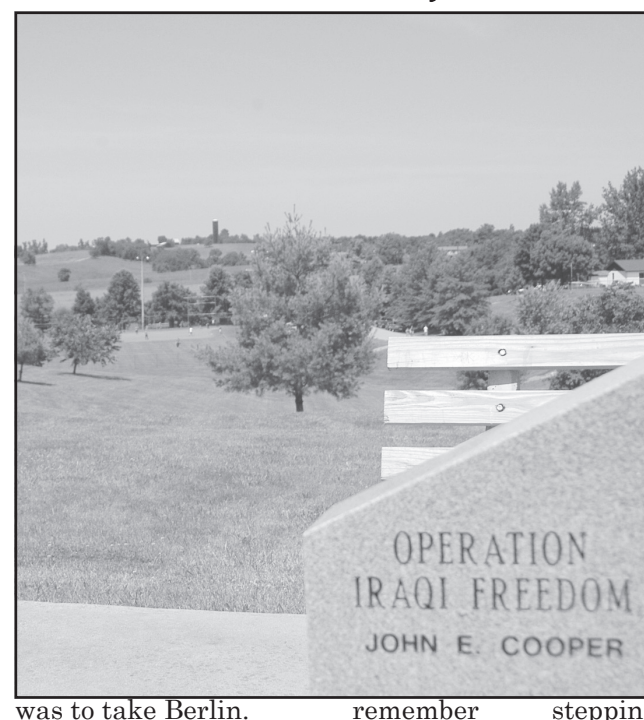

Another began to weep, maybe several of them were weeping, but he was so very tired it was possible he might even be dreaming and none of this was real.

Yes, he imagined, he must be dreaming and it must be a nightmare, because those mounds they were seeing weren't mounds of trash. They were piles upon piles of naked emaciated and decomposing human bodies-thousands of them. It seemed as if each one of them were staring blankly with their eyes and mouths wide open straight at him and the other men.

He clenched his eyes shut and tried to refocus. "I must be dreaming, this can't be real," he thought again.

He had survived the Normandy invasion and his commanders had told him there were four objectives, just prior to the invasion. The first objective was to get the armored artillery vehicles on the beach, get the waterproofing equipment stripped off of them, secure the beach-head and drive inland. The second objective was to rendezvous with the scattered elements of the 82nd and 101st Airborne Division and reform. The third objective was to take the harbor at Cherbourg. If they could quickly execute all of these objectives then they could eventually take the fourth and final objective was to take Berlin. Nausea crept into the back of his throat as he glanced once more at the piles of corpses.

"This must be one of those concentration camps we've heard of," someone, maybe his close friend Grady Pie, said. He and Grady had been best buddies since the day they entered Paris, France back on Aug. 25, 1944.

It had been Wilson's 19th birthday, and one of the few pleasant days he'd had since putting on the uniform. The only other real pleasant day he could remember was Christmas Day near Bastogne, when he had received three Christmas packages from his mother. One of the packages had been a large sealed can of fried chicken and he had instantly been the most popular man in the entire Army when he broke that seal and started handing out pieces of chicken to his fellow soldiers that cold Christmas Day. He had almost completely healed up from the wounds inflicted upon him in the Battle of the Hurtgen Forest where over 22, 000 Americans were either killed severely wounded, or captured.

As a member of three-man forward observation post on the first day of that battle he had miraculously survived an intense mortar and artillery barrage and frontal assault. The two other men with him were far less fortunate.

As he was later being helped back to friendly lines he would always remember stepping around and over the hundreds of dead, frozen and pale bodies of the American soldiers, who lined the way.

They reminded him of the thousands of pale bodies piled now before him at this place called Dachua.

"We can't stay," one of the officers, said. "I'm leaving a detachment and medics to help these people until the rearward units arrive later today. We have to push forward men. We have to continue to push forward to our fourth and final objective."

But still, Pfc. Wilson, his friend Grady Pie and others took one last look before returning to their armored vehicles.

Two of the walking skeletons collapsed and it sounded like someone dropping a sack of wet clothes when their bodies hit the ground.

No sound came from the piles of corpses just beyond them.

He re-entered his vehicle, wiped the tears from his eyes and pulled forward upon the signal from his crew.

