Nicholas County Fire Department Makes Decision on Insurance Money

The Nicholas County Fire Board held a Special-Called meeting last Wednesday to discuss the insurance money that was received for the damage done to a fire truck. The fire department received approximately $96,000 as a result of the accident.

Due to the recent accident that left one of the fire trucks at the Nicholas County Fire Department out of commission, there is some insurance money to be spent. Deciding how to spend that money was the topic of discussion at a recent special called meeting of the Nicholas County Fire Board.

The Nicholas County Fire Department recently got an insurance estimate on the damage of the fire truck that was damaged while responding to a Nicholas County fire on October 5. The extension of the damages done to the truck resulted in the fire department receiving a total of approximately $96,000 from the insurance company.

But now the fire department is faced with a somewhat difficult decision: either they could use the money to get the old truck repaired, or they could use the money to help with the purchase of a new truck.

"I don't think it's smart to put money back into a wrecked truck," said Jay Morford. "If we decide to fix the truck, the mechanics could find more wrong with the truck than we thought and that could end up costing us more money."

Fire Chief Doug French agreed with Morford, stating, "Repairing the old truck could be taking a big risk. I'd rather have a newer truck that we know works."

Ronnie Clark made a motion for the fire department to take the money and purchase a new fire truck. Jay Morford made a second to this motion. All of the members present were in favor of this motion and it was determined that this would be best course of action for the Nicholas County Fire Department to take.

After making this decision, a motion was made by Andy Whirlles to adjourn the meeting. A second to that motion was made by Steve Minton. The motion was passed and the meeting was adjourned.

Fiscal Court Discusses Road Projects

By Eric Tolson

Bids for upcoming road projects were discussed at the recent special called meeting of the Nicholas County Fiscal Court on Friday morning. Magistrates discussed the current state of roads in Nicholas County and have decided to repair a number of them.

Two bids were received by the Fiscal Court for the resurfacing of several roads within Nicholas County. The two bids came from HG Mayes Corporation in Frankfort and Hinkle Contracting.

Hinkle Contracting's bid on the project included repair and resurfacing of seven Nicholas County roads. These roads included Concord Road, Lower Concord, Rocky Top, Short Stoney, Stoney Creek/Blue Licks

Road, Veal Lane and Morning Glory. Hinkle's rates for each road were as follows: $52,327.50 .08 mile by 17 foot stretch of road on Concord Road; $45,312.50 for Lower Concord; $20,700 for a .4 mile area of Rocky Top; $ 52,297.50 for a one mile area of Short Stoney Road; $33,103 for a .6 mile stretch of road along Stoney Creek/Blue Licks Road; $21,795.00 for a .4 mile stretch of road on Veal Lane and $60,983.75 for a 1.1 mile stretch of road on Morning Glory Road. The total bid for this project is $253,476.25.

HG Mayes Corporation gave a bid on the project including repair and resurfacing of the same seven Nicholas County roads. HG Mayes' estimates on the project were as follows: $54,020 for Concord Road, $46,762.50 for Lower Concord Road, $21,616 for Rocky Top, $53,595 for Short Stoney, $34,175 for Short Stoney Creek/Blue Licks Road, $22,144 for Veal Lane and $63,450 for Morning Glory. The total of this bid is $295,762.50.

In light of these bids, Jeff Randolph stated that "We have to go with the availability of the money we have."

Jeff Randolph made a motion to accept the bid from Hinkle Contracting for $253,476.25. The motion was seconded by Darvin Mitchell. The motion passed.

The next item covered in the meeting was the need for a Solid Waste Coordinator. Previously, it was suggested that Sheriff Jeff Sidles would assume the duties of that position. It was brought to the court's attention that Sheriff Sidles could not take this position because he is a separate elected official. Deputy William Thoroughman was suggested as an individual that could as-summe the duties of the position. A motion was made by Steve Hamilton to appoint Deputy Thoroughman to the position of Solid Waste Coordinator. A second to the motion was made by Mike Webb. The motion passed.

A motion was made by Jimmy Wells to adjourn the meeting. A second to the motion was made by Steve Hamilton. The motion

Kindergarten 50's Day

Photos by Eric Tolson

The Kindergarten students celebrated their 50th day of learning last Thursday by putting a 50's style spin on their day. The students dressed in 50's attire and learned about several aspects of the lifestyle in the 1950s. They learned about the dances of the time, learned about clothing styles and had snacks of moon pies and root beer floats to celebrate. See more photos on page 21.

COMMUNITY

Heaven Is A Lot Like Kentucky

By Charles Mattox

Life does not consist mainly, or even largely, of facts and happenings. It consists mainly of the storm of thought that is forever flowing through one's head.

Mark Twain

Hurricane Sandy is gaining strength as I write this and I'm a little apprehensive of what the next few days will hold in store for our country, particularly those who will bear the brunt of the storm along the east coast.

There are no guarantees in this good but fragile life, dear reader.

We all face storms of one kind or another; we face climactic storms and those of other origins.

I seem to have turned a new leaf in my life with a "spiritual storm" within me, which seems to be gradually abating.

I was able to do a good thing this weekend and help some old friends and new friends in the process.

I was glad to help with the T3 Trippy Gooding Benefit Pistol Shoot held Saturday at Shep's Sports World, along KY 32, in Fleming County, on Saturday.

All proceeds from the shoot went to help Trippy Gooding, a local law enforcement officer who was recently diagnosed with cancer.

All of God's children face storms in their life and Trippy is facing this one bravely with the support of a loving family, friends and community members.

I had the pleasure of knowing Trippy on a personal and professional level about a decade ago when he was an officer with the Flemingsburg Police Department.

Trippy worked several years as an officer with the Maysville Police Department and has been a Mason County Deputy Sheriff for over a year now.

He's a good police officer and we've had some good conversations as our paths have crossed.

By nature, I suppose it could be perceived that I am a selfish individual, in that I let my work and my own personal problems and solutions to those problems rule my life.

I don't do any volunteer work.

If the truth be known, I don't seem to have enough time or energy in my typical day to take care of my own needful chores, let alone be of much benefit to anyone else.

I tend to gravitate more eagerly towards dogs than people on a personal level.

Dogs rarely screw you over or cause many problems that can't be fixed with a little soap and water.

But when my old Buddy Sebastian Gaskins told me about the shoot to help Trippy, something changed.

Sebastian and I are old and trusted friends who still have vivid memories of our childhood playing together and we have always shared a common ridiculousness and sharp sense of humor as well as a certain perspective on life for those of us who call northeastern Kentucky their home.

Like many, we were children of the 'greatest generation' and our fathers were soldiers.

So too did we both answer the call of duty in our youth following our graduation from FCHS in 1981.

Sebastian and I are also gun folk, and we also like to shoot our mouths off at one another even more than a particular weapon of choice.

The weather was about as nasty as it could get Saturday morning, but we were prepared and enthusiastic about helping Trippy.

12 people from across the region joined us for a good time and competed at sending some rounds down range. During safety briefings, general instruction, placing and removing targets and keeping score, I was impressed with the folks who had come together on a blustery and wet day to show their support for Trippy.

Geneva Kennedy was almost angelic to behold and her commitment to helping fund raising events is an inspiration.

When you see folks, several of whom I had never met, like Geneva, come together for the common good of another, it creates a power and an electric sensation that is somewhat contagious.

At least it has been for me.

Perhaps when we help others we are also helping ourselves.

I feel like that was the case with me.

My co-worker Cecil Lawson has covered some emotionally charged and sorrowful events in Bath, Menifee and Nicholas County and I occasionally see him struggle with news stories that can easily be internalized. Things like reporting on fatal accidents or deaths.

After you cover so many of those stories, including murders; brutal and violent murders, you develop some pretty thick skin.

I've covered more of those stories than can be easily numbered.

It takes its toll on the human spirit.

I've always been about "adventure" and gravitate toward the "hard news."

There's a reason they call it hard news, if it were easy, everyone would do it.

But as David Dick used to so famously "follow the storm" he too was as equally gifted in illuminating the gentler angels and actions of the communities he covered.

I need work on that.

I need work on a lot of things.

But I'm getting closer to getting where I want to be, and helping with the benefit shoot this Saturday was a big step in the right direction.

I'm still so sore I can barely walk from the rigorous schedule of Saturday, but I've never felt this good while I was feeling so sore.

Perhaps there is hope for me yet to conquer my spiritual cancer.

If the Good Lord is willing, I'll keep on plucking away.

It is never a question of "if" storms will come, but rather "when" they will come.

I hope you weather your storms well, dear reader.

Four counties to receive new driver's license software, cameras

Driver's license operations suspended for one day to allow for installation

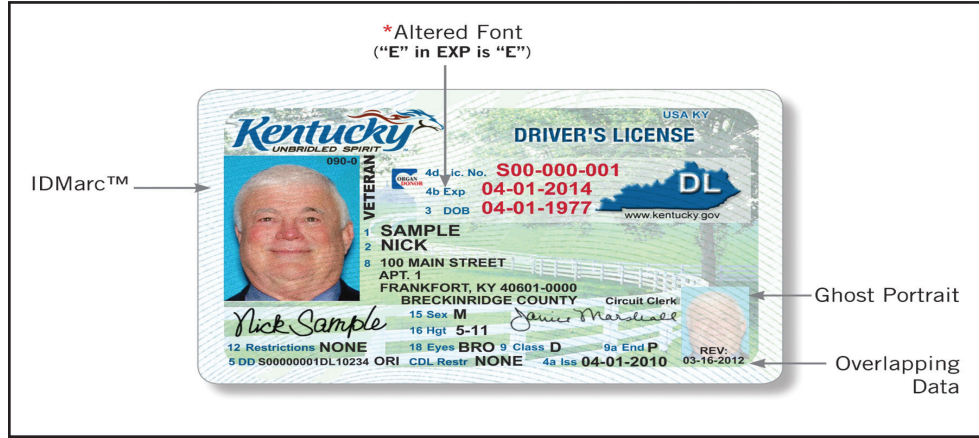

Installation of software and cameras for Kentucky's new driver's license will require a one-day suspension of license-issuing activities in several circuit court clerk's offices across northeast Kentucky.