The cool spring wind struck his face as the M7 armored artillery vehicle squeaked and popped as it lurched along the roadway toward the fourth and final objective.

Chapter 8

I'd lost my breakfast over Red River Gorge, fallen off my horse in the Daniel Boone National Forest, and now I was 65 feet in the air with my nose stuck in a woodpecker hole.

Chloe was the first to notice. "Woody, look at this." When I didn't respond, Chloe looked at me.

"Are you OK, Woody?" Chloe asked.

Wag, wag.

"Are you stuck?"

Wag, wag.

"Should I get Mom and Dad?"

Wag, wag, wag.

"Wait here," Chloe said, then giggled, realizing how silly her comment was. Within minutes, Mom, Dad, Chloe and our trainer, Rex, surrounded me.

"Can you move, son?" Dad asked.

Wag, wag.

"Are you hurt, baby?" Mom asked in her soothing voice.

Wag, wag.

"I'll go get some equipment to get you out," Rex said and began to descend.

"Woody, you know how Mom and Dad tell us when we're in uncomfortable situations to think about pleasant things?" Chloe said. "Think about the adventures those brochures said were in Kentucky. Imagine looking down at the beautiful horse farms from a hot air balloon or a parachute."

Wag, wag, wag, wag, wag!

"I would love to spend every weekend canoeing or kayaking," Mom said. "We could go to Lake Barkley, Lake Cumberland, Nolin Lake, Dale Hollow or many other lakes."

Wag, wag, wag, wag!

"Speaking of water, I'd love to go sailing at Cave Run or Kentucky Lake," Chloe said. "Do you think we could sometime, Dad?"

"Absolutely," Dad said, "and even though I'm still walking bow-legged, I'd love to go horseback riding again."

Imagining us all walking bow-legged made me giggle. Everyone must have seen my body shaking because they giggled too. The tree started shaking. I hoped it wouldn't fall down.

"Rex is climbing back up with some equipment," Chloe said, cheering.

"Woody, stay real still and don't move," Rex instructed. I wagged my tail to let him know I understood. Then he spoke again. "I'm going to drill a larger hole. Don't move until I tell you."

The drill was loud, but so were woodpeckers. I thought the woodpecker was being disrespectful to the tree by drilling a hole, but then I realized the woodpecker was designed to drill a hole in the tree, and the tree was designed to handle a hole by the woodpecker. I was disrespectful to the tree by putting my nose in the hole, getting stuck and making Rex damage the tree. I needed to apologize to Rex, my family, the tree and the woodpecker. I'd messed up his hole.

The drill stopped, and everything got quiet.

"OK, pull that little snout of yours outta there," Rex said. I gently moved my nose, and it came out without a hitch.

"Tha - than - thank - aaachool!"

Everyone laughed. "I meant to say 'thank you' and 'I'm sorry,' but I sneezed instead. Thank you for getting me out of my mess, and I'm sorry for all the trouble I caused. I am sure I will have plenty of time to think about my mistake while I'm in the doghouse."

Dad smiled. "I'm sure there will be a punishment for acting without thinking first, but I have a feeling you won't be doing anything like that again." I thanked Dad and told him again how sorry I was. He listened, winked at me and said, "Let's make our descent, rest a while, eat some lunch and open the next card."

I realized how much respect I had for the birds, owls, squirrels and even cats. Being in the tree was wonderful, but moving around on the ground was easier. We ate a sandwich of tomatoes, cucumbers and cheese with a side of celery and kiwi. I didn't know if I was just famished or if I was getting used to our new eating habits, but it was delicious. When we were finished, Chloe pulled out our next Rx card. She opened it, read it silently and cheered.

"What is it, sis?" I asked, curious about our next activity.

"It's a riddle," Chloe said before reading aloud.

"The moon is my father, the sea is my mother; I have a million brothers, I die when I reach land."

"What am I?"

Activities

1. Woody was in quite a pickle when his nose was stuck in the tree. Open up your local newspaper and see if there are any articles about people or animals being stranded. Cut them out and share them with others.

he began thinking of pleasant things to get his mind off of the unpleasant situation. Have you ever been in an unpleasant situation? How did you cope with it?

3. Due to Woody's predicament, Woody couldn't speak. He could only answer by wagging his tail.

Make a list of all the ways a person can communicate with others without speaking.

4. Woody gained so much respect for owls, birds, squirrels, and even cats. Make a list of what species make their home in trees.

5. The pups are given a riddle at the end of the chapter.

Email Woody at woody@thewoodybooks.com and give him suggestions to what the answer is.

6. Use the computer. Go online and learn more about Kentucky history and heritage. <http://www.kentucky-tourism.com/>

ENERGY ASSISTANCE AVAILABLE FOR THOUSANDS

Thousands of families with low-incomes in Central Kentucky may seek energy assistance for the coming winter this Monday, November 5, as Community Action Council opens the subsidy component of its Federally funded Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP). The LIHEAP Subsidy program provides a one-time benefit to eligible households to be used toward rising energy bills.

The amount of the benefit is determined by income, household size, fuel type and geographic location. An overdue bill or cut-off notice is not required and families do not have to own their home or pay energy bills directly to be eligible for assistance.

In 2011 the Council's LIHEAP Subsidy program served more than 5,300 households and spent $651,291 to help keep families warm over the winter.

Community Action Council also sponsors several other assistance programs, such as the WinterCare Energy Fund supported by area utility companies and their customers. The Council spent $2.9 million through all of its energy assistance programming last year. Anyone at risk of losing their heat due to inability to pay should immediately contact one of the Council's nine centers in Lexington-Fayette, Bourbon, Harrison and Nicholas counties. Information on available locations is listed below.

Applicants must bring the following to apply:

- Proof of income for the previous month for all adults 18 and older in the household.
- Most recent heating bill or verification from a landlord that heating expenses are included in rent.
- Birth dates of all household members.

Applications are taken at all of the following Community Action Council locations between the hours of 7:30 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. Monday through Friday:

In Loving Memory Of Kevin Watkins 2-26-88 to 11-3-11

I miss your silly laugh
And the way you made me smile
Just to hear your laughter again
I'd walk a thousand miles

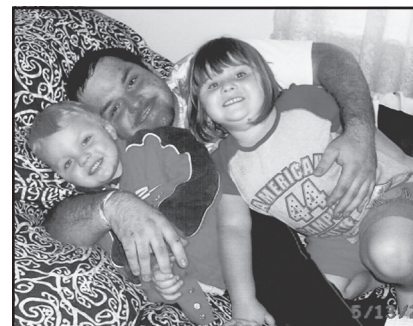

I know you're smiling down on me
It gets me through the day
And if you called me from heaven
I know just what I'd say.

Come on home right now
don't waste another minute
My life has been uncomplete
Without your happiness in it

You'd say that I was crazy for shedding a single tear
Because my life must go on.
Even though you're not here.

I'd catch up on all of the good times and not worry about the bad.
I'd tell you how I've missed you and all the fun we've had.

I'd hang on to every word knowing you would hang up soon.

But I'd watch for you in the stars, and see your smile in the moon.

Life without you is lonely and I seem to have lost my smile
But I know someday I'll see you though it may take a while

Until then I'll keep praying for this ache to go away.
Know that I love you and I'll see you again someday.

And until that day comes
I know just what I'll do
I'll send all of my kisses to heaven with love from me to you.

You are truly missed

Love,
Mom, Brooke, Jayden, & Family

Arson Preliminary Hearing

By Eric Tolson & Charles Mattox
KYNewsGroup

Three young Nicholas County men had felony arson charges bound over to a future Nicholas County Grand Jury following the conclusion of a preliminary hearing in Nicholas District Court Oct. 31.

Paul May, Russell Sowers, and Josh Haddix, were charged with arson, 2nd degree in connection with a fire that occurred on Sharpsburg Road on June 15.

At the preliminary hearing, Kentucky State Police Arson Investigator Detective Curtis Combs, gave testimony regarding his investigation of the fire and several others during the same period of time.

Det. Combs continues to lead those investigations.

Nicholas County Attorney Dawn Letcher questioned Combs in regards to his investigation and the circumstances surrounding the three young men being charged.

"My investigation leads me to believe the Lady Jackets looking to keep playing style up tempo

Greg Letcher is headed into his first season as head coach of the Nicholas County High School girls' basketball team and he's ready to run.