Installation work and suspension of licensing activities are scheduled as follows:

- Nov. 1 in Lewis County
- Nov. 2 in Mason County

Other operations of the circuit clerk's office are not affected, and the office will be open all day. Driver's licensing operations will resume the following day, and the new license will be available to local county residents.

"The new licenses are the manifestation of Kentucky's efforts to improve the level of service provided to our customers, in addition to securing a credential Kentuckians use each day," said Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) Department of Vehicle Regulation Commissioner Tom Zawacki.

The new license has multiple layers of security features, all linked to each other, so counterfeiters must compromise multiple technologies – not just one.

Features include digital watermark imperceptible to the human eye, bank note-level fine line printing, improved dual-side lamination for greater tamper resistance and durability, and a hologram with single-color, ultraviolet "ghost" image.

Starting in the fall, new licenses will also feature "veteran" and "organ donor" designations.

Customers are not required to obtain new licenses before current licenses expire, and the process for obtaining or renewing a license will not change. The cost remains $20.

The KHSAA Title IV Audit of the General Equity meeting will take place on Nov. 15th at 4 p.m. in the High School library. Open to the public, all are welcomed to attend.

Ten Favorite Halloween Movies

By Eric Tolson
 KYNewsGroup
 eric@kynewsgroup.com

With the Halloween season upon us, there's nothing some of us like more than a good scare. Personally, there's nothing I like more than sitting at home and watching a scary movie or two. For the purpose of the season, I thought it would only be appropriate to talk about ten of my favorite creepy and Halloween-themed films. There are many I would've liked to include on this list, I had to narrow the list down to ten. You are welcome to disagree with me, but here are my ten favorites, in no particular order.

The Blair Witch Project

Starting off the list is likely the most controversial entry. Released in 1999, The Blair Witch Project was unnerving and visceral as far as horror flicks of the time go. The story of three filmmakers getting lost in the woods was a chilling experience with audiences and critics alike. The gritty realism and point-of-view camera angles make this film as terrifying today as it was 13 years ago. Lauded by some as a "very boring film" and "just plain stupid," this film is often looked upon as a quick cash grab from the studio. The second-most profitable independent film, this low budgeted horror movie creates chills in the spines of its viewers. This is a very impressive feat, seeing as the film cost a mere $750,000 after post-production. Although not the first in the "found footage" genre, this definitely set the bar with modern films of its kind like Cloverfield and the Paranormal Activity franchise.

The Shining

One of my favorite films from one of my favorite directors, this is certainly a gem from the career of Stanley Kubrick. Based on the Stephen King novel of the same name, The Shining tells the story of a former alcoholic family and their winter-long stay at the fictional Overlook Hotel as maintenance workers. Here, Kubrick turned what could have been an impressive 90-minute horror movie into a nearly two-and-a-half-hour display of Jack Torrance's decent into madness. Kubrick's trademark imagery and impeccable direction shines in this film. Jack Nicholson portrays Torrance in this role so believably well that, at times, you believe that they are one in the same. The film is notoriously hated by author Stephen King, citing that the film focuses more on Jack's insanity stemming from cabin fever rather than alcohol-fueled rage, an underlying theme in the novel. Whether you agree with Mr. King or not, this is still a must watch and comes highly recommended.

The Nightmare Before Christmas

What would a list of spooky and eerie films be without an entry from Tim Burton. Directed by Henry Salick, The Nightmare Before Christmas tells the story of Jack Skellington, the official

"Pumpkin King" of Halloweentown. In the film, Jack has grown tired of his crown and yearns for something new. While on a walk in the woods, Jack discovers a series of doors, one of which leads to Christmastown. Enamored by the scenery and sheer joy of the Christmas season, Jack decides that he will bring the spirit of the holiday back to Halloweentown. This film is a great experience for young and old alike. With a superb score from Danny Elfman, the quirkiness and humor of this "spooky musical" is sure to delight many and maybe even garner some new fans.

Insidious

Easily the most contemporary film on this list, Insidious is a surprising breath of fresh air apart from the more recent entries into the horror genre. The film tells the story of a family who has recently moved into a new house. After a short period of time, strange things start happening to their family, all culminating with the sudden illness of their son Dalton. After relocating to a new house, in hopes that the strange events will cease, the supernatural presence makes itself more abundant. Following the consultation of a psychic, they learn that it's not the house that was haunted. This film is a new take on the horror genre and really brings new life to the formula. In the days of films following the trend that such gore-filled flicks such as the Saw and Hostel franchises have made popular, it's rather nice to see a film go against the grain and reinvent the wheel of modern horror.

Evil Dead 1 & 2

Okay, I'm going to cheat on this one, but even fans of these films find it difficult to choose their favorite. While they are separate films, both deserve to be viewed back-to-back to get the full experience. Directed by Sam Raimi, of Spider-Man fame, the first film is the story of four teenagers who venture to a heavily-secluded cabin in the woods. Not soon after arriving, Ash (Bruce Campbell) discovers a strange book that contains strange symbols and incantations. Soon, the teens find the woods surrounding them haunted. With no way out, the objects in the cabin begin to come to life, sending Ash into a downward spiral of madness. The second film finds Ash returning to the same cabin from the first movie with his girlfriend. Ash discovers a tape, recorded by the cabin's previous inhabitant, that contained readings of the Book of the Dead. The recorded incantation kills and later possesses the body of Ash's girlfriend. These films are a great cheesy romp, so much so that fans have given them "so bad, they're good" status. At a brief 84-minutes, each these films deserve to be viewed. You will not regret it.

Psycho

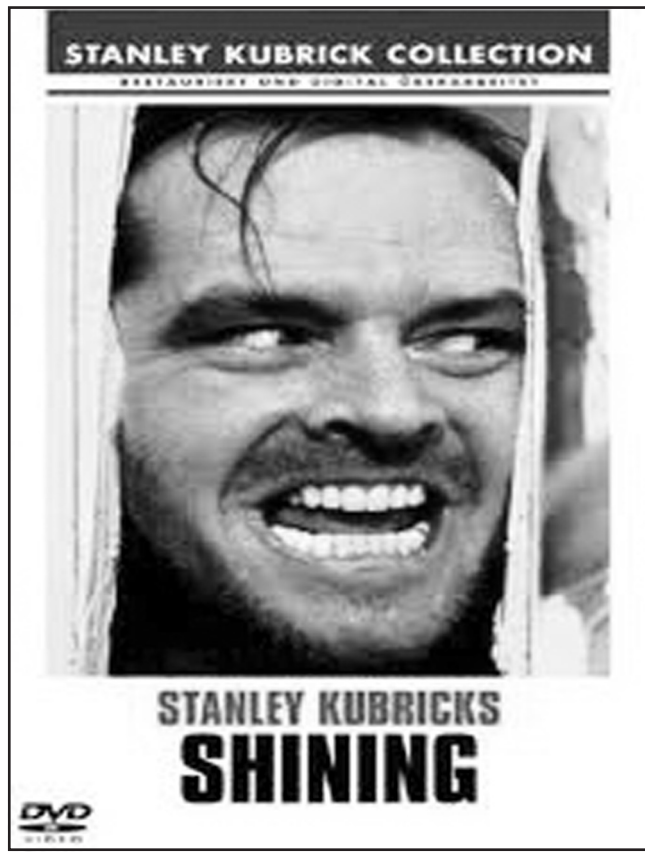

No list of horror movies is complete without this film from Master of Suspense, Alfred Hitchcock. The film depicts the encounter between a secretary, Marion Crane, who goes to a secluded motel after embezzling money from her employer, and the motel's disturbed owner and manager, Norman Bates, and the aftermath of their encounter. Nominated for four Academy Awards, Psycho is often praised as a cinematic work of art and is many lists of the greatest movies ever made. Psycho reinvented the amount of sexuality and violence that is typically found in horror films. Known for its famous shower scene, the film expresses the vulnerability one actually faces in just such a situation. Hitchcock also explored insanity and transvestitism in the character of Norman Bates, issues that were considered very taboo at the time. With this film, Hitchcock not only changed modern horror, he made it legitimate.

Se7en

A fascinating film, Se7en is not doubt one of director David Fincher's best. While more of a crime thriller, this film is as creepy and unnerving as it gets. In the film, Brad Pitt and Morgan Freeman play detectives who are investigating a series of murders, all based on the seven deadly sins. Although the film follows typical genre norms throughout a good portion of the plot, the culmination of the horrible events climaxes in such a way that will leave the viewer on the edge of their seat. Although the killer, played splendidly by Kevin Spacey, only appears for a short time at the end of the film, his presence is still more unsettling than any other. This film is sure to send shivers down your spine and is a must watch.

Halloween

You all saw this coming. While it may be cliché to include this 1979 slasher by John Carpenter, the film is amazing. Typical to many films of its kind, Halloween is far superior to any of its predecessors. The film is the account of a mysterious man by the name of Michael Myers and how he terrorizes a small Illinois community on All Hallow's Eve. The character of Michael Myers evokes so much fear and the script builds so much suspense that this film is impossible not to love. Although followed by a long list of lackluster sequels and remakes, Halloween is a staple for the holiday every single year and deserves to be experienced at least once. Fun Fact: the man who was originally supposed to play the character of Michael Myers quit halfway through production. The man you see on screen is actually a local man who was originally handing out coffee to the crew and was paid $ a day to portray one of the most memorable horror villains in cinematic history.

Shaun of the Dead

Let's change things up a bit. With this list being littered with horror movies, isn't it time for a laugh? Shaun of the Dead is a 2004 British horror-comedy that brings the laughs as well as the gore. With this film, director Edgar Wright tells the story of Shaun and his struggles with his girlfriend Liz, his roommate Pete and his best friend Ed, all while in the outbreak of zombies in London. Shaun of the dead delivers laughs and blood by the bucket-full and conveys a good balance of romance, horror and black comedy. While some viewers may be turned off by the British comedy and references, this film is a delight that deserves to be watched again and again.

Night of the Living Dead

It comes to this. The granddaddy of all zombie movies is a timeless classic. Without this film, there would be no The Walking Dead, no 28 Days Later – No zombies movies period! The film is the story of a woman who is trapped in a small farm house after having her brother killed by undead in a nearby cemetery. The special effects of this film still resonate and hold over well today. Romero set the standard for all zombie films. While the allegories of this film can be somewhat overbearing and preachy, this is definitely a must-see for everyone.

Honorable Mentions: Pet Semetary, The Ring, Dawn of the Dead, Nightmare on Elm Street, Friday the 13th, The Last Exorcism, Silent Night, Bloody Night, The Exorcist, Poltergeist, Carrie, Texas Chainsaw Massacre and Child's Play.

Ballot amendment asks Kentuckians to protect hunting and fishing

By Cecil Lawson
News Editor
cecil@kynewsgroup.com

Kentucky voters will be asked to consider an amendment to the state's constitution this election day, Tuesday, Nov. 6, regarding the right to hunt and fish.

The amended is stated as follows:

Are you in favor of amending the Kentucky Constitution to state that the citizens of Kentucky have the personal right to hunt, fish, and harvest wildlife, subject to laws and regulations that promote conservation and preserve the future of hunting and fishing, and to state that public hunting and fishing shall be a preferred means of managing and controlling wildlife?

According to a brochure published by the Legislative Research Commission (the research arm of the Kentucky General Assembly), advocates of hunting and fishing have come to believe that threats exist to these practices by groups that want to limit or ban the taking of certain animals or fish, such as environmentalist and animal rights groups, and that state laws do not adequately protect this "historical" right to hunt and fish.

The brochure goes on to state that thirteen other states have language in their constitutions to protect the right to hunt and fish: Vermont (part of the original state constitution in 1777), Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and Wisconsin. Only Arizona had voters consider but reject a similar amendment proposal.

This year, according to the brochure, voters in Idaho, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Kentucky will be considering the proposed amendment.

The measure was first introduced during the 2011 session of the General Assembly through the General Assembly's Amendments, and Intergovernmental Affairs Committee. It was sponsored in the state House by Reps. Greg Stumbo (D-95th District, Martin County) and Leslie Combs (D-94th District, Pike County). It was approved unanimously in the House and Senate to appear on the statewide ballot for 2012.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources fully supports the amendment, as do the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, the National Rifle Association, and other conservation organizations in the Commonwealth.

Dr. Jon Gasset, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, was recently quoted as saying, "Kentucky was known as the Happy Hunting Ground long before it became a state, and Kentuckians today still enjoy hunting and fishing at higher rates than the national average. We are fortunate to have the chance next month at the polls to join many other states that have already taken steps to ensure that heritage continues for our grandchildren and theirs."

A number of editorial writers across Kentucky have come out against the amendment, not because they oppose hunting and fishing, but because they say no threat exists to interfere with hunting and fishing today.

Ric Caric, professor of government and interdisciplinary studies at Morehead State University, said that the amendment doesn't touch upon the biggest threats to hunting and fishing across the state — commercial development and loss of interest by the younger generation.

"The issue boils down to property," Caric said. "My understanding is that hunters are already limited to either their own property, the property of those willing to give permission, or public lands that allow hunting. The ballot measure does not preclude governmental units from banning hunting from public property and would not allow hunters to hunt on the property of anyone who opposes hunting on principle. One might be able to see the ballot amendment as protecting the right to hunt on one's own land from animal rights activists. But that protection would be very minimal."

Caric went on to state that he thought that the amendment was less about hunting and more about politics. "I view the amendment as an effort by the NRA leadership to churn the political waters and keep gun issues prominent in the public mind despite the lack of any real effort at gun control by either the Beshear administration in Kentucky or the Obama administration in Washington."

Hunting and fishing would be better served by expanding its based of participants, Caric said. "Anybody who really cared about carrying on hunting traditions would want to find a way to make hunting more popular with constituencies that oppose the NRA on gun-control issues."

The Court of Appeals has affirmed the City of Carlisle annexation of the properties of the Nicholas County Board of Education. The decision of the court was rendered Friday, October 25, with all three judges concurring in the decision.

Voters will go to the polls in Nicholas county Tuesday to decide on who will occupy seats of leadership for either four or two years. Contested races are on the November 5 ballot for Mayor of Carlisle, the six seats on the Carlisle City Council, the Kentucky Fourth Congressional District seat in the U.S. house of Representatives, a seat in the U.S. Senate and, in one district, a seat on the Nicholas County Board of Education.

The transportation operation of the Nicholas County schools has received special recognition. It has been selected by School Bus Fleet, a California-based trade magazine, as a "great fleet." The fleet was profiled in the October issue of the magazine, which has covered the school transportation industry since 1965, in a special report on 50 exemplary school bus fleets.

As most young adults would, Mary Byron was looking forward to her 21st birthday. But she barely lived to see it because, on her birthday, her ex-boyfriend, Donovan Harris, shot and killed her. One month earlier, Harris has been incarcerated for raping and kidnapping Byron. Once released from the Jefferson County Correctional System, Harris shot Byron seven times as she left work. "If Mary Byron had known her attacker had been released from jail, she might have been able to take precautions to protect herself," said Nicholas County Attorney, Joseph H. Conley. That's why Kentucky has created the V.I.N.E. system, the nations' only statewide automated victim notification system. V.I.N.E. can be used two ways: victims can call V.I.N.E. for information, and the system can call victims to notify them that an inmate will be released.

Faced already with the possibility of a $6,500 deficit at the end of the current fiscal year, the Nicholas County Fiscal Court informed the Industrial Authority that it couldn't match the offer made by the Carlisle City Council. But the Industrial Authority has made a possible arrangement to remain open. According to Industrial Authority coordinator Kathy Howard, upon word that the fiscal court could not provide the money necessary to meet Industrial Authority tax expenditures for the next three months, there has been an offer in Nicholas County's private sector to match the city council's commitment made at a special meeting last week.

The Carlisle Mercury was recognized as Nicholas County's "Corporate Citizens of the Year" by officials representing the Bluegrass Area Development District Wednesday night. Elected and civic officials from 17 counties that made up the BGADD district gathered at the Marriott's Griffin Gate Hotel in Lexington Wednesday to pay tribute to each county's leading industry.

A jury returned a verdict of guilty against David Hufans on felony charges of tampering with evidence and recommended a one year sentence. However, jurors also suggested that in sentencing, Circuit Judge Robert McGinnis invoke leniency in the judgment. Hufans, 31, was arrested last June in connection with the arrest of Carlisle resident William Myneer for allegedly shooting a .32 caliber revolver eight times into a Moorefield resident's trailer.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,

I am concerned about the future of public broadcasting. I believe in the great work KET does for the citizens of Kentucky.

I am alarmed by a statement made during the first presidential debate in regard to funding for public broadcasting.

The federal investment in public broadcasting represents about one hundredth of one percent of the total federal budget. Eliminating this investment would do little to affect part. KET provides so much to our state in programming which benefits students and teachers in our schools. It also provides top-notch cultural programming, documentaries and quality entertainment to the citizens of the Commonwealth, KET is a media entirely charged with serving and informing and it is NOT selling to the viewer. Public broadcasting stations make extraordinary efforts to present issues in an unbiased and balanced manner rather than resorting to the sensational to attract more viewers, and ultimately more revenue.

If you value KET I encourage you to join www.170Million-Americans.org. your voice matters. KET is important to Kentuckians. Please work with those of us who believe in KET to make the case for continued federal support of public broadcasting.

Sincerely
Martha Taylor

Three wonderful revivals were held the past week. Blue Licks Christian, Carlisle Christian, and Oakland Mills U. M. Churches.

BREAD OF LIFE

John Ch 3 - V3
Jesus answered and said unto Him, verily, verily I say unto you, except a man be born again. He cannot see the Kingdom of God. Born again means he has come to live inside of you. Your attitude has changed. If you think you are better than other people. If you talk about your neighbor and say all manner of evil about him. You must be born again before you leave Earth, without this transformation you will not make it to Heaven. God says in 2 Corinthians Ch 5 V 17 "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature."

Old things are passed away. Behold, all things are become new. When Jesus comes to live in us it's not what others have done or can do for us, it's what can we do for others. Please my friends, don't be deceived. God said you must be born again. In today's world it seems that everybody thinks that everyone goes to Heaven.

Matt Ch 7 V 21 Not everyone that saith unto me. Lord, Lord shall enter into the kingdom of Heaven: But he that doeth the will of my father which is in Heaven, there is a liar among us who is telling you the Bible Gods word is not right. My Friend the word of God is the truth, there is no way to Heaven except by his word. At the cradle of humanity that liar the old serpent told Eve, You can do it your way it's Ok you won't die. Genesis Ch 3 V3. God didn't change his word for Adam and Eve. And he won't change it for me or you. It's forever settled in Heaven. His word changes us when we surrender to it by believing and becoming doers of his word. If the new birth sees foolishness to you and the word of God has no place in you. The Bible says God says in 1st Corinthians Ch 2 Verse 14 but the natural man receiveth not the things of the spirit of God, for they are foolishness. Unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. You must be born of his spirit to understand and know the things of God. Matt 16-26 for what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul? Luke Ch 16-V22: And it came to pass, that the begger died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's Bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried, 23 and in Hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham for off, and Lazarus in his bosom. My friend, Hell is real it's a place of everlasting torment. The subject of Hell is not very popular in today's world. But my God said if I don't warn those that are on their way there the blood will be on my hands. If you are reading this, today is the day of salvation. You must be born again a new creature in Christ Jesus. Today you choose between life or death, Heaven or Hell. You choose Heaven by believing and obeying his word the Holy Bible or you choose Hell by disobeying his word and doing it your way not his as Eve did in the Garden. Is your life about expanding your kingdom of God or is about your kingdom, Revelation 22-12 and behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be.