"The girls are working really hard and have a good attitude," Letcher commented. "We are trying to keep things up tempo in order to be in the best possible condition. I think conditioning will have a lot to do with our success this year and hopefully it will get better as we progress through the year."

Letcher is Nicholas County's third coach in the last three years. The Lady Jackets, however, feature numerous experienced players back from the 2011-12 season.

Nicholas County is picked to finish ninth in the 10th Region, according to The Cats' Pause 2012-13 Kentucky Basketball Yearbook. The Lady Jackets are listed one spot ahead of Scott in the preseason regional poll. Nicholas County is picked to finish behind Mason County (8), Pendleton County (7), Bourbon County (6), Bracken County (5), George Rogers Clark (4), Bishop Brossart (3), Campbell County (2) and frontrunner Montgomery County in the Preseason 10th Region Top 10 Poll.

Nicholas County returns four starters from last season. The Lady Jackets concluded the 2011-12 season 9-21, falling to Deming in the opening round of the 38th District Tournament. In addition to the 38th District and 10th Region, Nicholas County also competes in the 10th Region All "A" Classic and Bluegrass Conference.

The Lady Jackets will open the 2012-13 season on Nov. 26 at Fleming County. Tip-off for the Nicholas County-Fleming County girls' basketball game is set for 7:30 p.m. in Flemingsburg.

The Nicholas County girls' basketball team will co-host Jacket Madness next week. Jacket Madness is set for Nov. 14 at 6 p.m.

"We would like to invite everyone out to Jacket Madness on November 14 at 6 p.m.," Letcher added.

fire in question was set intentionally," said Combs. "Two of the individuals were identified at the location by Sheriff (Jeff) Sidles. Later, we received a tip from a female stating that she overheard the three individuals discussing their involvement in the incident. Based on my investigation the individuals in question broke a window and ignited a curtain inside the residence."

With the increased amount of fires in the past few months, the individuals' presence at the scene on June 15 leads Combs to believe that that they may have been involved in those fires as well.

Combs also discussed a series of fires that occurred in rural Nicholas County on October 5th. The fires, which took place on Johnson Road, were just a few of the many fires that were reported in the month of October.

While responding to the fires, members of the Nicholas County Fire Department were run off of the road by an unknown vehicle. The resulting accident, which occurred on Lake Road, caused a fire truck to flip over on its top, damaging the body of the vehicle.

Combs explained that due to the accident that occurred on Lake Road, the safety of the firefighters was placed at a great risk.

"We offered a $1,000 reward to anyone who has any information leading to the apprehension of anyone involved in the cause of the fires," he said.

Combs went on to discuss the methods used in apprehending the suspects.

"As it was said before, Sheriff saw the three individuals at the scene of the fire," said Combs. "He could identify two of the suspects, but was unable to identify the third individual at the time. After receiving an anonymous tip, we were able to apprehend Haddix at his place of residence and bring him in for questioning at the Carlisle Police Department. After questioning, Haddix admitted the involvement of May and Sowers. He stated that Russell was the individual who lit the curtains and broke the windows."

Combs described this attempts to garner additional information during the interview process.

"The two individuals were very hesitant when they were being questioned," Combs testified. "They were very nervous and were avoiding the questions they were being asked. They eventually admitted to their involvement in the incident. They also stated that they arrived at the scene the next day to obtain the metal from the building. They planned on selling the metal for profit."

Public Defender Matthew Perdue represented all three of the accused and he asked several questions of Combs during his cross-examination while raising concerns about the incident, particularly the evidence against the trio.

"It does not appear to me that there is sufficient evidence of these three individuals' involvement in this incident," Perdue said. "Without Haddix's statement and Sheriff Sidles claiming he saw them at the scene, there is no physical evidence of arson. Also, there does not seem to have been any physical evidence of arson. The only evidence that suggests that this was arson was the amount of fires in the area during the same period of time. While there were many fires in June, 11 total, I don't believe that these individuals were involved."

Nicholas county District Judge, Honorable Charles Kuster listened intently to the testimony before rendering his verdict that enough evidence had been presented to have the charges bound over to a future Nicholas County grand Jury.

All persons are presumed innocent until proven guilty or pleading guilty.