Thought for the day. Mark 16-16 he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned, believers do what the word of God says.

Thoughts from the Pastors Study

Steve Smith, Carlisle Christian Church

Can you believe Election Day is around the corner? Then of course, not far in the distance is Thanksgiving and Christmas—then a New Year! I wanted to get the jump on Thanksgiving and share this with you. It merits your thoughts. Ruth Senter tells a delightful story of contrast in gratitude. "I heard the voice but couldn't see the person. She was on the other side of the locker, just coming in from her early morning swim. Her voice sounded like the morning itself—bright, cheerful, and full of life. At 6:15 in the morning, it would catch anyone's attention. I heard its affirming tone.

"Delores, I really appreciated the book you picked up for me last week. I know the library was out of your way. I haven't been able to put the book down. Solzhenitsyn is a great writer. I'm glad you suggested him to me."

"Good morning, Pat," she greeted another swimmer. For a moment the melodious voice was silent, then I heard it again. "Have you seen such a gorgeous day? I spied a pair of meadow larks as I walked over this morning. Makes you glad you're alive, doesn't it?"

The voice was too good to be true. Who can be that thankful at this time of the morning? Her voice had a note of refinement to it. Probably some rich woman who has nothing to do all day but sip tea on her veranda and read Solzhenitsyn. I suppose I could be cheerful at 6 A.M. if I could swim and read my way through the day. Probably owns a cottage in the north woods.

I rounded the corner toward the showers and came face to face with the youthful voice. She was just packing her gear. Her yellow housekeeping uniform I'd seen before—along with mops, brooms, dust cloths and buckets. An employee of the facility at which I swam. She flashed a smile my way, picked up her plastic K-Mart shopping bag, and hurried out the door, spreading "have a glorious day" benedictions as she went.

I still had the yellow uniform on my mind as I swam my laps and sank down among the foamy lather of the whirlpool. My two companions were deep in conversation. At least one of them was. His tired, sad voice told tragic woes of arthritic knees, a heart aneurysm, sleepless nights, and pain-filled days.

Nothing was good or right. The water was too hot, the whirlpool jets weren't strong enough for his stiff knees, and his doctors had been much too slow in diagnosing his case. With his diamond-studded hand, he wiped the white suds out of his face. He looked ancient, but I suspected he too was fiftyish.

The yellow uniform and the diamond studded ring stood out in striking, silent contrast. ...This morning I saw both contentment and discontent. I resolved never to forget."

Is it not true that our lips often reveal the condition of our hearts when it comes to attitude and gratitude?

"Therefore, since we are receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, let us be thankful, and so worship God acceptably with reverence and awe,..." Hebr. 12:28

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP)
FY 2012-2013 Fact Sheet
Administered by the Department for Community Based Services
Services Provided by Community Action Agencies

PURPOSE:
1. To assist low-income households with home heating costs through two (2) components:
2. Subsidy - provides assistance to all eligible households.
3. Crisis - provides assistance to eligible households experiencing a home heating crisis.

OPERATION: Community Action Kentucky, Inc. will contract with twenty-three community action agencies to operate both components in all 120 counties.

ELIGIBILITY: 1) Household income must be at or below the following, relative to household size:

Household Size	Gross Monthly Income	Household Size	Gross Monthly Income
1	$ 1,211	5	$ 3,227
2	$ 1,640	6	$ 3,427
3	$ 2,069	7	$ 3,785
4	$ 2,498	8	$ 4,214

Add $429 for each additional family member

2) Must be responsible for home heating costs or pay heating costs as an undesignated portion of rent.
3) Must not have in excess of $2,000 in liquid resources, or $3,000 if at least one person in the household is age 60 or older; &/or disabled except for households where a member has a catastrophic illness, the amount may be $4,000 when the resources are being accessed for medical and living expenses. In addition to the above eligibility requirements, crisis applicant must be within 4 days of running out of fuel if wood, coal, propane, fuel oil or kerosene is the heat source or a disconnect/past due notice has been received from the vendor (example: past due notice, termination notice, final notice).

APPLICATION PERIOD: Subsidy: Applications must be made during the period November 5 through December 14, 2012. Applications will be taken in alphabetical order based on the first letter of the head of household's last name using the following schedule:

Month	Day	Month	Day	Month	Day	Month	Day	Month	Day
November	5	A	November	19	H	December	3	O,P
November	7	B	November	20	I,J	December	4	Q,R
November	7	B	November	21	Staff Day	December	5	S
November	8	B	November	22	Closed	December	6	T
November	9	C	November	23	Closed	December	7	U
November	12	C	November	26	K	December	7	V
November	13	D,E	November	27	L	December	11	W
November	14	F	November	28	M	December	12	X,Y,Z
November	15	G	November	29	M	December	13	OPEN
November	16	H	November	30	N	December	14	OPEN

Crisis: Applications can be made from January 7, 2013 through March 31, 2013 or until available funds have been expended. Applicants who are unable to apply for themselves must contact the local community action to make other arrangements. If the designated representative is not the head of household or spouse, the representative must have a signed statement giving authorization to apply for the household. Individuals without a designated representative should contact the local community action agency which may be able to assist them in finding one. Only one person from each household should apply.

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applications for both components will be taken at local community action agency offices or designated sites in each county, listed on the back of this fact sheet. Applicants must bring the following:
1. Your most recent heating bill or verification from your landlord that the heating expenses are included in your rent.
2. Proof of Social Security Number or Permanent Residence card (Green Card) for each member of the household.
3. Proof of all household's (all members) income from the preceding month.

In addition, in the Crisis component, applicants requesting assistance for natural gas or electric must bring a disconnect/past due notice (example: past due notice, termination notice, final notice). Households at or above 75% of poverty level must pay a portion or co-payment of the minimum necessary to terminate the crisis. Applicants whose rent includes heat must bring an eviction notice from the landlord.

BENEFITS PROVIDED: Subsidy: The benefit amount that a household receives will be based on its level of poverty and the type of fuel used for heating. Those households with the lowest incomes that use the fuel with the highest heating season costs will receive the highest benefit. All eligible households will receive a benefit. Benefits will be in the form of vouchers made payable to the household's primary or secondary heating fuel vendor.
Crisis: Benefits are limited to the amount necessary to relieve the crisis with the maximum amount not to exceed the community action agency local cost for a deliverable supply of the household's primary heating fuel or $250 (or $400 based on availability of funding) for gas or electric. Benefits may take the form of fuel deliveries, service reconnection, blankets or sleeping bags, loan of space heaters and emergency shelter. Crisis relief will be provided within 48 hours or 18 hours if an emergency.

CLIENT REFERRAL: Clients requesting additional information regarding either component of the FY 2012-2013 LIHEAP program should be referred to their local community action agency or Community Action Kentucky (CAK), toll-free number 1-800-456-3452 (TTY available for the hearing impaired)

APPLICANT RIGHTS: Each applicant will be informed of their rights should they be denied assistance. Any applicant who wishes to appeal the case should be informed by local community action agency staff of the procedures for filing a complaint. Should the applicant not be satisfied with the local decision, they may further appeal to the Cabinet for Health and Family Services.

RULES: Do NOT give false information or hide information to receive LIHEAP benefits. Use LIHEAP benefits only for your household. If you BREAK these rules, you may be stopped from receiving LIHEAP benefits and you may be prosecuted for fraud.

FRAUD: Report any information about fraud or misuse of LIHEAP benefits by calling the Fraud Hotline at 1-800-372-2970.

Farm to School Program

By Eric Tolson
KYNewsGroup
eric@kynewsgroup.com

Nutrition is arguably the most important aspect of raising a child. We have to monitor what our children eat in order to ensure that they are getting the proper nutrients that they need for growth and development.

But with the over-saturation of fast food and unhealthy alternatives, parents are finding it more and more difficult to provide their children with the healthy food they need. Since children spend up to seven hours a day in school, it can be very difficult to monitor the meals they eat. While many schools have taken steps to provide their students with nutritional alternatives, some parents remain unsatisfied with the meals that their children are receiving at school.

Inversely, schools are finding it harder to provide the children with nutritious meals that don't break the bank. Soda and snack machines have been removed from most schools, but some believe that this is not enough to adequately present students with healthier food options.

The Nicholas County Cooperative Extension Office is hoping to convince Nicholas County Schools to adopt a Farm to School program. This program will provide nutritious meals to the students and benefit local farmers, as well as encourage local citizens to buy locally.

The Farm to School program is an agreement between nearby farmers and the school that will allow the schools to have nutritious meals and benefit local farmers by buying Kentucky Proud products. The farmers will sign a contract with the school that states that they will provide them with adequate meat and produce. If the school decides to sign the agreement, they could receive reimbursement of their funds of up to 20% or $12,000 from the state.

Some might be skeptical of this program. Most of the concern with this agreement lies in the matter of cost. While this may cost a bit more, there have been many schools in Kentucky who have had great success with this program.

Montgomery County

High School was one of the first schools in Kentucky to serve local meat in decades. Julie Tuttle, the Food Service Director at Montgomery County Schools, has integrated locally grown food into the six school cafeterias in the district.

"We started using local apples in 2006," she said. "We get enough from Bramble Orchard to take us almost through the school year. Now we're up to four producers for other products. Lettuce comes 30 miles from Daily Harvest. It is the best tasting Bibb Lettuce I've ever eaten. We buy beef, chicken and pork from Marksbury Farms in Garrard County."

Berea Elementary School designated a week in February as Farm to School Week. During the week, local farms would give presentations to the students about the importance of farming to the community. The highlight of the week was a taste test done by the 1st-5th grade classrooms. During this taste test, students were asked to sample and rank sweet potatoes that were prepared in different ways and vote for their favorite. "In addition to learning more about farming and trying new foods, students in the 5th grade exercised their math skills by calculating the elementary school's taste testing votes," said Deborah Magsaysay, the Community Health Educator of the Madison County Health Department. "It was a fantastic educational event which couldn't have been done without the collaborative effort among Berea Elementary School, Family Resource and Youth Service Center, local farmers, parents and the Madison County Health Department."

Farm to School allows our school district to bring fresh, locally grown produce directly from the farm into our schools for our students' benefit," said Kim Simpson of Bowling Green Independent Schools. "We are able to bring in high quality produce that can be served within days if not the day it was picked. It keeps our food dollars in our local economy and benefits the local farmers. Local farmers are very concerned about the health and well-being of our kids and therefore have a vested interest in providing them with high quality fruits and vegetables."

These are just a few of the success stories that schools from around the state have reported as a result of this program. Several other counties within the state have reported massive success with this program.

Buying locally is greatly beneficial not only to the community, but the farmers themselves. Produce purchased locally is picked at its peak of ripeness and transported over shorter distances and is therefore fresher, better tasting and healthier. When shipped hundreds, or even thousands, of miles, food loses crispness, flavor and nutrients along the way. Knowing that you've supported local farmers and offered students delicious, fresh food brings job satisfaction to a new forefront.

Some people might believe that a transition of this magnitude might be costly. While this may be the case, small transitions can be made with bigger changes down the road. A simple way to begin is to add one or two easy changes to the school menu. Simply by offering locally grown apples at first could establish a relationship with local farmers and allow for an easier transition.

Many students can be engaged in projects as a part of this program as well. Art students can design posters and banners, English classes could write stories and articles to promote the program and theater departments could perform skits. These are just a few ways that students could get involved in this program.

Several other counties in Kentucky have already done innovative Farm to School work in their school system. Bath, Lee, Fayette, Jefferson, Montgomery, Mercer, Madison, Owsley, Perry and Warren counties have also taken steps to insure the nutritional well-being and knowledge of local farms of their students.

There will be a Producers Meeting at the Nicholas County Extension Office on November 13 at 6:30 p.m. Producers from Nicholas County and surrounding counties who are interested in participating in the Farm to School program are encouraged to attend.

Gov. Beshear Announces $1 Million Water Storage Tank Project in Mt. Olivet

Gov. Steve Beshear joined local officials on Monday to announce a new $1 million project to replace an outdated water storage tank in the city of Mt. Olivet in Robertson County.

A recently secured $150,000 Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) grant helped complete the total funding needed to acquire land, plan and construct the new water tank project.

"Effective, modern infrastructure is imperative for a community to function on a daily basis," said Gov. Beshear. "Quality infrastructure also lays the foundation for a community's future economic development. This Mt. Olivet water tank project will resolve residents' current water infrastructure problems and provide the city and county with a reliable system that allows for future business and housing growth."

The combined funding for the water tank project includes a $500,000 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), a $350,000 Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA) loan and the $150,000 ARC grant.

The city of Mt. Olivet's current water storage tank was constructed in 1959 and in recent years has caused considerable water pressure and supply problems for city residents. For example, the lack of water pressure is not adequate to supply water to the courthouse or upper levels of the local school. Additionally, low water pressure is an extreme safety hazard for fire protection and impedes the city's potential economic growth and development. The majority of businesses and government offices in Robertson County reside in Mt. Olivet, and the current water tank is the sole provider of water to the city.

This project will demolish the city's current water tank and replace it with a 100,000 gallon elevated tank. The project also includes replacement of approximately 1200 linear feet of city waterlines. The new tank will provide increased finished-water storage capacity as well as enhanced water pressure for Mt. Olivet. Nearly 600 city and county residents are estimated to benefit from the tank replacement.

"This new infrastructure will help Mt. Olivet reach its full potential. A reliable water supply is crucial to a healthy, growing community," said Sen. Robin Webb. "I am thankful to Governor Beshear, the Department for Local Government, Kentucky Infrastructure Authority and Appalachian Regional Commission for partnering to make this needed project a reality."

"I am honored to represent Kentucky's 78th House District today which includes Robertson County, and having Governor Beshear here today means a lot to the Mt. Olivet community," said Rep. Tom McKee. "I am extremely pleased about this funding for a new water storage tower that the community so desperately needs. Access to potable water is an absolutely vital component to maintaining positive societal growth."

"The Beshear administration and the Department for Local Government have worked diligently with Robertson County local officials to secure funding for this much needed water tank replacement project in Mt. Olivet," said Department for Local Government (DLG) Commissioner Tony Wilder. "Due to the recent ARC grant approval, we are able to get this project off the ground and provide Robertson County residents with a quality, enhanced water system that will service both their current needs and future growth."

ARC partners with federal, state and local governments in an effort to support sustainable community and economic growth throughout Appalachia by funding projects that range from education and job training to housing and business expansion to transportation and infrastructure development.

The state's CDBG program is administered by DLG and funded through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Kentucky's Congressional leaders' ongoing support of the CDBG program ensures the availability of continued funding in Kentucky and nationally.

COMMUNITY ACTION COUNCIL CELEBRATES WEATHERIZATION DAY WITH ENERGY SAVING GIVE-AWAYS

Governor Steve Beshear proclaims Tuesday, October 30, 2012 as Weatherization Day in Kentucky and urges all citizens to mark this observance by recognizing the important work done by Community Action Agencies. Community Action Council's Weatherization Program has weatherized almost 400 homes in Fayette, Bourbon, Harrison and Nicholas counties in 2011 -2012.

Weatherization is a program that provides lower energy bills and energy consumption for households with low-income by adding or increasing attic insulation, performing duct sealing, adding wall or floor insulation, repairing or replacing inefficient heating systems and more.

Community Action Council encourages people with low-income to sign up for the weatherization program at any of our centers. Eligible families with income below 200% of the federal poverty guidelines can sign up for this free program and receive a compact fluorescent light (CFL) bulb and a faucet aerator. By changing just one 60 watt light bulb with a CFL used 4 hours a day can save more than $7 on your energy and low-flow shower heads and faucet aerators can reduce your home water consumption as much as 50%, and reduce your energy cost of heating the water also by as much as 50%.

In addition to the Weatherization Program, Community Action Council in partnership with Kentucky Utilities (KU) and Kentucky American Water are sponsoring Winterblitz Saturday, November 1, 2012 at 913 Georgetown Street at 8:00 am. Winterblitz mobilizes volunteers to help people in need by preparing homes for winter including installing plastic on windows and filling costly gaps around windows and doors with caulk.

Community Action Council has several energy assistance programs that help people with low-income stay warm this winter. If you need assistance, services or want to volunteer please call 859-233-4600.

Community Action Council for Lexington-Fayette, Bourbon, Harrison and Nicholas counties creates opportunities for individuals and families to achieve self-sufficiency. The Council supports low-income people through advocacy, service delivery and community involvement.

Jackets to visit South Floyd for opening round of Class 1A State Playoffs

The Nicholas County High School football team is set to venture to Floyd County for an opening round matchup in the Class 1A Russell Athletic/KHSAA Commonwealth Gridiron Bowl for the second straight year. Nicholas County will visit South Floyd on Friday, Nov. 2.

Last season, Nicholas County edged Allen Central, another team from Floyd County, 28-26 on the road in the opening round of the Class 1A State Playoffs.

The Jackets finished the regular-season 6-4. Nicholas County ended the regular-season on a two-game losing skid after falling to Bath County Friday night. The Jackets compiled a 1-2 record in Class A, District 7. Nicholas County, under the guidance of veteran head coach Robert Hopkins, competes in the state's toughest Class A district.

South Floyd owns a 5-5 overall record following the 2012 regular-season. The Raiders, however, registered a 2-1 record in Class A, District 8.

After starting the season 2-5, South Floyd defeated district rivals Allen Central and Phelps and held off non-district foe East Ridge in a regular-season finale. The Raiders will enter Friday night's postseason contest on a three-game winning streak.

Senior running back Weston Little leads the way for the Raiders. One of the state's leading rushers, Little has rushed for over 2,000 yards in 10 games. In Friday night's win over East Ridge, Little took 29 carries for 301 yards and three touchdowns. Morgan County was the only team to hold Little out of the endzone during the regular-season.

South Floyd's second leading rusher, Blake Dye, boasts over 900 rushing yards through 10 games. As a team, South Floyd has rushed for over 3,500 yards in 10 games.

The Raiders have also notched wins over Jenkins and Knott County Central. South Floyd has dropped additional games to Betsy Layne, Morgan County, Shelby Valley, Bracken County and Class A, District 8 champion Pikeville. South Floyd finished runner-up behind Pikeville in District 8.

Senior Austin Allison will lead Nicholas County into the Class

1A State Playoffs. In 10 regular-season games, Allison rushed 169 times for 1,266 yards and 20 touchdowns.

Ben Wagoner has rushed 145 times for 746 yards and eight touchdowns, aiding the Nicholas County ground game.

Nicholas County has rushed for a total of 2,454 yards. The Jackets have racked up 720 total passing yards.

Ben Duncan has completed 24-of-49 passes for 472 yards and seven touchdowns for the Jackets. Wagoner has connected on 11-of-28 pass attempts for 249 yards and three touchdowns.

Kickoff for the Nicholas County-South Floyd football game is set for 7:30 p.m. in Hi Hat in southern Floyd County.

Students of the Week

Mason Baker has just recently joined us at NBCA, but he has already made a big impression on everyone. His outgoing personality and his great attitude are showing in everything he does. He gets along well with others and has made many friends in his first few days here. He is a great addition to our school. Mason is the son of Todd and April Baker.

Carter Marcum was selected for his willingness to help and his never give up attitude. He voluntarily opens the door for his elders and conducts himself in a polite manner. He is in his first year at NBCA and we are truly blessed to have him. Carter is the son of Chris Marcum and Kim Workman.

Elect Sandy Ritchie For City Council

Hello, my name is Sandy Ritchie and I am running for Carlisle City Council for 2013-2014. I live at 130 Catherine Street with my husband of 44 years Clifton "Tickie" Ritchie. We have lived in Carlisle for 29 years and 15 years in Morning Glory. We have a daughter Melissa who is married to Tip Fryman and they have two children Sydney Faith-Ann and Isaac Thomas. I am not able to visit this year because of my recent back surgery. When I filed for City Council I had no ideal that I would have back surgery. I have been on the City Council in the past and I would love to be your city council woman again. I know there are several issues that need to be addressed for the City. I am interested in industry for the city and county but as you know a large industry is unlikely for Carlisle because every county in Kentucky is looking for jobs. But I am interested in getting smaller business and keeping the businesses that we already have. I think as a member of the City Council we should visit the businesses we have in Carlisle and ask what we can do to help them. I am asking for your vote on November 6 so I can represent you at the city council meeting. If you have any questions or issues please call me at 859-473-0206 or 859-289-7525 and I will do my best to get you an answer.

Thank you,
Sandy Ritchie

Bluejackets to host Jacket Madness Nov. 14, visit Fleming 10 days later

The Nicholas County High School boys' basketball team will have an opportunity to play in front of its fans at home on Nov. 14 when it debuts at Jacket Madness. Following the Jacket Madness, Nicholas County will visit pre-season 16th Region favorite Fleming County for a season-opener on Nov. 24 at 7 p.m.

Nicholas County resumed pre-season practice this week. The Jackets have been busy with pre-season practice since mid-October.

Head coach Kevin Reinhardt is set to guide the Nicholas County High School boys' basketball team in his second season as head coach.

Fleming County has been tabbed as the favorite to win the 16th Region title. The Panthers are listed as the top team in The Cats' Pause 2012-13 Kentucky Basketball Yearbook's Preseason 16th Region Boys' Basketball Top 10 Poll.

The remainder of the 16th Region pre-season poll is made up of the following teams: Greenup County (10), Morgan County (9), Lewis County (8), East Carter (7), West Carter (6), Rowan County (5), Russell (4), Ashland (3) and Boyd County (2).

Rowan County is the reigning 16th Region champion. The Vikings finished the 2011-12 season 26-8 following a run in the Sweet Sixteen. Under the direction of veteran head coach Shawn Thacker, Rowan County has won back-to-back 16th Region titles.

New head coach Mark Starns is set to guide the Panthers in his first season in Flemingsburg. Starns replaced Brian Kelly as Fleming County's head coach. He has enjoyed successful tenures as a head coach at multiple high schools.

Fleming County exited the 2011-12 season 16-17. The Panthers finished runner-up to Rowan County in the 61st District and fell to Ashland in overtime in the opening round of the 16th Region Tournament.

Fleming County competes in the 61st District along with Rowan County, Bath County and Menifee County.

Juniors Darion Burns, Troy Steward and Brady Saunders are back to lead the Panthers. During the 2011-12 regular-season, Burns paced Fleming County in scoring with an 18 points per game average. Steward ranked second in scoring for the Panthers, averaging 14 points per game. Saunders averaged 8.6 points per game for the Fleming County boys' basketball team. Burns and Steward are ranked among the top three players in the region.

Nicholas County is ranked 10th in The Cats' Pause's Preseason 10th Region Boys' Basketball Poll. The Jackets are picked to finish 10th behind George Rogers Clark (9), Bourbon County (8), Augusta (7), Mason County (6), Harrison County (5), Campbell County (4), Scott (3), Bishop Crossart (2) and frontrunner Montgomery County (1). Nicholas County is picked to finish second behind Harrison County in the 38th District.

The Jackets return three of five starters from last season's team.

Nicholas County's leading scorer from last season, sophomore guard Landon Sexton, returns.

Jackets fall to Bath County in regular-season finale

With coverage from #3 Austin Allison, senior running back J. D. Wagoner sprinted around Bath County defenders. Wagoner was able to score one touchdown for the evening.

Visiting Nicholas County fell short in its regular-season finale at Bath County on Friday night. Bath County pulled away to beat the Jackets 64-24 in the regular-season finale for both Kentucky high school football teams.

With the win, much-improved Bath County exited the regular-season 8-2.

Nicholas County concluded the 10-game slate 6-4 after suffering the setback.

Bath County gradually pulled away from the Jackets, who dropped their second straight game.

The Wildcats returned to the win column after falling to Bourbon County in double overtime one week earlier. Surging Bath County won eight of its last nine regular-season games.

Host Bath County, which outscored opponents 320-221 during the regular-season, made the most of its offensive opportunities. The Wildcats rushed for 314 yards. Balanced Bath County picked up another 262 yards via pass attempts.

Senior quarterback Clark Kissick completed 12-of-20 passes for 262 yards and four touchdowns. Kissick went interception-free against the Nicholas County defense.

Jason Little hauled in three receptions for 71 yards and two touchdowns. Chase Hamm and Timothy Robinson had one touchdown reception each for the Wildcats.

Hamm grabbed a game-high four receptions for Bath County in the non-district contest.

Robinson led Bath County on the ground, rushing 10 times for 86 yards and three touchdowns.

Travis Robinson followed, rushing three times for 80 yards and one touchdown. Gary Dickerson also rushed for one touchdown for Bath County in the win.

#3 Senior running back Austin Allison broke through a tough Bath County line to gain some yardage. The Wildcat defense held Allison at a single touchdown for the night.

Hamm and Collin Ray led the Bath County defense with 11 tackles apiece.

Nicholas County rushed for 223 yards in the loss. Carl Hurd (11 carries for 78 yards), Austin Allison (18 carries for 59 yards) and JD Wagoner (14 carries for 52 yards) each rushed for a touchdown for the Jackets.

Nicholas County quarterback Ben Duncan completed seven-of-10 passes for 95 yards and one touchdown.

Zack Howard led Nicholas County in receiving. Howard reeled in six catches for 95 yards. Allison, Howard and Dillon Webb led the Nicholas County defensive effort with seven tackles apiece.

Nicholas County will visit South Floyd for the first round of the Class A State Playoffs on Friday, Nov. 2.

Several NCHS football players claim honors

Howard earns EKC Lineman of the Year

Austin Allison

J.D. Wagoner

Jake Kirby

Nolan Woosley

Zach Howard

Ethan Smith

Several Nicholas County High School football players have earned honors for their performances during the 2012 regular-season. And the highly-decorated Jackets are poised to play in the postseason.

Multiple members of the Jacket football team have earned honors from both the tradition-rich Eastern Kentucky Conference (EKC) and Class A, District 7.

Nicholas County's Austin Allison, J.D. Wagoner, Jake Kirby and Nolan Woosley have been named First Team All-EKC.

Also, Nicholas County standout Zach Howard has been named First Team All-EKC and honored as the EKC Lineman of the Year.

Allison, Wagoner, Kirby and Ethan Smith have been selected as All-District honors.

Howard has been named the Class A, District 7 Defensive Player of the Year.

Several leaders have stepped up and played well for Nicholas County, which will play South Floyd on the road Friday night (Nov. 2) in the first round of the Class A State Playoffs. Nicholas County is preparing for its opening round match-up in the postseason.

In 10 games, Allison has rushed 169 yards for 1,266 yards. Allison leads the Nicholas County offense. Wagoner has rushed 145 times for 746 yards and eight touchdowns.

Howard leads the Nicholas County defense. Howard has recorded a team-high 72 tackles for the Jackets. The productive Howard made 57 solo tackles during the regular-season.

Kirby has recorded 66 tackles and recovered three fumbles for the Jackets.

Woosley and Smith have helped to lead the Jackets along the Nicholas County line.

Robert Hopkins-coached Nicholas County competes in Class A, District 7 along with Fairview, Raceland and Paintsville. Class A, District 7 is considered one of the state's toughest districts. Nicholas County ended the regular-season 6-4.

Nicholas County tied for 13th in Class A poll

Nicholas County is tied for 13th in this week's Kentucky Associated Press Class A football poll. The Jackets (6-4) fell to Bath County in a regular-season finale. Nicholas County has qualified for the Class A State Playoffs and will venture to South Floyd on Friday night for an opening round matchup. Kickoff

The Jackets are tied with Pineville and Pikeville for 13th in the Kentucky Associated Press weekly poll. Mayfield (9-1) is ranked first in the Class A poll. The remainder of the Top 10 shapes up as follows: 2. Frankfort (9-1), 3. Fairview (10-0), 4. Williamsburg (9-1), 5. Hazard (6-3), 6. Beechwood (6-4), 7. Raceland (8-2), 8. Kentucky Country Day (9-1), 9. Russellville (7-3) and 10. Eminence (7-3).

Bellevue and Harlan are tied for 11th. Nicholas County and South Floyd are set to compete in the Class A State Playoffs along with Mayfield, Caverna, Holy Cross (Louisville), Fulton County, Russellville, Bethlehem, Kentucky Country Day, Fulton City, Frankfort, Ludlow, Bellevue, Eminence, Paris, Dayton, Beechwood, Bracken County, Williamsburg, Jenkins, Harlan, Lynn Camp, Campbellsville, Pineville, Hazard, Berea, Fairview, Phelps, Raceland, Allen Central, Pikeville and Paintsville.

The winner of the Nicholas County-South Floyd game will meet the winner of the Fairview-Phelps game in second round of the Class A State Playoffs.

Lady Jackets to open season at Fleming County

The Nicholas County Lady Jackets will visit Fleming County for a season-opener on Nov. 26. Fleming County is one of the Top 10 teams in the 16th Region.

The Lady Panthers are listed eighth in The Cats' Pause 2012-13 Kentucky Basketball Yearbook's Preseason 16th Region Girls' Basketball Poll.

Fleming County is picked to finish ahead of Bath County (9) and Morgan County (10) in the 16th Region. The Lady Panthers are ranked behind Rowan County (7), Greenup County (6), Russell (5), East Carter (4), Lewis County (3), Boyd County (2) and reigning champion/preseason favorite Ashland (1).

Fleming County is the reigning 61st District champion. The Lady Panthers concluded the 2011-12 season 26-6 following a loss to Boyd County in the opening round of the 16th Region Tournament, owning the second-most wins in their region.

Fleming County defeated longtime powerhouse Rowan County 53-49 in the 61st District Tournament title game last season.

The Lady Panthers compete in the 61st District along with familiar foes Rowan County, Bath County and Menifee County.

The Fleming County High School girls' and boys' basketball teams opened preseason practice earlier in the week.

After winning 26 games, Fleming County faces somewhat of a rebuilding task. Fleming County lost guards Robbie Allex and Mandy Boyd and forward Aaliyah Johnson to graduation. In all, Fleming County said goodbye to six seniors from the 2011-12 squad.

The Fleming County Lady Panthers are under the direction of veteran head coach Kristi Orem.

Fleming County defeated the Lady Jackets 77-47 when the two teams hooked up for a season-opener last year.

First-year head coach Greg Letcher, fresh off a successful run as a middle school girls' basketball coach, continues to direct the Nicholas County High School Lady Jackets in the preseason. Nicholas County is picked to finish ninth in The Cats' Pause's 10th Region preseason girls' basketball poll.

The Lady Jackets return four of five starters from the 2011-12 team. Nicholas County ended the 2011-12 season 9-21.

Impossible Magic Show Ends With a Bang

By Eric Tolson
 KYNewsGroup
 eric@kynewsgroup.com

Reed and Ashton Nicole's recent Halloween-themed magic show was a roaring success. Hundreds of spectators packed Roh's Opera House on Saturday night to witness the show that Reed has been rehearsing for the past year. Although Impossible Magic, Reed and Ashton Nicole's magic show, has been performing for the past five years, this year Reed attempted something he has never attempted before: a straight-jacket escape.

"Plenty of magicians have performed straight-jacket escapes," says Reed. "Some have done them under water and some have done it upside down. I thought I'd add something different to the act."

Reed decided to perform the escape with a small explosive attached to him.

The stunt would require Reed to escape from the jacket and place the explosive in a box before it detonates within 90 seconds.

At the night of the show, Reed became more and more visibly nervous before performing his escape. As is typical of professionals in his field, he asked two individuals from the audience to come on the stage and inspect the straight-jacket. They determined that the jacket was a normal leather and canvas straight-jacket and that no amount of trickery would allow him to escape it.

After Reed was strapped tightly into the straight-jacket, he began to exhibit signs of nervousness. Seeing that he was clearly upset, Ashton then came out to make sure he was comfortable with going ahead with the act. Reed reassured her that he was okay. She then hugged him and walked to the side of the stage to watch in worry and anticipation.

The explosive was then placed on Reed and the timer was started, leaving Reed on the stage alone. As the timer began to count down, Reed started by attempting to get his arm over his head, the first step in escaping the straightjacket. With less than a minute on the timer, he finally managed to free his first arm. The audience was the edge of their seats as Reed continued to slowly escape. As the timer closely neared zero, he finally managed to free himself and dropped the explosive in to the box at the side of the stage. As he dropped the explosive into the box and closed the top, the device detonated, sending flames out of the box as Reed stepped away at the last minute.

The audience erupted with a roaring applause as Reed thanked everyone for coming.

Watch Out for Little Goblins

Halloween. It's time for candy, costumes and trick-or-treating! With many festivities kicking off this weekend, Kentucky State Police wants to make sure parents review safety tips with their little 'goblins'.

Sgt. Rick Saint-Blancard, Spokesperson for KSP, says the agency wants the children to have a fun but safe trick or treating experience.

"Halloween is traditionally a time for children to have fun, but most often it is the children who can be injured by situations that are avoidable," says Saint-Blancard. "Be sure your child's costume does not obstruct their vision and is not so cumbersome where they can trip over it."

"On Halloween evening, we're placing our children in probably some of the most dangerous traffic situations you could imagine," adds Saint-Blancard. "Our children are outside after dark, they walk along and cross unfamiliar streets and they often wear dark colors which are difficult for motorists to see."

Saint-Blancard offers the following tips for parents:

- Make sure your child carries a flashlight, glow stick or has reflective tape on their costume to make them more visible.

- Younger children should be accompanied by an adult or older sibling.

- Instruct your children not to eat any treats until they have been checked by an adult.

- Make sure your child is able to see out of their mask properly and can walk in their costume without tripping.

- Remind kids not to enter a strange house or car.

- Inspect your child's candy before they eat it. Discard any unwrapped or suspicious looking goodies. If your child does get sick, call your doctor or the hospital emergency room immediately and save all wrappers. It is also helpful to determine what he or she ate and where it came from.

- Talk to your children about 'stranger-danger' and the safety precautions when around someone they do not know.

The KSP also wants to remind those driving on Halloween to be extra cautious of our small pedestrians.

For more information about safe trick or treating please contact Kentucky State Police at (502) 782-1780 or www.kentuckystatepolice.org.

The Deposit Bank of Carlisle held their annual Customer Appreciation Cookout last Wednesday at the Carlisle National Guard Armory on Concrete Road. The facility was filled with customers who appreciated the food as well as the autumn-themed decorations that adorned the interior of the building. There were also several prizes given away as a part of a raffle drawing. Terri Warner (pictured) was awarded a $25 gift card to La Finca's Mexican Restaurant as a winner of the raffle.

A banner was located at a table inside the building that will commemorate the coming home of Carolyn Sparks, who was injured in an automobile accident on Cliffway Drive in September. Since the incident, Mrs. Sparks has been undergoing medical treatment for the injuries she sustained as a result of the accident.

Chapter 7

When I saw, "Welcome to California," my heart stopped. "Dad, I'm sorry! I read the directions wrong. Surely Doc Albert didn't want us in California!"

"Relax," Dad said, laughing. "We aren't in the state of California; we're in California, Kentucky, a city in Campbell County that has about 86 people – much different from the Golden State."

After arriving in California, our new trainer, Rex, met us with a warm, friendly smile. When Rex informed us of our activity, our mouths dropped.

"Mr. Rex," I said respectfully, "you realize we're wiener dogs, not kitty cats, don't you?"

"Yes, Woody," Rex replied, "but thanks for explaining."

"I agree with Woody," Mom said with a laugh. "I've never heard of such a thing."

"Tree climbing is a recreational activity consisting of climbing and moving around the upper part, or crown, of HYPERLINK "http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tree" \o "Tree" trees," Rex explained. "It began around 1980 and has become a popular adventure sport. It's great exercise, works your muscles and gets you in touch with nature. A man from Louisville named Todd Smith climbed a tree every day for three years!"

"Unbelievable," Chloe commented. "But can't we fall out of a tree?"

"Smart girl," Rex said. "When you tree-climb, you have a guide, are hooked up to a harness, and have gloves and helmets and protective equipment. The guide ensures the tree is safe. If the tree has dead branches or other problems, it could be very dangerous. You should never climb a tree without a guide or protective equipment – unless you're a cat."

As we prepared, Rex explained that California, Kentucky, had the number one tree-climbing company in the world. Once again, my Kentucky goose bumps grew large. After we were snapped and fastened and tied, and wearing as much gear as an astronaut, Mr. Rex explained the techniques and rules. "The first concern is for your safety. The second concern is for the tree's safety."

I never thought anything would be as scary as standing at the top of the Red River Gorge getting ready to zip-line, but standing at the bottom of the tree looking up was just as scary.

"OK, Woody, let's get you in the tree," Rex said. I breathed deeply, threw the rope over the limb and tried to pull myself into the tree. Just like with Chester, I looked like a yo-yo. Finally, Mr. Rex lifted me in the tree. I was embarrassed until he had to do the same for Chloe. Mom and Dad got in the tree without Mr. Rex's help.

"This is incredible!" Dad exclaimed as he viewed his surroundings. At first it was scary to look around, but all the beautiful things in nature helped us relax. After several minutes in the tree, we began moving from branch to branch – albeit very carefully and slowly.

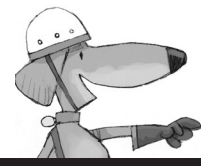

"Look Woody," Chloe said, pointing to the gray squirrel scampering around the base of the tree. We saw a cardinal perched on a limb in the tree next to us.

While we carefully went from branch to branch, I noticed a hole.

"It's a woodpecker's hole," Mom explained. "Woodpeckers have strong HYPERLINK "http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Beak" \o "Beak" bills. They use them for drilling holes in trees. Then they use their long sticky tongues to remove insects and larvae to eat."

The thought of eating made my tummy growl. I couldn't imagine eating insects, but up until a few days ago I couldn't imagine zip-lining or horse-back riding. If a woodpecker enjoyed a snack of insects, so could a wiener dog. I put my nose in the hole and stuck out my tongue. I couldn't taste anything. I moved my nose in a little further. Still nothing. I turned my nose a little to the left and wedged it a tiny bit further and stuck out my tongue again. Bingo. I got a tiny taste of something sticky and sweet. It didn't compare to ice cream, but it was better than spinach. I couldn't wait to tell Chloe. But when I tried to pull my head from the hole, it wouldn't budge. I moved around a bit to try to loosen my nose – still nothing.

I was up in a tree with my nose stuck in a woodpecker hole. Even with my nose stuck in a hole, I smelled trouble.

Activities

1. Woody was amazed to learn that California was a city in Kentucky. He only thought it was a state. Look at the index section of your Kentucky map and read through all the cities and towns. Do you see any other cities or towns that have the same name as a state? If so, make a list.

2. While you're reading through the list, do you see any cities or towns that are names of girls or boys? Make a list of those too.

3. Now open up your local newspaper. Do you see any articles that are about trees?

4. When you go home after school today, look in your yard. How many different types of trees do you have in your yard? Can you name the different ones?

5. At the end of Chapter 7, Woody's nose was stuck in the tree. Email Woody at woody@thewoodybooks.com and give him advice on what to do so he can get his nose out of the tree.

Also, give him your predictions of how he could be punished.

6. Use the computer. Get ideas for using your local newspaper by going to www.nieconnects.com.

7. Only three more chapters and you'll have your very own Woody book that won't be out in stores for months! Don't forget to cut out Chapter 7 and paste it in your scrapbook.

8. View the video: Woody has been exploring different parts of Kentucky. Explore Kentucky along with Woody by looking at the following link: <http://www.kentuckytourism.com/explore/regions.aspx>

9. Look at the illustration in today's chapter then draw your own illustration for the story.

Kentucky Afield Outdoors: Reservoir Smallmouth Season Here

We reservoir smallmouth anglers are a weird lot. We dangle tiny little hair jigs under bobbers in air so cold ice forms in the guides of our rods. We think the best late fall fishing days feature leaden, low skies, light rain and highs in the 40s.

With Halloween around the corner and the bracing morning air, most anglers stow their gear for the year. For reservoir smallmouth anglers, the season is just beginning on lakes such as Lake Cumberland, Laurel River Lake and the home of the world record smallmouth bass, Dale Hollow Lake.

"I like now through spring, if you can stand the weather," said John Williams, southeastern fishery district biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Late fall through winter is a really good time as smallmouth bass are in great body condition. They are fat and sassy. These lakes are in good shape with their smallmouth populations; they are pretty consistent year to year."

Water temperatures at these lakes range from the mid to high 60s, the beginning of perfect temperatures for smallmouth bass.

"You can catch smallmouths right now, no matter what time of day," said Chad Miles, an expert smallmouth angler who fishes Dale Hollow Lake regularly from late fall through spring. "You have a good chance to catch them on topwaters as well as jigs. We are still a little ahead of the peak for smallmouths, but it is on the way."

On some early fall days, smallmouths herd baitfish against the surface of the lake and rip through them. Their churn looks like the top of an old school coffee percolator.

"I actively look for jumps in early fall," said Hank Patton, director of law enforcement for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "They may be smallmouth bass, spotted bass or even white bass. You never know."

A silver casting spoon is one of the best lures for jump fishing because you can cast it into the next county. Blade baits such as the Silver Buddy also work well in this situation. Cast these lures into the jump and let them flutter down. The smallmouths usually hit the lure immediately.

Bright, shimmering fall days are the best to enjoy a football game, but make for lousy reservoir smallmouth fishing. Skies so low they seem to bump into the hills are the best days to fish these highland impoundments for smallmouths. A gentle rain is a bonus.

"Right now, they can be caught fairly shallow, especially on overcast days" Williams explained. "Knowing whether to fish shallow or deep is one of the things I struggle with in smallmouth fishing."

Williams recalled a late October trip on Laurel River Lake a few years ago. He caught two smallmouths over 20 inches long in just a few minutes by swimming a 4-inch white curly-tailed grub across a channel drop in about 15 feet of water. This depth is fairly shallow on this air-clear lake.

"It was misty and overcast in the morning when I caught those nice smallmouths," Wil-iams said. "Later in the day, the mist burned off and it cleared up. We didn't catch another fish."

Grubs rigged on plain old ball-shaped leadheads still work remarkably well for reservoir smallmouth bass. White, pumpkinseed, green pumpkin and black grubs all produce at this time of year. Smallmouth jigs with smaller heads and with shorter, less dense silicone skirts or 1/4-ounce hair jigs in combinations of green, brown and orange work well. A smallmouth angler would rarely make a mistake by choosing a black jig.

Fish these lures across or along channel drops and down the sides of points in a rhythmic retrieve.

"I fish secondary points in the creeks at this time of year," Patton said. "I also like underwater humps as well."

Jigs and grubs are good lure choices to fish these areas, but faster moving baits also score.

"I fish a tailspinner often in late October and early November on points," Miles explained. "When the water gets colder, I use heavy football jigs fished really slowly."

Fluorocarbon lines in 6- to 8-pound test work really well for fall reservoir fishing. These lakes possess some of the clearest water in Kentucky and the stealth offered by fluorocarbon line produces results. Fluorocarbon lines also stretch less, allowing for better hook sets, and their density increases sensitivity.

Serenity, especially on weekdays, is an added benefit of fall and winter smallmouth fishing. "It is a peaceful time of year for fishing," Williams said. "You rarely see other boats and that makes it all the better."

Fire on Abner's Mill

The Nicholas County Fire Department was dispatched to a residence at 3442 Abner's Mill Road in Nicholas County to respond to a reported fire. Upon arrival at the scene, the firefighters discovered that the garage, belonging to resident J.T. Hammond, had been destroyed by the fire. Luckily, no one was present in the building so no one was injured. Mr. Hammond was not present at the premises as he was gone on vacation at the time.

New Water Tower Funded For Mt Olivet

By Toni Curry

Webb, Representative Tom McKee, Mayor Linda Reed and Judge Billy Hammer All-

son and other officials were all on hand Monday as the City of Mt Olivet accepted funding of $650,000 for its new water tower. The water tower is going to be built on Kentucky 165 on lot next to DeeJays Auto Parts.

Project has been in the works for several months and is expected bring about the extra water pressure needed for area homes, businesses, the Robertson County Courthouses and the new Robertson County School. This is expected to help the area's pressure needs and help with the providing of better fire protection. The new tower will go out for bids in the near future.

Don't Text and Drive

Crashes caused by inattentive drivers are nothing new. Cell phones are the latest distraction.

Falling asleep at the wheel may be the ultimate failure to pay attention, but drivers who are adjusting to the radio, trying to discipline small children, or holding cell phones to their ears also contribute to the accident rate. And inattentive driving is a major cause of collisions: The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) says that it's involved in at least a quarter of all crashes.

Cell phones as a problem The latest, most visible, and most controversial source of driver in-attention is the handheld cell phone. For many motorists, to see another driver talking on the phone is to see red. Cell phones have been available for 20 years and are no everywhere -the Cellular Telecommunications and Internet Association says there are 137 million subscribers in the United States. Cell phone use by drivers has become very common: According to NHTSA, at any given moment of the day, 500,000 drivers of passenger vehicles are talking on handheld cell phones.

This adds up to a lot of miles driven by people who are not necessarily giving their full attention to driving. And handheld phones aren't the only culprits: The AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety has found that use of hands-free phones also contributes to inattention.

Legislation to address the perceived hazard of cell phone use behind the wheel has been passed in many places. Australia, Austria, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Russia, and Switzerland have all restricted cell phone use by drivers.

In the United States, bills to restrict cell phone use in cars have been introduced in both the House and the Senate. Among the states, California and New York have passed a law banning the use of handheld cell phones for drivers, although other states are considering similar laws.

Cell phones as a benefit

Even though the improper use of cell phones is a hazard, the news about them isn't all negative. For example, properly used phones in cars can mean security when you're on the road. If you need directions, want to report a dangerous condition, or need Emergency Road Service (ERS) a cell phone can be your best friend.

Cell phone safety Phone calls made from the driver's seat contribute to collisions, it's easy to be distracted for a few seconds by dialing or by a heated conversation. And when you're going 60 miles per hour, in only three seconds you travel nearly the length of a football field.

The primary job of a driver is safety. If you must make an extended phone call, pull off the road and park in a safe place.

AAA also recommends you not use your cell phone while driving. However, if you must call when behind the wheel, AAA suggests.

Recognize that driving requires your full attention

Before you get into the car, become familiar with the phone's features.

Use the phone only if it's absolutely necessary.

Use the phone only when and where it's safe to do so.

Ask a passenger to place the call for you and to do the talking

Keep the call short

Tell the person at the other end that you're driving

Get off the phone as soon as possible especially in traffic or bad weather

Don't combine a phone conversation with other distractions

Secure your phone so it doesn't become a projectile in a crash

Blair Carman to Perform Saturday Night

several acts includ-ing The Oak Woods Boys, The Pixie Chicks, and The Beach Girls. Taylor Lippert, Hopelynn Ballinger, and Mel-lissa Pugh will all perform numbers as well. Additionally, a local group por-traying The Other Blues Brothers and the Little Blue will round out the local performers. Carman and his band should take the stage short-ly before 8:00 p.m. for a two and half hour performance.

The event is spon-sored by the Class of 2015 , their parents and their sponsor, John Brown. Ad-vanced sale bleacher seat tickets are available for $5 for students and $8 for adults. At-the-door prices are $8 and $10. A few tables for more comfort-able seating remain. Tables are $15 per table above the indi-vidual entry prices and seat 8 persons.

The 50's theme is being used for deco-rations and specta-tors are invited to join the fun of sport-ing their favorite 50's look.

Saturday, Novem-ber 3, marks one year to the day that Blair Carman of Cincin-nati, Ohio, performed before an audi-ence of nearly 400 at Deming High School. Tickets are still available for this week's per-formance for the piano pumpin rockabilly sensation and his band, The Belleview Boys. Carman and his group special-ize in the 50's and '60's music of such artist as Jerry Lee Lewis, Elvis Presley, Hank Williams and other 50's great artists. His shows are high energy, family friendly shows appropriate for all age groups. His music will leave those who choose not to dance tapping their toes at the very least. Carman is a multi-tal-ented musician who plays not only the piano, but the guitar, banjo and other string instruments.

A pre-show begin-ning at 7:00 P.M. will feature local youth in
